STEEL PLANTS GET COAL.

Strike of Miners Has Not Affected Output, Says Reviews.

Both The Iron Trade Review and The Iron Age report that so far iron and steel production has not been hurt by the coal strike. The former reports that something approaching a famine has developed in the pig iron markets as far as spot delivery is considered. The Iron Trade Review says:

Iron and steel production so far has escaped any actual effects of the coal strike. A prolongation of the present curtailment of the country's basic fuel output, however, is bound to be expressed in operating difficulties on an ascending scale.

The Connellsville coal and coke region, the key district of the supply for a large fraction of the blast furnaces of the country, is non-union, and the production there this week is greater than usual. A number of idle ovens in fact have been lighted. Should the Government decide to commandeer coal from this district for the railroads, however, this situation is likely to be considerably complicated. Byproduct coke plants scattered throughout the industry are reasonably well stocked with coal, sufficient, in most cases, for operating requirements over a month or more. As a contributing factor to the steel strike, now in its last stage, the walkout of the coal miners, at this time at least, promises to be slight.

The Iron Age says:

Iron and steel production is as yet unaffected by the coal strike, as stocks of coal have been accumulated in all districts, many producers having from three-to six weeks' supply. The Steel Corporation's coking coal is almost entirely from non-union mines. The independent steel companies get coal from both union and non-union mines, but most of them could go on for weeks without serious curtailment for lack of fuel. Merchant blast furnaces generally would feel the fuel shortage sooner than those of steel companies, but are not in immediate danger of a shutdown.

Pig iron production figures for October bear out the estimates made by this journal during the month, of the extent of the shutdown in the various districts.

The total output for the country was 1,863,556 tons, or 60,115 tons a day, against 2,487,965 tons in September, or 82,932 tons a day, the falling off being about 25 per cent. Three weeks of September were free from the strike.

Strong Bidding at London Wool Sale.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—At the wool auction sales today 10,285 bales were offered and sold. The bidding was strong and active, with the prices in favor of the sellers.

No Offer by Us for Dutch Colonies.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 5.—The Government today informed a committee of the Chamber of Deputies that no offer had been received from the United States for the purchase of small Dutch colonies in the West Indies.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Adams Express Company sold to Michael Kaufman the twelve-story loft building 100 by 117 on the southeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Fourteenth Street. This is the last building owned by the Adams Express Company, and is one of the first buildings of its kind in the city. It was completed in the latter part of 1912, and is constructed of steel and terracotta. It was held at $600,000. The broker in the transaction was Harry Jackson.

Mr. Kaufman also bought through Leitner, Brenner & Starr, from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, an eight-story loft and stores 48 by 80 at 65-69 Fourth Avenue, held at $75,000, and from Clarence E. Chapman the six-story loft and stores 40 by 92 at 120-122 West Eighteenth Street, held at $195,000.

$2,075,000 for Bronx Terminal Corporation Property Sold at Auction.

A total of $2,075,000 was obtained for the vast holdings of the Bronx Terminal Corporation and its allied interests, which were closed out at public auction yesterday in the Vesey Street salesroom by Joseph P. Day after three days' continuous selling.

The sale, which was one of the largest and most important in the history of the salesroom, proved highly satisfactory to both buyers and sellers and the ability of the present realty market to absorb vacant property was proven beyond a doubt by the fact that ready buyers were found for each and every one of the parcels offered.

Yesterday's selling began with the lot at the northwest corner of Oak Point Avenue and Drake Street. The bidding started at $300 and it was struck down for $730. The next adjoining lot went for $450. The next six lots on Oak Point Avenue, extending up to Halleck Street, went for $410 per lot to A. Agelof, who also purchased a lot and a half adjoining on Halleck Street for $315, together with a half lot at the rear on Drake Street for $145.

Bargain hunters picked up some lots on Whittier Avenue, between Ryawa and Viele Avenue, for $70 each, while a few lots on Oak Point Avenue were sold for $269 to $730 each.

On the first day of the sale, Monday, 225 lots were sold for a total of $601,000. During Tuesday's session 724 lots were sold for a total of $242,760. About 300 lots were disposed of yesterday, and the total sales, including the water front acreage, brought the amount up to $2,075,000.

Joseph P. Day said at the conclusion of the sale: "This closes our lot market for 1919 after a record set by my office for selling approximately 11,000 lots for around $10,000,000 during the last six months beginning with the James Gordon Bennett estate sale. It shows that people are beginning to think of real estate seriously, and that lot sales can be absorbed if properly presented, well advertised, and intelligently promoted."

$325,000 Heights Apartment Sold.

The Highlands, a six-story apartment on a lot 102.3 by 161.7 feet, at 75 Fort Washington Avenue, the southwest corner of 162d Street, has been sold by the Bardale Realty Company through A. H. Levy. The building shows a rental of $50,000 and was held at $325,000.

For Those Who Have Not Rented

We offer at less than cost a very attractive, pretty Colonial country suburban home in a beautiful, strictly residential section, near New York. The desire of the former owner as to personality of buyer will be respected. The house itself is in perfect condition, of Dutch Colonial design, and contains ten comfortable rooms and two baths. There is also a completely equipped garage, corresponding to the house in architecture. The plot consists of almost ¾ of an acre with 200 feet street frontage. Unusual care and taste has been used in landscaping the grounds, which are beautifully shaded, and contains many shrubs and flowers. The elevation is about 800 feet. The railroad station is within 4 minutes' easy walk. Commuting facilities to the city are the best. The price is $12,500 complete. Easy terms can be arranged. Title can be had on payment of $2,000. Complete details can be obtained from Attorney, P. O. Box 529, City Hall Station, New York City.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT TO WOMEN WHO WANT TO MAKE MONEY.

Selling education in the form of The Book of Knowledge is to the right person a profitable and agreeable occupation; backed by the largest educational publishing house in the world, you are bound to make good if the seed of successful salesmanship is at all in you.

We are not looking for "agents" nor for "canvassers," but for a few men and women who are big enough for the proposition. The remuneration is on a commission basis. Book of Knowledge salesmen and saleswomen throughout the country find their work most congenial and most remunerative, simply because all parents are interested in the welfare of their children.

If you have sold goods, or if you believe you have the ability to sell, submit your application by mail or in person.

LOOK TO THE FUTURE.

A wonderful future stretches before this great city of New York; more and more commerce will centre here, more and larger ships will enter our harbors; more and swifter trains will rush in and out of our stations; more business, involving bigger affairs than ever before, will be transacted in our buildings.

By its very nature, the telephone business must increase as the city develops; as industry grows and expands, its demands for telephone service grow larger and more exacting; it is the duty and privilege of the Telephone Company to anticipate and meet these demands.

There are wonderful opportunities right now in telephone operating; girls and young women are needed to handle the present enormous telephone traffic; these young women will rise to higher positions with greater responsibility and higher salary as the increasing demand for telephone service creates new opportunities in the telephone business; the junior operator of today is the supervisor, assistant Chief Operator and Chief Operator of tomorrow.

Girls 16 to 23 are wanted for for Telephone Operating.

Young women, 21 to 25, for Night Telephone Operating.

WANTED
PERSONNEL MANAGER
FOR AN UNUSUAL ORGANIZATION
One of the large retail businesses of the country, noted for its modern ideas of organization and the importance which it attaches to its personnel, is looking for the best man available to fill the position of personnel manager. This man should be the right age and personality, and possess the necessary education and outlook to enable him to secure the right people for the organization, to supervise their training, and to plan and carry out all relations between the corporation and its employes.
This is not a one-man job, but is a position at the head of a considerable force of specialists. It calls for a man of action, as well as for a man of sound theory. The right man will find an opportunity to make for himself a place second in importance to none in the organization, and to earn compensation that such a place merits.
An interview may be secured by putting in writing sufficient information to show that the writer possesses real qualifications for the position.
Address Z 42 Times Annex.

FIGURES WHO CAN ANALYZE AND LEARN HOW TO HANDLE
audits, budgets, cost analyses, "balance of stores," income tax reports, &c.
If you have an aptitude for figures and a level head, you need not remain long at a high, small desk. We can put you in line for and help you to secure within a year's time a position paying
$2,500 TO $6,000 A YEAR.
If you have ability apply it. The world needs it. America is calling for trained men —PARTICULARLY for trained accountants.
The accountancy field is steadily enlarging as more attention is being given by city, State, and Federal boards, by banks and trust companies, and by business corporations and auditing procedure of varied and complicated kinds and to income tax regulations and reports for hundreds of thousands of individuals and firms.
YOUR TEACHERS AND LEADERS.
You can study during your spare time at home (about an hour a day) without interfering with your present position. Your training will be by the famous "La Salle Problem Method," which has made more expert accountants and C. P. A.'s than any other plan. You will be under the direction of William B. Castenholz, the best-known accountancy teacher in America, and a large staff of expert accountants, including several members of the American Institute of Accountants. And when you are qualified you will be connected with big business.
Come and look over the records and business connections of La Salle men, talk with our Accountancy Advisor, and see if you can qualify. Don't lose twenty-four more golden hours.

MADISON AV. LINE'S FATE UP TO COURT

Receiver Hedges to Ask for Instructions Today—Can't Pay $448,850 Rental.

OWNERS ARE HOLDING BACK

Hedley Sees in Election Hope of Sentiment Favorable to Fare Increase.

Counsel for Job E. Hedges, receiver of the New York Railways Company, will appear before Federal Judge Mayer this afternoon for instructions as to the course to be pursued in relation to the Madison and Fourth Avenue surface line, held under lease by the Railways Company, and owned by the New York & Harlem Railroad Company.

The lease calls for the payment quarterly of an annual rental, including costs, of $448,850.53. No rent has been paid since Mr. Hedges became receiver last March.

Another request for instructions is expected this month in the case of the Sixth Avenue Railroad Company, whose rent, at the rate of $175,690.33, is also in default. Corporation Counsel Burr has urged that the rent of both lines be reduced, as the rent for the Fourth and Madison Avenue property amounts to 16 per cent. a year on a capitalization of $2,850,544, and that of the Sixth Avenue line is 8.78 per cent. on a $2,000,000 capitalization.

Persons active in seeking a solution of the financial problems facing the city's railroad companies expressed pleasure yesterday over the election of two Republicans, with five votes, in the otherwise Democratic Board of Estimate, which has been unanimously opposed to an increase in fare.

Asked if he thought the result of the election increased the company's chances of obtaining more than a five-cent fare, Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, at his weekly interview with newspapermen, said he did not consider the prospect of a division in the board on the fare question was discouraging.

James L. Quackenbush, general counsel of the company, said that while the traffic might increase the revenues as much as $6,000,000 a year, this would not be sufficient to provide all the operating expenses and also make up deficits. He was certain the fare would have to be increased or that the property would pass into the control of a receiver.

Mr. Hedley said he had talked with General Manager Mendon of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, Monday in an effort to reach an agreement for operating the dual system in Queens to Astoria and Corona. The cars of the two companies could not operate with safety on the same tracks. It was said the companies desired to transfer passengers at Queens Plaza from one line to another, so that each would benefit from an extra fare for a comparatively short ride.

The action of the Brooklyn City Railroad company in moving the second fare point on the Flatbush Avenue lines from Nostrand Avenue to Foster Avenue resulted yesterday in numerous quarrels and much delay in service. Many passengers refused to pay the second fare; others refused to leave the car they were on and move to another car, a plan adopted by the company to make sure all the second fares were collected. Altercations between passengers and conductors lasted so long several times that cars were blocked.

A company statement said the change of fare point had caused little trouble, and that the passengers would like the new arrangement when they got used to it. The company also gave notice of this new method of operation:

"Beginning Wednesday, Nov. 5, under order issued by the Public Service Commission, the Flatbush Avenue Line will be operated through to Avenue N and East Forty-ninth Street.

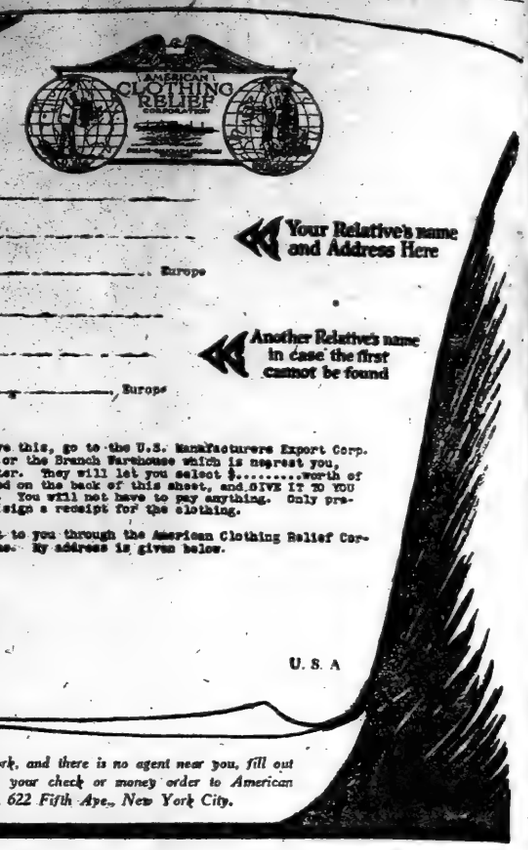
Your own family in Poland may be in dire want

How happy they'd be to get a letter like this from you

"CLOTHING!"



If you live outside New York, and there is no agent near you, fill out this letter and send it with your check or money order to American Clothing Relief Corporation, 622 Fifth Ave., New York City.

Now You Can Place New Warm Clothing
Right in the Hands of
Your Suffering Relatives in Poland

IN our warehouse in Warsaw, (Tlomatza, 13,) there is $300,000 worth of fine American clothing for men, women and children—including underwear, hosiery, overcoats, shoes and piece goods—awaiting your order to be delivered to your relatives, who need it so badly. You pay the money here and give the names of your relatives in Poland—we deliver the clothing to them there.

How to Place the Clothing in Their Hands

IF you have relatives to whom you desire to furnish good, warm clothing, secure one of the Relief letters shown above. Read it carefully. On page two you will find a list of clothing, with prices, from which your relatives can select just the things they need, up to the amount of money you have deposited here.

Put the names of your relatives and the last address you know on the Relief letter. Take it to one of the addresses given below and deposit the sum you wish to spend. You will get a receipt for the money.

The American Clothing Relief Corporation, through its organization in Europe, sees that the Relief letter is delivered to your relatives. They go and select the clothes they want, directly from our large warehouse in Poland.

You Take No Chances

Your relatives get the clothing or you don't pay a cent.
When your relatives receive the clothing they sign a receipt, which is verified by a Government authority. This receipt, with your relative's actual signature on it, is delivered here to you, before your money is turned over. Until that time it is held to your credit at a New York bank.
If, after a reasonable length of time, this receipt is not delivered, your money will be returned to you.

Get a Merchandise Draft Today

The cold winter is fast approaching. Lose no time in ordering warm clothing for your relatives. Get your Relief letter at once and fill it out as soon as possible. It takes some time for the letter to be delivered. Do not let your people suffer needlessly.

For Relief Letters and Merchandise Drafts Apply

Open 9 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Application for Agencies, for the sale of AMERICAN MERCHANDISE DRAFTS, will be considered from Banks and other reliable concerns only.

This is the Only Way You Can Help.

To send money will not help—there are no clothes there to be bought. And there is no assurance that the money would ever reach them. To send individual packages of clothing is impossible—because, even if you knew just what to send—what size, etc.—it is practically impossible for a package to go all the way through safely. This is the only way.

If you are not sure of your Relatives' address —simply state the town they lived in the last time you heard from them. Our European directors will find them. An extra charge of $1.00 is made for this searching—where incomplete address is given.

Time for Delivery

Ordinarily it takes six weeks from the time you deposit the money here for your relatives to secure their clothing.

Extra Cable Charges for 1 Week's Delivery

If you wish your order sent by cable, the clothing can be delivered in one week's time. An extra charge of $10.00 will be made for this service.

Money remains in your name until receipt actually signed by your relative is delivered.

No orders taken for less than $50.00.

OBJECTION BLOCKS VOTE ON TREATY LEADERS AGREED TO Challenge by Lodge Had Been Accepted by Hitchcock and Senate Was Ready.

SENATORS COME SCURRYING

But Jones of Washington Refuses Assent and Dream of Quick Decision Fades.

LAST AMENDMENT KILLED

Now the Lodge Reservations Come Up—Democrats Confer on Plan of Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—For a time today the Senate appeared to be on the verge of a vote on ratification of the Versailles Treaty. After a tense two hours of debate on parliamentary procedure, a perfunctory objection by Senator Jones, Republican, of Washington, blocked a proposal of Senator Hitchcock, the minority leader, by which the Senate would have turned at once to a final vote.

The unexpected development came when Mr. Hitchcock, accepting a challenge of Senator Lodge, the majority leader, asked unanimous consent to proceed to vote on the ratifying resolution, without considering the reservation program of the Foreign Relations Committee majority. Senator Lodge was ready for the vote and there was a scurrying of Senators from the cloakrooms when Senator Jones stepped in and interposed the objection that prevented a vote.

The effort of Senator Hitchcock came after a parliamentary wrangle over proceedure, when the last of pending amendments—that of Senator Gore, Democrat, of Oklahoma, providing for a referendum to voters on the United States entering any war—had been defeated by a vote of 76 to 16. With Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, withdrawing two amendments to strike Articles X. and XI. from the treaty, the Senate was through with the amendment program.

At this point Senator Lodge moved that the Senate proceed to consider the fifteen reservations projected by the Foreign Relations majority, and this precipitated the debate that led up to the sudden move of Senator Hitchcock.

Challenge Is Accepted.

Senator Underwood, Democrat, of Alabama, who had been arguing against the parliamentary right of the Senate to take up the committee reservations in advance of the resolution of ratification being before the Senate, brought forth Mr. Lodge's challenge, when he remarked that the majority was ready to vote on the resolution at any time with reservations or unconditionally.

"Why does not the Senator ask unanimous consent for a vote on unconditional ratification now?" put in Senator Lodge.

"I am willing to do so," replied Senator Underwood, without hesitation.

Senator Hitchcock, the minority leader, jumped to his feet, with a protest.

"I could not, of course, make any proposal without the consent of the Senator from Nebraska, who has charge of the treaty for the minority," said Mr. Underwood. "It ought to come from the Senator. I urge upon him to make it."

Senator Hitchcock replied that he was willing to have the vote come at once on unconditional ratification, but some Senators wanted to vote for reservations whose rights ought to be regarded. Mr. Hitchcock suggested, as a counter proposal, that the Senate agree that when the treaty went to the Senate out of the committee of the whole, resolutions of ratifications with varying degrees of reservations, as well as an unconditional resolution, would be in order, so that every character of resolution of ratification might be voted on.

"There is no need of giving consent to that program," returned Senator Lodge. "The Senate may consider any resolution without it. I do not propose to give assent to that kind of stuff. It would tie the Senate up with this treaty interminably."

Senator Hitchcock then offered the general consent agreement, to come to a vote at once on the resolution of ratification, as the treaty stood, without reservations.

Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin suggested that the agreement provide that if the resolution of ratification were defeated the treaty would pass back to the committee of the whole. This he urged so that the treaty, under general agreement, might not be suspended in the Senate without opportunity to bring it up again.

Senator Hitchcock assented and the proposal was read to the Senate, as follows:

"It is agreed by unanimous consent that the Senate will immediately pass to the parliamentary stage of the Senate and shall vote upon the following resolution:

"'Resolved, two-thirds of the Senators present and voting, concurring therein, that the Senate advises and consents to the ratification of the Treaty of Peace with Germany signed at Versailles, France, June 28, 1919.'

"And it is further agreed that if the treaty shall fail of ratification it shall immediately pass to the parliamentary stage of the Committee of the Whole."

By this time Senators had been flocking in from the cloak room until all but

King Asks British to Pause Two Minutes on Armistice Day

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The King, in a proclamation to his subjects today, appealed to them to join him in celebrating the anniversary of Armistice Day, Nov. 11, by a suspension at 11 o'clock of all normal activities for two minutes. The event, "which stayed the carnage and marked the victory of right and freedom," is thus to be commemorated so that "the thoughts of every one may be concentrated upon reverent remembrance of the glorious dead." The proclamation expresses the belief that all will gladly unite in this simple service of silence and remembrance.

SHIP BLOWN UP; FOUR OF CREW DIE

Mysterious Explosion in Fuel Tanks Destroys the Glena Off Bay Ridge.

SAILORS RESCUE EIGHT

New Bedford Fishing Craft Is Torn to Pieces by the Force of Three Explosions.

Three explosions of unknown origin in the fuel tanks of the auxiliary fishing schooner Glena, anchored off Sixty-ninth Street, Bay Ridge, destroyed the vessel yesterday afternoon and caused the death of four of those aboard her and the serious injury of her Captain and mate. Six others blown from her decks, though not badly hurt, were taken to the Marine Hospital at Stapleton.

The dead, all of New Bedford, Mass., the schooner's home port, are:

NECASE, ALFRED, 27 years old.
MERCHANTE, HENRY, 25 years old.
PRITCHARD, FREDERICK, 32 years old.
ZERETTE, MOSES, 26 years old.

The injured are:

DAUCETT, Captain LOUIS, New Edgar, Mass.
LE BLANC, EUGENE, the mate.

Those who were rescued unhurt are all New Bedford men. They are William Babine, Albert Hemlix, Alphonse Malloy, Alfred Porter, Matthew Richards, and Fred Surede.

All the dead were lost in the water, and it is not known whether they were drowned or whether they met death in the explosion itself. None of their bodies was recovered, and at a late hour the harbor police still were grappling for them.

Captain Daucett said that he figured there was about seventy gallons of gasoline in the tanks when the explosion came.

"I was at the wheel," he said, "and I was blown overboard. The men who are missing were in the cabin just forward of the tanks and engine. The men who were picked up alive were in the extreme peak of the schooner looking after the anchor chain. It was a cabin sunk below the main deck and reached through a hatch and down a short flight of stairs. When the tremendous burst of flames came I had a glimpse of the cabin, and it seemed to me that the whole thing, hatch covering and all, was blown outward. I think the men must have been carried at least twenty feet before they struck the water. They were in flames."

The skipper is in a serious condition. Notwithstanding a broken arm he managed to keep afloat until help came. His memory of the few minutes following the explosion is hazy.

The Glena had put in from New Bedford with a cargo of fish, and, having discharged this at Fulton Market, had made for the fuel station located in an abandoned fishing schooner off the foot of Sixty-ninth Street. Captain Louis Daucett had brought his little vessel to anchor about thirty feet from the fuel station, a pipe line had been run from one vessel to the other, and he and the mate, Eugene Le Blanc, were superintending the taking aboard of the gasoline when there was a sudden detonation.

Swirling sheets of flame wrapped all about the vessel as the first of the gas tanks went up, and the air was filled with flying debris. Fortunately the force of the explosion hurled the Glena some thirty more feet away from the supply ship, and at the same time severed the pipe line between them. Thus the fire which followed the first explosion was not communicated to the supply ship, aboard which were hundreds of gallons of gasoline.

Within a few seconds there was a second and then a third explosion. The Glena was ripped and shattered to pieces, and what remained of her torn decks was bare of the little group of fishermen who a moment before had clustered about, watching the operation of refilling her tanks. Whether there was a leak from one of these or from the pipe line itself and escaping vapor was ignited by one of the men smoking, or whether a spark from some other source ignited the fumes probably never will be known. In less than a minute after the first explosion the Glena was no more. The shore line was strewn with wreckage, the water about the spot where she had lain was clustered with bits of flotsam, and a few dazed, bruised men were struggling despairingly in the water.

The sound of the first explosion reached the naval barracks, two blocks away, and sailors ran there quickly put out in motor launches to the rescue. They found six of the crew, all about at the end of their struggles to keep afloat, and one by one they lifted them into their launches. Captain Daucett and Mate Le Blanc, the former with a broken arm and bad burns and the latter severely burned, were very near drowning when the sailors rescued them, too, making eight in all they had picked up.

By the time they got the men to their barracks ambulances from the Norwegian, Kings County, Methodist Episcopal, and Coney Island Hospitals were on hand in response to hurry calls. After navy surgeons had given the eight first aid they were taken to the marine hospital.

JURORS MAY SEEK GAMBLING REPORT HIRSHFIELD MADE

Expected to Subpoena Accounts Commissioner's Secret Statement.

HYLAN SAID TO HAVE SEEN IT

Assistant District Attorney Hints at Meeting of City Employes to Plan 'Open' Town.

LAW GIVES BROAD SCOPE

Inquiry Reported to Reach Into Other States—Three Witnesses Examined.

The Extraordinary Grand Jury, which seemed to confine its attention yesterday to certain police matters, has apparently started a general investigation of the city administration in the search for evidence of "a crime," which the jurymen informed Governor Smith in their letter, "completely overshadows the charge made by the Mayor." District Attorney Swann, whom the jury sought to have replaced by special counsel to be named by the Governor, has withdrawn as legal adviser to the Grand Jury, and that service is now being performed by one of the prosecutor's assistants.

It was said at the Criminal Court Building that the special report made by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield concerning his investigation of alleged gambling may be asked for by the jury. This report has not been made public. It was understood that the report was sent to the Mayor. It could not be learned whether or not Commissioner Hirshfield had been asked to appear.

This broader investigation by the Grand Jury, it was rumored, is based upon the authority granted to that body by Section 280 of the Penal Code, which reads in part: "The Grand Jury must inquire into the willful and corrupt misconduct in office of public officers of every description in the county."

According to rumors about the Grand Jury room the police end of the Grand Jury inquiry, which began as an incident of the wider political or Government inquiry, promises to develop into an important part of the investigation. This was the accepted view of the situation when Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, following a conference with Raymond F. Almirall, foreman of the Grand Jury, again appeared before that body yesterday. Smith was active in gambling and vice raids some months ago. It is believed that his presence before the jury had to do with his work in that connection.

It was recalled that Smith's raids ceased suddenly. The reason for the sudden cessation has never been set forth publicly, except that Mr. Smith insinuated that he had not received at all times proper police co-operation. This was after he had ceased to have the assistance of Acting Inspector "Honest Dan" Costigan, who was demoted and transferred to the Beach Street Station as a captain.

That Smith's raids were stopped by some one in authority seemed at that time to be the best explanation, but the abrupt end of this line of work occasioned great surprise, because it was understood that either Smith or District Attorney Swann had been called to the City Hall and personally complimented by Mayor Hylan for improving conditions and that the Mayor had given assurance of the help of the administration in continuing the work of "driving the gamblers out," as the District Attorney had characterized his efforts.

When Smith was seen to enter the Grand Jury room yesterday, it was believed that he was prepared to tell the story of why his raids had failed toward the end. He carried a large bundle of papers and records, supposedly pertaining to his activities in the gambling and vice investigations.

The second witness, who followed Smith, was Detective Sergeant Martin, formerly attached to the office of Second Deputy Police Commissioner William J. Lahey, head of the Detective Bureau. A third witness was a man who refused to give his name, and whose identity had not been disclosed when the jury adjourned.

It was understood that Assistant District Attorney Smith had turned over to the jury his "police blue book," consisting of several thousand pages of typewritten matter, which he had compiled before and during his raiding

Agree to Guarantee of Return to Railroads for Six Months

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Government guarantee of the standard return to railroads for six months after their return to private control was agreed today by the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

The committee wrote into the proposed measure a provision for Government loans for fifteen years at 6 per cent., the loans to be under the supervision of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

MRS. SHONTS HINTS AT A WILL CONTEST

Has Heard Her Husband Tried to Make a Will While Ill, Disinheriting Her.

ESTATE WORTH $474,000

Traction President's Widow Says He Desired to Leave Big Sum to 'a Certain Woman.'

Mrs. Milla D. Shonts, widow of Theodore P. Shonts, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit, was appointed temporary administratrix yesterday of the estate of her husband by Surrogate Fowler on her plea that she has made "diligent search" for a will, but she has found none and is without information that would lead to finding the will if one exists.

On the other hand, it was stated yesterday at the office of De Lancey Nicoll, who was attorney for Mr. Shonts, that a will executed by him is ready to be presented for probate as soon as a waiver of notice of the proceeding is received from Mr. Shonts's daughter abroad.

In her petition Mrs. Shonts said that her only knowledge as to whether or not her husband made a will is that in 1904 when he went to take charge of the construction of the Panama Canal he showed her a document which he told her was his last will and in which she was made the sole beneficiary. She says she has no idea where this document is now.

Mrs. Shonts stated further that after her husband's death she was informed that while he lay ill he attempted to execute a will in which he left her "nothing, or practically nothing" and attempted to leave the largest part of the estate "to a certain woman in no way related to him or his family either by blood or marriage." She alleges that her husband had associated with this woman and had been subjected to her influence for a considerable period before his death.

The widow states in her petition that for a considerable period before his death her husband was incompetent to make any will, and while she has never seen one made by him during that time, she serves notice that if such a will is offered for probate she will contest it, and will also oppose granting of letters of administration in behalf of the legatee.

Mrs. Shonts says she believes her husband left property worth $474,000 in securities, and no real estate. She states that he paid $3,000 a year for his apartment at 930 Park Avenue under a lease which has two years longer to run, and which contained furniture, rugs, and paintings worth $50,000 "which have been removed by someone who had no right or authority to do so."

Mrs. Shonts gives the disappearance of the property as one of her reasons why an administrator of his estate should be appointed at once, and alleges that unless immediate steps are taken by someone in authority to get possession of such property it "may be scattered or lost to the estate." She says that at the time her husband died he had securities valued at $328,425 deposited with the National Bank of Commerce as security for a loan of $201,000, and she believes that other persons to whom her husband was indebted hold securities as collateral.

Mrs. Shonts states that the only persons entitled to her husband's estate are herself, and her daughters, Mrs. Marguerite A. Bingham and the Duchess de Chaulnes of Paris.

Peace Conference Receives Indictments Against German Offenders.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 5.—Copies of the legal evidence upon which is demanded the surrender of 1,200 Germans to stand trial for offenses committed in Belgium have been forwarded to the Peace Conference at Paris.

The indictments are principally based on the executions of civilians at Louvain and other towns, on the deportations of workmen, on forced labor exacted from prisoners of war, on the treatment of young men who attempted to cross the frontier to join the Belgian armies, and on pillage.

Jenkins Must Pay His Own Ransom, - Unless He Can Prove Carranza Negligent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The policy of the United States regarding kidnapping of Americans in Mexico, and attacks on Americans and their property in that country, was set forth today in an official announcement that unless negligence on the part of the Mexican authorities could be shown, there would be no claim for damages made by this Government.

The kidnapping of William C. Jenkins, American Consular Agent at Puebla, and the payment by his attorney of $150,000 ransom for his liberty, was discussed at length by an official of the State Department in outlining the policy of the United States.

Jenkins will have to effect his own reimbursement of the money paid to the Mexicans who kidnapped him, it was said, unless he can prove that the Mexican Government was negligent in affording him protection.

The fact that Jenkins was an official of the United States Government has no bearing on the matter, it was stated. Americans in Mexico can expect no more and no different protection than is afforded to Mexicans under the Mexican law, this official said, in disposing of the suggestion that the protection sought by Americans in Mexico through diplomatic channels to counterbalance the greater measure of protection granted to Mexicans by their courts, would not be urged by this Government.

It was admitted by the State Department official that the robbery of American mine and oil company paymasters "might be" different, as the paymasters are compelled to notify the authorities in advance of their route, time of departure, and the amount of money carried.

RECALL OF STRIKE ORDER DEMANDED; COAL CUT OFF FROM FOREIGN SHIPS; PRODUCTION GAINS BUT WEST IS SHORT

WANT MANDATE BY COURT

Department of Justice Announces Its Course at Indianapolis.

MINERS' CHIEFS HOLD OUT

Asserted That They Will Refuse to Cancel Strike, Even if Judge So Orders.

PRESIDENT BACKS PALMER

Cabinet Firm on Injunction, Though Secretary Wilson Was Opposed to It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The United States Government on Saturday at Indianapolis will urge Judge Anderson of the Federal court of Indiana to include in the restraining order which the Government will ask a mandatory order directed to John L. Lewis, Acting President, and other officials of the United Mine Workers of America, requiring those officials immediately to "issue a withdrawal and cancellation of the strike order."

In the event that the union leaders refuse to obey the mandate of the court, contempt of court proceedings will be in order, and all the officials who are defendants in the Government's action will face imprisonment until they are purged of their contempt.

This statement was made at the Department of Justice tonight, following the publication in a Washington afternoon newspaper of an assertion that the Government would agree to a week's postponement of the Indianapolis proceedings in order to permit certain unnamed official agencies an opportunity to bring the strike to an end through arbitration or otherwise. The story was declared to be entirely without foundation at the office of Attorney General Palmer.

"There is not a word of truth in it," said Mr. Palmer's personal representative, "and we have no such program in view. On the contrary, Mr. Ames, who is now on his way to Indianapolis, will urge with all the vigor he can command that the restraining order be made permanent.

"It can be stated that the order which the Government seeks to have made permanent will contain a clause which will amount to a mandatory directed to the proper persons requiring these persons to cancel the coal strike order. In the event that Judge Anderson decides in favor of the Government, the law will be enforced. Attorney General Palmer has so stated time and again in the last week, and it would seem hardly necessary to repeat it at this time."

Text of Mandate to End Strike.

The mandatory clause in the restraining order referred to, the permanency of which Judge Ames will urge, reads:

"That the court, after notice to and hearing of the defendants, issue its temporary injunction pendente lite enjoining the defendants and all others unlawfully conspiring, combining, agreeing, and arranging with them as hereinbefore alleged during the continuance of this suit, in all respects as enumerated in the next preceding paragraph hereof, and further from permitting said strike order from remaining in effect, and commanding them to desist from aiding such strike by permitting said strike order to remain in effect, and commanding them to issue a withdrawal and cancellation of said strike order."

As indicated by the above quotation from the original temporary restraining order, the mandate has been a part of it all along, but not until today did it attract the attention of the Washington representatives of the United Mine Workers. They promptly stated that if the restraining order were made permanent, with the consequent coming into full effect of the mandate, the national leaders of the mine workers' organization would refuse to obey the court and would go to jail rather than recall the strike order.

Edgar Wallace, one of the official representatives of the mine workers in Washington, said:

"The miners' leaders will not rescind the strike order. To date the officials of our organization have obeyed the injunction, but if it is sought further to compel them to take action to make the strike of our men ineffective or go to jail, why, then, they will choose the jail.

"I am against revolution and do not favor any such movement in our country, but when the Government starts a course of action such as is indicated by this mandatory clause the end of the controversy is, to say the least, problematical."

W. B. Wilson Opposed Injunction.

The strike is expected to be the predominant subject at the meeting of the Cabinet tomorrow. All the information obtainable, indicates that there will be no break in the Government's plan to press the injunction proceedings at Indianapolis. If proposals for a settlement of the strike are to be brought forward it would appear that they must be so formulated that they would not in any Coal Production Gains in Two Eastern States; Washington Gets Good Reports From Elsewhere.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—Today more coal was run from the non-union mines of Western Pennsylvania than on any day since the nation-wide coal strike started. The increase amounted to between 15 and 20 per cent., according to mine officials, with the result that the amount of coal now being mined in this district is in excess of 50 per cent. of normal runs, with coke running 100 per cent.

The amount of coal being produced in the non-union mines and in the country bank mines is said to be surprisingly large, indicating that with a continued increase in output there need be no fear whatever as regards supplying all requirements in this territory and on the Eastern seaboard.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Large increases in coal production in West Virginia are reported by the West Virginia Coal Association tonight. It was estimated that the mines are now producing at the rate of 60,000,000 tons per year, or two-thirds of the normal output of the State.

The association report declares that production is on the increase in every field of the State and that guins were made today in union fields, where, it was said, miners continue to return to work.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 6.—Coal operators in the Raton district today reported an increased number of miners at work following the arrival of 700 troops from Columbus, N. M. In the Gallup district operators say the production has been increased a hundred tons today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Encouraging reports were received today from the coal fields of Alabama, Wyoming, and Colorado, and there is reason to believe that many additional mines in all of these States will soon resume operations. In Kentucky 50 per cent. of the normal production is coming out of the mines.

COAL STRIKE CHIEFS MAKE COURT PLEA

Introduce Motion to Dissolve the Restraining Order Enforcing Silence.

ASSAIL PRESIDENT'S STAND

Say the Administration Is Trying to Get Out of an Unfortunate Position.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 6.—The officials of the United Mine Workers of America made their first move this afternoon to break the silence and inactivity in the conduct of the coal strike forced upon them by the temporary restraining order granted to the Government by Judge A. B. Anderson, when a motion to dissolve the restraining order was filed in Federal Court by Henry K. Warrum, and William V. Rucker, attorneys for the union. The motion will be argued Saturday, when the Government's petition that the injunction be made permanent comes up for hearing.

The motion contends that the Government has no right to interfere in the controversy between the miners and the operators and declares that it is without "equity and clean hands" in the prosecution of the suit. It contends that the Fuel Administration was dissolved at the end of hostilities and that it should not have been re-established without the exigency of war. It charges that the Government's action has brought about confusion and disorder and that its real purpose in the suit is to extricate the Administration from the "unfortunate state of disorder in which it has involved itself."

The motion is in seven paragraphs and is sworn to by John L. Lewis, acting President, and William Green, Secretary of the union.

The first paragraph attacks the restraining order on the grounds that the plaintiff, the United States, is not the real party in interest and is not shown to be the party with whom the miners contracted, or a party authorized to sue by statute without joining with it the party for whose benefit the action is besought. It asserts that the restraining order was issued improvidently because of the lack of interest of the plaintiff.

Alleges Lack of Equity.

The second paragraph alleges that the complaint is wholly without equity in that the defendants are merely agents of the United Mine Workers and that they were acting only as such agents in accordance with directions to them from the Twenty-seventh Constitutional Convention of the United Mine Workers of America, which convention is alleged to have ordered the general strike of its members contingent on failure of the officials to obtain the demands formulated.

The second paragraph also sets up the contention that there is no averment in the complaint that the strike, as managed by the officers enjoined, will not improve the common conditions and promote the particular welfare of each member of the union.

The third paragraph asserts that it is "No Government Worthy of the Name" Can Permit Some of Them, He Declares.

MUST CHECK THE RADICALS

Service to Patriotic Workmen to Prevent Maurer and Foster from Carrying Out Plans.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—"The question which we must now try out is whether the by-laws of the Miners' Union shall prevail against the great needs of the people and whether the 'supreme authority' of any non-governmental body can be substituted for the authority of the Government under the law," said Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer here today, at a conference called by Governor William C. Sproul to discuss means of lowering the high cost of living. The meeting, held at the Capitol, was attended by state, city and county officials and food profiteering was the principal question discussed.

The Attorney General after suggesting closer co-operation with the Federal authorities on the part of State and local officials, took up the matter of the bituminous coal strike and its effect on industry and the transportation of food to the cities.

"This is a critical hour in the life of our country," he said. "The test is being made whether the Government has the right and the power to protect all the people from a national disaster which would be inflicted upon them by a single group for its own advantage.

"The strike of the bituminous coal miners, at the time and under the circumstances in which it was called, involves much more than a dispute between employers and employes over wages, hours or conditions of labor. In the proceedings which the Government has taken to prevent the strike, we have been careful not to take sides in the controversy between the operators and the miners. Nothing that we have done is intended or designed to have any effect upon the recognized right of labor to organize, to bargain collectively through its unions, and, under ordinary industrial conditions, to walk out by concerted action. There is involved the right and the power of the Government to vindicate its own authority and sovereignty."

Mr. Palmer briefly summed up the overtures made by the Government to the strikers to settle their troubles through an impartial tribunal and then referred to the pestilence, starvation and death that would ensue if the stoppage of railroad transportation were to follow. Speaking of the right to strike, he said:

"While the right to strike in all ordinary industries, under normal circumstances, cannot be denied, there are some callings which are so closely related to the life, liberty, and security of the people that the right to strike in those cases must be subordinated to the superior right of the public to enjoy uninterrupted service. FIRST BIG COAL EMBARGO

Only American Ships to Receive Bunker Supplies Here.

BRITISH PLAN FOLLOWED

Distribution Curtailed, as in the Recent Strike of English Miners.

TRAIN SERVICE TO BE CUT

Hines Avoids General Reduction—Coal Output Now One-Third of Consumption.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The first serious effect of the bituminous coal strike will be borne by ocean steamers flying foreign flags. Orders will go out within the next few hours eliminating all such vessels from the list of ocean carriers which may obtain American bunkerage coal.

It was stated tonight that report from the coal priority authorities showed that after satisfying railroads, municipalities, industrial and domestic users, the supply of bituminous coal which would be left would barely provide for American ships and that it would be impossible to supply any coal whatever to foreign shipping interests. Among the lines that will be affected by this curtailment of the supply are the Cunard, the French Line, the Italian lines, the vessels of the international Mercantile Marine Company which are under foreign register, the Scandinavian lines, and many of the important fleets plying between New York, New Orleans and other American ports to South and Central America.

Practically ever since the armistice foreign shipping has depended almost entirely upon the American mines for bunkerage coal. Whether ships now in American waters which cannot make their return voyages, without recoaling will be permitted to take on sufficient coal to reach their home ports is a question that was not answered by persons in authority tonight. If such an exception is made it will probably be the last concession until the strike has ended.

It was said tonight that during the recent coal strike in England the British Government took the same step with regard to foreign ships as is now about to be taken by the United States. Not until the strike of the English miners was settled was the embargo removed.

In addition to foreign ships a large supply of the coal needed by France and Italy as well as other European countries has been supplied from the United States for many months. This supply will also be cut, it is understood, until further orders.

It was recalled that in his statement of Oct. 23 on the strike, President Wilson called attention to the fact that if the mine leaders refused to recall the strike order and the miners quit work it would result, among other things, in stopping shipping to and from the United States, "thus preventing our giving aid to the allied countries with supplies which they so seriously need."

Authorizes Train Service Cut.

Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, tonight authorized the following statement:

"The machinery set up by the Railroad Administration to distribute the coal held in transit by the railroads in accordance with the directions of the Fuel Administrator, is in full operation and as a result, wherever possible, coal is being distributed in accordance with the priority list established by the Fuel Administrator where such coal is absolutely needed. Therefore, where there is real need for coal the problem should be taken up immediately with the railroad ordinarily supplying the coal and every effort will be made by such railroad to meet the demand.

"It is, of course, essential both because of the present bituminous coal strike and in order that the needs for the coming Winter may be looked after, that fuel be used as economically as possible. It should also be remembered that the railroads did not interfere with the delivery of coal to designated consignees until the day before the present strike began.

"In order to conserve coal as much as possible, Regional Directors of Railroads have been given authority, wherever it seems absolutely necessary, to eliminate for the time being train service, but in order to provide for the essential business needs of the country no general curtailment of train service is contemplated. The maintenance of the public transportation service is of paramount importance in order to serve the countless needs of the general public and the interruption of that service should be minimized as far as possible."

Mr. Hines also said that "to save loss of time and otherwise facilitate the handling of applications from consumers who require coal, it should be noted that the arrangements for such handling provide that applicants for coal make their requests through the local authorities of the railroad from whom they regularly received their supply or

It is stated that the daily consumption of soft coal is about 10,000,000 tons and the daily production is now lowered to about 3,500,000 tons.

Affects 210 Ships Here.

There are 210 ships in the Port of New York affected by the order of the Railroad Administration Central Coal Committee for the discontinuance of foreign tonnage bunkering. Many of them are British vessels, which, it is believed, will be able to proceed to Halifax for coal.

During the longshoremen's strike, it was pointed out, many British liners were sent to the Canadian port for coal. Shipping officials were unable to say what course was open to vessels of other nationalities which may be unable to clear, although there is a possibility that some of these will also be able to reach Halifax.

PROPOSES TO STIFFEN NATURALIZATION LAWS

House Immigration Committee Reports Bill to Make Citizenship Difficult to Radicals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON Nov. 6.—Because of the increase in radicalism in the United States, it is proposed in a bill reported today by the House Committee on Immigration to make it very hard for aliens to become citizens of the United States. Representative Albert Johnson, Chairman of the committee, said the committee favored strengthening the law and placing a greater duty upon aliens before they can be naturalized. In the event of aliens participating in revolutionary movements and uprisings, Mr. Johnson declared, it would be easy to deport them, and for that reason he was opposed to the present laws, which make citizenship easy to obtain.

An attempt will be made to pass this bill immediately as officials of the Government say it is very desirable to prevent many of the aliens who are seeking citizenship obtaining their papers unless they know more familiarity with American institutions and the English language. There is a strong movement to prohibit general immigration for two years, but inasmuch as this bill cannot be considered during this session, leaders in the Americanization movement have proposed a stiffening of the naturalization laws as the first and most vital step.

The bill requires ability to read and to speak English to secure naturalization. It requires the children and wives of aliens to take the oath of allegiance in open court before citizenship is granted them.

The bill grants citizenship to several thousand aliens who refused to claim exemption from military service on account of allegiance and who were attached to the United States forces, but not finally accepted. Recognition of services in the armies of the Allies by alien residents in the United States is made, and service of such soldiers who returned and fought for their mother countries is accepted in lieu of continuous residence.

A permanent land and coast patrol of the boundaries of the United States is proposed to be established to prevent the surreptitious entry of aliens.

BOMB WORKER'S HOME.

Four Suspects Held for Plot Against Employe of Steel Company.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—The home of Mike Schokoff, an employe of the American Steel and Wire Company, was damaged last night by a bomb which was set under the rear porch. Schokoff's wife and a small baby, who were in a rear room, were shocked and grazed.

Four persons suspected of having participated in the outrage were arrested, and are being held by the State police. Other arrests are expected.

The steel strike, as far as Donora is concerned, is practically at an end. Enough men are signed up by the American Steel and Wire Company to put the rod mills in operation, and when the whistle blows next Monday morning it is expected that about 1,500 more men will report for work.

The result of the election on Tuesday, when Charles E. Titus was re-elected Constable, hastened the end. Titus was opposed by the radical element, because of his activity in enforcing the law, but was supported by those who favor law and order. The result served to impress the radicals.

TOLEDO PREPARES TO WALK.

Vote to Oust Car Lines Hits Merchants and Manufacturers.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 6.—The result of Tuesday's election, at which the citizens voted to oust the street cars from the tracks, is agitating merchants and manufacturers. It is pointed out that if the cars are removed when the vote is certified to the City Council more than 100,000 employes in stores and industrial plants will be forced to walk and that a decided slackening in production will ensue.

Officials of the Toledo Railways and Light Company say they are willing to remove the cars if the city so decides. Mayor Schreiber said tonight the city could do nothing but order the company to remove the cars and tear up its tracks if the people insisted on enforcing the ordinance. Several Councilmen asserted they would introduce ordinances next Monday night repealing the ouster ordinance, if the city and company get together in the meantime on a definite line of settlement.

POLICE WEAR 'RIOT GOGGLES'

Deputy Sheriffs Discourage Women by Number of Arrests.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 6.—Deputy sheriffs appeared at the entrance to the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. plant today wearing goggles as a protection against recurrence of "red pepper riots" by women, which occurred on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Apparently discouraged by the arrest of twenty-four women yesterday, however, the women failed to appear today. A grand jury investigation of the riots will open Monday. More than half the women arrested are still behind the bars.

Strikers Invade Paris Stores.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The first disorder occurred yesterday in the department store strike which began ten days ago at the Bon Marche and spread sympathetically to the Galeries Lafayette. Late yesterday scores of strikers got into the establishments and attacked employes who had remained at work. Customers made hurried exits. Squads of police ousted the invaders within a few moments. Several show windows were broken, compelling the establishments to close.

recognized and the peaceful processes of settlement of disputes has been offered and rejected, no Government worthy of the name can permit the strike weapon to be used to enforce the demands of a single class of workers at the expense of all the people.

"One of the most insidious attacks upon our Government and its institutions is the proposed use of the strike weapon for political purposes. Grievances against the laws and their administration must be settled in the ways which have been provided by the people. Reforms in our body politic may be accomplished only through the methods designed for the purpose of change and improvement in response to the popular will. They cannot be forced by methods which seek to terrify a suffering people into submission.

"It will be a glad day for labor in America when men of the Maurer type lose their influence in its councils. Until that day comes we can give the honest patriotic working men of the nation no greater help than by preventing the Maurers and Fosters from accomplishing their thinly concealed revolutionary plans."

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—In describing efforts of the Department of Justice to drive down the cost of living, Attorney General Palmer declared that if the people would increase their saving by 10 per cent. the cost of living would fall 20 per cent. in a brief time.

Mr. Palmer attacked the "buy now" campaign, declaring that "our job is to wait, both in our interest and in the interest of the nation and the world at large, that the demand may be lightened." He called upon "the plain people" to wear their old clothes a little longer, to refuse to buy until production had caught up with the demand. This, he assured the officials, was one of the principal means of ending the spectacle of "the dog chasing its tail around in a circle." Unless the people themselves take this step, the Attorney General said, the nation could not expect to have anything but discontent and disorder.

"Why, if we could make labor understand it, if we could make money understand it, make everybody understand it on both sides of the economic fence that idleness is a sin, if not a crime," said Mr. Palmer, "and get money and labor, both, to working every day, giving an honest day's labor for an honest day's wage, for only six months, every one of these problems would be solved because our people would be busy and, being busy, they would be happy. Disorder would disappear because it cannot live except in idleness and the discontent and unrest that follow as a result of idleness. We must put our shoulders to the wheel to increase production, and we can at the same time put our shoulders to the wheel to decrease the demand."

sense alter the now firmly established policy of the Department of Justice in handling the situation.

Following the last meeting of the Cabinet, when the program of bringing the injunction proceedings at Indianapolis was decided upon, it was announced that the decision had been unanimous. It is now understood that Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson made a strong plea against such procedure, delivering an extended address; and that he did not, even when it became apparent that his plea would fail, alter his opinion as to the undesirability of such a course. He has since maintained silence as to the attitude which he took at the stormy session.

Friends of Secretary Wilson have urged him to make some public statement in regard to his views, but he has refused to discuss the matter in any way. The course which the debate took in the first Cabinet meeting has been kept a secret.

Since that meeting Secretary Wilson has been untiring in his efforts to bring about some development which would make it unnecessary for the Government to press the injunction suit and go to the extreme of seeking a court order directed against the labor leaders.

It is a current report that, during the illness of President Wilson, the dominating influence among the members of the Cabinet had been wielded by Attorney General Palmer and that his determination to go through to the end with the injunction proceedings has been backed up firmly by word from President Wilson. Some saw in the telegram of congratulation which President Wilson sent to Governor Coolidge upon his re-election Tuesday, the final evidence that there would be no weakening on the President's part in the course to be pursued.

Reports that negotiations were under way to bring the operators and miners together, and that the Government might move to bring about a speedy settlement of the strike, have been invariably met at the White House by the information that no formal action on the Government's part could be expected unless the miners were willing first to call off the strike and send the men back to work.

It is probable that unless something develops before tomorrow to make it advisable to call off the Cabinet meeting, various proposals to end the strike which have been going the rounds of gossip during the week will be brought forward and discussed. But the indications now are plainly that there is no tendency toward anything approximating a surrender of principle on the part of Government officials who are in control of the situation.

Federal Agencies Co-operating.

There has been cumulative evidence to this effect. Every move which has been made to show that there was a possibility of the Government forces wavering in their intention of fighting out the issue to a finish have been met by a prompt reply from Attorney General Palmer. The thoroughness with which the Railroad Administration has set to work to take over the distribution of coal with powers as great as those held by the Fuel Administration during the war, is another indication of how the White House views the situation, as the executive orders granting such powers through the Fuel Administrator came from President Wilson's pen.

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, failed today to reply to the National Coal Association, which charged that Mr. Gompers, in his Tuesday night statement on the strike situation had not made a single accurate assertion. It is reported that he will seek an interview with the President in a last minute effort to have the Government agree to a court order vacating the injunction.

It is said that Mr. Gompers will try to get in touch with the President tomorrow, which is the only day remaining before the proceedings at Indianapolis. This report was not verified at Mr. Gompers's office.

Attorney General Palmer is expected to return to Washington tomorrow morning, and it is understood that some of the leading labor officials in Washington may seek a conference with him then.

The situation in the strike is tonight one of marking time on the part of the Government. The strike can be ended at any time by President Lewis and his subordinates, provided they recall the strike order, and instruct the miners to resume work, after which President Wilson will promptly appoint a commission to investigate the whole controversy, for the purpose of arriving at a just settlement of all questions at issue between the miners and their employers. The crux of the whole situation is, so far as the Government is concerned, to cancel the strike order and go back to work."

Unless this is done, and the mine leaders say they will not follow this course, it will be a struggle to a finish, with the law on one side and the miners' organization on the other.

COAL SHORTAGE HITS THE WESTERN CITIES

Forty Iowa Towns Appeal for Fuel and Des Moines Has Only 900 Tons Left.

TRAIN SERVICE IS REDUCED

Salt Lake City, Kansas City, Topeka, and Other Communities Appeal for Relief.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 6.—Suspension of eight trains on the Milwaukee Railroad, closing of a large cement plant in Des Moines, and appeal for coal from forty small towns in Iowa are the developments in the coal miners' strike here today.

The Board of Education here is also considering closing schools Monday because of lack of fuel. The schools have only fifty tons now on hand and no relief is in sight.

At Ames, Iowa, the light and water plant is almost entirely out of fuel. Lights have been turned off nights to permit operation of the water plant. After Saturday, if no relief is received, the town will be without light and water and no fire protection.

Many small towns in the State are also in darkness.

Des Moines has only 900 tons of all kinds of coal on hand now and this is being parceled out by the County Fuel Administration, which is working under direction of Governor W. L. Harding.

Thousands of tons of coal are held in Iowa by the railroads, and in Des Moines alone there are 140,000 tons of lump coal held by the Rock Island and Des Moines Union Railways.

Officials of the town of Desota, Iowa, have warned Governor Harding that there are twenty-six carloads in the yards there and that they will unload the coal if some is not turned over to them.

KANSAS CITY GETS RELIEF.

Committee Distributes Coa to Prevent Suffering from Fuel Shortage.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 6.—Kansas City is short of coal, but actual suffering has been allayed by the immediate operation of the newly formed distribution committee, headed by C. H. Markham, President of the Midland Coal Company. The committee met this morning and passed on a number of applications for coal.

Special to The New York Times.

MACON, Mo., Nov. 6.—The street lights at Shelbina and Shelbyville have been shut off for lack of coal, and the water and light plant has only a supply for the week. Local coal dealers in Shelby and Macon Counties have not a pound of coal on hand.

2-WEEK RESERVE IN NEBRASKA

Several Towns Report Fuel Shortage, but Get Relief at Once.

Special to The New York Times.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 6.—Reports indicate that Nebraska has at least two weeks' supply of coal. Some of the railroads have a reserve supply which will last them longer. So far every need has been supplied, although the lighting plant at Fairmont was closed for a day and the schools at Marsland were shut down temporarily because of a lack of fuel. These towns have since been supplied with fuel.

The request of the Railroad Commission of this State that some Nebraska official be authorized to pass on requests for fuel has been turned down by Federal authorities on the ground that the coal actually in Nebraska is not all assigned to this State, and that other States have an interest in fuel supplies held here by the railroads.

Doane College has notified the State Railroad Commission that it will be necessary to close that institution at once unless fuel is supplied. The Odd Fellows Home for Old People at York, and York College were out of coal today, but supplies were promised. Plymouth and Thetford were entirely out of fuel today, but supplies were promised to them. The Catholic church, convent and school at Stuart are out of coal and the school closed because the railroad confiscated a car of coal shipped to the church.

RELEASES COAL IN UTAH.

Railroad Administration Averts Tie-up of Many Industries.

Special to The New York Times.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 6.—Orders received today from the Railroad Administration in Chicago, which gave Utah railroads authority to move coal which has been held on side tracks here since last Saturday, averted what threatened to result in a tieup of many industries.

The orders released 1,500 carloads of coal to consignees, and deliveries of this much-needed fuel began today. Several large industrial plants faced a shutdown within twenty-four hours had the orders not been issued.

Demands from neighboring States have already begun to pour into the mining companies. Some coal has been shipped to Helena and Butte, Mon. The absence of public freight rates on coal to Wyoming points has thus far prevented shipments to that State.

PRINCETON IS SHORT OF COAL.

University Appeals to Students to Conserve Light and Heat.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 6.—With the present reserve supply of coal almost exhausted and with no more shipments in sight, Princeton University is at present facing a fuel shortage. This was learned here this afternoon, when C. G. Wintringer, secretary of the business administration of the university, issued an appeal to the student body to conserve light and heat to the greatest possible extent.

7 ALABAMA CITIES LACK FUEL.

Assert Immediate Relief Is Necessary to Prevent Suffering.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 6.—Appeals from seven Alabama towns for relief from a shortage of coal reached the State Public Service Commission today. The commission referred the calls for assistance to the Federal manager of the Southern Railroad, which transports most of the coal supply to each town. At Florence, a town of more than 7,000, the situation was described as acute.

ST. LOUIS INDUSTRIES PINCHED

Many Will Suspend if Strike Lasts Another Week, It Is Said.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6.—If the coal strike lasts another week hundreds of industries in the St. Louis district will be compelled to close. This statement was made today by Paul H. Greenlaw, Chairman of the St. Louis Regional Coal Committee. Domestic consumers, he said, would continue to get supplies in one-ton lots.

The Committee is making allotments on many out of town applications based on emergencies. Cordell, Okla., received relief on representations that its public utilities were about to close because of lack of fuel.

Retail coal dealers here, in co-operation with the Missouri State Retail Merchants Association, have sent telegram to Senator Spencer at Washington asking that the Government, through the Fuel Administration, take precautions to insure the people in this State sufficient coal for their present needs.

DETROIT HAS LARGE STOCKS.

But Other Towns in Michigan Have Less Than a Weeks' Fuel on Hand.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Nov. 6.—All restrictions on delivery of coal consigned to dealers or industrial firms in Detroit were removed this evening on order of P. G. Findlay, Chairman of the Government's Sub-Committee on Coal Distributions in Detroit. Mr. Findlay notified the ten railroads in his jurisdiction to place for delivery at once all coal consigned to Detroit firms. This order will remain in effect indefinitely.

Mr. Findlay declared coal shipments were moving freely and that so far as he could ascertain no Detroit users were "pinched" for supplies.

In some sections of Michigan, however, the situation is beginning to become alarming. Reports from the Thumb district are to the effect that several towns have limited supplies of soft coal which will be exhausted within two weeks.

CHICAGO HAS BIG RESERVES.

Railroads Cut Restrictions on Coal Delivery—60 Trains Are Canceled.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Reports that the coal reserve in Chicago and the district under the control of the Northwest Regional Coal Committee would outlast a strike of less than two months' duration were regarded as confirmed today in coal circles by the lifting of some restrictions.

The order, which was issued by T. W. Proctor, Chairman of the Regional Committee, removes all restrictions on delivery of coal to railroads and steam vessels, all Federal users, including manufacturers and producers of supplies for the Federal Government, when approved by the Railway Administration; State, county, and municipal departments and institutions; public utilities, including concerns engaged in furnishing transportation, light, heat, and water for public use, and manufacturers of newsprint paper for daily issue, as well as printers and publishers of daily newspapers.

One of the outstanding features of the day was the suspension by railroads of sixty-six trains. Of these, fifty-two were suspended by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the others by the Northwestern Road.

No other lines so far have curtailed their service, but they are expected to act within the next twenty-four hours.

KANSAS FACES FUEL FAMINE.

Half the Cities in the State Expect to be in Darkness Within 48 Hours.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 6. — Appeals from country and city authorities all over the State began to pour into the office of Governor Henry Allen today, but the executive office has received neither promises nor instructions from the Federal Fuel Administration and is, therefore, unable to help or advise the municipalities.

The State is attempting to protect its institutions by increasing the forces in the prison mine at Leavenworth, where 158 prisoners are producting seven and a half tons each per day. The Governor has received a promise from the Regional Director at Chicago that prison coal will not be confiscated, but city and country institutions are not exempt, and all coal in transit to their order has been confiscated.

Waterworks and light plants all over the State were caught without reserve supplies, and probably half the cities in the State will be in darkness and without fire protection within forty-eight hours.

Taft to Speak on Peace.

Ex-President Taft will delive, an address on "Steps Toward Lasting Peace" at the opening meeting for this season of the League for Political Education at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in Carnegie Hall. There will be an opportunity for questions at the close.

neither wrongful nor unlawful for the miners to cease and quit work or to strike either collectively or singly, nor unlawful for others who are similarly situated to confer and consult and advise with one another in respect to improving the common welfare of each, and having on such consultation determined to quit work it is not unlawful for them to do that which is permitted by law for the accomplishment of their purposes to better their conditions. This paragraph again asserts that the officials are the agents of the miners and may lawfully do as agents what their principals, the miners, may do themselves.

The fourth paragraph attacks the restraining order on the grounds that the jurisdiction of the Federal Court has been prescribed by Congress, and quotes the act of Oct. 15, 1914, limiting the power of injunction wherein labor disputes are involved.

Paragraph 5 of the motion asserts that the powers conferred on the Government by the act of Aug. 10, 1917, entitled "An act to provide further for the national security and defense, &c.," was "war power" and that "the court knows judicially that the particular organization has long been dissolved on the order and proclamation of the President, which was created to execute and administer the said law, and that said law was by its nature and in the form and manner of its provisions an act which was meant to be executed and administered wholly and solely in wartime, and that the exigencies which authorized the enactment of the said law were to cease progressively and not abruptly and that the said exigencies have so ceased progressively."

Contends War Exigencies Are Over.

The paragraph states that while the exigencies of war existed the miners performed every obligation to the Government and that the discharge of more than 50,000 of their members from the military service was notice to them of the close of the war and the removal of war's exigencies.

The paragraph further states that the Government in its efforts to bring about an agreement between the operators and the miners was insistent that the officers of the miners, now defendants in this suit, act and continue to function as the representatives of the miners and that then the executive department of the United States wrongfully attempted to re-establish, without the advice and consent of Congress, the Fuel Administratorship, as against the miners and their officers. The motion asserts that the defendants will show that the Fuel Administratorship is dormant and in repose, and that the United States is without duty or power in the premises, and without right to effect any authority over the miners.

The motion here declares that "the United States is without equity on its part, and without clean hands in the prosecution of this suit," and that "the real and substantial purpose of this suit is to have and procure this court to extricate the Administration from the unfortunate state of disorder in which it has involved itself by said imprudent conduct, and to destroy said mine workers' union, and to destroy the right of working men to strike; and these defendants say that said mine workers now are and ever have been ready, willing and able to confer with the operators of said mines, for the satisfactory adjustment of the issue between them as to hours of service and rates of compensation, for the labor of mine workers."

Deny Acts Are Transgressions.

The sixth paragraph of the motion asserts that the acts of the defendants are not transgressions against the United States and are within the rights of the defendants under the constitutions of the several States and within the police powers of the several States, and therefore are to the entire exclusion of the United States.

The seventh paragraph alleges that the strike benefit fund which the miners' officials were restrained from distributing is the property of the mine workers held by the officers as trustees, and that the restraining order seeks to take this property away from the mine workers without recompense or due process of law.

The motion asks "that said restraining order be dissolved and that they be awarded such further relief in the premises as to this honorable court may appear to be just."

Judge Anderson, Assistant Attorney General, who will arrive in Indianapolis tomorrow, will urge Saturday in Federal Court that the Court issue an order commanding officials of the United Mine Workers to withdraw the strike order.

This would put the issue squarely up to Acting President Lewis of the miners and the other officials who are under the restraining order.

DENIES LEWIS CAN END STRIKE.

Farrington Asserts Miners' Chief Lacks Authority to Do So.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 6.—That the reported plan of the Federal authorities to end the coal strike through securing a mandatory order against Acting President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers would fail of its purpose was predicted today by Frank Farrington of this city, President of the State miners' organization.

"Lewis has no authority to call off the strike," Farrington said. "He did not call the strike and cannot call it off. The strike was called by the 2,200 or more delegates who attended the Cleveland convention, and Lewis is simply the instrument through which the action of the convention was transmitted to the membership of the United Mine Workers."

REDS TRY TO WIN TROOPS.

Attempt to Sow Disaffection at Gary—Ivanhoff On Secret Visit.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Gary Reds are carrying on a propaganda of Bolshevism among the Federal soldiers now on strike duty there, and a number of arrests are likely to follow the discovery of the plot.

Several soldiers have reported that they have been approached and told that they would be fighting with the Bolsheviki if they knew what Bolshevism really was. The soldiers to whom the message was imparted were also told that they were but the tools of the "dominating classes."

Colonel Mapes, commanding the regular troops here, today issued orders for the immediate arrest of any and all persons engaged in such propaganda.

Alexander Ivanhoff, who is said to have made in this city the bomb which partly wrecked the Chicago Post Office, and is also accused of being implicated in sending the so-alled Gimbel bombs, slipped into Chicago a day or two ago and then slipped out again without the knowledge of the military intelligence officers. While in Gary Ivanhoff told his attorney that he wanted to go back to Russia, but could not get passports. He said he was afraid that if he remained in this country he would be imprisoned for a long time.

"There is no longer any law in Gary," Ivanhoff is reported to have said, "and I want to leave the country. Some of us want to go back home, but they won't let us go, while some of us don't want to go and they are trying to make us go."

NO TALK OF STRIKE.

Brooklyn Trolleymen Expect Early Working Agreement.

A working agreement which it is believed will be accepted by both sides next week was discussed last night at a meeting of Local 918 of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes at the Brooklyn Labor Lyceum. The union represents 5,000 motormen and conductors on the Brooklyn surface lines.

After the meeting, which was executive, Leader P. S. Shea was asked if there was any truth in the report that the Brooklyn City Railroad Company had refused to recognize the union. He said there was not and that the company had recognized the Amalgamated.

Shea also said there was no strike talk at the meeting.

MINISTER-PICKET JAILED.

Textile Organizer Also Fined for Contempt by Utica Judge.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Paul B. Blanchard, formerly a Congregational minister in Boston and Tampa, Fla., was ordered to pay a fine of $100 and spend thirty days in jail by Justice Crouch in Supreme Court today.

The Judge held that Blanchard, who is an organizer of the Amalgamated Textile Workers was guilty of contempt of court for violation of an injunction order restraining local strikes from picketing one of the mills.

NEWFOUNDLAND OVERTURN.

Opposition, Dominated by Fishermen, Defeats Government.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 6.—Richard A. Squires, the Opposition leader, was successful at the polls in the general election now in progress in Newfoundland. Sir Michael Cashin, Prime Minister, was previously announced elected, but returns today showed heavy losses for the Government. St. John's West elected today in addition to the Opposition leader, Henry Brownrigg of that party and Colonial Secretary Bennett. Burin elected Foote and Cheesman, both Opposition candidates and St. George MacDonnell. The Opposition is dominated by the Fishermen's Protective Union, which represents the labor element.

STATUS OF ARMY CONTRACTS

Suspensions Are Valued at $3,883,802,000—80.9 Per Cent. Liquidated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—During the past week the estimated value of suspended army contracts has been increased about $45,000,000. Corrected reports show that the value of 27,652 contracts so far suspended is estimated at $3,883,802,000. The present status of contract liquidation is as follows:

Total contracts suspended—27,652, valued at $3,883,802,000.

Total contracts liquidated—22,378, valued at $2,118,158,000.

Per cent. of liquidated of total suspended—80.9 per cent. of number of suspended contracts; 54.6 per cent. of their value.

Saving effected on contracts liquidated —$1,864,742,000.

There are 5,274 contracts remaining to be liquidated. The value of 2,349 of these is known and amounts to $1,765,645,000. It is estimated the cost of liquidating these contracts will be about $234,696,000.

Melendez's Body Reaches Salvador.

SAN SALVADOR, Nov. 5.—The American cruiser Cleveland, bearing the body of the late President of Salvador, Carlos Melendez, who died in New York on Oct. 8, has arrived at Puerto Acajutla, 40 miles from San Salvador. Funeral services for the dead President will be held tomorrow. The commander and officers of the Cleveland have been invited by the Government to attend as guests of honor.

KOLCHAK READY TO ABANDON OMSK

Siberian Capital May Be Moved if Red Drive Continues Unchecked.

HIS ARMY LOSES ISHIM

Situation Regarded as Grave by Allied Commanders and U. S. Consul General.

CZECHS DEFER DEPARTURE

American Railway Men Also Remain at Posts of Duty—Hospitals Being Evacuated.

OMSK, Oct. 31, (Associated Press.)—Owing to the menacing advance of the Bolshevist forces Admiral Kolchak has ordered a preliminary evacuation of Omsk by the American hospital and such Government departments as are not directly necessary here.

It is possible that the seat of government may be moved to the eastward.

Express railway service has been temporarily suspended, and railway cars are being concentrated at Omsk as a precautionary measure.

Colonel Emerson has rescinded the order to the American Railway Corps to retire from Siberia, and the men are remaining at their posts for duty.

Major Gen. Janin, commanding the Czechoslovak forces, whose withdrawal had been ordered, has given assurances that the Czechs will continue to guard the troublesome sections of the Trans-Siberian Railway and keep communications open for the present.

American Consul General Harris, General Knox, the British commander, and General Janin regard the situation as grave, though not yet critical. They propose to retire from Omsk only if the Government decides to leave Omsk, as it is forecast will occur if its security at Omsk is too greatly menaced.

The American hospital and the Government offices which are now leaving Omsk will be established at Irkutsk. Barges and trains have been placed at the disposal of the Red Cross, and the evacuation of the 800 patients at the hospital is in progress. (Irkutsk lies near the southern end of Lake Baikal, over 1,000 miles east of Omsk.)

The latest bulletins issued here show that the Red forces have approached within forty miles of the town of Ishim, and that their front extends from Ishim diagonally to Peropaviovsk through Kamenova. There is noticeable tension among the population.

It is expected that the Siberian forces will make a stand before Omsk, instead of along the Ishim River.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—A Russian Bolshevist communication received here reports the capture of Ishim, (75 miles north of Petropaviovsk,) with 1,200 prisoners.

The communique also claims the capture of 1,000 prisoners at Ust Buzuluk.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The withdrawal of Admiral Kolchak from Omsk does not portend a general retreat of the All-Russian forces such as was seen last Summer, official advices received in Washington declare. Military observers in reporting the movement characterize it as purely local in character, although the front affected might seem at first glance to have been extensive.

War Department records show there are no American military forces at Omsk or in the vicinity of that city. The American Railway Mission, headed by Colonel Emerson and including several other engineer officers, was based at Omsk, but, until press dispatches of today were received, was understood to have already started for Vladivostok.

Major Homer H. Slaughter is with Admiral Kolchak as the official representative of Major Gen. William S. Graves, commanding the American Siberian expedition, but undoubtedly would accompany Kolchak's headquarters to Irkutsk. Other than these, it was said, a few Red Cross workers comprise the only American representation.

Attributing the withdrawal directly to the recent evacuation of the Czech troops from the Siberian front, military experts in Washington who have been instructed to watch the situation closely expressed the belief today that the backward movement would stop, as soon as Kolchak had rectified his line to conform with the terrain over which he is operating and to cover the dangerous "break" left when the Czechs were removed.

The immediate danger to Kolchak, officials here believe, does not lie in the military situation, but rather in the fact that he is forced to deal with subordinates who cannot or will not lend him their whole-hearted support, and in the possibility that assistance from the outside hitherto given the Yudenitch army operating against Petrograd may at any moment be depleted or withdrawn entirely.

WARD TELLS COMMONS OF BOLSHEVIST RULE

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The House of Commons devoted the entire evening tonight to a discussion of the Russian problem, without, however, throwing any new light on the subject.

Labor members strongly criticised the Government's intervention policy and cost the latter.

Winston Churchill, Minister of War, made a long reply, defending the Government policy, which, he contended, was not solely a British policy, but one carried out in full co-operation with the Allies, including the United States, who is equally responsible.

Colonel John Ward, the Laborite member of Parliament known as the "navvys' member" on account of his participation in the unionization of these laborers upon railway and canal work, who was ordered to Russia in January, 1918, joined in the debate. He received a rousing reception. Members crowded into the House to listen to the absorbing tale of his experiences in European Russia and in Siberia and to his reflections on the revolution.

"When revolution starts," he said, "you go back to the jungle, whether you like it or not." There had been massacre and murder on both sides, and "you would have exactly the same thing here if a revolution occurred."

Colonel Ward drew a terrible picture of life in Moscow during the revolution. Every day bodies were tumbled into the streets without inquests and without punishments. Colonel Ward defended Admiral Kolchak, commander of the Siberian armies. He said that in some districts controlled by the Soviet conditions were good, but in others, "ruled by some narrow-minded scoundrel," there were occurrences which beggared description.

He gave horrifying accounts of Bolshevist atrocities, during which, he said, the wells had been choked with dead, and said that labor papers in England which called criticism of this régime "an attack on social democracy" did not want to study the facts.

Colonel Ward concluded with the statement that Great Britain had helped Russia through the most difficult time and that it would be fatal to withdraw just when the atmosphere appeared to be clearing, in response to ignorant and uninformed public clamor.

RECRUIT 80,000 IN PETROGRAD.

Red Troops Include Bashkars from Indian Frontier and Chinese.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 6.—The Bolsheviki are reported to have recruited a force of 80,000 men from Petrograd alone in organizing the defense of that city, according to a Reval dispatch to the National Tidende.

The troops include Bashkars (from the Indian frontier) and Chinese, the latter being men who had received training in China under retired officers from European armies.

SEIZE VON DER GOLTZ'S SON.

Bureaus Aiding Recruiting for Baltic Rebels Suppressed.

BERLIN, Nov. 3.—The measures taken by the German Government to stop recruiting for reinforcement of the insurgent German troops in the Baltic region have resulted in two important bureaus being put out of business in Berlin, according to Vorwärts today.

The newspaper says that among the men arrested in connection with the suppression was the son of General von der Goltz, the former German commander in the Baltic.

In his possession, says Vorwärts, was found a secret document containing the names of certain officials of the German Foreign Office, who were secretly taking part in the Baltic intrigues.

half a dozen of the ninety-six were in the Chamber. The Secretary of the Senate was about to call the roll, when Senator Jones stepped in, putting an end to the proposal with an abrupt:

"I object."

Senator Jones's Explanation.

Later Senator Jones, explaining why he had interposed his objection, said that he wanted to give an opportunity to Senators who voted against amendments to vote for the points involved in the reservations projected by the committee. It would be unfair to those Senators, he said, not to have the chance of voting for the changes they desired made in the treaty through the reservation route.

Senator Underwood started the debate that ran up to the proposal of Senator Hitchcock for unanimous consent to final vote, when he raised a point of order against the Senate, taking up the committee reservations in advance of the resolution of ratification being laid before it. While the reservations are framed as a part of the ratifying resolution, it has been the program of the majority not to offer the resolution itself until the reservations are voted on.

Mr. Underwood contended that the Senate could not properly consider the reservations unless the resolution of ratification were first put before it. The reservations, he argued, then could be considered as amendments to the resolution of ratification.

Back of Senator Underwood's move was an effort on the part of the minority to provide an assured opportunity to put in their own reservations, of an interpretative nature, as a substitute for the majority reservations before the resolution of ratification was voted on. While this would be only a tactical advantage, it would give the minority two chances to effect a compromise, both before and after the vote on the majority reservations.

Vice President Marshall, who was in the Chair, ruled against Senator Underwood's point of order, this permitting the majority reservations to remain in Committee of the Whole—where the treaty has been since it was reported out from the Foreign Relations Committee—and to allow them to be voted on apart from the resolution of ratification. The Vice President emphatically stated that he intended to make the broadest rulings possible on points of parliamentary procedure so as to give the majority and minority full opportunity to express their attitude on their respective reservation program.

"Reservations, interpretations and exceptions have gone into many treaties," said the Vice President. "The Chair may be pardoned for saying one thing which is perhaps not needful in the determination of this question. This is the most important treaty that ever was presented to the Senate of the United States. It involves far reaching consequences to the people of this country and to the people of the world. It took six months to make it; and it has taken four months of exhaustive discussion in the Senate up to the present hour to consider it.

"Recognizing the right of the Senate and realizing that it will discharge that duty whether it is agreeable to the Chair or not, the present occupant of the chair is unwilling to make any sort of technical ruling that will prevent the Senate of the United States from ratifying this treaty either without reservations or with any sort of reservations that a majority chooses to put into the resolution of ratification.

"The Chair is unwilling to construe these rules in so strict and narrow a way that the treaty may be pigeonholed or hung up by such narrow construction. The Chair is going to hold that a majority of the Senate can present whatever it pleases to the Senate in the form of reservations or interpretations and the Chair thinks that these reservations, as they are called, ought to be considered as in Committee of the Whole in justice to certain Senators who have been voting against amendments with statements that they voted against the amendments because they thought they could preserve their views by way of reservations and interpretations.

"That Chair is unwilling to rule that they shall be put in the position of waiting until the resolution of ratification is presented and then find themselves confronted with the necessity of voting for a resolution of ratification which contains reservations that do not meet their views upon this question."

The Vice President ruled that if Mr. Marshall's subsequent rulings prevail, the minority will gain the point raised by Senator Underwood, that the latter may attempt to substitute the minority reservations before a vote on ratification is reached, as well as after the vote. The majority, however, gave unmistakable evidence that it would attempt to muster the votes to overrule any decision of the Chair that would throw any slight advantage to the minority.

Senator Lodge pointed out tonight that it takes only a majority vote to overrule the Chair and that the majority will avail itself of that course if developments make it advisable.

In the course of the debate Senator Lodge remarked that under the program of the minority the treaty would remain suspended in the Senate indefinitely, awaiting some character of compromise.

"If you reject the resolution of ratification," he added, "you may look for long delay, and it will be the delay of death."

That is what the Senator from Massachusetts wants," retorted Senator Swanson of Virginia.

That is what will happen," replied Senator Lodge. He insisted that the minority would find itself fooled if it expected to keep the treaty before the Senate indefinitely, in the hope of "some day getting a vote that would suit the minority's own taste."

After the move for unanimous consent for immediate vote on the treaty had failed, the Senate took up the committee reservations, Senator Lodge announcing that they would be considered separately. The first one, which embraced what was originally known as the preamble, was at once moved. It read as follows:

"The reservations and understandings adopted by the Senate to be made a part and condition of the resolution of ratification, which ratification is not to take effect or bind the United States until the said reservations and understandings have been accepted by an exchange of notes as a part and a condition of said instrument of ratification by at least three of the four principal allied and associated powers, to wit: Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan."

Vote on the pending reservations is expected to be had tomorrow, with the remaining ones occupying the Senate's time for at least a week before they are finally disposed of.

The Administration Senators, tonight, had a prolonged conference at the Capitol in an effort to decide upon a program of procedure. Senator Hitchcock explained that the conference was decided upon in view of the apparent certainty that the majority intended to "jam their reservations through."

The Democrats, he admitted, might be forced to compromise, but they did not want to take that step until the last hope had disappeared for getting their reservations through in the Senate.

The conference, in which nearly forty Senators participated, acted to direct every effort to obtain a speedy vote on ratification of the treaty. Senator Hitchcock, as Chairman of the conference, was authorized to take steps to invoke the cloture rule to limit debate if any filibuster became apparent among the majority.

The conference, Senator Hitchcock said, discussed methods of trying out various forms of reservations "so that every plan that many think about ratification in some satisfactory form may be tested."

HONOR LOUIS TRACY.

English Novelist Praises Anglo-American Unity.

The Association of Foreign Press Correspondents in the United States gave a dinner for Louis Tracy, the British novelist, at the City Club last evening. The banquet was held in recognition of Mr. Tracy's recently terminated services as head of the British Bureau of Information, an organization formed in this city during the war to give publicity to British affairs.

Melville E. Stone, General Manager of The Associated Press, presided, and in introducing the first speaker advocated a "journalistic league of nations," through which the press might do its part to improve post-war conditions in the world and to prevent future wars.

Mr. Tracy in his remarks emphasized the importance of Anglo-American friendship. "The democracy of the world," he said, "is safe in the hands of the English-speaking peoples. The rest of my life, save the hours I must devote to the earning of a living, will be devoted to cementing, through every means in my power, the union of England and America brought about by the war."

Among the guests were A. G. Gardiner, recently editor in chief of The London Daily News; W. F. Bailey, New York correspondent of The London Times and Daily Mail; C. Buszczynski, Polish Consul in New York City; Colonel John A. Cooper of the Canadian Bureau of Information; W. W. Davies, representing the Australian Bureau of Information, and Dr. T. Iyengar, head of the East and West News Bureau.

PROF. WEICK A SUICIDE.

Body in Well Identified as Member of Columbia Faculty.

STAMFORD, Conn., Nov. 6.—The body found in a well here last night was identified today as that of Charles William Weick of 507 West 124th Street, New York City, a professor at Columbia University. Professor Weick had been in a sanitarium for treatment for a condition brought on by overwork. He eluded the attendants on Tuesday morning. Weick stayed at the home of F. M. Wheeler Tuesday and yesterday. He left a note of thanks for courtesies shown to him and the words: "In the well."

Professor Charles William Weick had been with Columbia University for about twenty years. He was assistant professor of Mechanical Drawing in the Department of Practical Science. About a year ago his health broke down and he became subject to periods of extreme nervousness. He was sent to a sanitarium at Stamford for a complete rest. He is survived by a widow and a daughter.

Professor Weick was 55 years old and a graduate of the Ohio State University.

Loew Adds 20 Theatres to Circuit.

Marcus Loew, continuing the extension of his theatrical interests, yesterday added twenty houses to his circuit. The string of houses have hitherto been the property of Ackerman and Harris, and are located in the West. Twelve are now in operation, and others building. The deal is said to have involved several million dollars.

SAY HUSBAND KILLED TWO.

Wife and Baby Are Found Incinerated in Indiana Home.

Special to The New York Times.

BEDFORD, Ind., Nov. 6.—Charged with killing his seventeen-year-old wife with a hatchet, then firing their home and burning their six-weeks-old baby to death to hide the woman's murder, John Bailey Blair, 25 years old, is being sought by the Sheriff tonight. The finding of the woman's charred and cloven skull led to the charge of murder.

At 1 o'clock this morning Russ Byers, watchman at a nearby quarry and stone mill six miles north of here, saw the Blair home was on fire. The bodies of the wife and infant later were found in the charred ruins. A five-gallon oil can was near the bodies. Blair had disappeared.

Frank Staggs, father of Mrs. Blair, said there had been trouble between Blair and his wife. Blair came here a year ago from Mumfordsville, Ky.

JURORS MAY SEEK GAMBLING REPORT

activities, and which he said some time ago contained the names, records and activities of certain police officials and their connection with the "vice trust" and the "gambling ring."

Before entering the Grand Jury room Smith intimated that he was prepared to "go the limit" in submitting information in his possession. He repeated his previous assertions to the effect that he had been hampered by the police in his efforts, during 1918, to entirely suppress vice and gambling.

It was after Smith had complained that he was not getting proper police support that he began his raids personally. Yesterday, before he went into the jury room, Smith said the "grand trail" might extend beyond the city and might become a matter of importance in at least two States. He declared that his information would show that "politicians, gamblers, and even lawyers had fingers in the pie."

In this connection the assistant prosecutor asserted that he could tell a story of a meeting in Atlantic City attended by two men in the service of New York City, and a third man, formerly an employe of the city, at which there was discussion, if not an agreement, among them regarding profits from "wide-open" vice, gambling and graft.

It is expected that Mr. Smith's disclosures will result in the calling of a number of policemen here and from other cities. No indication was given of the identity of these expected witnesses. It became known, however, that Smith would be permitted by the Grand Jury to follow his testimony by calling such witnesses as he might need, presumably to support his statements by testimony, and that these witnesses would be examined by Smith.

Because of the generally reported wide scope of the inquiry and the recent controversy between the District Attorney and the jury, Judge Swann was asked if his office was included in the inquiry. He smiled and replied that he would be glad to see an investigation because such an inquiry would show how much work his office had to do. The prosecutor said that if the Grand Jury should make an investigation of his office he would give all the help he could.

Sale of 1000
IMPORTED SILK SHIRTS
at the remarkably low price of $7.95

The handsome Broadcloth Silks from which these shirts are made were woven in Japan. We secured them from a leading importer who wanted to turn his silks into cash, otherwise we could not sell shirts of such a superlative character for less than twelve dollars. They are better than other silk shirts because they are of firmer weave, and should give as good service as might be expected from strongest woven madras.

The patterns are in Smart Cluster Stripings, Solid, Double and Triple Striped Effects in rich Greens, Pink, Blue and Helio on light grounds. If you were thinking of silk shirts, such an offering should stir you to immediate action!

RUMANIA BLOCKS PEACE SETTLEMENT

Paris Conference Awaits Reply to the Summary Note Sent to Bucharest.

TWO VIEWS OF HER CONDUCT

British and Americans Condemn It, While France and Italy Are Inclined to be Lenient.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The Allies are divided over Rumania. England and America favor holding her to the terms of the Peace Conference and making her cease her disregard of them. France and Italy favor dealing softly with the new Ministries of the Balkans. Japan, of course, sits on the fence.

There has long been a suspicion that Rumania, in defying the Supreme Council in remaining in Hungary and later in annexing Bessarabia, was not acting without encouragement. It is charged that certain factions in the French Government are working behind the Premier's back. Italy's fellow-feeling for Rumania is nothing new. Italy wants the good will of Rumania, of which she would stand in need in the event of a clash between the Italians and Jugo-slavs.

France has always held a kindly regard for Rumania. Racial and political reasons are factors. The French Foreign Office is particularly inclined in this direction.

The attitude of the French toward Rumania is well reflected in the hostile reaction by the French press to the Supreme Council's note of yesterday to Bucharest asking an answer at once to its note of Oct. 12, which demands an accounting for the apparent arbitrary actions of Rumania. French editors resent the sending of what they call an ultimatum to an ally. Le Journal today goes so far as to begin the discussion of the Rumania situation with this sentence:

"Rumania is paying dearly for her crime of having refused to comply with the wishes of the American Oil Trust."

It finds fault with the fact that Pichon signed yesterday's note, and laments the fact that such a rôle has been attributed to representatives of France. A number of newspapers take the stand that Rumania merits better than threats from her allies. The Intransigeant asks what the Peace Conference has come to that it sends invitations to Germany and ultimatums to Rumania.

As a matter of hard, cold fact, the French and Italy are not sorry to see Rumania appropriate Bessarabia. They have no real honest objections to Rumania's King making a treaty with Hungary and getting additional territory as the price of withdrawal.

As for the English and American delegations, they take the stand, without going into the merits of Rumania's wishes at this time, that whatever action is taken by the unanimous consent of the Supreme Council should have the support of all the Governments whose representatives composed the Supreme Council. The Supreme Council has decided that the Rumanians must get out of Hungary and otherwise abide by the decisions of the Peace Conference, and that is the basis England and America want France and Italy to stand on.

It is interesting to observe that the imperialistic actions of Rumania find support even of the French Socialist organs, who veil their approval behind the argument that while the Peace Conference is haggling over boundaries the world is going to pot. "Nero fiddled while Rome burned" about sums up their arguments.

Unquestionably Rumania is a bar to the completion of the work of the Peace Conference. The Peace Conference cannot get rid of the Hungarian treaty until Hungary sends representatives, and the Hungarians cannot do that while the Rumanians occupy their country.

Because this is true the chief attention of the Supreme Council is turned toward Bucharest, awaiting the reply of the Rumanian Government to yesterday's summary note.

COAL SHORTAGE SHUTS PARIS CAFES AT 12

Airplanes for Mail and Camelboats for Passengers During German Rail Embargo.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—To reduce the consumption of coal the Prefect of the Seine has ordered cafés to close at midnight, instead of at 1 o'clock.

A delegation from the General Federation of Labor, which asked the Ministry of Reconstruction what measures were being taken to avoid closing factories because of the lack of coal, was told the coal shortage in the Paris district would be ameliorated after Nov. 15.

For speeding up coal production, Louis Dausset, Municipal Counselor of Paris, has recommended that the miners' union be asked to consent to two extra hours of work daily, with bonuses.

BERLIN, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—"Lights out" was the order at all the Berlin railway passenger stations at midnight. They will remain dark for the next eleven days, while the employes devote daylight to house cleaning.

The suspension of passenger traffic ordered by the Government to permit the movement of coal and potatoes caused the stations all day Tuesday to be crowded with incongruous throngs of would-be passengers. Mobs of travelers, provided with blankets, vacuum flasks and assorted luggage, surged through every passageway and waiting room, attempting to get places on the last outgoing trains. All incoming trains were equally jammed.

The Government is equipping an emergency air fleet for the transmission of the mails during the railroad embargo. Camelboats, equipped for passengers, will accommodate traffic between Berlin and Stettin and Magdeburg.

Liberty Bonds and Victory Notes Are to be Exchanged for Polish Paper.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Americans of Polish origin will be asked to assist in floating the $250,000,000 loan negotiated with Poland by American interests by exchanging their Liberty bonds and Victory Notes for the Polish bonds, which will pay 6 per cent. interest and run for twenty years.

Advices received here say a private corporation has agreed to make the exchange at face value of the Polish securities.

According to these advices, the American bonds would be held in New York to the credit of the Polish Government as a basis of credit for cotton and other materials needed to revive Poland's industries.

Poorly Paid Doctor Quits Ex-Emperor.

AMERONGEN, Holland, Oct. 20, (Associated Press.)—The suite of the former German Emperor at Amerongen has been reduced by five persons, his private physician, Dr. Foerstner, and his family having gone to Berlin. Village gossip has it that Dr. Foerstner was unable to support his family on the meagre salary paid in German marks by the former Emperor. A military surgeon, Dr. Jonnes, has arrived from Berlin to serve temporarily at Bentinck Castle.

SHOWS FRANCE IS STRONG FINANCIALLY

Minister Klotz Gives Figures to Support an Optimistic View of the Future.

CAN ASK OUTSIDE CREDIT

Improvement in the High Cost of Living and Value of the Franc Other Encouraging Factors.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Optimism over the financial future of France was expressed by Louis Klotz, the Minister of Finance, at a luncheon given today by the economic and financial press. The rehabilitation of the country, he said, depended upon confidence, which was the watchword in peace as well as in war, and upon the willingness of the people to bear for a few years sacrifices which would be small compared to those made by the soldiers who had fought for the nation.

"Our Allies," the Finance Minister declared, in his address, "no longer have reason to delay financial aid to us. We do not present ourselves as beseeching aid, however, asking only equitable solutions. We ask the cooperation of peace after the decisive cooperation of war."

M. Klotz proposed a toast to Albert Rathbone, Assistant Secretary of the American Treasury, in charge of the Foreign Loan Bureau, who is now in France. The Minister said he was convinced that France would be bound to America by a further tie, through the co-operation of Mr. Rathbone.

The foreign debt of France, M. Klotz pointed out, was only 30,000,000,000 francs, of which she owed 27,000,000,000 francs to Great Britain and the United States, against which were greater resources. He predicted that the coming elections would have a favorable effect upon the finances by emphasizing the determination of people to resume the works of peace effectively.

M. Klotz declared that France's losses were greater than the burdens of the other allies, and spoke of the necessity for France to face her problems alone, as the great financial markets were closed to her—those of Great Britain through its own readjustment processes and those of the United States, "which are uncertain because of the delay in America of ratifying the Peace Treaty and the hesitation of the country before the world rôle achieved through its new fortune."

If exchange has broken down under the abnormal conditions, said M. Klotz, "it is absurd to find in that an index of our true situation or even to see anything in it except a purely passing phenomenon.

"In the long run," M. Klotz continued, "countries, like individuals, get the credit they merit. It remains for France to prove she does not cease to deserve the world's confidence."

The established financial position of the country, said Minister Klotz, allowed him to solicit the assistance of international trade for the liquidation of the war debt and the expenses of rebuilding the devastated regions. On this latter category France had already expended over 10,000,000,000 francs. Against the foreign debt of 30,000,000,000 francs France could place as a credit its own home wealth, plus 12,000,000,000 francs loaned during the war and 40,000,000,000 francs worth of foreign investments before 1914. Germany, too, had so far made no payment on account of reparations.

The extremely high cost of living in France, the Minister said was already commencing to show improvement, and the franc, whose value had been so depreciated, was now gradually recovering, so that the present balance sheet of France must be considered not as one of an embarrassed undertaking, but on the contrary of a well organized establishment, over which a cyclone had passed, necessitating a rapid and bold demesne reconstruction.

France's war expenditures, according to revised figures announced by the Budget Committee, amount to 175,000,000,000 francs, exclusive of pensions and losses in the devastated regions. Pensions, it is estimated will reach 4,500,000,000 francs the first year.

Seats $10 for "Aphrodite" Opening.

A record for theatre ticket prices will be set at the opening of "Aphrodite" at the Century Theatre, when seats on the lower floor will be sold at $10 each. Boxes seating six will be sold for $20, and proscenium boxes, seating 15, for $150. Although seats for special performances have frequently been sold at auction for higher prices, this will mark the first time that a $10 scale has prevailed at the box office. The prices will be only for the opening on Nov. 24.

SAYS PROHIBITION MAY BE DELAYED A YEAR

Attorney Holds Referendums Reduce Operative Ratifications to Thirty-four.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—The apparent overturning of Ohio's ratification of the national prohibition amendment may have the result of suspending national prohibition at least until November, 1921, according to a statement today by Theodore A. Bell, attorney for the California Grape Protective Association, provided there are no opinions adverse to the liquor interests from the United States Supreme Court or the Supreme Courts of States where referendums are pending.

"Maine will vote on the ratification of the amendment in September, 1920," said Mr. Bell. "The nine remaining States where referendums are pending will vote in November, 1920. Barring court action the ratification, if carried, will go into effect a year after these last ratifications in accordance with the terms of the amendment.

"Forty-five States have ratified the amendment. It needed thirty-six ratifications to make it effective. With referendums in eleven states, however, the number of operative ratifications is reduced to thirty-four, making the amendment inoperative until those referendums are decided."

KEEPS GRIP ON DANZIG.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The German Government, according to information received from the semi-official Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, does not consider itself bound to surrender its authority over the territory of the free city of Danzig until the United States shall have ratified the Treaty of Peace.

The Government, in a communication to this effect addressed to the Danzig municipality, takes the standpoint that the Treaty of Peace provides for the surrender of the territory of the future free city of Danzig to the principal Allied and Associated Powers. Such transfer, it holds, becomes operative, not when the general treaty comes into effect through the exchange of ratifications between Germany and three of the principal Allied and Associated Powers, but only after the United States as well as the other four principal powers have deposited their ratifications.

KURDS ATTACKING KEMAL.

Turks Wonder What America Will Do About Mandate.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Tues., Oct. 28.—Premier Lloyd George's recent remarks in the House of Commons on America's attitude towards the Turkish mandate has caused renewed interest here in the possible decisions of the Government of the United States. It is pointed out by observers that the war reparations to be demanded of Turkey depend in a measure on these decisions.

Much interest is also expressed in the American attitude toward the Nationalists, in view of the fact that the last Turkish Cabinet fell as the result of an ultimatum from Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Nationalist leader. The day after the Sultan received this message he dismissed the Cabinet.

The Nationalists' path is not always rosy, however, and it is asserted that new attempts at being made to break up Mustapha Kemal's headquarters at Sivas through attacks by the Kurds, who are being encouraged from independent Kurdistan.

BERNSTORFF URGED PROPAGANDA MOVIES

Couldn't Convince Berlin Authorities That Films Would Be Effective Here.

FOUND PRESS ANTI-GERMAN

Ex-Envoy Tells War Investigating Committee That Muensterberg Was Not Murdered.

BERLIN, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—Count von Bernstorff was on the stand for a protracted examination regarding the effectiveness of German propaganda in the United States at today's session of the sub-committee of the National Assembly investigating the subject of responsibility for the war.

Bernstorff was asked at the opening of the session what he had done to offset British propaganda. He explained the utter impossibility of convincing the German propaganda authorities that they must send cinematograph films to counteract the effect of the English efforts.

The American press, said Bernstorff, was strongly anti-German from the beginning of the war, and the papers published in the German language had only an ineffective appeal to the Americans. A laugh was raised when Deputy Wermuth, a former Mayor of Berlin, asked about the activities of the "English journalist" George Creel.

When pressed for a direct answer regarding the comparative merits of British and German propaganda, Bernstorff evaded a reply as to the intrinsic merits by saying that the British propaganda in the United States was superior to the German because "of the technical difficulties" of transmission.

The former Ambassador said that he avoided participation in the propaganda activities because of his official position and his desire not to be compromised. He said that former Colonial Minister Dernburg on his trip to the United States had written successful articles and delivered lectures until the American Government became convinced that Dernburg was stirring up German-Americans against the United States.

The sub-committee passed from the subject of the public press when a question by Deputy Sinzheimer, a member of the committee, came up regarding the opinion which an unnamed neutral diplomat had expressed regarding the peace offer of President Wilson. The diplomat, according to the report, first heard a rumor as to the contents of the offer, and on the basis of this rumor condemned it. Herr Zimmermann, the Foreign Minister, made capital out of this condemnation, but when the note actually appeared the neutral diplomat shifted his position and praised its contents. Zimmermann, however, suppressed the later development.

The name of Professor Hugo Münsterberg of Harvard was mentioned, and it was suggested that the professor, who died in the United States, had been killed in some mysterious way. (A rumor to that effect was current in anti-American circles in Berlin at the time of Dr. Münsterberg's death.) Count Bernstorff denied the story, saying that, although England had used every conceivable means to rid the United States of all prominent Germans, she would hardly have tried violence, and that Professor Münsterberg had died from an apoplectic stroke.

Members of the sub-committee voiced a suspicion that the note of President Wilson had been launched in understanding with England. Count Bernstorff denied this assumption categorically, saying that the note had been, on the contrary, unwelcome and unpleasant to England.

Deputy Sinzheimer broke in upon Bernstorff's examination to ask Herr Zimmermann, the former Foreign Secretary, whether he had spoken of President Wilson's note as "shameless and impudent." Zimmermann did not recall the incident.

Members of the sub-committee asked Bernstorff about the delay in his reception by the Emperor, who did not send for the Ambassador to make a report until several months after his return from the United States. Bernstorff said that his report was then so old and had been so completely made known to the Kaiser by Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg that he had asked Emperor William whether he wanted to hear it when he finally met him at Great Headquarters in May.

ZURICH, Nov. 5.—Lieut. Prince Rupprecht is now in Switzerland.

ATLANTIC TO FLY TONIGHT.

Biplane Taking 1,000 Pounds of Packages to Chicago.

The giant Handley-Page biplane Atlantic will probably get away from Mitchel Field, near Mineola, L. I., tonight on its nonstop flight to Chicago, the owners of the aircraft said last night. The plane, which is carrying 1,000 pounds of packages on its demonstration flight, was to have "hopped off" early yesterday morning, but was held up by a technical violation of the customs regulations. Customs officials libeled the machine late Wednesday night on an irregularity resulting from the trip from Canada into the United States.

Collector of the Port Byron R. Newton adjusted the difficulty at a conference yesterday afternoon with the owners and pilot, but too late to enable the plane to make a start before today. Mr. Newton regretted the necessity of taking action, but said he felt he had no other course.

Down at the heel

You cannot afford to have this said of you

A MAN is judged as often by his heels as by his linen. Yet men who are careful as to linen, often fail to realize the bad impression created by run-down, ragged heels.

Pounding on hard pavements all day rapidly wears down leather heels. It is also a needless cause of fatigue.

You cannot change the pavements, but you can change your heels. Replace your hard, fast-wearing heels with O'Sullivan's Heels of live, springy rubber.

To secure the great durability and resiliency of O'Sullivan's Heels, the highest grades of rubber are "compounded" with the best toughening agents known. The "compound" is then "cured" or baked under high pressure. It is this special process that has, since the making of the first rubber heel, established O'Sullivan's Heels as the standard of rubber heel quality.

O'Sullivan's Heels are guaranteed to wear twice as long as ordinary rubber heels; and will outlast three pairs of leather heels.

Go to your shoe repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.

O'Sullivan's Heels are furnished in black, white or tan; for men, women and children. Specify O'Sullivan's Heels, and be sure that you get O'Sullivan's—avoid the disappointment of substitutes.

DEMOCRAT LEADS BY 156 IN MARYLAND

Managers Say Final of Official Canvass Will Add to Ritchie's Small Plurality.

REPUBLICANS WON'T GIVE UP

Republican Figures Give Ritchie a Lead of Only 88 Votes—Prohibition Played a Part.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—With twenty-three wards in Baltimore unaccounted for officially, and a difference of thirteen votes in Wicomico County which are not included, Albert C. Ritchie, Democrat, is leading by 156 majority in the closest race for Governor ever held in Maryland. At Republican headquarters the revised figures received so far give Ritchie only 88 plurality. The Democratic managers say the official canvass will assure Ritchie at least 200 plurality.

Much will depend upon the official canvass of the vote of Baltimore city begun today, and upon the outcome of a protest lodged by the Wicomico County Republican Supervisor, who refused to sign the returns from one precinct, because, he alleged, the judges did not comply with the requirements in that they failed to have the votes recorded on the tally sheets.

The election of Alexander Armstrong for Attorney General on the Republican ticket is assured by the close margin of 138.

Major E. Brooke Lee, Democrat, for State Controller, is elected by a safe majority. Both houses of the General Assembly will be Democratic, assuring the election of a Democratic State Treasurer.

If Nice, the Republican candidate for Governor, is defeated in the final count, Allegany County will be blamed by the Republicans, for that county, which is in the mining section, had the Republican vote registered and failed to get it out for Nice in full strength.

Under the leadership of Colonel John Keating, a Democratic manager in Cumberland, an issue was made of cutting Nice so as to discredit Congressman Fred Zihlman because of his stand in the Maryland Legislature and in Congress in favor of prohibition. This may have defeated Nice for the Governorship, because it cut his vote at least 500.

TARDIEU APPOINTED BLOCKADE MINISTER

Albert Lebrun Ousted by Premier Clemenceau When Warning Is Ignored.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Premier Clemenceau this morning summoned to his offices Albert Lebrun, the Minister of Blockade and Invaded Regions, and demanded the Minister's resignation. This was subsequently given and the Premier appointed in his place André Tardieu, head of the General Commission for Franco-American War Matters.

M. Lebrun is running for election as a Deputy from Muerthe and Moselle on the same ticket with Deputy Louis Marin, who cast his vote against the Peace Treaty on the question of ratification by the Chamber of Deputies. M. Clemenceau told the Minister that he could not permit a member of the Clemenceau Cabinet to figure on the same slate with a Peace Treaty opponent.

The subject is said first to have been broached by the Premier to M. Lebrun when they were traveling on the same train the other day to Strasbourg, where M. Clemenceau delivered his campaign keynote speech. The Premier was reported then to have told the Blockade Minister that Marin must be taken off the ticket or that Lebrun must tender his resignation as a Cabinet Minister.

Mgr. Bonzano to Stay in America.

ROME, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—The report that Mgr. Bonzano, Papal Delegate in the United States, was about to leave Washington to take an important post here, was denied at the Vatican today. SAYS PART FRUIT DIET KEEPS OLD AGE AT BAY

Dr. Oldfield Asserts Normal Person, Rightly Fed, Should Live to 105.

LONDON, Oct. 17, (Associated Press.)—Dr. Josiah Oldfield, known internationally as a physician and a writer, has published a prescription for keeping old age at bay.

According to him, it is not a question of an operation, but a daily diet, which includes dandelion leaves, fowls' eggs, grapes, lettuce, cow's milk, watercress, honey, and salads, (uncooked.)

"Old age," he says, "is largely caused by deposit in the blood vessels and cells of the body of waste matter. So by adopting a part fruitarian diet a man, however old, may become young again, because every cell in the body will be replaced by new young cells."

Dr. Oldfield considers that a normal person, rightly fed, should live from 90 to 105 years of age.

NEW NOTE ON FIUME.

Tittoni to End Negotiations with United States, Says Rome Dispatch.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 6.—A dispatch to the Nacion from Rome reports that Foreign Minister Tittoni has decided to send to Washington a reply to the recent American note on the Adriatic question, refuting the contentions of the United States, and "placing a decisive end to the negotiations."

M. Tittoni, according to the correspondent, consulted representatives of the allied Governments in Paris Tuesday and Wednesday, who approved his arguments, and "engaged themselves at the proper time to follow the Italian note with notes of their own, declaring their conformity with the ideas of their Italian colleague."

The recent note from the United States to Minister Tittoni was couched in brusque language, the dispatch said.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—There has been no intention of treating the Italian Government with brusqueness in correspondence relating to the Adriatic question, it was said in authoritative quarters today. The exchanges with the Italian Government, it was said, had been characterized by courtesy at every stage, but it had been found necessary to maintain the American view firmly and reject various propositions that seemed to threaten the principles involved.

"I demand for myself absolute comfort in shoes which are at the same time smart looking, well fitting and long wearing, and I can't expect any other man to demand less."

Chas. O. Emerson

THE shoes in our store were made from leather and findings bought months ago before the recent tremendous advances. The actual retail price, based on the cost of labor and materials used, was stamped on the soles during the process of manufacture. That price cannot be raised.

That is why The Emerson Shoe HONEST ALL THROUGH in our store is selling now from $2.00 to $5.00 a pair less than the same shoe would cost if made from materials bought today.

But "price" is only one of the reasons why you should buy Emersons. We can show you a wider variety of up-to-the-minute styles than you can find anywhere else in town. A glance at the models shown in our store windows will convince you of that. Whether you prefer the narrow toe, flat English last, or the medium broad toe, we can show you a model that will be the final word in fashionable footwear.

You do not have to worry about the wearing qualities of an Emerson Shoe. The trade-mark stamped on the sole is a guarantee of quality that has been rigidly maintained for over 40 years.

Whether or not you are in the market for a pair of shoes at the moment, it will pay you to call at our store, examine our shoes and convince yourself that Emerson Shoes will give you more per dollar than you can get elsewhere.

BETTER All-Wool Clothes for One-Third LESS!

Kid Klothes

The most popular line of boys' clothing in town because they're styled just like our men's clothes—made of all-wool fabrics—priced at one-third less.

$8.95 to $25

We admit that it's hard to believe that Moe Levy & Son sell better all-wool Suits and Overcoats at a clear saving of one-third.

It's easy to believe when you consider these facts:

First. We are our own manufacturers, have no middlemen's profits to pay, and sell to you practically at wholesale.

Second. Our store is on Walker Street, where rents are low and our overhead expense is practically negligible.

Third. And most important, our volume of business is so large that we do business on a smaller margin of profit than any other store.

We can afford to sell for one-third less, because our selling costs are one-third less. These are facts Come down today and see if you don't say, "Moe Levy, you're right—your styles are smarter, your all-wool fabrics are better, your prices are one-third less!"

Super Clothes $25

Super Clothes is a line of surprises—the biggest $25's worth of clothes value in New York, because of economical selling methods.

JAPAN 'REPROACHED' AT LABOR CONGRESS

Belgian Delegate Says Her Representative Is Not Chosen According to Treaty Terms.

PRESS REPORTS CRITICISED

International Working Women's Congress Closes Without Making a Permanent Organization.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Declaring that the Japanese Government "has tried to prevent workers from forming organizations," Cornelie Martens, Belgian labor delegate, read into the record of the international labor conference today a statement "reproaching" Japan for the methods used in selecting its labor representative to the conference.

While asserting that the labor group in the conference did not oppose Uhei Masmoto, the Japanese labor delegate, Mr. Martens said the method used by the Japanese Government in selecting its representative "violated the provisions of the treaty of peace and the right of free association."

The conference adopted unanimously, however, the report of its credentials committee recommending that no action be taken on protests which had been lodged against Mr. Masmoto.

Mr. Masmoto, it was learned today, agreed with other labor delegates on the question of the eight-hour day and objected to the position of the Japanese Government representatives who are asking reservations for Japan on account of her backward industrial developments.

The attitude of the press toward the conference was criticised by the delegates at the opening of the session today as "imperilling" its work. Declaring that Washington newspapers had interpreted yesterday's voting as a setback to the eight-hour day, Leon Jouhaux, French labor delegate, said the press was obtaining an unfavorable impression of the conference among American workers.

Baron des Planches, representing the Italian Government, wanted the conference to issue an official communique, but Secretary of Labor Wilson, Conference Chairman, pointed out that in a country without censorship, only newspaper owners and editors are responsible for what is printed.

Debate which began on Tuesday on limitations of hours of work was renewed today. Two new proposals were put forth. One by R. Tayerle, Czechoslovak worker delegate, to apply the eight-hour day to commerce and agriculture as well as to industry, and the second by Swedish and Norwegian Governmental representatives to compromise the differences between the eight-hour day and forty-eight-hour week by agreeing to a forty-eight-hour week with a daily limit of eight and one-half hours.

Several new resolutions were circulated with a view to being called up later for discussion. One by Di Palma Castiglione of Italy, would make the protection of agricultural wage earners a subject for the 1920 conference. Another from Gonzalez Baisa, employer delegate from Peru, asked that the term "labor" be defined to include farm hands, small artisans, employes, and professionals, as well as industrial wage earners.

Finland probably will be admitted to the conference tomorrow, as this course will be recommended by the Committee on Applications.

Women's Congress Closes.

The International Working Women's Congress, at its closing session today, decided to postpone the whole question of permanent organization, until next year. Efforts of the British delegation to effect affiliation with labor parties were defeated and the temporary organization, with headquarters in the United States under a provisional committee composed of a President and four Vice Presidents, will be continued. The next meeting will be in conjunction with the next session of the International Labor Conference organized under the treaty of Versailles.

Mrs. Raymond Robins of Chicago was elected temporary President of the congress and Mrs. Mary Schwartz of New York Secretary.

Special provision for the representation of the Central Powers in the new organization of the congress was made at the suggestion of Margaret Bondfield of the British delegation. It was agreed to hold open one Vice Presidency to be filled later by a woman chosen by German, Austrian, and Russian representatives.

Other Vice Presidents elected are Miss Jeanne Bouvier, representing the Latin peoples; Miss Betsy Kalvenes, the Scandinavians and Finlanders; Mrs. L. Bychovo, the Slavic, and Miss Mary MacArthur, the Anglo-Saxons.

Two more Americans have been honored by France for their services in time of war. Professor Richard Gottheil, head of the Department of Oriental Languages of Columbia University, had just been notified that the French Government has bestowed upon him the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

Mrs. Leland Engleston Cofer, who was before her marriage early in September Miss Luisita Leland, received yesterday a letter from French High Commissioner Casenave with a notification that she had been made a Knight of the Legion of Honor for her "services rendered to France in helping destitute war orphans." Mrs. Cofer is New York Chairman of the Fatherless Children of France.

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

Two Orchestras In Carnegie Hall.

The open season for orchestras is here, and after a beginning by the New Symphony Orchestra, the New York Symphony Orchestra made its first appearance yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall, followed in the evening by the Boston Orchestra; with more by these three and by the Philadelphia and Philharmonic Orchestras in the immediate foreground.

Some new faces are visible in the ranks of the Symphony Orchestra, with correspondingly new instrumental voices in the tone—a new oboe, Mr. Mathieu; a new clarinet, Mr. Lindeman; a new bassoon, Mr. Letellier. Mr. Barrere, first flute, returns from a season's absence; others have returned from service in the war—Mr. Roentgen, now second 'cellist, and Mr. Possello, second flute. The orchestra has benefited by these additions and otherwise. Its tone never sounded better, never richer, fuller; or more translucent than in its playing yesterday. Such a tone is a joy to hear.

There was hardly full opportunity to become acquainted at this concert with the qualities of the new players, though they all seemed to come up to the high standard which they have been accepted. The oboe has the characteristic French tone, rather small and sub-acid, skillfully managed and flexible. They will all be heard more fully with interest.

There was an audience large enough to fill the hall that seemed glad to return to the hearing of orchestral music, and sympathetic, full of appreciation and enthusiasm. The program consisted of Brahms's first symphony in C minor and the prelude and final scene of "Tristan und Isolde" in the arrangement for orchestra alone, between which was placed Mendelssohn's violin concerto, played by Mr. Albert Spalding, who himself then made his first appearance here since his absence in the war.

Unfortunately, all the richness and fine potentialities of the orchestra in its existing state were not yesterday directed into the most advantageous channels; for its playing did not show the finish and precision in detail that are essential to the finest orchestral performances. Allowance, no doubt, must be made for the fact that the season is new and the pace not yet thoroughly established. But the too frequent roughness and slipshod playing would not wholly account for the quality of the performance of Brahms's first symphony, which was not one of the best that Mr. Damrosch has put to his credit. There was something uncomfortably like the perfunctory in it at times. The larger outlines were not always firmly drawn, nor details of the inner voices finely clarified. It was not a performance that exhibited all the rugged vehemence of the noble first movement nor the singing beauty of the andante. There was much that was finer in the last movement, especially in the delivery of the eloquent solo passages for flute and horn.

Mr. Spalding was greeted warmly, and played Mendelssohn's concerto with vigor and spirit, not with so much refinement and artistic ripeness of style as when he last played here, and without the fullest deference to all that Mendelssohn prescribed for his interpretes; one manifestation of this being the pauses for rest, refreshment and applause that Mr. Spalding introduced between the movements, though perhaps observance of the composer's intentions here is not indispensable to the proper performance of the music. But Mr. Spalding's admirers will hope to hear him in the near future play with a distinction, power, and imagination more nearly like his best than his performance of yesterday. They will also hope to hear the orchestra provide a more finished accompaniment.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra.

In the evening the Boston Symphony Orchestra made its first appearance this season, under its new conductor, Mr. Pierre Monteux; and opened another new chapter in its history to its New York friends and admirers. Mr. Monteux is no stranger to New York or to the orchestra's audiences. He will be remembered as having charge of the orchestra in the brief interim last Autumn before the arrival of Mr. Rabaud; and also as a conductor, some seasons ago, at the Metropolitan Opera House. The orchestra itself showed the presence of many new members, the absence of many old ones; but of the old familiar faces not all are gone.

Mr. Monteux is no Chauvinist in program making. He played last evening Schumann's symphony in B flat, the "Spring" symphony, the overture and one movement from Beethoven's ballet, "The Creatures of Prometheus"; Debussy's prelude, "The Afternoon of a Faun," and Georges Enesco's Suite, Op. 9.

Old friends and admirers of the orchestra had no doubt prepared themselves to hear in its playing something other than they had been accustomed to, different even from what they had heard last season. Nor was this expectation disappointed. The tone of the organization is a new one; brilliant, tending toward hardness, with more heard from the side of the brasses than formerly, and that less mellow, with fluency and, on the whole, excellent quality from the wood winds. Something else has taken the place of the golden and transparent beauty of former days.

Mr. Monteux, when he appeared at the head of the orchestra last Autumn, was a deputy, waiting for his principal's arrival. Now he is the permanent chief, and has had the time and opportunity to make his intentions prevail in the orchestra's performances. His beat is very positive, his modeling of the phrase crisp and in high relief. His reading of the symphony was full of nervous tension, highly strung in its sharp contrasts of dynamics wherein sometimes tone was forced in strings and brass. Much was made of every episode; nothing was left unnoted; and in the elaboration of detail something was lost of the engaging and spontaneous flow of the music. In the song of the larghetto something was lost of its tranquil beauty, molested by unexpected violences. This Spring symphony is filled with an exulting spirit, but it does not verge upon the feverish.

The music from Beethoven's ballet pleased, especially the adagio, in which there were solo passages for violoncello, flute, clarinet, bassoon, and harp well played. Debussy's exquisite prelude was delivered explicitly rather than suggestively; the shimmering, vaporous atmosphere was clarified by an area of high barometric pressure that exposed all the orchestral mechanism. It was in its way interesting and informing; but it was not a poetical exposition of Debussy's thought.

Enesco's suite is not new to New York. The Philharmonic Society played it here some nine years ago. It is a work that has retained its savor. The preludo for the strings in unison, like a rhapsodic improvisation, exhibited the power and tone of the strings; it has character of its own, but the ear is grateful for the relief of harmony when the slow minuet of the next movement appears.

FORM-CENSORSHIP BUREAU.

Committee Will Recommend Films for Churches and Schools.

A national bureau or censorship and selection of motion pictures for churches, schools, colleges, and community centres was organized yesterday at a meeting in the McAlpin Hotel. The new bureau will be called the Committee of Research, Review and Recommendation, with affiliations and headquarters with the American Educational Motion Picture Association, at 69 West Ninetieth Street.

The committee will view existing motion pictures, compiling a recommendation list for the churches and other institutions of the country, outside of the atres, and will formulate standards for the future production of pictures for these institutions. It is a co-operative committee, composed of representatives from leading religious, educational, and welfare organizations.

Among the participating organisations at the meeting yesterday were the Interchurch World Movement, Federal Council of Churches, National Child Welfare Association, National Education Association, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., National Catholic War Council, National Society for the Study and Education of Exceptional Children, Reptile Study Society, Girl Scouts, Inc., National Juvenile Motion Picture League, National Association of Audubon Societies, Camp Directors' Association of America, American Educational Motion Picture Association.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Kind Hearted Burglar," a comedy by Bayard Veiller, will be given its first production in Los Angeles in about four weeks by Oliver Morosco.

"Boys Will Be Boys," which will be compelled to vacate the Belmont Theatre in another week, will play five matinees weekly at one of the local Shubert houses until another theatre can be found for it.

"Dere Mabel," a musical version of the letters of Edward Streeter, will be produced by Marc Klaw with Louis Bennison in the leading role. The play has been written by Mr. Streeter and J. K. Hodges.

FRENCH PLAYERS ON NOV. 18

A Comedy and an Opera Bouffe at Opening of Theatre Parisien.

The French players who are to appear at the Belmont Theatre under the title of the Theatre Parisien Company will begin their engagement at that house on Tuesday night, Nov. 18. On the first program will be "Main Gauche," a three-act comedy by Pierre Weber, and "Chonchette," an opera bouffe, in one act by Calliavet and de Flers, with music by Claude Terrasse.

Among the other plays which the organization will present during the season will be "La Gaiffe du Loup," "L'Anglais tel qu'on le parle," "Les Bleus de l'amour," "Prete moi ta femme," "La Cruche," "Le Coup de foudre," "L'Heritier de Bal Tabarin," "L'Amouzette," "Le Secret de Polichinelle," "Le Gateau des Ouvrages," "La Folie," "Le Tiers Portant," "Miss Flirt," and "La Musique adoucit les coeurs."

The company will include Henriette Detaincy, Renee Mahe, Suzanne Caubel, Lucienne Debremme, Lili Rito, Germaine Grattery, Robert Casadesus, Roger Picquet, Felix Barre, Jean Nel, Lucien Weber, and Gustave Degresiane.

THE SENATE NEEDS ATTENTION.

The country should again and at once give its attention to the proceedings of the United States Senate in respect to the Peace Treaty. During the interval when the thoughts of the people have been diverted to the annual elections or to the industrial struggles going on all over the country, the Senate, or that part of it which is best upon the mutilation or defeat of the Treaty, has been playing fast and loose with a subject as to which the country's desire has been plainly manifested and needs only to be once again unmistakably borne in upon the obstructionists to bring them to reason

The behavior of the Senate is unseemly, it is disgraceful. It is not holding the Treaty and the League covenant under consideration with the candid view to sound conclusions and wise actions; it is maiming and mauling the great international agreement, it is consuming time purposelessly, or, if there be any purpose, it is one springing from unrelenting hostility to the Treaty. During the present week, at a time when amendment after amendment has been voted down by majorities sufficient to make clearly evident the inability of the obstructionists to marshal a majority for any action that would compel a resubmission of the Treaty, further and preposterous amendments are proposed, discussed, and voted on. Senator KNOX, in spite of his experience and reputation in international affairs, permits himself to propose a "reservation" that is an affront to the nations with which we were associated in negotiating the Treaty, is, indeed, an impudent travesty of deliberative procedure upon perhaps the most momentous subject that ever engaged the attention of the Senate.

No progress is made. Amendments are voted down, but new ones are offered; every enemy of the Treaty and the covenant is at liberty to introduce whatever deforming proposal of change which malignity can invent, and while the nations wait, while civilization halts in its progress, the Senate solemnly votes upon them. The material of debate has been exhausted, obstruction itself has grown stale; what we now see is but an exhibition of stiff-necked, obstinate resistance to any action whatever. The country has made up its mind that the Peace Treaty must be ratified, that the United States must join the other civilized nations in the League. The country can make the Senate listen to the voice of reason if it will be at pains to make itself heard.

TWO IRELANDS OR ONE?

Another Home Rule plan is reported from London. There are to be two Irish Parliaments, one for Ulster—all of Ulster with no counties excepted—the other for the rest of the country, with a Council for Ireland of forty members, half of it nominated by each Legislature. The powers reserved to the Imperial Parliament have not been decided upon as yet, but apparently they will be considerable, with the provision that after a time some of them will be resigned to the Council. On the extent of the Council's powers must depend whether this proposal means an Irish federation of two States or two separate political units joined in a loose alliance.

The plan without doubt reflects the conviction of everybody in England that something must be done, and attempts to solve the great obstacle of Irish dualism. But it will certainly fail to satisfy the South of Ireland, and in spite of its great concessions to Ulster it can hardly satisfy those who do not want any Irish Home Rule. In other words, it is another example of the futility of good intentions, such as have been so numerous in the recent history of Anglo-Irish relations. And it is getting late for well-meaning impracticabilities. What would have been enough in 1914 would not have been a year ago; what would have satisfied then will not satisfy now; what will satisfy now will be inadequate next year.

Sir HORACE PLUNKETT'S recent warning ought to remind the British that half measures will no longer suit anybody in Ireland. The Carsons can hardly be content with anything like Home Rule for anybody but men whose moderation is well known and whose loyalty to the cause of the free nations leagued against Germany is unassailable are beginning to feel that the days for considering Ulster first and the rest of Ireland afterward are over. A people which has known the difficulties of containing two nations in one State will sympathize with the burden of the British Government, but all friends of England here must hope that a real solution will be reached and reached very soon.

MR. CLEMENCEAU'S SPEECH.

Mr. CLEMENCEAU'S speech at Strasbourg has been received with just praise throughout France. Only a few, and those of the most negligible organs of public opinion, have said a word against it. Mr. CLEMENCEAU enunciated a number of sound principles both for France and for the world. For France he advocated that necessary, if slow, process of decentralization which the majority of Frenchmen now understand to be to the advantage of the Republic. The new régime inherits the old, benumbing qualities of the administration of LOUIS XIV. It will be a long time, however, before a system of local initiative will make its way into France. Mr. CLEMENCEAU'S recommendation that the President of the Republic should not be entrusted with greater powers will not be received with rapture by Mr. BRIAND and other innovators. That is for the French people to settle among themselves. So in regard to his great program of public works and his proposal about free housing and education for workmen.

One golden word for all the world shines in Mr. CLEMENCEAU'S speech. "The world's only salvation from the "social and economic chaos from "which it is now emerging is work." That is the proverb, that should be the watchword, of this time. Only by work, only by a hard and solid long day's work, only by continuous, steady production, can the world go on. Mr. CLEMENCEAU utters the strong and necessary gospel of the whole world.

RELEASING THE RAILROADS.

Under the law for Federal operation of the railways the President has power to retain Government control of them for twenty-one months after the proclamation of peace. He gave a year's notice of his intention, nevertheless, to surrender his control at the end of this year, and he has in his hands the bill passed by both houses restoring to the Interstate Commerce Commission immediately the powers which were suspended when the roads were taken over by the Government as a war measure. The present status of the companies, therefore, cannot continue, and the interval for decision respecting their future operation is not only short in time, but comes when Congress is weary with other activities. The special session probably will soon adjourn, and when the regular session meets in December the appropriation bills cannot be neglected.

Senator CUMMINS introduced a bill which has not gained strength with time, although diligently and frequently amended, and which has so antagonized the labor interests by anti-strike proposals that its prospects in the House are not good. That is particularly true since the House prefers the Esch bill, which has profited by avoidance of some of the unwelcome features of the Cummins bill and has not attracted the confidence of the Senate thereby. The present prospect is that when either house receives the bill of the other it will strike out all but the enacting clause and substitute its own, and the surviving measure will be agreed upon in conference. That requires time, much time for a measure affecting twenty billions of capital and all the industrial interests of the country. It is not likely that the permanent future status of the railways can be settled before private operation is resumed, and it is not desirable that the action taken should be rather hasty than well considered. What can and must be done quickly is to safeguard the welfare of the companies and the country during the interval between the end of Government control and the renewal of private operation.

Essentials only should be considered, for contention and delay grow with each additional detail in dispute. First, the companies must be safeguarded against the current deficit which would bankrupt many of them if put upon them instead of upon the Government. There has been a welcome improvement in the earnings of the roads recently, but there remains a gaping deficit of $271,100,742 for the last nine months, or, say, roundly $300,000,000 for a year. That leaves out of account payment for several hundred millions of equipment ordered for the Government's use for war purposes at war prices and condemned by the companies as unduly expensive, unsuitable as a private charge, and not well adapted for use by many of them. There is well advanced a proposal for financing this debt charged to the companies, but, even if it should be enacted and accepted by the companies, the cost would practically be a charge on either the rates collected by the companies or the taxes collected by the Treasury. Besides, the improvement in the companies' earnings is believed to have been at the expense of their physical condition. This year the Government has bought 200,000 tons of rails, or just the amount which the Pennsylvania Company is now in the market for on its individual account. It is likely that many roads need rails more than the Pennsylvania, and are less able to buy them. Calculating only on the proposition of the Pennsylvania, the companies as a whole need 2,600,000 tons of rails, and that would be below a fair yearly consumption. Worst of all is the deplorable condition of the companies' credit in the money market. During the first nine months of this year there has been issued over two billions of new securities, and not one dollar in new railway shares. The railways have been able to do some refunding, but the industrials have put out $1,750,000,000 securities, indicating an activity of trade which will be checked if the railways are unable to grow up to it. Many would like to sell railway shares and few will buy them.

Under such conditions it is clear that under either temporary or permanent legislation there should be for a time a continuance of the guarantee of the standard return, and some action which should prevent the renewal of the guerrilla war by the State commissions on the rates fixed by Federal authority. That is even the opinion of the Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who has said recently that, since the condition of the railways was forced upon them by war conditions, "until the corporations have a reasonable opportunity "to make their own readjustments, "the Government should stand behind unavoidable losses to a reasonable extent." Only those can dissent who wish the railways to become insolvent as a step to Government ownership and operation. Even the Brotherhoods have seen how hopeless a program that is and have dropped the Plumb plan to that end.

FOR THE NATIONAL DEFENSE.

The Council of National Defense is pre-eminently a preparedness body. Its work should be done between wars. In the late conflict that shook the world it was pre-eminently a war body, and in months attempted to perform the tasks of years. The Council of National Defense was created under an act of Congress approved Aug. 20, 1916. It was seen that the United States would probably be drawn into the struggle in Europe, and an eleventh-hour effort had to be made to get America ready for the shock. The Council was charged with the "coordination of industries and resources for the national security and "welfare" and with the "creation "of relations which will render possible in the time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of "the resources of the nation." Its business was to make an exhaustive study of the railroad systems of the country with an eye to the rapid transportation of troops and supplies, of the mobilization of military and naval resources for defense, of the development of seagoing transportation, of the utilization of waterways, of the increase of domestic production for the support of the armies and the people during war, and, in short, to prepare the way for the mobilization of all the resources of the country. Once a year the Council was to make a report of its labors to the President.

The members of the Council of National Defense were to be the Secretaries of War, Navy, Interior, Agriculture, Commerce, and Labor, but during the war the heavy work was done by an Advisory Commission composed of the leading specialists and business men of the country and their sub-committees. There was never such an organization in America, and it is the simple truth that the war could not have been carried on and finished without the energetic, tireless, and well-directed labors of the rank and file of that remarkable organization. There were mistakes, there were duplications, and time and money were sometimes wasted, but everything had to be done at high pressure. There had been no previous experience with a national undertaking of the kind.

Doubtless there were people, many of them, who thought that the Council of National Defense would officially cease its activities with the proclamation of peace, that it was a war organization only. But it is to go on from year to year and grow in usefulness. Director GROSVENOR B. CLARKSON announces the appointment of an Interdepartmental Board, on which the War, Navy, Interior, Agriculture, Commerce, and Labor Departments are represented by men who, as Mr. CLARKSON says, have "the most intimate contact with the wartime requirements of the military and "naval departments or with the developed or natural resources of the "country, industry, labor, food, and "fuel." This board "will automatically check unnecessary duplication "of national defense activities on the "part of the several departments, at "the same time acquainting the departments with the needs and problems of one another." The Council is no longer a great emergency machine; it becomes, very much reduced in organization, a bureau of statistics and recommendation. It is in possession of the files of the War Industries Board and keeps up a research staff. It will not be much in the public eye, but it will be ready with invaluable data if war ever threatens again.

THE SOCIALISTS.

What particular joy do our Socialist friends get out of Tuesday's elections? It seems that they profess "to view with satisfaction" the result. What result? The result that they cast a smaller vote in New York City than in 1917? In that year Mr. MORRIS HILLQUIT got 145,822 votes. In 1918 Mr. IRVIN, the Socialist candidate for Governor, got 85,552 votes. Tuesday Mr. CAHAN, the Socialist candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, got 126,365 votes. The amiable or unamiable adventurers into Utopia profess themselves to be very happy in consideration of this result. In 1917 women did not vote in New York. The addition of their votes, in any proper comparison of the returns of 1917 collated with those of 1919, should have given them practically a double vote.

According to ordinary reckoning the Socialist vote in 1919 should have been twice that of the vote in 1917. That is, the Socialists should have polled 290,644 votes. But it is a recognized fact that the women didn't register in proportion to their numbers. Instead, then, of assuming that the Socialist vote should have been, in 1919, twice that of the Socialist vote in 1917, assume that the feminist part of it was only 40 per cent. To assume this is to assume a good deal. Nobody was quite as anxious for female suffrage as the Socialist Party. At least the Socialist women may be assumed to have done their duty. But let that go.

Whether the diminution or the addition should be 40 or 50 per cent., where do the Socialists still "come in"? It is not merely their general vote, palpably less, and greatly less, than they should have expected to get, in view of the feminist addition—and the Socialist women are certain to be registered and qualified—but nearly everywhere they were beaten. Their most illustrious advocate in the Board of Aldermen, Mr. ALGERNON LEE, was defeated. In the new Board of Aldermen Manhattan will have one Socialist, Brooklyn one. The only Socialist gain is in the Bronx. There the Socialists, from temporary conditions of unassimilated immigration, have two representatives.

Looking the whole thing over, what reason have the Socialists in New York City for keeping up their fruitless agitation? It is not merely the City of New York that has registered opposition to their theories. All over the country Americans have shown their resolve that American institutions shall be conserved. Why do these persons, many of them the dupes of generous theory, persist in setting themselves against the irresistible determination of the American people, manifested this week all over the United States? Why do they not try to become American? Why do they refuse to assimilate themselves? They beat vainly against the solid forces of American conservatism. One sees the immediate salience of personal ambition. But the rank and file, if there is any rank and file in socialism; if there is any desire among these amateurs and their followers to have any influence on the American polity, should become American citizens in fact as well as in name. Socialism is not American.

THE MINE WORKERS' CONSPIRACY

On the surface it would seem that the miners and the Government lawyers are "digging in" for a trial on the merits of the injunction rather than on the merits of the strike. The injunction is not against striking, but against conspiring to reduce the production of coal in wartime. The injunction now is only temporary, and, if the Government prevails in the argument tomorrow, it may be made permanent and mandatory against the conspiracy only. There will be no command to mine coal, for the law concerns itself only with conduct. According to the remarkable suggestion of the United Mine Workers' Secretary, the "real way" to settle the strike is for the Government to use all its legal and moral influence to "command" the miners and operators to agree.

An agreement by "command" would be too much like an agreement by collective bargaining in the mine workers' manner. This is a free country, and the mine workers will not be commanded to do anything except submit to the law for the protection of public interests, and there is no law that any man or union shall mine coal. Some 63 per cent. of the bituminous miners are Americans, and they are as little likely to take commands in business matters as the Government is to give them. The strike was not ordered by the miners. It was ordered by the officers on their own responsibility, and now they say that they cannot undo what they did. The unions cannot conveniently be sent to jail, but the officers might be, if they conspired, and that would leave the miners free to mine coal while the conspirators thought over their situation.

The court proceedings are as remote from the merits of the strike as the proceedings of the Industrial Conference were from the merits of collective bargaining. The injunction is useful only as it clears the way for an agreement to resume digging coal, and not by command. Happily the miners' officials are less resolute against that than they are against the injunction. Their minimum has already become a maximum, subject to negotiation, and the union's funds, which are tied up by the injunction, are threatened by suits for damages. The United Mine Workers know what that means, for they have been compelled to deposit $800,000 Liberty bonds as security for payment of damages already found in an earlier conspiracy under another law and one easier to evade. There is a reaction against exceptions in the enforcement of the laws. No combination of capital has been able to resist the Government, if in fact the law was broken, and combinations of wage earners are no more immune from the penalties of lawbreaking than capitalists.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

English and American Spiritualism.

It is more than a little humiliating that in this land of public and other schools there should be people, even over in darkest New Jersey, who could be incited to buy a farm and spend the better part of a Summer digging holes in it by having heard of a vision or dream wherein the spirit of a young colored girl had informed the original owner of the land that in it Captain KIDD'S treasure to the value of $2,000,000 was still reposing. As testimony to that effect was given in a Paterson court this week, the existence of American citizens as credulous as that must be admitted. There is some consolation, however, for the disgrace of permitting such pathetic ignorance to persist in the fact that such folk are here the rare and astonishing exceptions, while over in England spiritism of a sort no higher than this is receiving grave attention in social circles far higher. While far from getting universal acceptance there as beneficent, it has such condemnation as it receives, not as absurd, but as wicked.

Sir A. CONAN DOYLE, for instance, a man whom everybody in the past would have credited with intelligence, announces his intention to devote the rest of his life to promulgation of the possibility and fact of communication with the dead, and in his public lectures he relates as proof of his contention "messages" quite on a level, so far as plausibility or sense goes, with the yarn that convinced the Jersey treasure hunters.

And while Sir ARTHUR is bitterly denounced by some of the British ecclesiastical authorities, it is for indulging in and encouraging a forbidden trafficking with the dead, and others equally high in the Anglican Church stand firmly beside him in upholding a brand of spiritism which sane Americans ceased to find even interesting soon after the exposure as frauds of its inventors, the unlamented Fox sisters. Nobody in England laughs at him, and though some grieve, it is not the sort of grief that would be felt here at the fall of an eminent writer into a sorry delusion, but a grief due to the fear that his visitants come from below instead of from above.

Deserted as Well as Defeated.

As 193,335 presumably qualified voters manifested in the most convincing way their desire that RICHARD H. LONG should be Governor of Massachusetts, it cannot be said that his political beliefs and economic aspirations have set him quite apart from all his fellow-residents in the United States. His friends and admirers, however, seem all to be in that one group, and though 193,335 people would make a crowd considerably larger than ever attended the decisive game in a "world's series," or even the most attractive of horse races, the number is almost microscopic as compared with the country's whole population, and therefore Mr. LONG has reason to feel himself among the lonellest of men.

As a beaten candidate for office, of course, Mr. LONG is only one among many in like sad case, but the peculiarity of his situation is that while his victorious rival for the Governorship is receiving congratulations on his success from all over the land, and as many and as cordial congratulations from Democrats as from Republicans, Mr. LONG is getting not one single word of commiseration, so far as known, from the members of his own party in other States. Nobody is sorry for him, nobody is wishing him better luck next time, or, if any are, they take care to do it silently—in their minds, as it were.

This is, or ought to be, a most painful form of solitude, but apparently Mr. LONG doesn't mind it—yet. Perhaps, deep down in his heart, he knows that his success, if it had been the first of other like successes, would have meant, not far in the future, trouble for himself of a kind which men of his position in the "bourgeoisie" have had to encounter over in Russia. Certainly he would be among the first to suffer if there were established here the sort of government to which the application of his avowed principles inevitably leads. Millionaire manufacturers are not loved by Reds, nor are they chosen to be commissaries of the people when the soviets take control of industry.

They Want More for Cotton.

With "spot" cotton selling in the Southern markets at prices ranging from 30 to 33 cents per pound, the American Cotton Association has advised its members to withdraw 2,000,000 bales of their product from sale and to hold it until they can get the price they want, which is the much higher price which the association officials think buyers in this way can be compelled to pay.

The revelation of this pretty plan lends something of academic interest, if nothing more, to the not irrelevant proposal of Senator KNOX, as embodied in a bill just introduced by him, no longer to include in appropriation bills clauses prohibiting the use of any of the money they carry for prosecuting labor and farmer organizations under the anti-trust laws. The scheme of the cotton men is a peculiarly irritating one just now, when the cost of living is regarded by almost everybody as, to put it mildly, quite high enough. Cotton means much to "the poor" the world over, and when its price goes up it affects them more than does the like elevation in the price of anything except a few staple foods. A deliberate attempt, therefore, to increase still more the already towering cost of cotton goods will not be widely popular, nor will it tend to perpetuate resignation as regards immunities that never had any justification except the fact that they were profitable to two groups much feared by office-holders.

Senator KNOX'S bill seeks to remedy an old evil in a rather clumsy way, but it does seek to remedy it, and even that is almost more than anybody expected to see.

Protecting Irish Womanhood.

New light is cast on the troubles our sailors had in Cork by the proclamation cabled from Dublin as having been issued by "the competent military authority." It does, that is, if the competent authority was that of the Sinn Fein organization, and the document was not an invention of some malignantly humorous Briton. Suspicion of its origin is not very well justified, however, for, strange as are the threats made in the proclamation against any young Irish women who dare to be friends with policemen or soldiers serving the British Government, they fit in well enough with the facts stated by Admiral SIMS and other men in the American navy who studied Sinn Fein methods for themselves.

In these later rules and regulations there is no pretense of "guarding Irish womanhood." The admitted object is to enforce the expression of hostility to the Government and to punish any manifestation of friendship or toleration for it.

Denies Gomez Party Is Anti-American.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention has been called to your editorial article on Cuba appearing in your issue of Oct. 22, and its contents have surprised me very much indeed. The article commits an injustice when it says:

"Only the ignorant and some of the partisans of General GOMEZ, the Liberal candidate for President, who oppose President MENOCAL in everything, are unfriendly to the United States."

The partisans of General GOMEZ are not unfriendly to the United States. If they were they would not have passed resolutions in the National Assembly of the Liberal Party demanding the American supervision of the coming Presidential elections as the only means of obtaining fair results. The division of Cubans for the front which could have been raised at the time, to which you refer as an activity of the MENOCAL administration, was the result of resolutions introduced in Congress by the partisans of General GOMEZ. General GOMEZ and his friends have condemned a political movement started by a few prominent Cubans with anti-American tendencies. With regard to General GOMEZ personally, nobody can deny his pro-American and pro-Ally sentiments, as can be proved by his contributions, amounting to several thousand dollars, to the several American war activities and the different American Government loans.

Disappointed in Gompers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Gompers's statement of the coal situation in today's TIMES materially weakens his position throughout the country, as he has been looked to heretofore as a conservative leader of the organized labor of this country, and his statement of the coal strike indicates that he is in a difficult position and is endeavoring to put up a good front on a matter which has no basis of equity. If the law of supply and demand were allowed to take its normal course it would be impossible for a situation to obtain where the supply of labor was too great for the production required, and where the men were endeavoring to force a minimum number of hours per week work on the average. We are not entirely satisfied that this has been the intention in all cases, but, accepting it as stated, it indicates that the compensation which the miner receives at present is so large that there is an oversupply of labor to do this work

It is very regrettable that Mr. Gompers should lend his support to a movement of this kind, and particularly that he should make a statement that an advance of 30 cents in the cost of production of coal was followed by an advance of $5 on the price of coal at the mines, as we all know that the average price of soft coal at the mines is far below $5 a ton. We had hoped that Mr. Gompers would have a steadying influence on the present radical trend of organized labor, but if he is going to do this it would be necessary for him to withdraw his support from movements which are so palpably intended to extract from the people the most money with the least amount of effort. The American people still have a great deal of confidence in Mr. Gompers as a broad-minded leader, but this will not last if he feels it necessary to bolster up the position of affiliated organizations by the kind of arguments used in this statement.

Coolidge for President.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why not Coolidge for President? He stands today before our people as a tried, courageous, and intrepid expounder and doer of right. And his utterances are those of a real statesman. He has shown that he is not afraid to appeal to the ultimate authority of all our Government—the majority of the people.

In these times, when base and blatant plotters are seeking to break up the very elements of our institutions, purity and faith, we turn intuitively to the noble utterances and serene confidence of those who first served this country, who first fixed the ideals of its people. And how fitting, how natural now to turn for a President to the good old State of Massachusetts where, as Webster said, "American liberty raised its first voice and where its youth was nurtured and sustained"—and where, as Governor Coolidge's actions and yesterday's election show, "it still lives in the strength of its manhood and full of its original spirit."

WHERE THE GRASS GROWS LIKE THE SEA.

Oh, let me hence to empty wastes
Where the kind wind sweeps free;
Where silence has her brooding place,
And on the earth's untrodden face
The grass grows like the sea.
All gray-green, rippling to and fro,
When the soft breezes o'er it blow.

Oh, let me hence to open plains
Where there is no man's mark;
Where sound is naught but nature's sigh,
Or a chance heron's lonely cry
Out of the gathering dark—
The dark that in the land of men
Is pierced to aching light again.

Oh, let me hence that I may seek
The balm of quiet space;
Choked in the dust of countless feet,
The bars which I so vainly beat
Oft crumble from their place,
Where sleep brings back old days to me,
Out where the grass grows like the sea.

BLAMES WAR RISK BUREAU.

American Legion Charges Inefficiency, but Reports Improvement.

In the second installment of the published results of its investigation of the War Risk Insurance Bureau, the American Legion predicts that the Sweet bill, already through the national House, with excellent prospect of passing the Senate, will do much to restore ex-service men's confidence in their insurance. In part, the report continues:

"The strongest indictment against the bureau lies in the distress its delinquency has brought upon crippled veterans, through sluggish action on disability claims. The situation dates back to the period of the partnership, dictated by a ridiculous law, between the bureau and the Federal Board for Vocational Education, by which two mutually inefficient organizations shared the responsibility for the disabled man's welfare. As usually is the case where responsibility is divided, results were negligible, and the crippled man was the victim. Congress remedied that situation last July.

"The bureau now is making progress in clearing up pending claims. The extent of this progress cannot be stated, since Mr. Cholmeley-Jones, Director of War Risk, will not disclose past figures. The figures for Oct. 1 reveal a disgraceful condition. However, Mr. Cholmeley-Jones says that, notwithstanding the daily receipt of 900 new claims, the net total of claims pending is being diminished by 400 cases a day. If that rate can be maintained, the situation should be cleared up in reasonable time.

"The total number of claims received up to Oct. 1 was 806,000. Here is the situation at a glance:

	Settled.	Pending.
Death claims	115,211	8,826
Disability claims	66,968	114,570
Total	182,319	123,396

"How dire is the need for rapid adjudication of these claims may be reckoned by the disclosure that of the 114,570 disabled men now awaiting compensation more than 10,800 have been waiting more than six months, 28,600 have been waiting from three to six months, and 43,500 from one to three months. Only 32,000, or about 28 per cent., filed their applications within the previous thirty days."

NEW BUILDINGS AT N. Y. U.

First Earth Turned for $800,000 Engineering School Plant.

Ground was broken yesterday for the first of a group of buildings to house the Engineering School of New York University, on University Heights. It is estimated that the buildings will cost nearly $800,000.

The first earth was turned yesterday by Dean Charles H. Snow of the School of Engineering and Chancellor Brown of the University. Mois H. Avram, an engineer, who was graduated in 1904, presided. Prayers were said by the Rev. Dr Percy S. Wightman, pastor of the University Heights Presbyterian Church. A member of each of the engineering classes turned over a spadeful of earth.

The new buildings will be directly behind the chemical laboratory. They will include the main engineering building, two detached wings, and a connecting link for the power plant.

When the main building of the new group is ready the present engineering buildings will be removed.

OPEN BIDS ON ARMY CAMPS.

$176,000 Offered for Chattanooga and Chickamauga Cantonments.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The highest bid received by the War Department for the cantonments in Chattanooga and Chickamauga national parks was that of R. A. Goldman of Chicago, who offered 7,000. The next was $134,500 of the Rusl Wrecking Company, Chicago. Harris Brothers, New York City, bid $0,000.

The Buffalo Wrecking and Salvage Company, Buffalo, offered $231 000 for all the improvements at Camp Mills, Mineola L. I. The General Engineering Company of Indianapolis bid $186,110 and R. C. Hoffman Company, Baltimore, $121,045 for the New York camp.

For the improvements at Camp Sheldon, Hattiesburg, Miss. Harris Brothers of New York bid $155,000; Frank, D. Cole of Newman, Ga., $122,234, and the General Engineering Company, Indianapolis, $116,200.

$75,000 MORE FOR HARVARD.

Endowment Fund Has Reached Total of $9,228,176.

Harvard's Endowment Fund reached a total of $9,228 176 yesterday, it was announced last night, an increase of $75,000 over Wednesday's figures. The new total is made up of $3 370 477 from New York City, $3,857,444 from Boston, and $2 200,255 from other districts. New subscriptions totaling $30,000 were turned in in the city.

Mrs. George F. Baker, Jr., said the wives, sisters and mothers of Harvard alumni in this city have raised $400 000 and will continue until they have obtained $1,000 000. Among the new subscriptions to the women's committee is $50,000 given by Mrs. H. McK. Twombly.

The average subscription, it was announced, has been $1,000 per graduate. There are about 9,000 graduates on the books of the committees. One member of the class of 1873 a clergyman receiving from $800 to $900 salary for the last thirty years, sent a check for $10.

Recent contributions include: C. Lawrence Perkins New York, $700; Fay Ingalls, Oyster Bay, L. I. $700; Robert N. Kastor, New York, $500; James T. Malone, New York, $700.

CITY HEALTH NEVER BETTER

Dr. Copeland's Report Shows Contrast with Influenza Period.

In giving out yesterday the vital statistics for the week Health Commissioner Dr. Royal S. Copeland said that the average death rate since May 17 has continuously been below 12 for each 1,000 of the population, a rate unprecedented in the history of the Health Department. The average death rate for the last twenty-four weeks was 9.54 per 1,000 of the population.

This period was remarkable for the extremely low prevalence of infectious diseases as compared with other years.

The total deaths for the week were 1,043 as against 5,819 in the same time in 1918. The 1918 total was, however, swelled by the unusual number of those who died from influenza and its attendant pneumonia. There were 104 deaths under 1 year of age as against 447 in the corresponding week in 1918; 44 deaths between 1 and 5 years as against 282; 598 deaths between 5 and 65 as against 4,341; 297 deaths above 65 compared to 399 deaths in 1918.

In the week of Nov. 2, 1918, there was recorded the second highest weekly mortality in the history of the city since 1866, with a rate of 51.70, due entirely to influenza. The death rate for the first forty-four weeks of the year was 12.80 per 1,000 as against a rate of 16.51 for the corresponding period of 1918, a decrease of 3.71 points.

ACTORS' SHOW WINS RED CROSS RECRUITS

Ethel Barrymore Takes Part in Front of Library Against Doctor's Orders.

A SUB-TREASURY MEETING

Collector Edwards and Jazz Band Help Gain Funds — Samuel Gompers Supports Drive.

The third Red Cross rollcall brought out Ethel Barrymore yesterday against the orders of her physician and, with John Drew, Peggy Wood, and Ruth Shepley helping her pin buttons on new members, and Eddie Cantor, Frank Bacon, William J. Kelley, Harrison Brockbank, Herbert Waterous, Donald Brian, Otto Kruger, and B. C. Hilliam putting on a show in front of the library, the Actors' Equity Association did its bit yesterday.

Miss Gene Patriquin presided at the entertainment and Richie Ling and Ernest Glendenning kept the show going. The Navy Recruiting Band played. Red Cross overseas workers served hot coffee and sandwiches during the performance. The Actors' Fidelity League is going to put on a show later in the week.

While the library show was taking place, another similar meeting was being held on the steps of the sub-treasury, with "Big Bill" Edwards in charge. Ted Lewis and his band "jassed" many dollars into the Red Cross funds from the hundreds of people who attended the meeting. Mr. Edwards told of the Red Cross a peace work and Mrs. Evelyn Aldrich described the present work among the soldiers left in France. The policemen's quartet, composed of Charles Rayfield, August Kuns, Gus Kuns, and Joe Boyle, sang several numbers.

The Society of Veterans of Foreign Wars is after 100 per cent. membership in the Red Cross, which will mean 300,000 members and, in addition, is trying to make it 200 per cent. by getting every veteran to get some one else to join. There are 300 posts in the country.

The Retail Stores Branch of the Mercantile Division has pledged 100 per cent. membership. S. W. Reyburn, the Chairman, announced yesterday. There are more than twenty-five stores in the [illegible] memberships from them will total 25,000.

Brig. Gen. George R. Dyer said yesterday that there were 300 booths in Manhattan, distributed in department stores, [illegible] banks, theatres and other public places. The city is so thoroughly covered by booths that they are expected to do the work that a house-to-house canvassing of former years has done. The Booths Committee was reported yesterday as leading in membership.

Columbia University will hold a big noonday meeting today. There will be addresses by overseas Red Cross workers and a committee from the student body will recruit new supporters.

Paddy Burns, champion lightweight of the Army of Occupation, and Bushey Braham, champion lightweight of the Second Army, will fight for the Red Cross tonight in the First Field Hospital Armory, 56 West Sixty-sixth Street. They will be the headliners in a ten-round bout, and there will be several other bouts between members of the A. E. F. Lieut. Gen. Bullard of the Department of the East is expected to speak. The 15th Infantry Band will play.

Besides the main bout, there will be others between Fred Dyer, welterweight champion of the world, and Charlie Debates, welterweight champion of Belgium, for six rounds, and others between Frankie Olson and Willie Herman, Young O'Keefe and Mike Arra, and Frankie Jerome and the Corona Kid. Young Mundy and Young Muldoon will have a fifteen-minute wrestling bout.

Samuel Gompers issued a statement yesterday in support of the Red Cross roll call in which he referred to the Red Cross as the "cement which will hold together all the agencies for good in any community."

POINCARE TO VISIT KING.

Many Functions in Honor of the French President in Great Britain.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—When President Poincaré and Mme. Poincaré visit England on Nov. 10 for a four days' sojourn they will be the guests of the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace.

The President's suite will include M. Pichon, Minister for Foreign Affairs; M. William Martin, Chef du Protocole; General Penelop, Chief of the President's Military Household; Rear Admiral Grandolement, two military officers, and M. Pichon's private secretary.

Among the functions already arranged is a State banquet to be given by the King at Buckingham Palace, a visit to the city and lunch at the Guildhall, a reception of the French colony, and a banquet at the French Embassy.

During his visit the President will be installed as Lord Rector of Glasgow University.

WOMEN PILOTS MAY ENTER.

Aero Club Announces Rules for World-Circling Flight.

The aerial around-the-world derby for prizes aggregating $1,000,000, which is being organized by the Aero Club of America in conjunction with the Aerial League of America, will start on July 4, 1920, according to an announcement made yesterday by Alan R. Hawley, President of the Aero Club. This date has been selected as it affords the contestants the possibility of starting and finishing the trip during the fair weather months of most of the countries to be crossed, traveling either east or west. The regulations compel contestants to complete the race by Jan. 4, 1921.

The rules of the contest as contained in Mr. Hawley's statement permit women pilots to compete as well as men. Entries in the race close at midnight July 3, 1920. The zone of travel is within the area between 80 degrees north latitude and 15 degrees south latitude.

Control stations are to be established in every city and community centre of the countries within the zone having cordial relations with the United States, which has offered a prize amounting to $10 000 as provided under the rules and regulations.

KANSAS TEACHERS IN UNION.

Forty of Kansas City Apply for Charter from Federation Body.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 6.—Forty high school teachers of Kansas City, Kan., have applied for a charter from the American Federation of Teachers, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The teachers now are temporarily organized "to interest the public in the necessity of increasing teachers' salaries, make teachers more independent, and to determine working conditions." The School Board made no objection, it was said, three of its members having been elected on a labor ticket.

MISS RAMSEY, BRIDE OF CAPT. C. W. HANDY

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ramsey Married in All Souls' Church.

SISTER IS MAID OF HONOR

Her Eight Bridesmaids' Gowns in Shades of Pink—Reception Held at Hotel Gotham.

The wedding of Cortlandt W. Handy, who served as Captain in the Aviation Corps, U. S. A., in the war, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Parker D. Handy of New York, and Miss Julia Ireland Ramsey, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ramsey of 570 Park Avenue, was celebrated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in All Souls' Church, Fourth Avenue and Twenty-first Street.

The bride, who walked with her father wore a white satin gown trimmed with lace and her maline veil was bordered with rose point. She carried orchids and sweet peas. Her sister, Miss Margaret Ramsey, in pale pink velvet and a silver cloth hat, was her maid of honor. The other attendants, whose gowns shaded from palest pink for the first two to old rose for the last two were Mrs. Ford Burchell and the Misses Kate Colby, Margaret Starr, Ruth Marden, Virginia W. Hagen and Elisabeth Van A. Manning, all of New York, and the Misses Lillian and Margaret I. Chesney of South Manchester, Conn.

Mr. Handy's best man was Van Santvoord Merle-Smith and the ushers were the bridegroom's brother, Truman P. Handy, [illegible] Julius F. Thompson, and Hugh Hartshorne, Jr., of this city, Royce R. Spring of Easton, Md., Maitland Dwight of Washington, D. C., and Donald F. Simons of Pittsburgh.

The wedding reception was held at the Gotham. Mr. and Mrs. Handy will live at 1,120 Lexington Avenue on their return from their honeymoon.

MRS. NINA PUTNAM WEDS.

Author and Publisher's Widow Marries Robert J. Sanderson.

Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam of New York and Madison, Conn., widow of Robert Faulkner Putman of the publishing firm of G. P. Putnam's Sons of this city, and Robert J. Sanderson, division traffic manager of the Southern N. E. Telephone Company, of Stamford, Conn., were married Tuesday afternoon in Stamford by the Rev. O. Newton Phelps, after having luncheon at the Davenport Hotel and obtaining a license at the Court House. When taking out the license Mrs. Putnam gave her age as 30 and Mr. Sanderson his as 35 and he said that he was a bachelor.

FREDERICK W. STEVENS DIES

Vice Chancellor of Chancery Court of New Jersey for 23 Years.

Frederick William Stevens, for twenty-three years a Vice Chancellor of the Chancery Court of New Jersey, died yesterday at his home, 45 Madison Avenue, Morristown. He was born in Hoboken in 1846, a member of the well known Stevens family of Castle Point. His great-grandfather, Colonel John Stevens, owned, in 1784, a large part of what is now Hoboken.

The Vice Chancellor was graduated from Columbia in 1864, and received in 1868 the honorary degree of LL.D. from the same university.

William Ballin.

William Ballin of 327 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, a larger importer and manufacturer of silk, died suddenly yesterday, in his sixty-eighth year. He was a native of Oldenburg, Germany, where he was educated at the local gymnasium, coming to this country when a boy of 15.

Mr. Ballin was President of the Suburban Realty Company, a thirty-third degree Mason, Past Master and Treasurer of Alephia Lodge. His gifts to Jewish charities were large and he was a patron of the Montefiore Home.

LOVE
By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER

Herbert Spencer's mother died in his childhood. To him, to the day of his death, his mother stood for gentleness, patience and love.

"Love is the only bow on life's dark cloud. It is the morning and the evening star. It shines upon the babe, and sheds its radiance on the quiet tomb. It is the Mother of Art, inspirer of poet, patriot and philosopher. It is the air and light to tried souls—builder of every house, kindler of every fire on every hearth. It was the first to dream of immortality. It fills the world with melody—for music is the voice of love. Love is the magician, the enchanter that changes worthless things to joy and makes right royal kings and queens of common clay. It is the perfume of that wondrous flower, the heart, and without that sacred passion, that divine swoon, we are less than beasts; but with it, earth is heaven and we are gods."

The world is a better place since Herbert Spencer lived.

"To live a life of love and usefulness—to benefit others—must bring its due reward."

The taking care of the demised requires love, understanding and proper surroundings. Frank E. Campbell, founder-proprietor of The Funeral Church, finds his "due reward" in the appreciation of those he was called upon to serve. Many tears he dried, many rough roads he has leveled. No service in The Funeral Church is conducted without music, for music is the voice of love, and the last chapter of a life well lived shall end in harmonious strains.

HILDRETH'S DOMINIQUE TAKES HIGH RANK AMONG TWO-YEAR-OLDS BY VICTORY AT PIMLICO

DOMINIQUE TAKES WALDEN STAKES

Two-Year-Old Defeats Donnaconna by a Nose in Mile Event at Pimlico.

ORMONDA IN CLOSE RACE

Leads Salvestra Home by a Head in Cantonville Handicap — Three Long Shots Among Winners.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—In the hardest test he has been put to this season, Sam C. Hildreth's Dominique proved here today that he is the best two-year-old left in training, and one of the two or three best of the year. This clever son of Peter Quince added to his triumphs by capturing the rich Walden Stakes, at a mile, winning in a driving finish over G. W. Loft's Donnaconna. W. R. Coe's David Harum was third in a field that contained the cream of the youngsters.

It was the first time that Dominique had ever been tried at a mile, and he demonstrated that he is not only fast but also game. Though tiring in the final furlong, after setting the pace all the way, he was equal to his task when challenged by Donnaconna. He leveled his ears and fought it out to the end and won by a nose. Donnaconna ran a powerful race, and was up close to the leaders all the way, and against a less resolute racer would have won.

The Walden is regarded as something more than just an event on the card, for it points to the leaders among the three-year-olds of next year, and is closely watched by horsemen all over the country. With its value of $5,000 it attracts the best at the age, and the starters today were no exception to the rule of other years. The youngsters were favored with a good track and clear weather, and the race was marred only by the start, in which Commander J. K. L. Ross's Constancy, one of the best fillies of the year, was left at the post and never had a chance to show her ability. For the others the start was good and the race went to the best horse.

Dominique the Favorite.

After his fine showing in his last race Dominique was made the favorite, though, as usual, there was a great deal of support for the entry of Commander Ross, which included Constancy and His Choice. David Harum, which had already won a race at a mile, was also played strongly. There was some doubt as to the ability of Dominique to go a mile, and even his owner was not sure the colt had had enough preparation.

When the barrier went up Fator sent Dominique to the front with a rush and gained the rail position at the first turn. David Harum, on the other hand, breaking slowly from a rail position, found himself behind the pack at the turn and was forced to go to the outside and cover so much ground that he was never a real contender for first money. Donnaconna rushed up beside the Hildreth colt and remained with him all the way to the finish.

Though carrying 122 pounds, Dominique was kept in front, and, after the first half of a mile, he and Donnacona began to draw away. Dominique could not shake off Donnacona, and, as the two reached the far turn, Donnacona moved up until he was in the lead by a nose for a few strides.

It appeared that he had finally raced Dominique into submission, and would draw away to win handily, but Dominique showed none of the usual failings of the Peter Quince colts. Fator did not even draw a whip at this point to bring him into the lead again, and he turned into the stretch with half a length to spare. Dominique carried Donnacona wide at the last turn, but this had little effect on the outcome of the race, as Dominique went so wide also that he allowed David Harum to sneak in on the rail and make up considerable ground. Half way down the stretch Donnacona made a final bid. Dominique seemed to be tiring, but Fator gave him one crack with the whip, and he bounded forward again, raced head and head with his rival for a hundred yards, and then moved out to gain the decision by a nose.

There were cheers for the victor, and also jeers for Cassidy, because of the manner in which he bungled the start. Constancy had been so well supported that the crowd gathered around the judges' stand and dared Cassidy to come out.

The Catonville Handicap, which was next in importance, went to William Shea's Ormonda, which made a driving finish to beat Salvestra over a mile and a sixteenth journey. James Fitzsimmons's Ballet Dancer II., was third. Ormonda set the pace all the way, with Ballet Dancer II., and Wood Violet close up for half the distance. Wood Violet retired early, and Salvestra moved up in the final half mile to make it a close race with the winner.

Hard Ride in Stretch.

Ormonda turned into the stretch a length in front, but had to be hard ridden in the final sixteenth to hold her lead. Salvestra made a rush in the last few strides, but Ormonda had just enough speed left to go over the finish line a head in front of her rival.

The first race of the day, a five-and-a-half-furlong dash for two-year-olds, went to F. D. Weir's Sister Helene, which came back in good form after a disappointing race in her last start. Sister Helene took the measure of Jean Bullant, catching him tiring in the stretch, and won by nearly three lengths. Jean Bullant had opened such a gap while setting the early pace that he was able to save second from Peregrine.

A. H. Murray's Quietude sprung a surprise by coming through in the stretch to win the six-furlong dash from a field of second-class sprinters, which included Out the Way, Grimalkin, Torchbearer, and others. Quietude caught Out the Way tiring, and won by half a length, while Grimalkin was third. The winner paid $17.60 to holders of a $2 ticket.

This was one of the three long shots of the day, the best of these being in the last race when Warsaw romped in to pay $40.70. Warsaw defeated a field of cheap horses and came from behind, after Whimsy had the race all but won. The latter tired at the end and Warsaw rushed through in the final furlong. King John was second, taking the place from the early pacemaker.

The other long shot came home in the Steeplechase event, which was won by Woods Stockton's Dororis, which paid $27.40. Bob Redfield was second and Jay Bird third. This was a race in which the riders were nonwinners over the jumps. Dororis came up in the last turn of the field to win by a head.

W. Smith's Palroma proved to be the best at a mile and a quarter in a field of selling platers and defeated John I. Day and Padua among others. Little Nearer was a starter in this race and well played, but could not get up at the finish.

CATHEDRAL FIVE ON COURT.

Will Open Season Tomorrow Night—Fifteen Games on Schedules.

Cathedral College's basket ball team, which went through last season without sustaining a defeat, will participate in fifteen games during the coming season according to the schedule announced yesterday by Manager James Kelly. Nine of the impending contests will be decided on the Cathedral court. Only one of last year's players has been lost through graduation, and a successful season is therefore predicted for the quintet. The principal game on the schedule will be the clash between the Cathedral five and St. Bonaventure's College, which will be played on the home court Jan. 9. This will mark the first appearance of the Western New York collegians in this city. Cathedral's schedule opens tomorrow with a game against Ursala College on the home court, and closes on Feb. 11 with the annual clash against Manhattan College's quintet. The schedule follows:

Nov. 8—Ursala College; 12—Brooklyn Cathedral College; 26—New York State Aggies; Dec. 3—At St. John's College of Brooklyn; 10—At Seton Hall College, South Orange, N. J.; 13—At Ursala College, Kenilworth; 17—At Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute; 19—Cooper Union; 27—Alumni; Jan. 9—St. Bonaventure's College; 21—St. John's College of Brooklyn; 24—At Mount Pleasant Military Academy, Ossining; 28—At Fordham University; Feb. 6—Seton Hall; Feb. 11—Manhattan College.

O'DOWD SCORES KNOCKOUT.

Middleweight Champion Stops Kramer in 2nd Round at Paterson.

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 6.—Mike O'Dowd of St. Paul, world's champion middleweight boxer, knocked out Billy Kramer of Milwaukee in the second round of a scheduled eight-round bout tonight at the Lyceum Theatre.

O'Dowd forced the fighting hard in the first round, reaching Kramer's body and head with telling blows, and early in the second round the champion shot a hard right cross to Kramer's jaw, flooring him for the count.

MAY RULE AGAINST FREAK PITCHING

Committee of Major Leagues Likely to Take Action—Four Giants Sign Contracts.

Changes in the baseball rules to curb freak pitching in the major leagues will probably be made when the joint rules committee of the two leagues get together next month, according to an opinion expressed by President John A. Heydler of the National League yesterday. On the National League rules committee, besides Mr. Heydler, are William Veeck of the Chicago Club, and Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh. These three members will meet three members of the American League to take action on freak pitching some time during the annual meetings of the major leagues next month.

"I believe the spitball should be abolished," said Mr. Heydler yesterday, "and, if it is possible, I think the rubbing of the ball on the uniforms and the aid o paraffine should also be prohibited. The rules committees of both leagues have been requested to meet at the suggestion of President Johnson of the American League to devise some rules to curb the freak deliveries of the pitchers."

Many suggestions have already been made by baseball men, but before the committee takes action it will hear the expert advice of umpires, managers, and others actively connected with the game. It has been suggested that the pitcher be prohibited from rubbing the ball on any part of his uniform. This would stop the use of wax of any kind employed to shine one side of the ball. It has also been suggested that the pitcher be prohibited from moistening the ball in any way.

President Heydler expressed the opinion that something more than a fine would be necessary as a penalty to stop these practices. It has been suggested that, in the event of a pitcher being caught by the umpire using an illegal delivery, the batsman be given a base on balls. This penalty probably would be too radical, but the illegally pitched ball might be called a ball as an additional penalty to a fine.

As the judges of illegal deliveries will be the umpires, it has also been suggested that the pitchers be permitted to go South next Spring earlier than usual in company with the umpires, who could supervise the practice of the flingers and instruct them to avoid the deliveries which would be regarded as illegal.

In the American Association, where the spitball was barred last season, it was found that the fine of $25 did not entirely eliminate the delivery, for a pitcher, at a critical moment, would often be willing to pay that amount to strike a batsman out with the trick delivery. So, in order to enforce the rule, it is likely that an additional penalty will be enforced by the major leagues.

The members of the Giants have already started to send in their contracts. Arthur Nehf, Fred Toney, and Mike Gonzales have signed up for next season. Wilbert Hubbell, the pitcher, who was with Toronto last season, has also signed.

Manager Miller Huggins, who has been here for several days arranging for the training trip of the Yankees next Spring went back to his home in Cincinnati last night. It is likely that Huggins will decide on Jacksonville, Fla., for a training camp, as the club was satisfied with the place last season. Walter Pipp, the Yankee first baseman, and his bride, were visitors at the Yankee office yesterday. Pipp is going to Cuba on his wedding trip and expects to play ball in Havana this Winter.

SITUATION SAME, SAYS BAN.

Declares Mays Case Unchanged by Action of League Directors.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—The action in New York of three directors of the American League in requesting the National Commission to distribute the third team's share of the world's series pool among the players of the New York Americans, and disallow the Detroit club's protest, has not materially affected the status quo of the Carl Mays case, in the opinion of Ban Johnson, President of the league. Mr. Johnson said today, however, that he would consider himself restrained from taking any action in the case so long as the injunction stands as obtained against him by the New York club owners after he suspended Pitcher Mays following his transfer from Boston to New York.

"As I understand it," Mr. Johnson said, "the Mays case still is in the courts, with thirty days allowed to file a motion for appeal. There has been no final disposition of the case, if my advices are correct, and pending such final disposition it would seem the part of wisdom for the commission to retain the disputed money. However, that is entirely up to my colleagues on the commission."

MACKENZIE IS VICTOR.

Defeats Maxwell in Three-Cushion Billiards at Doyle's Academy.

Play in three different kinds of billiard tournaments was held at John Doyle's Academy last night. Three cushions, pocket billiards, and snooker were featured. In the three-cushion event, Herbert MacKenzie defeated Chris Maxwell by a score of 25 to 21 in forty innings, mate winner always in doubt.

Some very good pocket billiards was played by George Barton in his game with William Copeland. Barton won by a score of 50 to 41. It was an uphill battle for the winner.

The second round in the snooker tournament was started. Of the forty-eight players who originally started in this event, twenty-four remain. It is an elimination tourney. Last night Irving Stringer showed he could handle a cue as well as golf clubs by defeating Bert Oppenheim by a score of 100 to 85.

NEW "BOY WONDER" FOUND.

Cecil Sloan, 19 Years Old, Shows Good Form at Balkline Billiards.

A new "boy wonder" in billiards was discovered last night. Cecil Sloan, 19 years old, made his début as a tournament player and showed enough promise to warrant the assertion that he will be one of the leading amateur cueists of this city in the near future. He was defeated by Nelson Mayo by a score of 200 to 171, but his defeat can be attributed to the fact that it was his first game in a tournament, and he was not altogether himself. He was not exactly nervous, but it was apparent that he lacked the confidence which experience will give him.

It was the second game in the American Amateur Billiard Association's Metropolitan Championship, Class C 18.2 balk-line billiard tournament. It was a very interesting game, and at no time was there any assurance that Mayo would be able to defeat his youthful opponent. The winner averaged 3 23-59, and the loser 2 53-59. Mayo made high runs of 22, 18, and 17. Sloan's best efforts netted him 17, 11, and 11.

RENNIE WINS AT BILLIARDS.

Finds Scratch Man Off Form in Brooklyn Handicap Tourney.

Two games were played in the Brooklyn 18.2 balkline billiard handicap tournament at the Brooklyn Academy yesterday afternoon and last night. In the afternoon, Charles E. Rennie, playing for 135, defeated Morris Brown, who is the scratch man and plays for 300, by a score of 135 to 203. Brown's defeat was a surprise. His average of 5 18-37 shows that he was off form.

In the evening, C. P. Matthews, playing for 200, defeated Charles White, playing for 250, by a score of 200 to 230.

SCHOOLS TIED FOR LEAD.

Stuyvesant and Eramus on Even Terms in Cross-Country Series.

Stuyvesant High School and Erasmus Hall High School of Brooklyn are tied in the struggle for the Public Schools Athletic League triangular cross-country running championship, according to the official standing announced yesterday by John J. McHugh, inspector of athletics. The teams representing both these schools have compiled a total of thirteen points in the three series of races already conducted. Points are distributed on the basis of five for a team victory, three for second place, and one for third position. Four schools are tied for third laurels, each having eleven points.

The fourth series of races will be conducted tomorrow morning over the Van Cortlandt Park Course, starting at 10 o'clock. Fifteen teams are scheduled to participate. The three previous series conducted on various courses in the city proved highly successful competitively and in point of interest aroused among the contending schoolboys and their admirers. It is estimated that 150 high school students participated in these contests which are held weekly by the P. S. A. L. The big entry is divided into groups of three teams each and each group is sent away from the starting mark at intervals of two minutes. In this way the races are conducted so that the entire field of 150 youngsters is group sent away arrives at the finish m

The standing of the teams following last week's series follows: Stuyvesant H. S., 13 points; Erasmus Hall H. S., 13; Manual Training H. S., 11; Curtis H. S., 11; Richmond Hill H. S., 11; Evander Childs H. S., 11; Flushing H. S., 10; De Witt Clinton H. S., 9; Morris H. S., 7; Boys' H. S., 6; Bushwick H. S., 6; Townsend Harris Hall H. S., 5; Jamaica H. S., 3; High School of Commerce, 1; Bryant H. S., 1.

HARRIERS HERE TOMORROW.

Penn and Dartmouth to Race Columbia at Van Cortlandt.

Columbia, Penn and Dartmouth will meet tomorrow morning in the first important intercollegiate cross country run of the season at Van Cortlandt Park. The race, which will be for six miles, will be a preliminary to the Penn-Dartmouth football game at the Polo Grounds in the afternoon.

The event will mark the second meeting this Fall of the three colleges, all of which had teams entered in the invitation meet held at Syracuse on Oct. 25, which was won by Princeton. Penn, because of its showing at that time, is the favorite for tomorrow's run and if it lives up to advance notices should have little trouble in disposing of its rivals.

Irwin, Kiviat, and Cummings, who led the Red and Blue squad to the tape in that race, will be Penn's best bet tomorrow. For Dartmouth Crathern, Macomber and Allen will bear the brunt of the fight.

Columbia will be led by Captain Al Turner, who ran a dead heat with Walter Higgins, a team mate, for first place in the City College meet three weeks ago. Both these harriers have been covering the Van Cortlandt course in less than 35 minutes, which is considered excellent practice time. The Blue and White runners will have the additional advantage of being thoroughly familiar with the course, over which they have been practicing every day this week under the direction of Coach W. J. Bjork.

The race will begin at 10:30. The competitors will be as follows:

Columbia—Alva Turner, Walter Higgins, H. J. Lowenkopf, Paul Bernard, E. Marzolf, R. K. Knox, A. Nelson, E. Morton, S. H. Ellis.

Pennsylvania—Edward Shields, Lawrence Brown, Ralph McHale, Marvin Gustavson, Fred Mitchell, Walter Irwin, Samuel Kiviat, George Fowns, Perry Hall, Henry Bonsall, Willis Cummings, and Alexander Brewster.

Dartmouth—F. G. Allen, C. F. Crathern, W. K. Carter, C. H. Macomber, H. A. Bolles, C. W. Porter, H. F. Manchester, I. Dow, C. W. Fleet, F. J. Sherburne, and R. N. Coakley.

CITY COLLEGE TRACK MEET.

Freshmen and Sophomores Barred from Games on Nov. 13.

Confronted by an unprecedented situation in the history of the College of the City of New York, the total disbarment by Dean Carleton F. Brownson of all freshmen and sophomores from activities, the junior and senior classes are breaking all traditions in an effort to liven up affairs at the college by arranging a joint track meet for Nov. 13. The contest will be staged in the Lewisohn stadium.

Manager William Shannon of the 'Varsity track team is receiving entries for the 50, 100, 220 and 440 yard dashes, half mile and mile runs. There will also be contests in the high jump, pole vaulting and broad jump. It is expected that the whole school will be out to cheer the tradition-breakers. Meanwhile the alcoves of the freshmen continue to be draped in mourning, and the black tombstone, with its Latin inscription, "Hic Jacet Omnes Activitates," is still the one conspicuous object on the concourse. The lower classes were recently subjected to the ban as the result of damage they committed in the gymnasium following the sophomores' victory in the tug-of-war.

GOODWIN'S AMATEUR STANDING RESTORED

Swimmer, Who Has Been Army Coach, Will Resume Competition This Winter.

Bud Goodwin, New York A. C. swimmer, who holds several records and formerly held a number of championships, will return to competition during the coming indoor season, it was learned last night. Goodwin, who has been engaged as a war camp athletic director under the War Department's Commission on Training Camp Activities, was last night restored to amateur standing by the Metropolitan A. A. U. Registration Committee. This action was taken under the A. A. U. rule adopted last year which provided that an athlete who accepted money for coaching men in the nation's service during the war could have his amateur standing restored upon application after he had severed his connections as coach.

Goodwin's application for restoration came before the committee last night at its regular monthly meeting, and the favorable action was only a matter of routine. The restoration of Goodwin's standing marks the second such case in the local district since the cessation of hostilities. Jack Eller, Loughlin Lyceum hurdler, was the first athlete to return to the simon pure ranks through the medium of last year's national legislation, after serving as an athletic director with the nation's military forces.

Goodwin was discussing his case with Frederick W. Rubien, Secretary-Treasurer of the A. A. U., recently, and declared himself in better physical condition than before. The New York A. C. swimmer's return to competition will be welcomed by followers of aquatic sport throughout the country, and is expected to stimulate interest in the water sport, particularly in local circles.

The committee declared against indorsing the application of William H. Smith, former Bronx Church House amateur boxer, who is seeking reinstatement as an amateur. Smith was declared a professional two years ago, following an investigation by the local Registration Committee then in office. The former Bronx Church House boxer sought reinstatement in an application addressed to the National Registration Committee, which was to have been acted on at the national convention in Boston, Nov. 16 and 17. In seeking reinstatement, Smith, under the rules of the A. A. U., had to submit his application to the local committee before it came before the national body. The local committee, after reviewing the circumstances, decided last night to recommend to the national committee that the application be denied.

The committee considered the application of Grant M. Colket, an 18-year-old high school student of Albany, who asks for reinstatement. Colket was disqualified after playing baseball with a semi-professional team. He argues that he received no money for playing and the A. A. U. commissioner of the district sent in a strong appeal in favor of the schoolboy. His application will be referred to the national committee with recommendation that it be granted.

Roy Sherman, a New York A. C. swimmer, was ordered to return the prize which he won during the past Summer in a meet conducted at Compo Beach. The meet was unsanctioned hence the order for the return of the prize. The metropolitan committee will endeavor to make arrangements whereby the Compo Beach meets next year will be sanctioned.

Dave Rosenberg, holder of the amateur 145-pound boxing championship, sent in his resignation, as he has decided to enter the professional ranks. Rosenberg represented the Glencoe A. C. in competition.

The application of A. L. Jordan, a Pastime A. C. runner, for reinstatement, was considered and it was decided to send the application to the national body without recommendations. Jordan was not present to answer the questions which the local committeemen would have asked, but sent along a letter explaining his absence. He was transferred recently from Fort Slocum, this fact preventing his attendance.

GILLETTE DEFEATS OTIS.

McCourt Also Wins in Play for Three-Cushion Billiard Title.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—The three-cushion billiard championship tournament of America opened here tonight with Byron Gillette of Buffalo and Charles McCourt of Cleveland defeating Charles Otis of Brooklyn and R. L. Cannefax of New York, respectively.

McCourt roused the crowd time after time when he smashed away at difficult shots and counted, winning from Cannefax, 50 to 41 in sixty-nine innings. Cannefax played rather raggedly, but missed many shots by the smallest of margins.

Otis appeared away off form, and lost to Gillette, 50 to 30, in seventy-three innings. Gillette scored the high run with 6. McCourt's best was 5. Each had a pair of fours.

JUNIOR RUNNERS IN RACE.

Ninety-four Athletes Seek Junior Cross-Country Title Tomorrow.

A field of ninety-four cross-country runners will strive for the national A. A. U. junior hill and dale championship title over the championship course of six miles at Van Cortlandt Park tomorrow, according to the complete list of entries announced yesterday by Frederick W. Rubien, Chairman of the National Championship Committee. This entry, while not the largest ever received for the hill and dale fixture, is regarded by officials as the most attractive and representative in the history of the race.

The entry includes teams of eight men each representing ten clubs, and fourteen individual entries from athletes, a majority of whom are ineligible to compete on teams because of having previously been members of successful teams in the title chase. Six of the organizations represented are confident of victory in the team struggle. They appear evenly matched and the battle is expected to revolve about them. The struggle for the individual championship is expected to furnish another keen battle, quite aside from the fight for the team championship.

One of the most dangerous contenders for the title looms up in the person of Cecil Leith, of the New Hampshire State College, who carries the emblem of the Boston A. A. in open A. A. U. competition. The New England runner has shown plenty of ability as a cross-country runner around Boston, according to reports which have been received here, and is reported in excellent condition for tomorrow's test. He will have plenty of opposition from Vic Voteretsas and Charles De Steffano, both Millrose A. A. runners, who have been training over the course in preparation for tomorrow's race. Al Hulsebosch, Paulist A. C., Terry Halpine, unattached, Frank Martin of Rye, N. Y., and Frank Titterton, the young Bronx runner, are also expected to provide topnotch contention for the title. The complete list of entries follows:

Teams: Paulist A. C.—Harry Wigger, Joseph Losero, Robert Spear, James McNeil, Edward Walsh, Charles Jordan, William Schippel, and Robert Singerline.

Morningside A. C.—James Plant, Hans Schuster, Irving Lehmann, Benjamin Segretto, Joseph Daley, John Knox, Jerry Flynn, and Bert Flynn.

St. Christopher's Club—Aron Morris, William Stokely, George Williams, John Goff, Wilson Jackson, Syd Jackson, Cliff Mitchell, and George Thompson.

Finnish-American A. C.—William Ritola, T. Prim, William Hillman, W. Nappa, O. Laukka, H. Laine, A. Koskinen, and L. Junttila.

Mohawk A. C.—James McGuinness, Charles A. Holl, Frank Powers, Francis C. Wilson, Charles W. Rapp, William Furlong, James Brooks, and William Bosk.

Syracuse University—Herman C. Johnson, John Simmons, Louis G. Watson, Morris Fellman, Walter Rose, Ralph S. Frobisher, Wendell S. Campbell, Jesse W. Fleck, Albert B. Scholl.

Yonkers Y. M. C. A.—Harry Russell, Charles Russell, Merwin Mose, Charles Richards, William Scholding, Hugh McLuskey, Alex Larson, Irving Hampson.

St. Anselm's A. C.—Joe Losgar, Jim O'Connor, Charles Beagan, Mike Russo, Tim O'Connor, Charles Lauth, Tom Birch, and Jack Klaus.

Glencoe A. C.—R. Lillis, S. Mullery, L. Kolber, S. Silverstein, T. Harris, and M. Tea.

Brooklyn A. A.—L. Kaufman, Frank Ruddy, Andy Craw, William Murray, S. Herzig, R. Jekel, and R. Bernstein.

Individual Entries.—Albert J. Hulsebosch, Paulist A. C.; John Costello, Paulist A. C.; Edward Weimann, Morningside A. C.; Edward Lehmann, Morningside A. C.; George Cornetta, New York A. C.; Terry Halpine, unattached; P. E. Sacks, unattached; William Johanning, unattached; Joe Soukop, St. Anselm's A. C.; Cecil Leith, New Hampshire State College; Frank Martin, unattached; Charles De Steffano, Millrose A. A.; Victor Voteretsas, Millrose A. A., and Frank Titterton, unattached.

GOVERNOR-ELECT AS GUEST.

Edwards to be at Jersey City Ringside for Monday's Show.

Dave Driscoll, manager of The Arena in Jersey City, yesterday announced that Governor-elect Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey would be the guest of honor at the club's boxing show in the Fourth Regiment Armory, near Summit Avenue, next Monday night, when Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, meets Soldier Bartfield in one of the star bouts of the night.

Johnny Dundee, who knocked out Tommy Tuohey the other night in Newark, will meet Mel Coogan, his old rival, in another of the star bouts of the evening. Al Roberts, the Staten Island knockout king, who, until he ran afoul of Charley Weinert, was cutting a wide swath among the heavies, reports that he is back in his old form and will have little difficulty in defeating Dan O'Dowd. This is something that Knockout Bill Brennan failed to do at The Arena several weeks ago.

WALKER NOMINATED AS U. S. G. A. LEADER

St. Louis Country Club Member Choice of Committee to Succeed Wheeler.

Unless the voting clubs of the United States Golf Association fail to ratify the ticket of the Nominating Committee, the Presidency will move westward next year. George H. Walker of the St. Louis Country Club is the committee's choice to succeed Frederick S. Wheeler, the New Yorker of the Apawamis Club. The annual meeting of the U. S. G. A. will be held probably the second week in January, following an old custom, when the officers will be elected, new clubs admitted to active or allied membership, and other matters will come up for settlement, such as the stymie and the proposed standardization of the ball.

Howard F. Whitney, who has held the office of Secretary, has been succeeded by another Metropolitan golfer, W. D. Vanderpool of Morris County, whose business address is in Newark. Vanderpool is a former officer of the Metropolitan Golf Association and should be able to take hold of the affairs of the governing body with an experienced and able hand. Mortimer N. Bucken remains as a holdover for the position of Treasurer. J. F. Byers of Allegheny will become one of the Vice Presidents, and the committee may agree to put Whitney in the other Vice Presidential chair. Others on the Executive Committee will be Albert D. Locke, Country Club of Brookline; Edward S. Moore, Onwensia; Hugh Wilson, Merion, and Nelson M. Whitney, Audubon. The last named is one of the more active golfers and this year won the Southern Golf Association championship from Louis Jacoby, won the trans-Mississippi title from Richard Bockencamp, and was medalist in the National Links tournament at Southampton in August.

One of the matters to come before the annual meeting will be the selection of the courses for the three national championships next season. Several clubs have been bidding for the 1920 amateur series, and although the Metropolitan district seems to have the strongest claim there is considerable sentiment favoring the Columbia Club, near Washington, D. C. If New York is selected, it appears likely that Piping Rock or Nassau will get the championship. The open championship, held this season at Braeburn, is due to go to a Chicago district, and the women's national tourney has several bidders among the leading Eastern country clubs.

GOLF FOR NEWSPAPERMEN.

Five Prizes to be Contested For at Van Cortlandt Finale.

Newspaper men who are more or less adept with the driver, the mashie and the putter have received the notice of their annual finals of the golf season, to be held Tuesday at Van Cortlandt Park. Five prizes have been offered, in an effort to add interest to the gymkhana, and the meadow and hill holes at the public links have been divided for purposes of the competition. Prizes for low net will go to the winners of the first and second nine holes, and an additional award will be made to the low net scorer on the six hill holes. A fourth prize is offered for the best net for the eighteen holes, and a fifth for the fewest putts on the round. No more than one prize will go to a player, and in the event of a tie the award will be made on the basis of standing with reference to other contests.

The New York Newspaper Golf Club plans to hold a dinner and ladies' night later, at which the radical plan of allowing women and non-newspaper workers to join as associate members will be discussed and determined. The date and hour of this dinner will be voted by the members as they turn in their cards on Tuesday.

NOT TO CURTAIL RACING.

Lexington to Have Grand Circuit Meeting of Two Weeks in 1920.

Lexington, Ky., is going to hang on to its two full weeks of Grand Circuit racing next year and for many years to come. The report was circulated recently among horse owners that the length of the Lexington meeting would be cut so as to give another association a place in the Grand Circuit, but the Kentucky T. M. B. Association, through Ed. A. Tipton, President, announced that it would not give up the week.

The next Lexington meet will start Monday, Oct. 4, 1920, following the meeting at Columbus.

BOX TO DECISIONS TONIGHT.

Soldier-Fighters in Bouts at Armory for Benefit of Red Cross.

Billy Roche has his card of fighting fighters all set for tonight's boxing tournament under the direction of Major J. Franklin Dunseith at the armory of the First Field Hospital, 56 West Sixty-sixth Street. Five battles and a wrestling bout are scheduled, the receipts to be added to the Red Cross fund.

Topping the fast list of battlers will be the ten-round tussle between Paddy Burnes, champion of the Third Division overseas, and Bushy Graham, kingpin of the Second Division, in the armory tonight presages something bordering on homicide if their former bout is to be taken as a criterion.

Another bout, a headliner in itself, is scheduled between Fred Dyer, welterweight champion of Australia, and Charlie Debateso, who rules the roost in welter circles in King Albert's country.

This Question of Motor Truck Depreciation

Perpetual motion is still an unsolved problem. Friction exists and so long as it does exist, motor trucks will depreciate in value. A yearly charge of 20 per cent depreciation is common practice. The annual depreciation on a six thousand dollar truck is twelve hundred dollars. The depreciation of the highest priced Bethlehem is $693.00.

But the six thousand dollar truck manufacturer, to justify his price, will claim a higher depreciation rate for a Bethlehem.

Bethlehem Dependability is a known fact to thousands of Bethlehem owners. Bethlehem Dependable Delivery is founded on scientifically correct design, skilled workmanship and scrupulous care in the selection of materials to the smallest bolt.

Bethlehem price is made possible by the tremendous Bethlehem production and Bethlehem wide distribution—the result is low manufacturing and sales cost. The overwhelming Bethlehem success has been made because of the low initial and low operating cost of Bethlehem Transportation. Buy your Motor Truck on Facts.

CRIMSON ELEVEN FINISHES WORK FOR TOMORROW'S STRUGGLE WITH TIGERS AT PRINCETON

HARVARD ELEVEN IS IN GOOD CONDITION

Crimson on Edge for Contest with Princeton—Coached in Tiger Plays.

FINAL PRACTICE IS LONG

Signal Drill and Defensive Tactics as Well as Booting of Ball Emphasized by Fisher.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 6.—The Harvard football team turned its back on the Stadium field this afternoon at dark and at noon tomorrow will board the train for Princeton. The Cambridge coaches are well pleased with the way the outfit shapes up and, while looking for a keen game in Palmer Stadium on Saturday, they are confident the eleven will give a good account of itself.

The first team has had a week to become a smooth running machine both on attack and defense. There have been some other football teams at Cambridge that have been more powerful, but Murray's eleven is well groomed and will meet the Jersey men in splendid physical condition.

The practice today was held out beyond the Freshmen field. The work consisted of a long signal drill and then the 'Varsity and the substitutes most likely to get into the game against the Jersey men were put through their defenses for the Tiger plays for the last time until they run up against the real thing. The scrubs worked with a will on the Tigers' formations, and the Princeton team will have to uncover something radical in order to catch Harvard napping.

Particular attention was paid this afternoon to handling the ball on passes and kicks and also on drop-kicking. Murray, Felton, Humphrey, and even Ralph Horween shot at the posts from all angles. Murray's drop-kicking was particularly accurate. Ralph Horween, besides punting and drop-kicking, also ran through plays with the first set of substitutes. He was active, and Coach Fisher, while he does not want to use him on Saturday, said that there will be no hesitation about putting the chunky full back in the game if he is needed. Arnold Horween remained at centre, but the undergraduates feel that Harvard will use him in the back field if weight is demanded in the running plays.

The 'Varsity lineup as officially announced by Coach Fisher was Desmond, left end; Sedgwick, left tackle; Woods, left guard; Havemeyer, centre; Clark, right guard; Kane, right tackle; Steele, right end; Murray, quarter back; Burnham, left half back; Casey, right half back, and Humphrey, full back. Burnham is perhaps the most tender member of the back field, but Hamilton stands ready to go in to lead the plays at a moment's notice. The Cambridge coaches are lucky to have all their first and second string men in such good shape after the many delays in whipping the team together because of injuries.

Harvard is not anticipating that the Princeton attack will prove powerful, but is prepared for a lot of strategy, both in running and overhead football on the part of the Jersey players.

Fisher's eleven is equipped to match any variety of kicking game. However, the coaches feel that they are sending their eleven against the Tigers with a defense really untried. The Cambridge team in its earlier games has been fortunate to have had things go its way at the start and never has been called upon to do any uphill fighting.

COLGATE LINE IS DRILLED.

Coaches Seek to Increase Protection of the Punter.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 6.—The Colgate squad and coaches took the field earlier than usual this afternoon, and they will continue to do so to the end of the season, because of the shortening of daylight. The entire 'Varsity squad participated at one time or another in the hard drill, which was the last before the Rochester game. Practice tomorrow will consist of a short signal drill.

Today's work, to a large extent, comprised defensive tactics to be used against the forward pass attack that the strong Rochester team will bring. Laird was instructed in punting, with the line attempting to block his punts. The coach was not satisfied with the showing until Laird was completely wearied. The coaches realise that this weakness in the play was their nightmare in the Dartmouth game, and they are determined that it shall not happen again. They are of the opinion that the muddy ground was no excuse for the constantly blocked kicks of Saturday's game, but was due to the weakness of the line.

Watkins, the speedy half back, took Anderson's place at the directing position in the scrimmage, and ran the team with a fine sense of judgment. Watkins is shifty and a man to be reckoned with in the backfield on defense, both in taking care of punts and in tackling.

COLUMBIA DEFENSE STRONG

Scrubs and Freshmen Are Weak Against the 'Varsity.

Drill in all phases of defense work made up the bulk of the program of the Columbia football team at yesterday's practice on South Field. Both the scrubs and freshmen took the ball against the 'Varsity eleven. The forward pass, in which the yearlings specialize, was used, but the first-string team completely blocked all advance by the aerial route and repeatedly held the freshmen for downs.

By way of denying the report that Quarter Back Eddie Quigley would be out of the game for the remainder of the season because of torn ligaments in his right leg Coach Fred Dawson made public a telegram he had received yesterday from the injured player, who has been resting for the last three days at his home in Holyoke, Mass. Quigley said that he would return to the fold today, although it is not likely that he will be allowed to play tomorrow against Stevens.

Quigley, instead of being totally incapacitated, is rapidly on the mend and will soon be in shape to don a uniform. With careful handling he may be able to take his place against Wesleyan when the New Englanders come to South Field a week from tomorrow.

Tower, left tackle, whose leg was battered in the Union game, will be kept on the side lines tomorrow. The outlook now is that Modarelli, a veteran guard from last year's eleven, will take his place. The latter is one of the heaviest men in the line, weighing close to 200 pounds, and is in the prime of condition. The other vacant position in the 'Varsity line of quarter back will be filled by either Eccles or Captain Canapary, with the odds on the former.

U. S. S. TEAMS ON GRIDIRON.

Semi-Finals of Title Series Scheduled to be Played Tomorrow.

The annual elimination series on the gridiron for the football championship of the battleship fleet in Atlantic waters is nearing its end, and will advance into the final stage after tomorrow's games. At the beginning of the season, the vessels were divided into four groups, representing the navy yard at Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia, and Norfolk, and during the last week the sectional championships have been decided. In the local district the Pennsylvania has defeated all rivals, and tomorrow in Boston will clash with the Utah crew for the title of the North Atlantic Division.

The game in Philadelphia tomorrow will be between the battleships Nevada and the Oklahoma for the Southern title. Lieutenant Harrison, directing the Pennsylvania eleven, is so confident that his crowd of "gobs" will win tomorrow that he has gone ahead with the arrangements for the final game, and has scheduled it for next week at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, against the winner of the Nevada-Oklahoma tussle. Harrison is a former Annapolis end, having played in 1916. The Utah team will have the services of Ensign Wood, a reserve officer and former member of the Colgate team.

TIGER MORALE SOARS HIGH FOR BIG GAME

Speeches, Parades, and Cheers Celebrate End of Hard Drilling for Harvard Battle.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 6.—A last hard, driving practice for the team, two huge, serpentine parades, or, as tradition had it on the campus as far back as memory goes, "b-rades," a tremendous mass meeting of howling, cheering, loyal undergraduates, and Princeton tonight is all set for the festivities of the week-end which, commencing with the great influx of alumni and senior prom guests tomorrow, will culminate at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon when Princeton meets Harvard's unbeaten team in the Palmer Memorial Stadium.

"Big Bill" Edwards, Captain of the 1900 team and one of the greatest guards ever turned out at Princeton, laid aside his civic duties in New York and came back to his alma mater to talk to the boys at the mass meeting. John Grier Hibben, President of the University, forgot for the moment his academic problems and addressed the meeting. Bill Roper, head coach this year at Princeton, completed the trio of speakers.

If enthusiasm counts for anything this year's Tigar eleven should be well up in the van in the final reckoning. Such spontaneous outbursts as have taken place on the part of the undergraduates yesterday and today have served to demonstrate beyond the shadow of a doubt how solidly the college is behind the team in spite of its reverses. The cheers with which the team was greeted when it trotted out on the field this afternoon and the whole-hearted enthusiasm with which the speakers of the evening were acclaimed, have had the effect of rebuilding completely the morale of the team.

Another day of the finest football weather was taken full advantage of by Roper. He ran his men through as stiff a workout as they have yet experienced, and the form displayed was sufficient to warrant confidence if not optimism in the minds of the cheering section, which, heedless of the biting wind and the chill concrete seats, watched the entire practice.

For the last two weeks special attention has been given to the offense. Defensively, the team has shown itself to be reliable, but the attack, which has been so graded as to reach its height Saturday, has been weak. The team has shown a punch this week, however, yesterday and this afternoon in particular, which makes it look many times more formidable than it did against West Virginia. The first-string backfield, as it has been playing this week, has two hard line plungers in Hank Garrity and Al Wilmer, with Maury Trimble and Jack Strubing completing the quartet. This seems to be the best combination that has been tried yet, although there is always the possibility of Roper's starting Frank Murrey or Don Lourie Saturday.

Today's scrimmage was relatively short, but it was full of action. The line remained unchanged, and the team is now regarded as virtually picked. The scrubs were using Harvard plays all afternoon, and as was the case yesterday, the first eleven spoiled these formations consistently.

Both Murrey and Strubing worked out for a long time at drop kicking this afternoon, and indications are that the Tigers will pin hopes on this form of attack Saturday. A stiff signal drill during which all the men likely to get into Saturday's fray had chances to get into action, topped off the day's work. Big Bill Edwards was on the field with the coaching squad helping to put the final finish to the playing of Roper's charges. The men were sent to the showers shortly before 5, and will don their togs only for a light signal drill tomorrow.

STEVENS IN FINAL DRILL.

Injured Regulars Rejoin Squad for Game with Columbia.

The Stevens eleven put in its final practice yesterday before the Columbia game, which takes place on South Field tomorrow. This is the Hoboken Engineers' fifth game and they will endeavor to keep their slate clean against the local outfit. In their last encounter, two years ago, the teams played to a scoreless tie.

Before Stevens' game with Rensselaer Columbia followers were offering the Jersey rooters 2 to 1 odds, but when the Engineers came out of Troy with a 13—0 victory the betting favored Stevens, 3 to 5 being asked.

YALE IN SIGNAL PRACTICE.

Eleven in Light Practice for Football Game with Brown.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 6.—Only signal rehearsal was held by the Yale eleven today. The coaches have driven the team through the two longest scrimmage sessions of the season on consecutive days and announced tonight that they had ordered a rest until the kickoff of the match with Brown next Saturday afternoon. They feel like congratulating themselves that the intensive scrimmaging of the present week was completed without injury to any first string player.

Captain Callahan, about the condition of whose knee considerable doubt existed, has improved daily despite his driving work and gives promise of proving a snapback of his American strength before the season closes. Parker Allen and Tom Dickens were detained by recitations today and their places were filled by two sprinting third string players who have been promoted over the shoulders of the second team to the 'Varsity lineup during the week, including Calhoun at left tackle and Barclay Robinson at right end. Although both Allen and Dickens will start Saturday's game, Calhoun and Robinson will be tried in part of the contest.

Jim Braden again displaced Bob Ley at right half back and the coaches have practically decided to start him Saturday in that position. Braden is the most powerful ground-gainer through the line of any back field member, but he is not in rugged physical condition, and it is doubtful whether he can play more than one full half. It had been planned to reserve him as emergency drop-kicker and line-smasher. No further changes are contemplated, and the eleven will probably face Brown in the tentative order which was decided upon at the beginning of the week.

CHANGES AT WEST POINT.

Moreland and Herrick Used in Strenuous Workout on Plains.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 6.—More changes in the Army's lineup came today when the big drive for the Notre Dome contest was continued. Moreland, a heavy and aggressive player, who has been doing well at the pivotal position on the scrubs, was used in the centre of the 'Varsity line. He gave a good account of himself. Herrick, the big line man, who broke a small bone in his arm almost a month ago in the game against Syracuse, was back for a brief period at his old guard position. He displaced Bryan, who had been moved over from tackle.

The coaches drove the 'Varsity hard again today. There was a formidable array of mentors guiding the big team during the afternoon, besides Daly, who frequently called on the men to play harder football. Graves, "Biff" Jones, McEwan, and Meachem worked with the forward wall, Merrill and Hoge with the ends, and Prichard and Glyphast with the backs.

The coaches worked the big squad for two hours, forty minutes of which were devoted to scrimmaging. The outlook for an army victory Saturday is none too encouraging. The Westerners are reputed to be strong, as is usually the case, and are expected to cause the army a lot of worry. They are due here tomorrow at noon, and later in the day will work out on the army's gridiron.

Rutgers Improving Offense.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 6.—Facing a tough prospect with Boston College, conquerors of Yale, West Virginia, which defeated Princeton, and Northwestern, one of the mid-western group, ahead of them in their next three games, the Rutgers players are wasting no time and practice is as hard as ever. Today was the last scrimmage before the Boston contest to bring about the development of an attack that will realize Sanford's idea of a steady, consecutive gaining machine. The 'Varsity was left in possession of the ball throughout the practice, and the backs were hurled against relays of scrubs all afternoon. Short steady gains are Sanford's aim. Despite the hard practice there were no further injuries today. Duffy, who was slightly hurt in the Syracuse game, is in much better shape.

PENN IS DRILLED IN DEFENSIVE PLAY

Quakers Coached to Block Forward Passes—Lud Wray Strong in Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Nov. 6.—The University of Pennsylvania football squad held its final workout today prior to the contest with Dartmouth at New York Saturday. It spent the greater part of the time in building up a defense for the Dartmouth plays turned in by Red and Blue scouts. Thus far the Quakers have been rather strong on the defense, but Coach Folwell learned a lesson last week in not seeing that all parts of the resisting line would resist under the severest test.

Most of the time spent this afternoon on the defense was against the use of forward passes. These were repeatedly broken up by Lud Wray, the roving centre. As a hint to his possible rush line for the big game Coach Folwell had H. Miller and Hopper at ends; Tilsel and Little, tackles; Neylon and A. Wray, guards.

Captain Bell ran the 'Varsity through a set of signals, then Pearce and Rex Wray took turns with the backfield. The personnel of the Penn backfield will depend greatly on the condition of the grounds Saturday. Light, who has been on the crippled list, although active with it all, is not certain of starting. He lost himself in the State game.

The weather in this section has been of the heavy, listless kind. Fortunately, today the air was cooler and the practice was somewhat more spirited.

Folwell himself is sitting up nights trying to figure out the best backfield combination to start the game. Some of his supposedly most reliable men fell down last Saturday.

He has Pearce, McNichol, and Straus, all fast men, in case Derr, Brunner, and Light are out of condition. Brunner has been working on the second team all week as a penalty for poor playing against Penn State. Today, however, he worked with Derr, Light, and Bell on the defense. He also practiced punting, which means that he will be in the backfield for at least part of the game.

MEETING OF TRAPSHOOTERS

Galvin Succeeds Keller as President —Plan Amateur Association.

Emmet R. Galvin of Wilmington, Del., was elected President of the American Trapshooting Association, to succeed T. H. Keller of this city, at the twenty-seventh annual convention held yesterday at the Hotal Astor. New York gets the Treasurer for 1920, however, in Thomas S. David. F. W. Olin of East Alton, Ill., was the selection for Vice President, and Storey McLin is Secretary. E. F. Shiner, the veteran manager who has held the office for twenty-five years, was re-elected manager emeritus. The following Executive Board was chosen: Keller, Chairman; Frank Dyment, New Haven; J. Leonard Clark, New York; Charles W. Heimer, Wilmington, and Luther L. Squier, Cincinnati.

According to the secretary's report, 432 registered tourneys were held last year, including forty-five State championships and two in the provinces of Canada. Reports from 606 events showed that 5,073,391 clay birds were used.

One of the matters to be taken up at the sessions today will be to urge the amateurs to form their own governing body. Although practically all of the States have local trapshooting associations, each is totally distinct from another, and each works apart from every other except in the matter of rules and supervision by the A. T. A. It is emphasised that a national federation of amateur bodies would prove beneficial to the sport and give the Simon Pures more prestige in the important questions of policy. Other business today will be to discuss the Olympia team selection and the adoption of a standard load.

Four localities have applied for the grand American handicap tourney for next year. They are the South Shore Country Club of Chicago, assiciated gun clubs of Cleveland, Toledo, on the site of the Willard-Dempsey boxing arena, and Atlantic City.

Schoolboy Elevens to Play Today.

The Hamilton Institute football team will clash with the Bayonne High School eleven this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Catholic Protectory gridiron. Hamilton has won two games and lost one so far this season. Other games scheduled for today are: De Witt Clinton vs. New York University Freshmen on Ohio Field, and Poly Prep. vs. Horace Mann at Dyker Heights oval, Bay Ridge.

GREEN TEAM READY FOR PENN CONTEST

Dartmouth in Signal Drill at Travers Island Today for Game at Polo Grounds.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 6.—Dartmouth was forced to hold practice in the baseball cage again today, because of the wretched condition of Alumni Oval Field, which is still covered with a good four inches of snow. Today's workout was short, consisting chiefly of a signal drill, in which there was a full rehearsal of the plays to be used against Penn.

Immediately after the practice the squad of twenty-eight players and coaches left for New York. The entire undergraduate body, headed by the college band, escorted the big Green team from the gymnasium to the outskirts of the town. The college band and close to 500 undergraduates will be in the Green cheering section Saturday.

Coach Sears has not yet decided on the left tackle and full back positions. Gus Sonnenberg is still suffering from a severe cold, and it is not certain that he will be able to play Saturday. Bill Healy, a letter man two years ago, will play at tackle in case Sonnenberg is still on the sick list. Healy is an aggressive tackle and one of the fastest of the Green forwards.

Jordan, who was badly bruised in the Colgate game, has not yet completely recovered. If Jordan is unable to play, Coach Spears plans to work Pat Holbrook at full back. Just who will start on the ends is still problematical. Threshie seems certain for the right wing, with the choice for the left extremity lying between Myers and Streng.

Dartmouth will hold its final tuning up on the grounds of the New York A. C. at Travers Island tomorrow afternoon. Following is the probable Green lineup:

SYRACUSE STAR LOCATED.

Jimmy Kernan, Who Quit University, Has Entered Yale.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Mystery shrouding the whereabouts of Jimmy Kernan, Syracuse University star athlete, who dropped out of sight here two weeks ago, leaving the impression he was to enter business, was dispelled today when friends received letters from him at Yale University.

Kernan, who is a star in three major sports, was in his junior year. This season he had some trouble with "Chick" Meehan, head field coach, and was suspended from the football team. This act followed what the coaches declared was a failure by Kernan to obey the instructions of the coaches regarding breaking up interference in practice, while he played half back for the 'Varsity. Later Kernan was back on the squad, but after the Pittsburgh game he left town.

Besides being a football man he was forward on the basketball team last winter, was figured as a dollar for one of these berths on Coach Dollard's quintet this year again. Perhaps his best game is baseball, in which he was first string catcher on the Orange nine last year. He was claimed by Coach Lew Carr to be one of the best backstops turned out on the hill. He is a good fielder and was among the heaviest hitters on the team. He was a star of the freshman baseball aggregation two years ago, and his departure will be a loss to the ball tossers squad this year.

The last hard practice before the Bucknell game was held this afternoon by the Syracuse University football squad. Several of the first string men were given a rest and, according to the present dope, not all of the first string men will get into action against Pete Reynold's Bucknell team.

Jack Malone, Captain-elect in 1918, and one of the best defensive players ever turned out on the Hill, ran the first team, and his work was excellent. With him in the backfield were Barsha, Parker, and Steele. These four players worked together in fine style, scoring four touchdowns against the second eleven, and playing better football than many of the other combinations tried out on the Hill. Although Malone broke his leg last Summer, he went into the scrimmage as if he was perfect physically, and never showed a sign of being lame.

That cool, smooth shave with a fresh blade

You can get 500 such shaves from every dozen blades!

"I WISH I could shave with a new blade every morning!"

That's what many men say after a clean, smooth shave with a fresh razor blade. How different that first comfortable shave from all others! Soon after the first shave, an unstropped blade begins to dull. Every day your shave is less comfortable.

Why endure this annoyance? A simple, efficient stropping device is built right into the frame of the AutoStrop Razor. It resharpens the blade quickly and easily—renews the fine, smooth edge in a few seconds, without taking the razor apart or removing the blade.

This remarkable feature of the AutoStrop Razor means a shave as clean and smooth as the first shave with a new blade—every day of the week!

You are guaranteed 500 comfortable shaves from every dozen blades.

Begin to-morrow to get the comfort of a fresh, keen edge for every shave. Ask your dealer to-day about the AutoStrop Razor free trial plan.

DRUG CLERKS QUIT; SAY 3,500 ARE OUT

Employers Dispute This Figure and Assert Business Is Not Seriously Affected.

PORT COMMERCE RESUMED

Longshoremen Return and Ships Get Away—Magazines Out Despite "Vacationists."

Following the refusal of employers to meet their demands, which included recognition of the union, a closed shop, an eight-hour day, and increases in pay, the recently organized drug clerks went on strike yesterday in an attempt to close 3,300 drug stores. Union officers said 3,000 men and women had quit work, but a tour of stores in various parts of the city failed to show that the walkout had effectively disrupted business.

Members of the New York Pharmaceutical Conference, the employers' organization, representing about 2,000 druggists, have suffered no appreciable defection from the ranks of their employes, according to Robert L. Lehman of 375 Third Avenue, the President. He said that in only one instance had a member required assistance, and he obtained two extra clerks from another store. George M. Gales, President of the Louis K. Liggett Company, said only 40 out of 2,000 employes in the seventy-five stores operated by the corporation had been reported as joining the strikers.

"These men could well be spared," he said. "Threats of this strike have been pending for some time. We do not believe any considerable number of our employes will participate in it."

Mr. Gales made public a letter sent to the employes of the Liggett stores, in which he warned them that if they quit work they would not be taken back. He said the company had prepared for any emergency, and was prepared to serve the public.

Mendel Zagat, President of the Bronx County Pharmaceutical Association, did not seem to be in accord with Mr. Lehman's figures. He reported that about 3,000 employes had left their jobs. He said no drug stores in the Bronx had had to close, and that the needs of the public were supplied.

E. E. Baker, International President of the Drug Clerks' Union, said more than 500 employers had granted the demands. He said pickets were being assigned to stores which had refused to deal with the union. Strike headquarters have been opened at five points in the city.

John J. Bealin, Special Agent of the Bureau of Mediation and Arbitration of the State Department of Labor, is trying to bring about a settlement between employers and employes.

The longshoremen returned to work yesterday, after having tied up the harbor for weeks. The net result of their blockade, as far as the strikers were concerned, was an assurance that the National Wage Adjustment Commission would rehear their request for more pay.

With their return, the harbor presented a busy appearance. Thousands of dockers were at work at the Chelsea piers, while Brooklyn had more than enough men to load and unload the many ships in the South Brooklyn berths. The men reported about 8 o'clock, and as fast as they appeared they were checked off and assigned to work. They appeared glad to be back on their jobs.

The first of the steamships to get away after the men resumed work was La Touraine of the French Line. She sailed at noon for Havre, with 1,032 passengers. The Scandinavian-American Line announced last night that the Frederick VIII. would sail today from Philadelphia, as originally planned. The United States, of the same line, was reached by wireless and instructed to proceed here instead of Philadelphia. The Helig Olav was ordered to Hoboken from Newport News, and will sail Nov. 22.

Notwithstanding the printers' strike, many additional periodicals and business papers are coming out daily, John Adams Thayer said at the office of the Periodical Publishers' Association, 200 Fifth Avenue. He added:

"The Outlook, issue of Oct. 28, was published today. The Independent, issue of Nov. 1, has been mailed to subscribers, and its next issue, twice as large in contents, will be issued on time. The Literary Digest, appearing regularly, is fast reaching its full measure of contents. The Oct. 25 issue of The Christian Herald, being printed in Chicago, is being mailed now. Collier's resumes publication next Saturday, and will continue regularly thereafter."

TAFT CONGRATULATES NATION AND COOLIDGE

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—The Massachusetts election was discussed by former President Taft in a congratulatory letter to Governor Coolidge made public today.

"I write to congratulate first the country, second Massachusetts, and third yourself," said Mr. Taft, "on the great victory you won yesterday for the existing social order and civilization. It is difficult indeed to overestimate its far-reaching effect for good. It means that hereafter lawlessness will be met by Governors and Mayors with vigor and without temporizing. It will stiffen the courage and quicken the action of every guardian of the peace. It will make the leaders of such vicious and unreasonable movements as the coal and steel strikes pause, for without violence they cannot win and with adequate police protection, violence will be suppressed.

"It strikes at Bolshevism in this country. It shows the heart of all the people, including workingmen, to be sound. It was worth while that Massachusetts should have been humiliated as she was at the Boston riots in order that she should be roused to such a great demonstration of her Americanism and adherence to her great traditions as she gave yesterday.

"I felicitate you from the bottom of my heart on your personal victory in this contest. It is full of inspiration to note how your people have responded to and recognized and approved the high moral courage with which you pointed the way, and the only way, to a Government of laws and not of men."

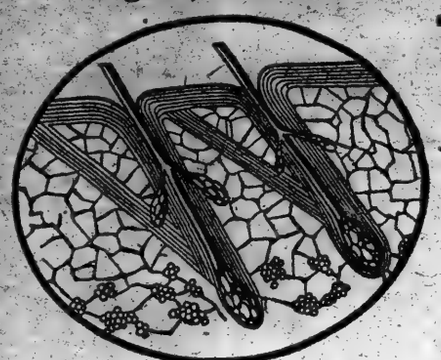
Two hairs of a beard slightly enlarged



Jim Henry on Tough Beards and Tender Skins

I've talked to thousands of men about it and I have seldom met one who didn't pride himself, previous to using Mennen's, on having a beard as tough as the bristles of a boar and a hide as tender as that of a chicken (barnyard variety).

Let me tell you a secret. Contrary to what a lot of amateur scientists have told you in shaving soap advertising, all adult beards are just about alike. They are all absolutely alike when properly lathered with Mennen Shaving Cream.

The main reason men think they have tough beards is because they use caustic shaving soap which does not properly soften the beard.

There are two reasons why men think they have tender skins. When you use hot water and rub the lather in with fingers, the heat and friction raise thousands of microscopic mounds like blood blisters and the razor slices off the tops of these. The other reason is that rubbing lather in with fingers forces a lot of partially dissolved soap into the pores of the skin which causes irritation, especially if the soap is of the ordinary kind containing free caustic.

So much for the essay—now let's get down to cases.

Mennen Shaving Cream will soften any beard so that you hardly know you have a beard when the razor goes over the top—no matter how tough you may have thought yours is.

You do not have to rub Mennen's in with fingers whatever else you may believe—just brush it for three minutes and shave. You can build a perfect lather of Mennen's with cold water. In fact cold water is better, for it stimulates the skin.

After shaving with Mennen's your face feels great.

You'll be doing yourself a good turn if you'll take my word for this and buy one tube of Mennen Shaving Cream.

Jim Henry
(Mennen Salesman)

JIM HENRY SAYS: There are two kinds of lather—the kind George Washington knew and the lather of Mennen Shaving Cream.

DEMAND GERMANY FULFILL ARMISTICE

Allies Threaten to Withhold Treaty and Use Coercion Unless New Pledge Is Given.

WANT PROTOCOL SIGNED

Delivery of Warships and 400,000 Tons of Docks, Cranes, Tugs, and Dredges Required.

SCAPA FLOW REPARATION

Troops Must Be Withdrawn from Russia — Text of Notes Announced.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The Peace Conference has notified the German Government that the peace treaty will not be put into force until Germany fulfills certain obligations under the armistice which have not yet been carried out.

Unless Germany vests its representatives—sent to Paris for the purpose of signing the procès-verbal, which would put the treaty in force with full powers to sign at the same time a protocol pledging Germany to carry out certain stipulated conditions, the treaty will not take effect. The allied and associated powers will then have recourse to "any coercive measures" which they may deem appropriate.

Among the considerations set forth in the proposed protocol are requirements that Germany deliver certain vessels in return for the destruction of the German fleet at Scapa Flow within a period of sixty days; that, within ninety days, Germany deliver 400,000 tons of floating docks, cranes, tugs and dredges; that the destroyer B 98 be surrendered to the Allies; that, within ten days, the machinery and engines of three submarines be also surrendered to offset the destruction of submarine C-48, and that Germany pay the Allied Governments the value of certain exported aerial material.

According to the treaty, its terms would come into force from the date of a first procès-verbal to be deposited at Paris. This procès-verbal can be drawn up only after Germany and three of the principal allied and associated powers have deposited at Paris their ratifications of the treaty.

The note to the German Government, which was sent last Saturday night, and is signed by M. Clemenceau as President of the Peace Conference, explains that three allied powers—Great Britain, France and Italy—have now ratified the treaty, and that Germany, having ratified, the conditions have been fulfilled for drafting the first procès-verbal, but unless Germany fulfills certain violated armistice conditions the treaty will not be put into effect.

To enable Germany to put itself in a position to fulfill the conditions upon which the Peace Conference is now insisting, the conference has informed the German Government that if it will authorize its representatives to sign the proposed protocol at the same time that they sign the contemplated procès-verbal, such a procès-verbal will be drafted and signed by the Allies, and the treaty permitted to come into force.

Both the text of the note from M. Clemenceau to the German Government and that of the proposed protocol were made public by Secretary Lansing tonight, in the form in which an English translation of them had been cabled from the Peace Conference to the State Department.

Text of Note to Germany.

The note to the German Government reads:

"By the terms of the final provisions of the treaty signed at Versailles June 28, 1919, it has been stipulated that 'A first procès-verbal of the deposit of ratifications will be drawn up as soon as the treaty has bene ratified by Germany on the one hand and by three of the principal allied and associated powers on the other hand.'

"The President of the Peace Conference had the honor of calling to the attention of the Government that three of the principal allied and associated powers, namely, the British Empire, France, and Italy have ratified, and Germany, on the other hand, having also ratified the treaty, the condition referred to above has been fulfilled.

"The other allied and associated powers who have, up to the present time, made known their ratification are Belgium, Poland, and Siam.

"In compliance with the said provisions, and if the various acts necessary to the coming into force of the treaty be fulfilled in time, there will take place in Paris, at a date which will be announced later, and notification of which will be given five days in advance, a procès-verbal of the deposit of these ratifications, at which the German Government is requested to participate. The final provisions of the treaty add: 'From the date of this first procès-verbal the treaty will come into force between the high contracting parties who have ratified. For the determination of all periods of time provided for in the present treaty this date will be the date of the coming in force of the treaty.'

"The principal allied and associated powers have decided that the treaty shall not go into force until the execution of the obligations which Germany had by the armistice convention and the additional agreements undertaken to fulfill, and which have not received satisfaction, shall have been fully carried out.

"The German Government is therefore asked to give to the German representatives authorized to sign the procès-verbal of the deposits of ratification full powers to sign at the same time the protocol, of which a copy is hereto annexed, and which provides without further delay for this settlement.

"The German Government therefore is now invited to send to Paris for Nov. 10, 1919, duly qualified representatives for this purpose to:

"1. Arrange in agreement with the representatives of the allied and associated powers the conditions for the setting up of the commissions of government, of administration, and of plebiscite, the holding over of powers, the transfer of services, the entry of interallied troops, the evacuation of German troops, the replacement of the said German authorities, and all other measures above provided for. Attention is now called to the fact that the German authorities must leave intact all service organizations and officers as well as the documents required by the interallied authorities for the immediate entry on their duties, and that the German troops must also leave intact all the establishments which they occupy.

"2. Agree with the staff of the Marshal, Commander in Chief of the allied and associated armies, as to the conditions of transport of interallied troops."

The text of the proposed protocol was made public by Secretary Lansing as follows.

"Protocol: At the very time of proceeding to the first deposit of ratifications of the Peace Treaty it was ascertained that the following obligations which Germany had agreed to execute, in the armistice conventions and the complementary agreements, have not been executed or have not received full satisfaction, viz.:

"First—Armistice convention of Nov. 11, 1918, Clause 7: Obligation of delivering 5,000 locomotives and 150,000 cars. Forty-two locomotives and 4,460 cars are still to be delivered.

"Second—Armistice convention of Nov. 11, 1918, Clause 12: Obligation of withdrawing within the frontiers of Germany the German troops which are in Russian territory as soon as the Allies judge the time proper. The withdrawal of troops has not as yet been executed, in spite of the reiterated injunctions of Aug. 27, Sept. 27, and Oct. 10, 1919.

"Third—Armistice Convention of Nov. 11, 1918, Clause 14: Obligation to discontinue immediately all requisition, seizures, or coercive measures in Russian territory. The German troops continue to use these methods.

"Fourth—Armistice Convention of Nov. 11, 1918, Clause 19: Obligation of immediate delivery of all documents, specie, values of property and finance, with all issuing apparatus, concerning public or private interests in the invaded countries. The complete statements of the specie and securities removed, collected, or confiscated by the Germans in the invaded countries have not been delivered.

"Fifth—Armistice Convention of Nov. 11, 1918, Clause 22: Obligation of delivering all German submarines. Destruction of the German Submarine UC-48 off Ferrol, by order of her German commander, and the destruction in the North Sea of certain submarines proceeding to England for delivery.

"Sixth—Armistice Convention of Nov. 11, 1918, Clause 23: Obligation of maintaining in the allied ports the German battleships designated by the allied and associated powers, these ships being destined to be ulteriorly delivered. Clause 31: Obligation of not destroying any ship before delivery; on June 21, 1919, destruction at Scapa Flow of the said ships.

"Seventh—Protocol of Dec. 17, 1918, annexed to the Armistice Convention of Dec. 13, 1918: Obligation of restoring all works of art and artistic documents removed from France and Belgium. All works of art were transported into unoccupied Germany and have not been restored.

"Eighth—Armistice Convention of Jan. 16, 1919, Clause III. and Protocol 392-1, additional Clause III. of July 25, 1919: Obligation of delivering agricultural implements in lieu of the supplementary railroad material provided for in Tables 1 and 2 and annexed to the protocol at Spa of Dec. 17, 1918. The following were not delivered on the date fixed (Oct. 1, 1919): Forty 'Heucke' plowing outfits, all the personnel necessary to operate the apparatus, all the species, 1,500 shovels, 1,130 plows, T. M. 23-26; 1,765 plows, T. F. 18 21; 1,512 plows, T. F. 23 26 629 Belgian plows, T. F. O. M. 20; 1,205 Belgian plows, T. F. O. M. 26; 4,282 harrows of 2 K 500, 2,157 steel cultivators, 956 fertilizer spreaders, 2 M. 50; 1,608 fertilizer spreaders, 3 M. 50.

"Ninth—Armistice Convention of Jan. 16, 1919, Clause 6: Obligation of restoring the industrial material removed from French and Belgian territories. All this material has not been restored.

"Tenth—Convention of Jan. 16, 1919, Clause 8: Obligation of placing the entire German merchant fleet at the disposal of the allied and associated powers. A certain number of ships of which delivery had been requested by virtue of this clause have not yet been delivered.

"Eleven—Protocols of the Brussels Conference of March 13 and 14, 1919: Obligations of not exporting any war material of any nature. Exportation of aerial material to Sweden, Holland, and Denmark.

"A certain number of the above unexecuted or incompletely executed stipulations were renewed by the treaty of June 28, 1919, the going into force of which will of right render applicable the sanctions provided for. This applies in particular to the various payments in kind stipulated as reparations.

"On the other hand, the question of the evacuation of the Baltic provinces was the object of an exchange of notes and decisions which are in course of execution. The Allied and Associated Powers expressly confirm the contents of their notes, the execution of which Germany by the present protocol agrees to carry out loyally and strictly.

"Lastly, the Allied and Associated Powers cannot overlook without sanction the other infractions committed against the armistice conventions, and violations as serious as the destruction of the German fleet at Scapa Flow, the destruction of the submarine UC-48 off Ferrol and the destruction in the North Sea of certain submarines proceeding to England for delivery.

"Consequently Germany agrees: First (A) to deliver as reparation for the destruction of the German fleet at Scapa Flow:

"(A) Within a period of sixty days from the signing of the present protocol and under the conditions provided for by Paragraph 2 of Article 185 of the Treaty of Peace, the following five light cruisers: Königsberg, Pillau, Graudens, Regenberg, Strassburg.

"(B) Within a period of ninety days from the signing of the present protocol and in all respects in good condition and ready to function, such a number of floating docks, floating cranes, tugs and dredges equivalent to a total displacement of 400 000 tons as the principal Allied and Associated Powers may demand. As regards the docks the lifting power will be considered as displacement. In the number of docks above provided for there should be about 75 per cent. of docks of over 10,000 tons.

"(B) To be delivered within a period of ten days from the signing of the present protocol: A complete list of all the floating docks, floating cranes, tugs and dredges which are German property. List which will be delivered to the Interallied Naval Control Commission provided for by Article 209 of the Peace Treaty will include the material which on Nov. 11, 1918, belonged to the German Government or in which the German Government had an important interest at that date.

"(C) The officers and men who formed the crews of the battleships sunk at Scapa Flow and who are actually detained by the principal Allied and Associated Powers, with the exception of those whose surrender is provided for by Article 228 of the Peace Treaty, will be repatriated at the latest when Germany will have completed the above Paragraphs A and B.

"(D) The destroyer B-98 will be considered as one of the forty-two destroyers the delivery of which is provided for by Article 185 of the Peace Treaty.

"Second. To deliver within a period of ten days from the signing of the present protocol the machin[ery and en]gines of the submarines U-137, U-138, and U-150 to offset the destruction of the submarine UC-48 as well as the three engines of the submarine U-146, which is still to be delivered to offset the destruction of submarines in the North Sea.

"Third. To pay to the Allied and Associated Governments the value of the exported aerial material according to the decision and estimation which will be made and notified by the Aerial Control Commission provided for by Article 210 of the Peace Treaty and before Jan. 1, 1920.

"In case Germany should not fulfill these obligations within the time above specified the Allied and Associated Powers reserve the right to have recourse to any coercive measures or other which they may deem appropriate."

Bomb Threat Note Gives Chicago Scare

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Officials and employes in the Federal Building, the scene of a bomb explosion in September, 1918, when four persons were killed, were excited for several hours today by the finding of a note threatening to explode four pounds of TNT there.

Police, detectives and secret service operatives hastened to the building and all the doors were guarded. A mail clerk found the note, which read:

"At 2:30 P. M. beware. Another bomb will be thrown to the middle of the court, loaded with four pounds of TNT, enough to blow the building through the air. This time we fail not."

COPELAND HEARING TODAY

Ex-Commissioner Dillon Says Cost to Consumer Should Not Exceed 10 and 12 Cents.

Federal authorities, yesterday, continued taking testimony in the investigation into the cost of the production of milk and the increases of from one and one-half to two cents announced by the distributors for November.

Henry A. Guiler, appointed by Assistant Attorney General Francis P. Garvan to conduct the inquiry, examined several witnesses whose identities were not disclosed, because of instructions from Washington that the hearing should be secret. It was said that if the evidence warranted, criminal prosecutions under the Lever Food Control law or the Sherman act would be begun by the Government.

Mr. Guiler said last night his investigation probably would last two weeks, after which he would report to the Attorney General. He described the progress made as "very satisfactory," adding that a restriction had been placed on him discussing his work.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, sent letters to L. L. Campbell, President of the Clover Farms Company, and to Patrick Fox, Vice President of the Borden Farm Products Company, requesting them to explain the increases in price before the Fair Price Committee which meets in City Hall this afternoon. Dr. Copeland said the letters were similar to one he sent to Loton Horton, President of the Sheffield Farms Company, Wednesday. He said the examination of these officials would mark the beginning of an investigation which his department, in co-operation with the Federal authorities, would conduct.

The Health Commissioner said he received a telegram yesterday from a woman who did not give her name, urging him to ask the officials of the distributing concerns why at least one company was selling milk of an inferior grade while representing it to be the highest grade milk for infants. She asserted that it was necessary at times to add cream to this milk to bring it up to the proper standard for infants. Dr. Copeland said he would act on the suggestion.

Patrons of the Borden Farm Products Company were notified yesterday that the following prices would go into effect today: Certified grade A, 25 cents a quart; selected grade A, 20 cents; fluid grade B, 18 cents; extra heavy cream, half pints, 28 cents; route cream, 18 cents; buttermilk, 11 cents a quart. The prices demanded for grade A and B milk represent an increase of two cents a quart.

Charges Profiteering in Milk.

Testifying at the investigation into the Department of Farms and Markets being conducted by Special Commissioner George Gordon Battle, John J. Dillon, ex-Commissioner of Farms and Markets and editor of The Rural New Yorker, said the recent advances in milk prices by the distributers made the cost to the consumer out of all reason. He said that with proper distribution and a display of a spirit of fairness by the distributers, there was no reason why milk could not be sold in the city for 10 and 12 cents a quart.

Mr. Dillon was the first of several witnesses examined by John B. Coleman, counsel to Mr. Battle. He took up the subject of milk after he had declared that politics impaired the usefulness of the Farms and Markets Department.

"The distributers," he said, "are making an annual profit of $50,000,000 under these increases, while the farmer actually is receiving 48 cents a hundred pounds less this month than he did a year ago. The price of Grade B milk here is 17½ cents a quart.

"This gives the distributer a working margin of 10 cents a quart after he has paid the farmer the 7½ cents allowed the producer. He pays about a cent for pasteurizing the milk and for freight charges, so that the consumer pays in reality a margin of 9 cents to have the milk delivered from the railroad depot in the city to his house."

Mr. Dillon said "loose" milk in this city ought to be sold in stores at 10 cents a quart, and that the best grade should not cost more than 12 cents. He said 1,300,000 quarts were being sold daily here at a profit over these figures of 5½ cents.

Calls 10 and 12 Cents Fair Prices.

"A saving of 2 cents a quart," he added, "means $18,000,000 a year. Even more could be saved with a system of distribution that would eliminate the handling of milk and other foods by six or seven different profit-seeking middlemen. If the Department of Farms and Markets would work with the people, the Legislature, and local civic bodies and devise a practicable scheme of distribution there is no reason why milk should not be sold here at 10 cents a quart for the 'loose' and 12 cents for bottled milk.

"Here is where the department should do something. The trouble is that it has become so steeped in politics as to be virtually useless."

Mr. Dillon suggested that the department be abolished and in its place a Department of Agriculture and a Department of Markets created, distinct from each other, each with its own Commissioner. The heads of these departments, he continued, could be elected or appointed by the Governor. If elected he urged that a system of referendum be applied, so that the people could get rid of a Commissioner they did not want. If appointed, he said, the term should not last beyond the term of the Governor.

C. W. Burkitt, editor of The American Agriculturist, disagreed with Mr. Dillon in details of his plan, but advocated a general agricultural board to be appointed by the Governor. If such a board came into being, he said, it should concern itself with production and let the people work out their own system of distribution.

Other witnesses included Charles A. Weiting and Calvin Johnson, ex-Commissioners of Agriculture, and Dr. V. A. Moore of Cornell University, an expert on tuberculosis in animals.

EXPLAINS VANDERBILT WILL.

Trust Which Sons Now Receive Left to Testator's First Wife.

In connection with the reappraisal of the estate of Alfred G. Vanderbilt, showing that a trust fund of $1,700,000 now goes to Mr. Vanderbilt's sons, George and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, counsel for the Vanderbilt estate said yesterday that this money was part of a trust fund established for Mrs. Ellen French Vanderbilt, the testator's first wife. It reverted to the residuary estate upon her marriage to Lieutenant Paul Fitzsimons of the navy.

It was erroneously reported previously that the fund had been left to Mr. Vanderbilt's widow, and reverted to the estate on her marriage to Raymond T. Baker, Director of the Mint.

Nominated in Academy of Medicine.

Nominations for a coming election in the Academy of Medicine were announced last night as follows: Vice President, for three years, Dr. Rufus I. Cole; Trustee, five years, Dr. W. Gilman Thompson; Committee on Admissions, Dr. Sidney Burknap; Librarian, Dr. Karl M. Vogel. Dr. George B. Stewart, presided. Rev. Dr. Charles Aubrey Eaton addressed the Academy on "New Men for a New Age."

Greenleaf, Pocket Billiard Expert, Arrested, Also His Manager, in Binkowitz Murder Case

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 6.—Ralph Greenleaf, of Philadelphia, pocket billiard expert and near-champion, was arrested here late this evening on a Coroner's warrant in connection with the murder at Milford, Conn., of Benjamin Binkowitz, of New York City, messenger for a New York broker, who disappeared with $178,000 worth of Liberty bonds.

Greenleaf's manager, George Worden of New York City, was also arrested at the same time, the police say, both being held at headquarters on a warrant issued at the request of Coroner Eli Mix of New Haven.

The arrest is the first known to have been made in connection with the Binkowitz case since New York and Chicago police apprehended eleven persons charged with complicity in the murder of the New York messenger on the Milford Turnpike, or as accomplices in disposing of the Liberty Bonds alleged to have been stolen from his New York employers.

Both Greenleaf and Worden have been in the city the last 24 hours, Greenleaf appearing at a local billiard academy in a match game with another well-known cue expert. The arrest took place shortly after 11 o'clock this evening as the men were leaving the academy, surrounded by a group of admiring local billiard fans.

In the Tombs Court yesterday, Chief City Magistrate McAdoo dismissed the charge against Matty Pandolfi, who was arrested here at the request of the Connecticut authorities as a fugitive from justice, in connection with the investigation of the murder of Benjamin Binkowitz. Pandolfi was taken back to the Tombs to await trial, the police said, on another charge.

CLOTHES AND SHOES TO HAVE FAIR PRICES

Federal Board Will Consider Rates That Should Be Charged for Apparel.

OPPOSED BY MERCHANTS

Dealers Say Competition Is a Better Regulator—Sugar Situation Less Gloomy.

Acting under instruction from the United States Attorney General, A. Mitchell Palmer, Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator, announced yesterday that he had called a conference for early next week at which a fair-price schedule for clothing, hats and shoes would be considered. In addition to Mr. Williams, Federal District Attorney Francis G. Caffey, Assistant Federal District Attorney Ben A. Matthews, and Michael Friedsam, President of B. Altman & Co. and Chairman of the Fair Price Committee's Sub-committee on Clothing and Shoes, will take part in the conference.

This will make the second effort on the part of Federal officials in New York City to get some sort of a fair-price schedule for clothes to be made up along lines similar to the food list. The dealers themselves have opposed the publication of such a list, stating that it would tend to keep prices high rather than send them down. The element of competition, they have maintained, has done more to keep clothing prices level than a hundred fair-price lists could do. The big firms are continually advertising low-priced articles as an incentive to attract shoppers, which practice, the dealers have said, might be discontinued if a fair-price list were evolved.

On the other side, the Attorney General, it is known, is especially well pleased with the results of the publication of food fair-price lists, and he has complimented Mr. Williams again and again on what has been accomplished in New York on that line. It is hoped that if a schedule of fair prices is adopted it will be published from one end of the country to the other.

Mr. Williams could not say yesterday what angle discussion at the conference might take, but he declared it to be his belief that the city's merchants would do their utmost to meet the spirit as well as the letter of any demands the Government might put upon them.

The local food officials are highly pleased at the ending of the harbor strike which, according to Mr. Williams, will go a long way toward relieving the sugar shortage. Henry E. Costello, head of the raw sugar division of the United States Sugar Equalization Board, said yesterday that there was at least 30,000 tons of raw sugar in the harbor which was moving rapidly into the refineries now that there were longshoremen to handle the cargoes. He said it would not break the shortage entirely, but that it would certainly help conditions in homes and factories.

Mr. Williams, while warning against over-optimism, was also very enthusiastic about the prospects of the city getting more sugar.

"In a week, no longer," he said, "the sugar now in the harbor will be getting through to the refineries and things will be better. However, housewives and manufacturers should realize that we are not out of the woods yet by any means and should use sugar as economically as possible. I think, though, the worst is over."

The offer of C. H. McLean of the St. Lawrence Refinery to sell 1,000 tons of sugar on the local market at a price to be fixed by the Sugar Equalization Board, has been accepted by the United States District Attorney. Mr. Costello said yesterday that the price would probably be about 11 cents a pound. The sugar which has gone to a refiner already will be allotted early next week. The refiner in question, Mr. Costello said, had promised to refine the whole lot at cost.

POLICE STRIKERS TO END LABOR TIES

Final Effort Toward Reinstatement of Older Men, but Gov. Coolidge Is Unyielding.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 6.—The younger members of the striking Boston police force, by admitting complete defeat and proposing to sever all connection with the American Federation of Labor, today began a final effort to obtain the reinstatement of the older policemen, especially the men who served on the force for ten years or more.

A former police officer, Lawrence W. Welch, in expressing the feelings of the younger men said that he had requested President John F. McInness of the Policemen's Union to call a special meeting to take up the matter of canceling the charter granted by the Federation of Labor.

Mr. Welch said: "We realize we are badly beaten. Public sentiment has been against us from the first, and to attempt to hold out, as we have been doing, is simply playing a losing game. All the younger members of the striking force thoroughly realize the fact and do not feel that the older men who stuck to the younger men in the issue should go on indefinitely in a hopeless cause."

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 6.—Governor Coolidge in answer to what he termed "an effort apparently well organized to restore to the responsibility of their former offices the striking Boston policemen," reiterated in a statement here tonight that he would "resist entrusting to them the public safety."

"I favor and am willing to help and have helped find places of employment for all these men where they can bring forth works meet for repentance," the Governor said in his statement. "I shall resist entrusting to them the public safety. The forces of Americanism gathered with so much effort and sacrifice which came to my support and entrusted me with their command are not going to be ignominiously surrendered. The public confidence will not be betrayed."

TROUSERS OF PINK HER THEATRE 'GOWN'

Originator of the "Bifurcated Harleys" Urges Women to Adopt New Garments.

APPEARS IN FIVE COSTUMES

Says "Mannish" Attire Is Best for Workers in Home and in the Factory.

Fannie Harley, writer, lecturer, and originator of the "bifucated harleys," talked last evening on "The Irony of Fashion" before the New York Evening School of Industrial Art in the auditorium of Public School 27, Forty-second Street, near Third Avenue. She appeared in five different costumes—the utility, the afternoon, the matinee, the house, and the evening. In all she wore trousers.

In her final costume of the evening the lecturer wore a large picture hat with a long green ribbon. Her waist and trousers were of pink cloth. It was in this costume, it was said, that she went to the theatre.

Miss Harley advocated the wearing of trousers by women in factories and in the home. Women, she said, were trousers before men did, and in putting them on were simply returning to an old costume. In the factory, she said, their use, instead of skirts, prevented the collection of dangerous germs, greatly lessened the chances of accidents, and enabled the worker to perform her duties much better than now is the case. In the home, she argued, their use gave the woman more freedom of movement and were more cleanly. She could climb ladders, sit on window sills and do other things which her present costume does not fully permit. When through with household work, she would be much less fatigued than she now is.

The speaker illustrated her talk with lantern slides. She spoke of fashion making epochs and compared civilized and uncivilized women. She said fashion had borrowed largely from the barbarians. The side saddle, she said, had come into use when the Empress of Russia rode that way at a review of the troops because she had a hip deformity. Patches on the face descended from a lady of the court who used them to hide a skin disease. The neck ruff followed the practice of another court lady to hide a wen on her neck.

Dress reformers the lecturer condemned. They found fault with women when their dresses were long and when they were short, she said. This country, she declared, was a nation of workers. The great number of women employed at different tasks should wear costumes in which they could carry on their duties in the most satisfactory way.

It was woman's duty, she added, to be beautiful. There should be individuality and personality in her attire. Nature should be her guide. She praised man's ingenuity in the designing of dresses. It was far better to imitate the plumage of the humming bird than to kill the bird to adorn a woman's hat, she added. So, too, it was better to imitate the seal's color than to kill the mother seal. She referred to the new American school for costume designing, and declared it was well for this country to have its own styles. When a good style was invented it would be well for American women to adopt it and not discard it too quickly.

Previous to her appearance, David N. Mosessohn, executive director of the Associated Dress Industries, spoke on "Dress in America." He said the dress industry ranked third in this country. Its possibilities were great, he said and its production could be made to reach $6 000 000 000. There was no reason why New York should not become the fashion centre of the world, he argued. He said there was a great opportunity for the dress designer. It was a great art, and in following it one derived pleasure, remuneration and satisfaction.

PARADA SKIRTS APPROVED.

Dr. Heald the Only One Who Thinks They Are Too Short.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 6.—So far no one has agreed with the Rev. Harry B. Heald, rector of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, that the skirts of some of the young women who are taking part in a parada for charity are so short as to be positively shocking. At his own request the name of the clergyman and that of his wife were taken off the lists of patrons of the affair. No others have requested their names stricken from the list, it was said today. Indeed, two or three clergymen have expressed themselves as delighted with the entertainment.

The Rev. William J. McGill, a retired Episcopalian minister, named among the patrons of the parada, telephoned to Mrs. Chester A. Sudwell, Chairman of the committee: "I am very glad to have my name remain on the list of patrons. I know of no reason why I should withdraw it." The Rev. Richard Townsend Henshaw, rector of the Episcopal Church at Rye, purchased tickets today. The daughters of the Rev. William P. McDermott, pastor of the Episcopal Church here, are taking part in the parada.

President De Witt H. Lyon of the Board of Education denied today a report that the permission to use the high school auditorium for the parada had been rescinded. Mr. Lyon said he would not take such action even if a request was made to him. He does not believe there is anything to shock even the most sensitive in the parada.

CONFERS BELGIAN HONORS.

King Decorates Charles H. Sabin and Police Commissioner Enright.

The cross of Officer of the Order of Leopold II. has been bestowed upon Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, by King Albert of Belgium. The presentation was made yesterday by Baron de Cartier, the Belgian Ambassador.

Later in the day the Ambassador called at Police Headquarters and conferred the same decoration upon Police Commissioner Enright in recognition of the police arrangements for the protection of the King, Queen and Prince while they were in this city.

THREE PROHIBITION TEST CASES ARGUED

Root Denies Constitutionality of Wartime Act, "Passed Under False Pretenses."

PRESIDENT'S VETO CITED

Distilled Liquor Valued at $70,000,000 Involved in Another Case—Decision Reserved.

Declaring that Congress had violated its power in passing the Wartime Prohibition law and the Enforcement act, Elihu Root asserted before Judge Learned Hand yesterday that the law was passed under false pretenses and not for the purpose of carrying on the war. Mr. Root and William D. Guthrie appeared on behalf of Jacob Ruppert, a brewer, and attacked the Prohibition act as unconstitutional.

The validity of the Wartime Prohibition act was also attacked before Judge Hand by former Judge Walter Noyes, appearing for Dryfoos, Blum & Co., a distillery firm which seeks to have the Government refrain from interfering with the removal of whiskey from bonded warehouses. Distilled liquor estimated at $70,000,000 is said to be involved in this case.

Another large section of the liquor interests, the saloon and café and hotel owners, will be represented before Judge Hand at 10 o'clock this morning when the argument in the case of the Eastern Hotel Company is heard. The court will be asked to dismiss the preliminary injunction against the hotel. The cases argued yesterday were taken under advisement.

Former Senator Root argued that a state of war conferred no power on Congress which had not been conferred by the Constitution itself. He pointed out that the Constitution enumerated the powers granted to Congress and that the provision of authority for raising and supporting an army was one of the enumerated powers.

The President's Veto Cited.

"The President had told Congress that the armies had been demobilized," he added. "He had said over and over again that the actual war had ended and that it was no longer necessary to raise and support an army. When the act was passed Congress was not raising or supplying or about to raise or supply or proposing to raise an army. That is the significance of the President's veto message. It was his solemn official declaration that the armies of the United State had been demobilized. This was not controverted by Congress. Congress proceeded on the theory that this loose 'state of war' gave them power to pass this statute.

"We all know this bill was not passed in relation to carrying on the war, and Congress did not pretend to pass it for that reason. It was passed under false pretences, and we all know it. It is Congress that has violated the Constitution, and it is for the courts to determine the question.

"The prohibition amendment, passed during the war, provided one year for the liquor business to adjust itself. Now after the real war has passed, when no enemy threatens, Congress passed a law taking away from the people the year of grace that in time of greatest exigency the will of the people decreed. This imposes a greater duty on the courts to scrutinize the substance of this legislation and determine whether it was honest and sincere.

"On Oct. 27 the sale of this beer was legal," said Mr. Root, referring to the 2.75 beer which Ruppert seeks to continue manufacturing. "On Oct. 29 its sale was not lawful. On Oct. 28 Congress had no Constitutional authority to prohibit the manufacture and sale of the kind of beer made by the Ruppert Company."

In vetoing the Volstead act and in his Thanksgiving proclamation, Mr. Guthrie argued, the President proclaimed that demobilization had taken place. While the words of the veto were not in the regular form of a proclamation, Mr. Guthrie held that the President might issue a proclamation any way he saw fit and that he was informing the country in the documents mentioned that demobilization was at an end. He added there was no constitutional provision requiring the President to issue a proclamation in any stated manner.

Beer for Bathing.

Francis G. Caffey, United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, argued that the prohibition in the act was only against the use of liquor for beverage purposes and that it could be used for export "or other purposes."

"We can sell our beer for bathing purposes?" interjected Mr. Root.

"Absolutely," replied Mr. Caffey.

"That might be a way out of the whole difficulty," suggested Judge Hand with a smile.

We are legally at war with Germany, Mr. Caffey asserted, adding that Congress had the same power to pass the legislation in question a week ago as it did on Nov. 21, 1918. He declared that the prohibition measure was constitutional, for the courts have held that Congress has the power to determine the duration of its legislation.

While he did not desire to say that the words of the President in his veto message did not mean that demobilization was at end, nevertheless Mr. Caffey maintained that had the President desired to make such an announcement he would have done so by taking action that would not have left the courts and the public in doubt.

"This country is still legally at war with Germany," said Assistant Attorney General Frierson. Mr. Frierson predicted that New York would be "wide open" should the wet interest win the case.

In the distillers' case counsel for the distillers asserted that if the case were not decided within one month 90,000,000 gallons of liquor would be lost. The court was told that the liquors cannot be sold abroad, as Europeans do not take kindly to American liquor.

In his argument for the distillers Judge Noyes said the act may have been constitutional when passed, on Nov. 21, 1918, but that it was shorn of its constitutionality by events in November, 1919. He asserted that the wartime Prohibition act was opposed to constitutional prohibition, because the latter gave the dealers a year in which to sell their stocks.

Earl B. Barnes, Assistant United States Attorney, spoke in opposition to Judge Noyes and maintained the war was still on.

Revenue agents under Harry W. Mager, Chief of Internal Revenue agents, began an investigation yesterday of the 4,600 persons holding permits to traffic in nonbeverage alcohol in New York City.

Observations indicate, said Mr. Mager, that the only whisky now being consumed in New York is being made from nonbeverage or plain grain alcohol. The process of making "third-rail" whisky, he added, consists in dilution with prune juice or caramel. The liquid thus made is raw enough to tear the lining of the stomach. Mr. Mager has heard that this whisky is selling for $20 a quart.

Four arrests were made in Brooklyn yesterday on charges of violating the war-time prohibition law.

Ella Wilcox's Ashes Next Husband's.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 6.—The body of Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, author and poetess, who died a week ago at her home in Branford, was taken to Springfield, Mass., by automobile today. In the funeral party were a quartet and harpist, and a number of close friends, who attended the services at Springfield in the afternoon. After cremation the ashes will be placed in a niche next those of her husband in the ledge close to the late home of Mrs. Wilcox, at Short Beach, Conn.

Felix a Luxemburg Citizen When He Marries Duchess

LUXEMBURG, Nov. 4.—Luxemburg citizenship was conferred by the Chamber today by a vote of 25 to 21 on Prince Felix of Bourbon-Parma as a preliminary to his marriage to Grand Duchess Charlotte on Thursday.

Prince Felix is a brother of Prince Sixtus and Prince Xavier, who fought in the Belgian Army. He was in Austria when the war began and served as a Captain in the Austrian Army, declaring at the beginning of hostilities, however, that he would not fight against France.

GERMAN TROOPS DEFEAT RED PLOT

Seize Independents' Headquarters and the General Strike Collapses.

REVOLT PLAN DISCOVERED

German Communists Were to Rise to Overthrow the Government with Aid of Russian Soviet.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—The general strike called by the metal workers has collapsed.

Troops have occupied the headquarters of the Independent Socialists.

Documents were seized which, it is alleged, prove communist activity on the part of the Independents.

A Spartacide Movement.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

BERLIN, via Copenhagen, Nov. 5.—The labor movement has suddenly entered a state of confusion that will either lead to a repetition of the Spartacide terror of the first few months after the revolution or end with the extreme political leaders losing all influence with working masses.

After both the employers and employes of the metal industry had agreed on Saturday to submit to the arbitration of the Federal Labor Secretary and end the strike that had already lasted six weeks, anarchistic elements among the employes gathered on Sunday and decided the award of the Secretary of Labor would be ignored unless the employers declared themselves ready to re-employ and recognize certain men as members of factory councils within twenty-four hours.

The employers met this demand so far as admitting that the old members of the factory councils might remain for the present, but that in December new councils must be elected. These old factory councils consisted mainly of Spartacide elements, whose only aim is to continue the terror until the present Government collapses, to make room for a proletarian dictatorship. The ... councils brought on the present strike and terrorized the majority of the workmen into it against their will. The employers desired new councils elected by the uninfluenced secret vote of their workmen.

The employers refused to submit to the ultimatum whereupon the Spartacide elements among the metal workers called a meeting of delegates which declared a general strike of all metal workers and several related industries, meaning to increase the number of strikers from 150,000 to double, and perhaps much more. This at a time when many workmen were tired of the strike and starvation and were returning to work without even awaiting the official end. At Siemens-Halske works 3,000 men; at Borsig's equally large numbers presented themselves at the gates. There are similar reports from most of the factories.

But this did not suit the Communist and Independent leaders who realize that if the workmen return to the factories this time their power may be broken forever. If, therefore, they will not abandon their political aims they must drive the workmen to desperation. They must compel them to continue the strike against their own will to create the spirit of general anarchy necessary to overturn the present Government. A few days ago some newspapers warned the people of preparations for a new revolution which was to take place on Nov. 9, the anniversary of the overthrow of Kaiserdom. The Governing parties and their organs ridiculed the idea and the prohibition of a public celebration on Nov. 9 was ostensibly cancelled by Noske.

At the present moment it is absolutely impossible to say whether the workmen will return to work and ignore their own leaders, of which the employers seem pretty confident, or if the general strike in the metal industry will indeed prevail. If so the worst may be apprehended on Nov. 9.

ESSEN, Oct. 15, (Associated Press.)—Investigators for the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of Berlin claim to have discovered plans for a communist uprising to depose the present German Government and to establish a new one modeled on the Russian plan, which would be associated with the present Russian Soviet system. The investigators assert that the proposed revolution is to be assisted and officered by Russian Bolsheviki, and that the outbreak is to have its beginning in the Ruhr coal district. This responsible newspaper publishes a warning so energetic that it is accepted in well-informed quarters as of more importance than the many rumors in circulation.

Munich, Brunswick, and other cities are claimed to be sub-centres for the movement. According to the paper, Spartacides and Communists will be armed throughout Germany. The Communists are said to count on desertion by whole groups of the National Defense army and on taking them into their "Red army." General fighting headquarters, it is asserted, will be established in Brunswick, already a Spartacide and Communist centre, and a council-government is to be proclaimed.

LLOYD GEORGE FAVORS LADY ASTOR'S ELECTION

She Answers Hecklers Who Find Objections in Her American Birth.

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—Lady Astor has received the personal indorsement of Premier Lloyd George in her candidacy for a seat in the House of Commons from the Plymouth district. The Premier, it was announced today, has sent her a letter of encouragement and a promise of his hearty support.

Lady Astor's American birth was forced into the campaign last night for the first time when at a schoolhouse meeting a man asked:

"Aren't there any English women quite as fit to be the first woman member of the British Parliament as an American?"

Lady Astor replied to the questioner with considerable spirit:

"There are a great many, but there are none who know the needs and conditions of Plymouth as I do," she said.

The heckler persisted, asking:

"Aren't there other social questions in America to which you could give your attention to better advantage?"

Lady Astor vehemently denounced this question as an insult, upon which the inquirer apologized.

TAMMANY GRIEVING OVER LOST JOBS

Small Army of Placeholders to be Separated from Payroll as Result of Election.

CURRAN HAS RICH "PLUMS."

New Manhattan President Will Dispense Posts Worth $79,580 a Year.

RECOUNT TALK SUBSIDES

Organization Preparing to Take Care of Moran and Boyle After Jan. 1.

Many Tammany men drawing fat salaries from the city will be cut off the municipal payroll as a result of the defeat of Borough President Edward F. Boyle in Tuesday's election. In consequence gnashing of teeth can be heard in Tammany Hall.

One Tammany brave who will have to look for other means of livelihood after Jan. 1, as a result of City Magistrate H. H. Curran's election as Borough President, is James J. Hagan, Tammany leader of the Seventh Assembly District, who seldom has been out of a city job since he became a member of the Executive Committee of Tammany Hall.

Hagan is Assistant Commissioner of Public Works for Manhattan in the Borough President's office, and as such draws $6,000 a year. It was said on good authority yesterday that his successor already had been picked. If he has not, he will be before long, for the Republican organization is not overlooking the patronage profit that should go with its victory.

While the position of President of the Aldermanic Board ranks in importance in the city administration next to that of the Mayor and the Controller, and the Aldermanic President, in effect, is Vice Mayor of the city, Tammany would have cared less for the loss of that office than for the loss of the Borough President's. Only a handful of jobs are in the Aldermanic President's gift, while the Borough President has hundreds, big and small.

List of Curran's "Plums."

The big exempt positions which Borough President Curran will have at his disposal are:

Secretary of the Borough	$5,000
Secretary to the President	4,500
Stenographer to the President	1,900
Confidential Inspector	3,000
Superintendent of Buildings	6,000
Secretary to Supt. of Buildings	3,000
Stenographer to Supt. of Buildings	1,500
Chief Inspector	4,000
Commissioner of Public Works	7,200
Assistant Com. of Public Works	6,000
Secretary to Com. of Public Works	3,540
Stenographer to Com. of Public Works	1,620
Supt. Public Buildings and Offices	5,000
Consulting Engineer	7,200
Consulting Engineer of Sewers	6,000
Chief Engineer of Highways	[illegible]
Chief Engineer of Sewers	5,000
Chief of Corporation Inspectors	3,000
Total	$79,580

Many positions in the Borough President's department are competitive and the incumbents protected against removal except for cause, but there are hundreds of jobs which can be parceled out regardless of the Civil Service law in the Bureau of Public Buildings and the Department of Public Works.

These jobs are highly prized, though the salaries are humble and paid at a per diem rate. They will enable the Republican leaders to care for a small army of workers who are useful in campaigns and elections, but not qualified for positions by special training or education. The wise political leader, as a rule, prefers ten $1,000 jobs to one that pays $10,000.

Fiorello H. La Guardia, the President-elect of the Board of Aldermen, will have only four appointments. They are an assistant at $5,500, a secretary at $2,400, and two examiners, one at $4,000 and the other at $3,300. The City Clerk, who also is Clerk of the Aldermanic Board, attends to the patronage of the board itself.

Talk of Recount Dropped.

Talk of possible court action looking to a recount on behalf of Robert L. Moran, President of the Aldermanic Board, and Borough President Boyle caused a flutter for a few hours after the complete returns had disclosed the extent of the débâcle, but yesterday had died down except for surprised comment at Tammany trying to pry behind the returns. This, under Tammany's ethical code, always has been regarded as bad form.

It was said last night that while the Tammany Law Committee had not abandoned the project, nothing probably would be done until after the Aldermen had canvassed the vote and filed the official returns. The canvass will begin Tuesday, when the Aldermen of each borough meet as a canvassing board, each group in its respective Borough Hall. Both parties will have expert accountants check up on the tabulation. The fact that an error in the first count, when corrected, set Borough President Boyle back some 6,000 votes, was thought to have had something to do with the paucity in Tammany recount talk.

Moran and Boyle will be handsomely taken care of, it was rumored, when their terms expire. Mr. Boyle, who retired as a Justice of the Municipal Court, it was hinted, might be reappointed by Mayor Hylan to that post, or possibly to the vacancy that will arise when City Magistrate Curran takes his new position.

Either place would pay $8,000 a year, and if he draws the place on the Magistrate's bench, his term would run until April 30, 1927. If he should be named to the Municipal Court, he would have to run for re-election next year.

Gloom Heavy in Wigwam.

Mr. Moran, it was said, would have the backing of the organization for the vacancy that will occur when Joseph M. Callahan, Justice-elect to the City Court, retires as County Clerk in the Bronx to go on the bench. The Governor appoints Mr. Callahan's successor. The position pays $10,000 a year.

The crape hung heavily on the Tammany doorbell yesterday. The place which for four weeks was the noisy haunt of Tammany district leaders was deserted. Leader Murphy did not appear. It was said he had gone to Good Ground to play golf and rest. Tammany leaders laugh scornfully at the suggestion that Tuesday's disaster will mean the political funeral of the Tammany boss.

Governor Smith said at the Biltmore that he did not care to comment on the election and that he had nothing to say regarding plans by the Fair Play Committee of One Thousand to protect public officials against unjust attacks in the Hearst newspapers. He expected to return to Albany today.

MAY NAME BROGAN TO POST.

Swindlers' Foe Rumored for Internal Revenue Collector.

Word was received from Washington last night that Edward S. Brogan, ex-Assistant District Attorney in charge of the Bureau of Commercial Frauds under District Attorney Swann, might be appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for the Third New York District, to succeed Mark Eisner, who retired some months ago.

Mr. Brogan has the backing for the appointment of many men influential in Wall Street, who warmly approved his zeal in hunting down financial swindlers and Liberty bond scalpers.

The Value of a Coal Mine

Coal mining is a business unto itself—it involves more than the usual risks and problems of manufacturing.

Therefore ordinary appraisals by engineers alone—or by auditors alone—cannot give full report of values or possibilities.

The Peabody Coal Company knows coal and coal mining both from the marketing as well as the operating end.

We are one of the largest producers of bituminous coal in the country—operating 28 mines, with thirteen million tons capacity.

With our organization and 38 years' experience we furnish banks, bond houses, trustees or others with practical appraisals and reports on coal properties that are more than mere theory and figures.

We also undertake the management of property where desired.

SMITH ASKS HELP TO REMOVE BOARDS

Tells Fifth Avenue Merchants of Program to Abolish "Useless" Commissions.

URGES ACTIVITY IN POLITICS

Governor Cheered When Praised for Courage in "Going Out to Meet Coiled Reptile."

Governor Alfred E. Smith, who spoke last night at the dinner of the Fifth Avenue Association at the Waldorf-Astoria, asked the association to appoint a committee on laws and legislation to aid him in a program to abolish useless State boards and commissions among the 187 now in existence as a measure of economy.

The Governor received an ovation from the association after his presentation by Gage E. Tarbell, the toastmaster, who said:

"During the last few days New York has seen an example of courage that is worth while, the courage that is willing to go out and meet the reptile that is coiled and ready to strike, or, if necessary, to meet the bearded lion in his den. It does us good as American citizens to know that the community in which we live respects a man and believes in a man who has that kind of courage. I believe the people of this Commonwealth think a good deal more of our distinguished Governor than they did a week ago."

Mr. Tarbell's allusion to the "coiled reptile" evoken great applause. His mention of a "bearded lion" seemed to puzzle his hearers and cause some discussion as to the personage symbolized.

The Governor said the problems now confronting the State were never exceeded in their importance on the future, and attributed the worst evils from which the State was suffering to indifference by business men to the State's affairs. He called attention to the fact that Wilmington, Baltimore and other ports were advertising in the newspapers of this city for ocean and coastwise traffic, on the ground that the failure of public officials to plan and build for the future of this port had resulted in its being unprepared for commerce which other ports were equipping themselves to handle.

He got a thin showing of hands when he asked how many of the Fifth Avenue merchants knew of the proposed port treaty with New Jersey which was presented at the last Legislature, and how many knew one was to be presented at the next session. He asked that the association and all other similar bodies in New York go deeply into these problems, to make sure of positive action for the future of New York harbor at the next Legislature.

The Governor said the huge encrustation of boards and commissions had been heaped upon the State by successive Legislatures and that the general ignorance of the public as to transactions at Albany made it impossible in the past to stop the multiplication of useless offices.

One trouble, he said, was that "every Governor in his first year hasn't known what to suggest, and in the second has been studying for re-election."

The Governor said that he personally was not looking for re-election. He asserted that while wasting its income on useless offices, the State was skimping essential services, such as the care of the insane and of prisoners, and that it was becoming impossible to man State offices with a high-grade personnel because the salaries paid generally were those paid in 1890 and 1892. He predicted the State income tax would arouse a new interest against waste in State expenditures.

Mr. Tarbell earlier had praised the women of the city fort heir handling of the franchise Tuesday.

"They showed us," he said, "how splendidly they could make use of the right of suffrage. When I used to advocate it some of my friends would say that Charley Murphy and Tammany would vote them all. I wonder how Charley Murphy and Tammany Hall felt about it yesterday morning."

The Governor referred to this in passing, saying:

"I join with the toastmaster in complimenting the women on the way they voted, because I attribute to them the salvation of what was left."

Archbishop Hayes praised the association for its efforts to preserve the dignified and beautiful character of Fifth Avenue and to keep the "Red Flag" off it.

COLLEGES TO FLY RACES.

Contest for Columbia, Harvard, and Yale Under Consideration.

Plans for a tri-collegiate airplane race next Spring among Columbia, Harvard, and Yale were discussed yesterday by the Columbia Aero Club. The proposed race is to be modeled after the New York-to-Toronto and return contest. As suggested at the meeting, Columbia entrants would leave Mineola and fly to the Harvard Stadium and return, and Harvard men would fly the same course starting at Harvard. Yale men would either race from New Haven to Mineola and back, with a handicap for difference in distance, or fly from New Haven to Cambridge, and thence to Mineola.

Major G. D. Larner, an American ace, was elected President of the Columbia club. Other officers chosen were R. M. Craigmyle, Vice President; L. B. Kane, Treasurer, and L. A. Landeen, Secretary. The club has one plane which members use. The club already has a trophy won by E. L. Smith in the intercollegiate race at Atlantic City last June.

PASTOR WINS FARM SUIT.

Need Not Pay for Land He Bought to Dig Up Capt. Kidd's Gold.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 6.—Frederick Loehrs, pastor of the Congregation of the Enlightenment of Soul and Spirit, at 202 Market Street, will not have to pay a $5,000 note to Daniel Balsinger for a farm which he bought with the expectation of finding buried treasure there. A Circuit Court jury today brought in a verdict of "no cause of action" in Balsinger's suit against the minister.

Loehrs testified that Balsinger, who owns a farm in Oakland, told him a story of a negro woman who dreamed that there was $2,000,000 in gold said to have been buried there by the pirate, Captain Kidd.

Mr. Loehrs paid $20 in cash and gave a promissory note for $5,000 and got the farm. He and two women of the congregation, Mrs. Sophie Sautter, Treasurer, and Mrs. Marie Blumer, Secretary, dug all over the farm, but found no sign of any hidden treasure.

Balsinger denied Loehrs's story that he had spoken about hidden treasure.

TO CURB COMMUNIST CROWD

Mayor Orders Police to Watch Rutgers Square Meeting.

Mayor Hylan yesterday sent a letter to Police Commissioner Enright asking him to take "stern and prompt" measures against possibility of disorder at the mass meeting to be held Saturday afternoon at Rutgers Square by the Communist Party. This is the letter:

"CITY OF NEW YORK,
"OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
"November 6, 1919.

"Richard E. Enright, Esq.,
"Police Commissioner.

"Dear Commissioner:

"A circular has been brought to my attention purported to be issued by the Communist Party calling a monster mass demonstration at 2 P. M., Saturday, November 8, 1919, at Rutgers Square. The purpose of this gathering set forth in the notice is to celebrate the second anniversary of the Bolsheviki Revolution, but it calls sinisterly for a 'strike on November 8th.'

"This mass meeting as you no doubt appreciate is called by the most brutal, the most vicious and the most unpatriotic element in our community. It represents horrible forces that are opposed to civilization everywhere and now preaching Bolshevism and advocating anarchy in New York. Its disciples passionately hate American institutions and American ideals. They openly seek to destroy law and order and to substitute the rule of the mob for the rule of government.

"Until such time as the government can drive these fanatical savages out of the country it is our duty to curb their activities in this city. Government and the authority of law must be respected.

"See to it that the police tolerate no disorder of any kind at this meeting and that stern and prompt measures are taken to curb any trouble that its leaders may try to create.

"Our citizens generally do not realize how wicked and how desperate these people are, and I hope no law-abiding man or woman innocently or out of curiosity will run the risk of appearing to join with them on next Saturday.

"Very truly yours,
"JOHN F. HYLAN,
"Mayor."

It was said yesterday that the police would take no steps to prohibit the meeting, but would be prepared to break it up at the first signs of disorder.

CHURCH 'SCHOOL' ON LABOR.

Clergymen Hear Discussion of Industrial Problems.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 6.—What the relation of the church toward present day industrial and social problems and issues should be was the feature of today's sessions of the "school" for prominent Protestant clergymen and laymen which the interchurch world movement is conducting here. The "students," more than 100 in number and representatives of more than a dozen of the large evangelical denominations associated in the inter-church organization, will go out from this place as the "faculty" of a national Christian extension university which will be conducted in every State next month to explain the purposes and program of the inter-church world movement.

In the course of today's discussions Dr. Harry F. Ward of the Union Theological Seminary, New York, said that the churches must insist that a the world needs a new order in which the principles of Christianity will be applied in private and corporate relationships.

Asked as to his personal views, Professor Ward said that a he believed that eventually the system of representative Government in the United States should be developed to include economic as well as geographical representation.

"The working people," he said, "are becoming as distrustful of politicians in industrial questions as are capitalists."

The use of churches as public forums was urged by Dr. John McDowell of Baltimore, Secretary of the Social Service Commission of the Presbyterian church.

"Because the church has not kept abreast of and in the thought of the times," he said, "we have today anarchy, un-Godly Bolshevists and narrow-minded capitalism."

J. Y. Atchison of New York General Secretary of the Northern Baptists Board of Promotion, said that "the world's greatest need is the application of Christian principles to industrial and social problems, and its greatest hope is in an aroused church membership."

Mrs. Margaret E. Zimmerman Bequeathed Fortune to Church and Philanthropy.

The estate of Mrs. Margaret E. Zimmerman, last surviving daughter of William Ponsonby Furniss, who made a fortune in shipping many years ago, was appraised yesterday at $1,879,858. Mrs. Zimmerman, who died on March 16, 1918, had inherited the property left by two unmarried sisters who predeceased her.

With the exception of $126,136, she left her estate to Protestant Episcopal and philanthropic organizations. The residue of $570,992 went to St. Michael's Church, of which she was a member for many years. The diocesan missionary and church extension organizations were left $223,904, and the New York Nursery and Child's Hospital received $200,000. The Cathedral of St. John the Divine received $140,000 and the Sheltering Arms $100,000.

Mrs. Zimmerman had $337,790 in real estate, including The Portsmouth, at 38 West Ninth Street, $160,000, and The Hampshire, 50 West Ninth Street, $110,000. She had $106,904 in cash and $945,-336 in stocks and bonds. Her inter st in a trust fund created by her father was valued at $427,311.

RAID CHICAGO UNION.

Clothing Workers Are Accused of Extortion by Strike Threats.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Detectives from the State's Attorney's office today raided the local offices of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America in an attempt to obtain evidence to substantiate charges that officials of the organization during the last year and a half have obtained thousands of dollars from clothing manufacturers in Chicago and other cities by extortion, strikes, and boycotts.

The State's Attorney desired to obtain the records and bankbooks of the organization and certain of its officers. Nicholas Michels, Assistant State's Attorney, said that complaints had been received from a number of Chicago clothing manufacturers. It is said that $30,000 was obtained from one firm in this manner.

Samuel Levin is general manager and Frank Rosenbloom and Samuel Rissman are assistant managers of the Chicago branch of the organization.

KERNAN FOUND IN YALE.

Syracuse University Star Kept Whereabouts Hid for 2 Weeks.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 6.—The whereabouts of James M. ("Jimmy") Kernan, Syracuse University star athlete, who dropped out of sight here two weeks ago, leaving the impression he was to enter business, was disclosed today when friends received letters from him at Yale University.

Kernan, who is a star in three major sports, was in his junior year. This season he had some trouble with "Chick" Meehan, head field coach, and was suspended from the football team.

Besides being a football man he was forward on the basketball team last season and was figured as a regular for one of these berths on Coach Dollard's quintet this year again. Perhaps his best game is baseball, in which he was first-string catcher on the Orange nine last year.

Silk Yarns Affect Woolens.

In the fancy division of the piece goods trade the difficulty in getting supplies of silk yarns has now reached a point where it is overshadowing labor causes as a reason for decreased production. The demand for material of the sort has been especially heavy in view of the character of fabric which is now finding the most favor. The shortage is placed at the door of the recent strike in the silk dyeing branch, to the heavy demand, and to the uncertainty of raw silk prices, which make spinners rather afraid to purchase quantities at the present high values.

Weather Helps Garment Sales.

Manufacturers who explained that the weather was the main reason for slack business in the women's garment industry yesterday pointed to renewed activity in the trade as proof that their predictions were well founded. It was stated that buyers are in the market in increasing number and that all danger of the season "petering out" in a general price slaughter is over. With the colder weather, retail sales have improved to a good extent, it was said, and the improvement has been reflected in the business now being done by the manufacturers.

Scarf Capes Get Wide Sale.

Although the sweater manufacturers have not as yet given much publicity to the garment, the success which has attended the launching of the scarf cape is regarded as an omen that this new dress accessory will become very popular. As a rule, the scarf is made of brushed wool. Light tans and greens are considered the leading colors. By arranging the scarf properly, it becomes practically a garment in place of a cape. A wide sale is promised the novelty as a sporting garment for skating and other Winter sports. It is also being ordered for retail sale in the early Spring.

Silk Demand Eases Off.

Business in silks during the week has showed some signs of easing off. While this is ascribed by some of the manufacturers to the sold up condition of the market, buyers on the other hand believe that high prices have something to do with the new development. The slackening of the demand has not reached a very noticeable stage from the standpoint of actual sales, it was said yesterday, but buyers are now disposed to place their orders more carefully. In the Spring silks, foulards continue to feature operations. Taffetas are also sold in a brisk way where they can be found. Crêpes are scarce and therefore considered highly desirable.

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

The drop in cotton did not stop business in gray goods from being done in this market yesterday at prices which in several cases showed advances over those paid for the same cloths on Wednesday. For shipment during this month and next, buyers paid 30 cents for 39-inch 80-squares, 23 cents for 39-inch 68-72s, and 19¼ cents for 38½-inch 64-60s. They also paid 25 cents for 39-inch 72-76s for delivery in November, December, and January. Among the day's sheetings sales were November lots of 5-yard goods at 17½ cents, and January-March shipments of 5.50s at 15¾ cents. For November-December 64-104, 4.20-yard sateens 36 cents was paid. The same price was asked for standard 40-inch 8.50-yard lawns, but no sales were reported. The best that has been done on those goods so far is 35 cents.

Charge to Register Address.

On Nov. 1 it became necessary for concerns that use cable addresses to register the same at a bureau established for the purpose. A charge of $2.50 was made for each registration. Formerly the cable companies operated separate bureaus and, in announcing the establishment of a main office, it was stated that in this way greater efficiency will be secured and at the same time the records be freed of a large number of names that have never been used. Quite a little sentiment has developed in the dry goods market against the charge which is made for registration. Houses that are old and good customers of the cable companies contend that the registration fee, which must be paid every year, may be considered proper when levied upon new customers but should not apply to those who have been using the cables for many years.

A Novelty from Japan.

A novelty that promises many possibilities in conjunction with women's hats for the Winter resorts, and later on for the regular Spring season, has just been received in this country from Japan. It is particularly adaptable for use on large straw body hats, being a padded tubing exactly like the thick padded edge that is seen on the bottom of fine Japanese kimonos. The new material is made of rolled wool covered with fine China silk and is offered in a number of bright, alluring color combinations. The rolls come in yard lengths, but vary in diameter from a half-inch to an inch. Designers think well of them for binding the edge of body hats, and also for use as bands around the crown, with tied bows. Another variety of the article is made of heavy Japanese crepe in brilliant colors.

Airplane Linens Selling Freely.

Although they have been on sale only a little over a week, and although a shortage of samples has prevented the goods from being offered to prospective buyers by salesmen, nearly 2,000,000 yards of the British airplane linens to be sold in this country have been disposed of. This is approximately one quarter of the yardage allotted to the United States. The converters and importers continue to be the leading buyers, although some good purchases by jobbers were told of yesterday at the office of the Hunter Manufacturing and Commission Company, the selling agent. It was said, however, that most of the jobbing business would probably be done after the arrival of complete sample swatches made possible the offering of the goods direct to that trade. Initial deliveries of the goods to buyers are in prospect for the near future.

Japanese Silk Prices Recover.

The Yokohama raw silk market has completely reversed itself, as a result of the flood of American orders that followed the recent price break there, and has advanced over 200 yen per picul. This, according to cables received by H. L. Gwalter & Co., brings the quotation on Sinshiu No. 1 to the new record level of 2,820 per picul. At this price trading has quieted down somewhat, but the Japanese reelers appear confident that the market will soon reach the much desired 3,000-yen mark. Stocks there at the end of October amounted to 15,000 bales, compared with 28,100 bales at that time last year. The Canton market continues very firm, with a strong rising tendency. Reports from Shanghai tell of a quiet but firm market, with the advancing silver exchange increasing the lay-down costs. Milan is active and higher, with stocks very light. The local market is firmer, in sympathy with the price trend in the primary centres, and any silks offered slightly under current rates are quickly snapped up.

Will Find Things Improved.

When local manufacturers of dresses begin to act on information from Paris to the effect that there is a marked tendency toward fine cotton fabrics in the models shown for Winter resort and Spring wear, they will discover something which some of them may not have known before—that it is no longer necessary to go to Europe to get the fabrics they want. In other words, so vast an improvement has been made in the production of fine and novelty cottons in this country in the last few years that only a confirmed believer in things imported will insist on spending his money for foreign goods of this nature. While looking forward to an increased business as a result of the new vogue, converters of the goods in this country are wondering just how much credit they will get for their efforts from the retail trade. In other words, they are wondering just how many of their novelties will be exploited by the retailers as the products of European brains and skill.

ACCUSES THIRTEEN FIRMS.

Trade Commission Makes Charges Against Road Machinery Concerns.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The Federal Trade Commission issued formal complaints today charging unfair competition against thirteen interstate road-machinery and street-paving companies. Bribery of public officials is one of the charges which will be heard when the case goes to trial.

Ten of the concerns are cited in the complaints for alleged giving of gratuities such as meals, cigars, entertainments and the like, and for alleged secret paying of sums of money to public officials and employes of customers, and also for alleged payment of the expenses of the public officials for visits to the concerns' plants for the inspection of road machinery.

The thirteen concerns were directed to file answer with the commission at Washington on Dec. 22.

Senate to Honor Dead from Russia.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Vice-President Marshall today named a committee to represent the Senate in receiving the bodies of 111 American soldiers who were killed or died in Northern Russia. The bodies will arrive in New York Sunday on the steamer Lake Daraga. Chairman Wadsworth of the Senate Military Committee, will head the committee, which will include Senators Chamberlain, Oregon; Newberry, Michigan; Beckham, Kentucky; McCormick, Illinois, and Pomerene, Ohio.

House Joins in Honoring Moore.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—A quorum call was suspended for several minutes in the House today while Democratic and Republican members joined in an ovation to Representative Moore, Republican, Pennsylvania, Mayor-elect of Philadelphia. Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, President-elect of the Board of Aldermen of New York City, was not present.

facts on factoring

Another little story: A salesman came to us with an idea he had in mind about representing a mill, and with our co-operation he signed up this mill as a direct selling agent; he was a hard worker and was not satisfied with one mill — he therefore got two mills, and is acquiring more. His sales through us this year will exceed $1,000,000, and we consider him one of the comers on the Avenue. This is what we mean by developing an account with our co-operation. Come in and talk it over.

URGES FOREIGN ALLIANCES.

Spanish Premier Advocates Treaties as Guarantees Against War.

MADRID, Nov. 6.—Alliances by Spain with friendly powers to insure the avoidance of war were urged by former Premier Romanones in a speech at a banquet here last evening.

"I know the hour of alliances has sounded for Spain," the former Premier said, "but it is an hour for alliances contracted by the force of public opinion in common accord with the Government and the King. Treaties of alliance with France, Great Britain, and the United States would be the surest guarantees we could have to keep out of war. The moment, therefore, has come to establish our bonds not only with France and England, but with the United States and Portugal."

Why Preferred Stocks Are So Popular
Many corporations are financing their requirements through Preferred Stock issues rather than by Bonds and Notes because in this way they decrease their taxation. Twelve Preferred Stocks yielding from 5.94% to 8% which compare favorably with Bonds are described in a new circular which we will send on request.

USE JUDGMENT IN SELECTING YOUR INVESTMENTS
EXPERTS are of the opinion that bonds of real intrinsic merit purchased around present prices are practically certain to sell considerably higher within the next few years. The question, therefore, is not so much whether you should buy now, as it is that you use the proper amount of judgment in making selections. Should you wish us to submit to you a list of diversified investments, we would be glad to do so, following out your ideas as to type and geographical location as closely as possible.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Fluctuate Violently Under Money Rate Influences—Rail Bonds Active.

Stocks were churned up and down with a violence yesterday which made it difficult to trace the price trend from one quarter-hour to the next. Opening slightly lower than the preceding day's closing level, quotations gradually improved until the initial call money rate was announced. This was 12 per cent., at which quotation the renewals of existing loans were arranged. The stiff renewal rate seemed to be a signal for heavy selling of the industrial shares, an operation in which short sellers appeared to take an important part, and shortly the more sensitive stocks were driven down from 3 to more than 10 points. Demand loans in the early afternoon again commanded 20 per cent., but when the brokerage offices were expecting to learn of even a higher rate on the Stock Exchange's report that considerable money was being offered at 5 per cent. spread abroad and a quick buying movement in the last half-hour brought about a sharp recovery. At the end of the day the price front displayed much irregularity, with nearly as many issues showing net gains as losses. The official rates for call money on the board contained none lower than 9 per cent., and last loans were put through at 10 per cent.

As the money market appeared to be the only influence of any material weight upon stock dealings, the highly confused movements of prices indicated an uncertain and hesitant state of mind among the great body of speculators. In the cotton and grain markets fairly abrupt price declines disclosed a disturbed condition of sentiment also, which was interpreted in trading quarters as additional evidence of nervousness in respect to steps to be taken by Federal Reserve authorities to curtail the use of bank credit in speculative undertakings. Outside of the dampening influence of the money market and its unknown possibilities there was little in the day's developments to restrain bullish calculations. The Street paid much attention to news from Washington that informal efforts were being made to reconcile differences between soft coal producers and the miners, and the feeling was stronger than before that the labor outlook was on the mend.

The Bank of England's action in increasing the discount rate from 5 to 6 per cent. had a remote influence upon the local financial markets, if any at all. Coming immediately after the Federal Reserve Bank of New York had increased its rate, with the avowed purpose of restricting the application of credit to speculation, a natural inference was that the British bank had been moved by a similar impulse. Certainly, the Bank of England's rate was advanced to a point seen but a few times prior to the outbreak of the war for the purpose of causing borrowing banks to reduce their loans to clients, and, probably, also to influence foreign bankers with balances in London to leave them there. The bank is doubtless desirous of building up its reserve, the proportion of reserves to liabilities this week being 15.80 per cent., a figure extraordinarily low for the season. The broad deduction to be made from the higher discount rate is that the British financial leaders are undertaking, as the American authorities have done, to use practical means for deflating credit and limiting its use in less essential directions.

Italian exchange rates receded further, but sterling and francs were firm. The bond market was somewhat more active than usual, some of the low-priced railroad issues gaining ground on the strength of Washington information in respect to plans for returning the roads to their owners at the end of the year.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Weighing Values.

Wall Street has been confronted with the difficult problem during the last two days of balancing the favorable news developments against the stringency in the money market and endeavoring to determine the probable effect on the stock market. If it was merely a mechanical process rather than a mental one the answer would be easy of determination, but under the circumstances it is a question of judgment, and unanimity of opinion is lacking. In so far as the rally late yesterday afternoon is concerned it might be argued that money was the chief factor in the calculations, for under a lower money rate there developed a buoyancy that was surprising in view of the downward trend during most of the day. On the other hand the market could hardly have responded as it did had it not been that there is a decidedly optimistic view regarding the industrial future, due to the decline which has taken place in the power of radicals to undermine stability.

Anglo-American Oil.

The most active of the Standard Oil group of stocks during the last two days has been Anglo-American, an advance from 29 to 37 having been recorded in that time. The gain yesterday was about 3 points. The trading on Wednesday amounted to about 100,000 shares, and it was almost as heavy yesterday, the preponderance of buying coming from British sources. One brokerage house alone traded in approximately 10,000 shares yesterday. Comparatively little of this turnover is recorded in the Curb market transactions, the great bulk of it being over the counter in brokerage houses which are known as Standard Oil specialists.

Advancing Renewal Rates.

Yesterday's renewal rate for demand collateral loans was made 12 per cent., the highest figure yet reached for this all-important quotation. Later in the day the rate was run up to 20 per cent., and the stock market became excited over the occurrence. But there can be little doubt that the market got its greatest shock from the renewal figure, and from the way prices for securities moved it seemed reasonably obvious that a fairly frequent repetition of yesterday's renewal rate would do about as much as anything else possibly could to bring the present speculation to an early end. A market can stand up against high interest rates so long as those high rates obtain only in the afternoon, when a few minor balances are being borrowed against, but when the great mass of loans are put up, that makes for a very different situation.

The Bank of England.

The advance in the discount rate of the Bank of England to 6 per cent. would seem to indicate that London is having pretty much the same experience that we are. Reports for some time have spoken of a big speculation in securities going on in London, but call money rates there have been held at 2½ per cent. and discount rates have ruled around 4¾ to 4⅞ per cent. Yesterday, notwithstanding the Bank's action, there were no changes reported in the cabled advices. However, it is assumed that if London is really to do all the Continental financing that is being talked about, it may be necessary to advance money rates somewhat in certain channels in order to discourage excessive speculation at home. Advancing the Bank of England rate might possibly result in attracting some funds to London, too, which otherwise would be used for other purposes.

Foreign Credits.

The financial district was flooded yesterday with rumors of new foreign financing. Huge loans, according to these rumors, were about to be arranged, or had been arranged, for several countries. Switzerland was to get $250,000,000; Poland the same, and so on. But bankers who have attended to Swiss financing in the past disclaimed any knowledge of new offerings and the Polish business resolved itself into the matter of one large bank being appointed agent for the Polish Government in an offering of a Polish National loan, presumably to Poles in this country. Incidentally, it was learned yesterday that the proposed $40,000,000 American-British loan to the Kolchak Government, of which $22,000,000 is to be furnished by American bankers and $18,000,000 by London financiers, is to take the form of a bank credit, to run for eighteen months at 6 per cent., with no public offering contemplated.

National Car Trust Progressing.

It was learned in the financial district yesterday that virtually all that remains to be done now in order to start the actual formation of a National Equipment Trust Corporation for the financing of railroad equipment purchased by the Railroad Administration is the clearing up of details and the framing of an agreement between the lawyers and corporate managers and the Railroad Administration. This agreement will embrace the amount of money which the Government must furnish, and the amount which must be raised by the sale of fifteen-year equipment trust certificates by the new corporation. The distribution of this burden, it is understood, depends a good deal upon whether the Government will take over a fair share of the certificates which the roads may have to take themselves.

Educating the Public.

Recent rumors both in railroad and banking circles that there should be some concerted effort toward a campaign of education to acquaint the general public with the facts in regard to the railroad situation as a whole, are gaining in favor. In fact, it has been asserted recently that the firm undertone of the rails in uncertain market sessions has been due in large measure to the belief that the carriers are getting together so that a solid front will be presented against all of the destructive elements which have been gathering force for an onslaught against the rails.

Awaiting the Macomber Decision.

It is admitted in the financial district that a large number of consolidations and mergers are under way which are being held up pending a decision by the United States Supreme Court on the question of the taxation of stock dividends. At the same time it is presumed, and logically too, that many of the companies which have piled up comfortable surpluses are also awaiting the decision before framing their policies for the distribution of those surpluses among shareholders. In some quarters yesterday it was expected that the court would hand down the decision in question within a few days and that stock dividends would be declared tax exempt.

Wheeling & Lake Erie Active.

On a heavy volume of buying both for speculative and investment account Wheeling & Lake Erie preferred and common shares registered a substantial net gain at the close of yesterday's market session. In some quarters the increased following in the common shares, of which almost 50,000 were sold, was attributed to the oil prospects of the company, while the same impulse was ascribed to the increased demand for the preferred. The preferred closed with a net gain of 1¾ points, and the common gained 3 points. In and out traders took advantage of the sharp advance in both classes of stock and this was reflected by a reaction of almost 1 point in each issue before the close due to their profit-taking sales.

Copper Sales in October.

Sales of copper last month were approximately 180,000,000 pounds, an amount surprisingly large in view of the fact that the market has been described by producers as quiet. In July the sales were 175,000,000 pounds, but August and September figures were substantially below those reported for October. This total is not by any means as large as would be expected under more favorable conditions, but it does show that there has been steady purchasing of copper on a moderate scale that has built itself up to a large total.

The Amortization of Preferred Stocks
It is not generally recognized that some preferred stocks have been issued under provisions which specify that a certain percentage of the stock outstanding must be purchased annually by the issuing corporations. In other words, such an arrangement is practically the same as sinking funds which retire mortgage obligations.
We can offer such a preferred stock at a price to yield over 8%.

CRUCIBLE STEEL CO. PROFITS $9,574,208

Annual Report Shows Increase of More Than $30,000,000 in Property Valuation.

$749,500 IN LIBERTY BONDS

Heavy Loss Entailed by Change from Wartime to Peace Conditions.

The Crucible Steel Company of America for the year ended Aug. 31 reports net profits of $9,574,208, after providing for all charges and Federal taxes. This is equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $31.29 a share on the $25,000,000 common stock. In the preceding year the amount available for dividends was $13,812,127, and the portion available for the common stock was equivalent to $48.24 a share.

Total profits after Federal taxes were $14,083,035, a decrease of nearly $4,000,000 from the preceding year. The balance sheet shows the Federal tax reserve was $8,520,579. This item was not disclosed in preceding reports.

A pronounced increase in property valuation is recorded, this item being placed at $35,168,741, whereas in the 1918 report it was $34,650,572. The total increase in property account in the years of 1916, 1917, and 1918 was only a little more than $5,000,000.

Inventories are placed at $27,605,896, as compared with $18,908,356 in 1918 and $9,160,200 in 1917. Holdings of Liberty bonds amount to $749,500, an increase of about $400,000. Bills receivable amount to $8,908,434, as compared with $17,816,644 in the preceding year. Accounts payable of $4,211,306 are some $500,000 less than in 1918.

H. S. Wilkinson, Chairman of the board, in his remarks to stockholders says:

"Our country has been undergoing during the past year the necessary changes from a war basis to one of peace and has also passed through the trying period of changes made necessary from the manufacture of almost entirely war supplies to the manufacture of a commercial product. This has entailed a great loss in changing the machinery and methods caused by the manufacture of a different product, and in addition to this the company has had large cancellations of war orders.

"Now that the war is over it will be the policy and aim of your officers to complete improvements now under way and to discontinue further extensions or improvements at present. This will have the effect of greatly increasing our cash and current assets. We are pleased to report the recent advance made in wages and the care we are taking of our employes have evidently met with their approval, and there is a good feeling between your officers and men in the various plants of your company.

"It will be the purpose of the present management to see that reasonable hours and working conditions are granted to all our employes and that the wages shall continue the best possible, and equal at least to any in our line of industry.

"During the last few years we have been making our own iron ore investments, have purchased and opened up coal mines, and have arranged for the housing and care of our employes at the various mills where necessary. We have also added a new Blast furnace and by-product coke oven plant, which are well on the way to completion. This will furnish us with our own raw products and give us a well contained company from the mines to the finished material.

"That the stockholders may be well informed as to the condidtion of the Crucible Steel Company of America and its subsidiaries it has been thought most satisfactory to give them the consolidated balance sheet which includes all the companies and takes the place of the previous balance sheet published in the annual report in former years.

"All inventories have been taken and have been valued at cost or at the market value prevailing Aug. 31, 1919, whichever figure was the lower. Such valuations do not include profits on materials purchased by one subsidiary company from another."

On Aug. 31 the number of Crucible Steel preferred stockholders was 3,934 and common stockholders 946.

New Company to Take Over Mills.

A new company has been formed to take over the business and assets of E. and Z. Van Raalte, manufacturers of yarnings and nettings, the Gloversville Silk Mills, the Clark Textile Company, and the Boonton Hosiery Company. It will have a capital of $4,250,000 first preferred stock, of which $3,250,000 will be issued shortly; 10,000 shares of cumulative second preferred of no par value, and 80,000 shares of common of no par value. Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Lehman Brothers will acquire an interest in the securities of the new company.

BANK OF ENGLAND RATE UP.

Government Securities Drop Slightly as Result of the Change.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The raising of the bank rate by the Bank of England to 5 per cent., the first change since April, 1917, caused no surprise to the Stock Exchange. Government securities dropped only slightly.

The immediate cause of the raise is the competition between the Government and traders for advances, as the Government requires large sums to finance the treasury deficit.

SEAT SOLD FOR $100,000.

Highest Amount Ever Paid for Exchange Membership—Six Transfers.

Announcement was made at the New York Stock Exchange yesterday of the sale of the following memberships: Frederick F. Carey to Gregory P. Maloney, for $100,000; Henry C. Lawrence, deceased, to Henry L. Terrie, for $92,000; James D. Callery to Gary Spencer, for $95,000; W. M. Vance to A. S. Jackson, same consideration; L. H. Sondheim, deceased, to F. Vernon Foster, for $95,000, and Eugene M. Cave to Harry A. Levy, a partnership transfer.

The purchase of a Stock Exchange seat for $100,000 by Mr. Maloney established a record price, the former high figures being $94,000 and $95,000, in 1906 and 1905. At that time there were rumors of a sale at the $100,000 mark, but these were never officially verified.

Copper Reports Show Drop.

The Miami Copper Company in September produced 4,139,106 pounds of copper, as compared with 3,990,120 in August. The figures for the Granby Consolidated Mining Company show 1,-48 515 pounds for September, as compared with 2 171,204 for August.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Bonbright & Co. have purchased $1,000,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative Class "A" preferred stock of the Brighton Mills of Passaic, N. J. A public offering of the stock will be made in the near future.

Orie R. Kelly has been elected Assistant Secretary of the American Trust Company. He was formerly an official of the Empire Trust Company.

Bond & Goodwin announce that Charles B. Wilson, formerly in charge of their Boston office, has now become a New York resident partner.

The Empire Trust Company has been appointed transfer agent of an issue of 250,000 shares of common stock of the Replogle Steel Company, of no par value.

Sherwood & Merrifield are offering municipal bonds of forty-eight cities and counties in the State of New York at prices to yield from 4.25 to 4.60 per cent. They are exempt from Federal income tax and from taxes in New York State.

The Bankers Trust Company has been appointed agent for the voting trustees of the Wilson Welder & Metals Co., Inc.

The United States Mortgage & Trust Co. has been appointed registrar of the capital stock of the Replogle Steel Company.

Net earnings of the subsidiary companies of Barnsdall Corporation for September amounted to $274,062.42. Of this amount, $250,189.28 accrued to Barnsdall Corporation. These figures are after accruing interest and taxes, but before depreciation and depletion.

Blodgett & Co. are issuing a circular on "Railroad Bonds Today."

Hornblower & Weeks are offering $905,000 Port of Seattle, Wash., 5 per cent. serial bonds, maturing 1920 to 1960 at prices ranging from $101.04 to $101.76, according to maturity.

City of Lyons City of Marseilles City of Bordeaux

Fifteen-Year Six Per Cent. Gold Bonds

Due November 1, 1934

INTEREST PAYABLE MAY 1 AND NOVEMBER 1

Maurice Casenave, Esq., Director-General of the French Mission in the United States, in a letter dated November 1, 1919, writes in part as follows:

"These bonds are being issued to replace the funds used to repay on November 1, 1919, the Bonds of these Cities remaining outstanding of the $36,000,000 bonds originally issued, and for other purposes. Each issue will be the direct obligation of the City issuing the same, and they will be the only external loans of these Cities presently outstanding.

The Bonds will be issued in bearer coupon form in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, and will bear interest from November 1, 1919, at the rate of Six Per Cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on May 1 and November 1. Principal and interest of the bonds will be payable in United States gold coin of the standard of weight and fineness existing on November 1, 1919, without deduction for any present or future French Governmental, Municipal or other French taxes. The Government of the French Republic has agreed to undertake, in order to permit the Cities of Lyons, Marseilles and Bordeaux, or any of them, to pay the interest or principal amount of the loan in gold in the City of New York, to furnish them and each of them, if necessary (in exchange for bank notes or other currency), with gold in the amount needed, and authorize its exportation for said purpose.

As established by the laws of France governing municipalities, the finances of these Cities, and the authority to borrow money, levy taxes and execute the annual budgets, are under the control and supervision of the French National Government. Under this supervision the municipal authorities of Lyons, Marseilles and Bordeaux have followed a conservative fiscal policy, establishing the credit of the Cities upon a sound basis. The internal loans now outstanding bear low interest rates.

The three Cities are, next to Paris, among the largest and most important trade centers of France. Originally established in ancient times on main trade routes, they have grown steadily to their present importance, because of natural economic advantages. Situated far from the zone of hostilities, their industrial condition, already sound prior to the war, has been strengthened substantially since 1914 by additional facilities provided for the extra war traffic they were called upon to handle, by their increase in population and the expansion of business.

Considered separately:

LYONS ranks next to Paris as a centre of finance, trade and manufacturing. Her chief manufactures are of silk, and in the production of these articles she leads the world. Over 90,000 looms, employing more than 200,000 hands, are engaged in these enterprises. Lyons is the capital of the Department of Rhone, and is situated at the confluence of the Rhone and Saone, both of which are navigable and flanked by several miles of quays. Ample railway facilities provide her with outlets to the interior. Local industries comprise metal works, chemical and soap factories, dye works, tanneries and glassworks. The population of the City has kept pace with her industries, showing an increase from 523,796 in 1912 to over 600,000 (estimated) in 1918. The total internal debt amounted in 1918 (the latest figures available) to about Fcs. 93,500,000 (at Fcs. 5.18, the approximate normal value of Francs equals $18,050,000). To this should be added the present issue of $15,000,000, making a total of about $33,050,000.

MARSEILLES, the leading maritime city of the Mediterranean, is one of the greatest natural sea ports of the world, and is the southern terminus of the largest railway system in France. Situated on the northeast shore of the Gulf of Lyons, it controls all Mediterranean commerce and sends and receives cargoes through the Suez to and from India. On a normal basis, 21,000,000 gross tons of shipping annually enter and clear from her harbor. Seven wet docks, six dry docks, and thirteen miles of quayage afford accommodation for 2,000 vessels at one time. The traffic in merchandise has increased from 4,372,000 tons in 1870 to more than 21,590,000 tons at the present time. Her industries are many and well diversified, among which are metal foundries and plants for the manufacture of vegetable oils and soaps. The population has grown from 550,619 in 1912 to about 750,000 (estimated) in 1918. The total internal debt in 1918 amounted to Fcs. 157,074,097 (at 5.18 equals $30,323,184). To this should be added the present issue of $15,000,000, making a total of about $45,-323,184.

BORDEAUX is the principal Atlantic port, and has one of the three finest harbors in France. It is the European terminus of many lines trading with the Americas, Africa and the British Isles. Shipbuilding is the chief industry besides which there are considerable other manufacturing enterprises. Wine production in the surrounding country contributes to a great extent to the City trade; refined sugar, rope, woolen goods, carpets, paper and earthenware are produced on a large scale. Her chief imports comprise metals, English coal, timber, grain and manufactured articles. She exports chiefly cloth, chemicals and the products of local industry and large quantities of wine. The pre-war record exhibits an annual entrance and clearance from her harbor of vessels aggregating 5,228,000 tons. The extensive additions made to her quayage and warehouse capacity to enable the handling of the large traffic during the war have greatly enhanced her opportunities for accommodating even more business in the future. The population of the City has grown from 261,678 in 1912 to about 305,000 (estimated) in 1918. The total internal debt in 1918 amounted to Fcs. 43,442,650 (at 5.18 equals $8,386,612). To this should be added the present issue of $15,000,000, making a total of about $23,386,612.

Application will be made in due course to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange."

The undersigned offer the above Bonds, subject to previous sale, at 92½ per cent. and accrued interest to date of delivery, temporary bonds deliverable if, when and as issued. At this price the Bonds will yield 6.80 per cent. if held to maturity.

The right is reserved to reject any application in whole or in part.

Compulsory Income

WHEN you consider an investment, ask yourself this question: "Is payment of the income compulsory or optional, a matter of contract or discretion?"

In buying securities to yield an additional ten dollars or fifteen dollars per one thousand invested, you may sacrifice compulsory income for optional payments, and impair the safety of your principal.

Is it not wiser to invest your capital under the time-tested, proven safeguards that surround the high-grade first mortgage bond, whose interest and principal must be paid?

The first mortgage serial bonds, safeguarded under the Straus Plan, are thoroughly protected as to principal and their income is compulsory, prompt payment of both from the earnings of the borrowing corporation being assured by our system of monthly deposits.

They yield 6% net, with 4% Federal Income Tax paid. Maturities, two to twenty years. Denominations, $1,000 and $500.

We are now offering an issue of first mortgage bonds protected by earnings of three to one and assets of nearly two to one, under nationally-known management and control, directly secured by a first mortgage on property in the heart of New York City. We have purchased these bonds after careful investigation and offer them with our full recommendation. Ask for

NEW JERSEY SHIP CANAL IS INDORSED

State Chamber of Commerce Goes on Record in Favor of Sea-Level Waterway.

OPPOSITION VOTED DOWN

Judge Charles F. MacLean's Argument That New York Would Lose Fails to Prevail.

At the monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York yesterday the chamber went on record as favoring the construction of a sea-level canal across the State of New Jersey as a great benefit to New York through the linking together of inland waterways and resultant economies. The chamber adopted a resolution to this effect, which was presented by Delos W. Cooke, Chairman of the Committee on Internal Trade and Improvements of the chamber, after sharp debate and opposition on the part of Judge Charles F. MacLean.

In opposing the adoption of the resolution Judge MacLean asserted that the construction of such a canal would mean the loss of a great deal of revenue to New York as there would be a large number of ships pass directly through the Port of New York, which depends for a great part of its revenue from the transshipment of merchandise and other freights at this terminal point. The resolution was adopted over Judge MacLean's opposition. The report read in part:

"The United States Army engineers have recommended, and the Secretary of War has submitted, their recommendations to Congress that a canal be constructed across the State of New Jersey from Morgan, on the Raritan Bay, to Bordentown, on the Delaware River, a distance of about thirty-two miles. The State of New Jersey has already committed itself to an appropriation of $1,000,000 for the acquisition of a right of way, and passed appropriate legislation making it possible to cede the right of way so acquired to the Federal Government.

"It is expected that Congress will act on the proposal in the Rivers and Harbors bill at the regular session convening in December; and your Committee on Internal Trade and Improvements has take under consideration this project. A member of the committee attended a hearing before the New York, New Jersey Port and Harbor Development Commission held in the City Hall on Oct. 20. This hearing was called to consider the New Jersey ship canal project, and was largely attended. Sentiment was unanimously in favor of the construction of the canal, the only difference being in respect to engineering details.

"There now exists free public waterways for modern barge traffic from the Great Lakes to New York Harbor and Raritan Bay, and similar waterways are in course of improvement from the North Carolina Sounds to Trenton, N. J., thus making necessary only the adoption of the New Jersey Canal project for the completion of an extensive portion of the intercoastal waterway route, in the intracoastal system from New England to Florida.

"The Chairman of the New York-New Jersey Port and Harbor Development Commission states that, 'With this canal dug, with the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal improved by the Government, it will be possible to conduct navigation on inland waters from Norfolk Newport News, Baltimore, and other ports on Chesapeake Bay to Philadelphia and the port of the Delaware Bay and River, to the Port of New York, thence through the New York State Barge Canal to the Great Lakes; or from the Port of New York through Long Island Sound, and the Cape Cod Canal to the Port of Boston, all in protected waters. The distance from Philadelphia to New York by water at the present time for vessels drawing more than 7 feet is 274 miles. The distance via the proposed canal would be 87 miles."

Several other reports and resolutions were adopted by the Chamber, and Regis H. Post, former Governor of Porto Rico, who is now with the Federal Reserve Bank in this district, urged the members of the Chamber to inaugurate individual thrift campaigns among their friends and employes.

Alfred E. Marling, President of the Chamber, announced that Governor Alfred E. Smith would be the chief speaker at the 151st annual banquet of the Chamber at the Waldorf-Astoria, on Nov. 13.

It was recommended that the annual dues of the Chamber be increased from $50 to $100 for resident members, but this was put over until the regular December meeting.

"Foreign Trade through Foreign Investments"

The Importance of Improving Foreign Exchange Rates

THERE is perhaps no subject which is being discussed more seriously or is receiving greater consideration on the part of Government officials, bankers and business men than the foreign exchange situation. It is of the utmost importance, not only for the future welfare of European nations, but also for the United States, that every effort be made to effect an improvement in the most logical way possible.

We call attention to the following letter from Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma, member of the Banking and Currency and Appropriations Committees:

United States Senate
Committee on Five Civilized Tribes of Indians

October twenty-eighth, Nineteen Nineteen.

Messrs. A. B. Leach & Company, Inc.,
62 Cedar Street, New York.

Gentlemen:

The only way to balance foreign exchange at present is for the American investing public to buy these European securities, which are selling at an extraordinary profit at this time—just as United States bonds did at the close of the war.

Europe is at bottom solvent in its business life and productive power—and when America knows this and that credits now serve both America and Europe alike the people will buy the bonds and securities freely.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) ROBERT L. OWEN.

The quickest, easiest and most efficient way of improving foreign exchange rates is for American investors to purchase the internal loans of European Governments. As Senator Owen states, "Europe is solvent." Being solvent, she will meet her obligations. At current prices and exchange rates Dollars will purchase foreign securities which are recognized as sound, yield at present most liberal returns, and may ultimately show a profit of anywhere from 14% to over 100%. By buying these bonds Americans help stabilize conditions abroad, make it possible for American industry to expand through foreign trade, and at the same time take advantage of a most unusual investment situation. We quote markets on the internal loans of allied and neutral European Governments and are prepared to furnish most complete data.

Inquiries invited and also requested for a booklet entitled "Bonds of Foreign Nations."

Industrial Finance

THIS IS AN ERA of industrial finance. The public realizing the depreciating value of the dollar is anxious to exchange it for industrial property which is the source of wealth and appreciates in value to the extent to which the dollar declines.

SLOCUM-AVRAM-SLOCUM MANAGEMENT

Look for products bearing this seal

Irrespective of this care should be exercised in selection of investments. Professional traders buy on speculation, but the public buys for permanent investment. Hence it should be fully protected against loss by an exact knowledge of what it buys.

This is particularly true if you are anticipating financing an industrial enterprise on a large scale. There are many factors which govern its soundness that you should know and without which there can be only failure. S-A-S-INVESTIGATION prior to investment is your investment insurance.

COTTON SUFFERS HEAVY REACTION

Weakness Hits Market After Sensational Advances—Closing 35 to 76 Points Off.

LIVERPOOL STARTS DECLINE

Spot Prices Also Drop — Market Overbought—Exports for the Day Total 30,459 Bales.

After several days of sensational advance the cotton market yesterday experienced what may be regarded as a perfectly natural and normal reaction. The spot markets, both here and at Liverpool, were also reactionary, and this, too, was a perfectly natural development, considering the manner in which they have been acting of late. Viewed in a general way, the market simply was overbought and ready for a reaction which, in all probability, will merely mark the way for a further advance before the upward movement comes to an end.

At the opening of business prices were heavy and down 70 to 88 points for the present crop and down 125 points for next September's delivery. This weakness continued until January and December had lost 91 and 95 points, respectively, while March went off 100, May 101 and July 102 points at the extreme low for the day. After the low figures were recorded, however, the market rallied somewhat and finished the day at net losses ranging from 35 points for December to 76 points for July. September was down 45 points net at the close.

The reaction started in the Liverpool market before ours opened. Futures there were down 1 to 15 points at the opening and by the time our market got into swing the Liverpool level was down considerably more, finishing its day at declines of 25 to 65 points, which was entirely out of line with our level of prices on Wednesday. Also Liverpool spots were quoted at 25.45d., as against the record high of 25.83d. of the day before.

One of the more responsible private crop estimates issued yesterday gave promise of a final commercial crop of 10,900,000 bales, without linters, and this helped depress prices. However, had it not been for the weakened technical position it is doubtful if this report would have received much attention.

Yesterday's export clearances totalled 30,459 bales, out of Galveston and Savannah, and brought the total for the week to date to 62,750 bales, as against 77,900 bales exported in all of last week.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

WASH LINE RIGHTS UPHELD.

Tenants May Hang Out Clothes from Window, Says Magistrate.

If a tenant has not other right, he or she still have a right to hang the weeks' wash out on a courtyard line. This point was settled by Magistrate William A. Sweetser in the Washington Heights Court yesterday when John Steele, superintendent of an elevator apartment house at 250 West 112th Street, was brought to court on a summons issued on the complaint of Samuel Ginsberg, who said the landlord yesterday tore down a clothesline, with apparel of various sorts, extending from a window of his home at the 112th Street address.

Ginsberg told the Magistrate the Superintendent objected to the clothes hanging in the yard, on the ground that it disfigured the appearance of the yard.

Turning to the Superintendent, the Magistrate said: "It is not right for any one to tear down lines on which tenants have hung their clothes to dry. Where else can they hang them?"

The Superintendent agreed not to interfere with Ginsberg's line again.

Extra Dividend for American Sugar.

The American Sugar Refining Company has declared an extra dividend of ¾ per cent., in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the common stock. The regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock was also declared. All dividends are payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 1.

Girl Burns to Death Fixing Heater.

Margaret Gillespie, 14 years old, of West View Place, Coytesville, N. J., was burned to death yesterday when her clothing caught fire while she was trying to fix a heater. Her sister, Emma, and Elisabeth, were slightly burned in trying to save her.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.
(As Officially Reported.)

Estimated Value of Taxable Property (1919)	$558,765,614
Assessed Valuation (1919)	294,401,256
Total Bonded Debt, including this issue (less than 2¾% of assd. valuation)	7,954,000
Value of Property owned by Port of Seattle	10,011,716
Population (1910 Census)	284,638
Population (Present Estimate)	485,000

The Port of Seattle, the limits of which are co-extensive with King County, is a municipal corporation in the State of Washington. It was created in 1911 by a vote of the people of King County under authority of an act of the State Legislature.

At the present time this Port ranks second in the United States in volume of foreign commerce, being exceeded only by the Port of New York, its trade having grown from $96,000,000 in 1910 to $597,149,796 in 1918.

These Bonds are a direct obligation of the Port of Seattle, whose full faith and credit are pledged for the annual levy and collection of a tax for the payment of principal and interest on these bonds as they become due.

Since 1918 the revenue from the Port has been sufficient to meet all charges; therefore no tax levy has been necessary.

WETS STILL CLAIM VICTORY IN OHIO

Vote on Ratification of National Amendment Is Evidently Very Close.

ENFORCEMENT ACT BEATEN

Much Speculation on Effect of Ballot—Ohio Counted by Polk in Proclaiming Ratification.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 6.—With figures of Tuesday's polling still incomplete, both Anti-Saloon League headquarters and the Ohio Home Rule Association headquarters claim victory on the question of ratification of national prohibition.

The Anti-Saloon League says that the legislative ratification has been approved by a safe majority, but will give no figures. The liberals say that it is defeated by 5,000 to 7,000. With three counties out they claim a lead of more than 7,000. Seventy counties compiled on ratification, with only a few precincts missing, show 420,618 yes and 442,290 no; last year the missing counties gave 48,350 yes and 32,232 no. The combined total on ratification then would be 468,758 "yes" and 474,522 "no," a rejection by more than 5,000.

No such complete tabulation has been made on the other propositions, but the Secretary of State estimates that the Crabbe Enforcement act is beaten by 20,000 to 25,000; that the amendment, defining 2.75 beer as non-intoxicating, is beaten by 15,000 to 20,000, and that repeal of Statewide prohibition is lost by 30,000 or more.

L. H. Gibson, manager of the Ohio Home Rule Association, issued a statement tonight giving results from eighty-five counties, which, he said, had been received by him. These showed the 2.75 per cent. beer proposal to be defeated by 21,470; the proposal to repeal Statewide prohibition defeated by 30,061; the Federal Prohibition Amendment defeated by 9,566, and the Crabbe Prohibition Enforcement Bill defeated by 7,908.

If the official figures show Federal ratification defeated it is expected that Ohio officials will use their best efforts to make the verdict of the people at the polls good. This may require action by the Governor and the Attorney General, probably in Federal court litigation. There is no talk of passing another ratification resolution. Should such a move be made the referendum would again be invoked.

Anti-Saloon League officials indicate that they will seek to push the Hawke case in the United States Supreme Court to have the Ohio referendum result set aside. This case was instituted by George S. Hawke of Cincinnati to enjoin the election on the ground that it would be a waste of public funds. As the election has been held, this case becomes a "moot" one, since the plea is no longer good. Moreover, lawyers say that new questions cannot be injected into old cases, and a new way to test the right of the people to reject the ratification of the General Assembly must be found.

State authorities will certify the result to Washington although no methods of notification has been provided in the Ohio Constitution. Lawyers say that Frank L. Polk, Acting Secretary of State, made a legal mistake last January when he issued his proclamation, declaring the national amendment ratified by thirty-six States and including Ohio on the strength of a forged copy of the resolution or in spite of the Governor's letter that Ohio had a referendum provision on legislative ratifications.

The Governor submitted with his letter a certified copy of the Constitution. Since Polk chose to ignore the letter, it is questioned here whether his proclamation has legal vitality. This is held by Ohio authorities to be a question for the courts. If Polk's original program is void, then, it is argued, national prohibition cannot come into effect for a year from the date of its issuance. This involves the right of States to provide for referendum on amendments to the Federal legislation.

In canvassing for the rejection of the ratification resolution Ohio liberals said, "Ohio can save the nation," and showed several other States situated like Ohio. All of these have referendum provisions and have made attempts to bring the matter to the voters, although all of the State referendum provisions are not as broad as that of Ohio. In the United States Supreme Court the case is expected to turn on the meaning of the Federal legislation, when it said that the amendments shall be effective when ratified by the "Legislatures" of three-fourths of the States. The Federal Supreme Court unanimously upheld the Ohio Supreme Court when the Ohio court said in a Congressional district gerrymander case that "Legislatures" comprehended the broadest law-making power under the initiative and referendum, the people as well as the representative bodies.

Should the prohibition amendment be held still unratified, the national legislation which has been passed under authority of the prohibition amendment might, it is held by lawyers, be of no value as soon as the war-time feature was out of the way with the formal ending of the war. The entire issue would then be reopened, with large possibilities as a complication in the national election next year.

Extension of the referendum idea to the nation is expected to attract attention in view of the protests of States which had no voice in the final decision.

WETS LEAD IN KENTUCKY.

Drys Predict Victory When the Full Returns Are In.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 6.—With complete unofficial returns giving Edwin P. Morrow, Republican, a plurality of slightly less than 30,000 votes over Governor James D. Black, Democrat, in Tuesday's Gubernatorial election, interest today turned to the contest on the Statewide prohibition amendment.

Of the 120 counties in the State 84 showed complete unofficial returns tonight, giving the "wets" a majority of 504 votes. At the office of the Kentucky Anti-Saloon League it was said that "as the remaining thirty-six counties unheard from are dry there is no doubt that the amendment will be carried by 5,000 majority."

The Use of Fuel Oil.

Adoption by the Board of Standards and Appeals of a set of rules governing the use and storage of fuel oil in New York City is a step which will probably make for a more extensive use of this kind of fuel. Certain optimists have predicted that before many years oil pipe lines will course the streets of the city so that oil supplies may be taken much in the same way as are water and gas now. However that may be, it is a fact that fuel oil is coming into use on an increasingly large scale, and that factories and office buildings are converting their boiler furnaces for this type of fuel and thereby displacing coal.

Hackensack Stock Issue Granted.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 6.—The State Board of Public Utility Commissioners has granted approval to an application of the Hackensack Water Company for an issue of its 7 per cent. preferred stock to the amount of $2,000,000, following an increase of $4,000,000 of its 7 per cent. preferred stock. The company plans to spend more than $1,000,000 in improvements.

Computing-Tabulating Co. Report.

The Computing-Tabulating-Recording Company for the nine months ended Sept. 30 reports a surplus, after all charges but before Federal taxes, of $1,645,321, or the equivalent of $15.70 a share on the capital stock. In the corresponding period of 1918 the earnings were equal to $12.68 a share.

WILL TAKE 8 YEARS TO CLEAN FRENCH MINES

Enough Work for Unemployed of Germany and All Europe, Says Commission.

BERLIN, Nov. 1, (Associated Press.)—Work for all the unemployed in Germany for the next eight years will be provided in restoring the ruined mines of Northern France, says Vorwärts. This opinion is based on the report of the German mining commission, sent to France recently to ascertain the extent of the damage, and which has just made its findings public.

"The task," says the newspaper, "is so great that it is sufficient to furnish work for every idle man in Europe and for every one else engaged in superfluous labor. The report shows the fallacy of the theory that the emigration of 10,000,000 to 15,000,000 persons from Germany is an economic necessity."

The commission said the work of reconstruction would have to be done from "the ground up," especially in the Departments of Pas de Calais, Courriere, Lens, Lievin, Drocourt, Mourchin, Carvin, and Dourgas, where the destruction was pronounced "terrible." Most of the mines have been "drowned," and in rebuilding new shafts they would have to be protected against the inward pressure of water.

A French officer and a French mining official took the German envoys through the devastated regions. The Germans declared the work of restoration would not only be one of great difficulty, but that in many cases it was impossible to ascertain the extent of the damage done to each mine. They also said it was not easy to fix responsibility for the destruction because it was done by numerous groups of troops and the records showing where each military unit was located and at what period were not complete or available.

RADIUM LOST IN OPERATION.

Tube Worth $6,000 Disappears from Philadelphia Hospital Room.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—A tiny gold tube containing fifty milligrams of radium, worth about $6,000, disappeared while being used in a cancer operation today at University Hospital. The tube was less than an inch long and about as thick as a match.

The tube formed one of a collection valued at many thousands of dollars and was said to be the only one not insured. There are only three or four ounces of radium in the world. One gram is held by the Mayo Brothers in Rochester, Minn.

Earle to Sell Surplus Army Cotton.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The War Department has entered into a contract with Ellis P. Earle of 165 Broadway, New York, in accordance with which he will offer the surplus of cotton linters held by the War Department, approximating 700,000 bales. Mr. Earle is to complete the disposal of the surplus within twelve months, if possible.

American Steel Foundries Surplus.

American Steel Foundries for the nine months ended Sept. 30 shows a surplus after charges and Federal taxes of $2,462,573, as compared with a surplus of $2,606,723 in the corresponding period of last year. Net earnings decreased from $6,858,017 in the first nine months of 1918 to $3,731,606 this year. The Federal tax reserve this year shows a reduction of about $2,700,000 from that of the corresponding period of 1918.

The General Gas & Electric Company

50 Pine Street, New York

The General Gas & Electric Company, through the acquisition on October 24, 1919, of all of the Common Stocks, now controls the following companies:

Metropolitan Edison Company
(including Pennsylvania Utilities System)
Reading Transit & Light Company
Vermont Hydro-Electric Corporation

In addition to the above, the General Gas & Electric Company will retain its interest in, and remain in control of, the following companies:

The New Jersey Power & Light Co.
The Sandusky Gas & Electric Co.
Binghamton Light, Heat & Power Co.
The Northwestern Ohio Railway & Power Co.
The Port Clinton Electric Light & Power Co.
Rutland Railway, Light & Power Co.
Pittsford Power Co.
Sayre Electric Co.

The communities served by the General Gas & Electric Company's properties are located in thriving and prosperous sections of the country, and are growing rapidly. The total population served is estimated, as of December 31, 1918, at 851,875, and offers an exceptional field for public utilities.

The Metropolitan Edison Co. supplies electric power and light to Reading, Lebanon and twenty-three other communities in southeastern Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Utilities System supplies electric power and light to Easton and a number of neighboring communities in Pennsylvania, and Phillipsburg, New Jersey. Through its ownership of the Easton Gas Works, it supplies gas for Easton and Phillipsburg.

The Metropolitan Edison Company and Pennsylvania Utilities System are to be connected by a transmission line, forming a continuous power system practically from the Susquehanna to the Delaware River, a distance of over 100 miles.

Reading Transit and Light System comprises the City Railway lines of Reading, Lebanon, and Norristown, and extends into and includes part of Philadelphia.

Vermont Hydro-Electric Corporation is a consolidation of the properties of several electric power companies in Vermont and one in New Hampshire, its transmission lines extending entirely across the State of Vermont. This system owns in fee three and controls two additional hydro-electric plants now in operation. A sixth plant is under construction, and should be in operation by the summer of 1920. The system is protected by the largest storage reservoir existing in the State of Vermont, with a storage of over eight billion gallons and an available head of approximately 1,000 feet.

This company has, in addition, a number of undeveloped water power properties, plans for the development of which have already been approved by the Vermont Public Service Commission and construction work on which will proceed as rapidly as conditions warrant.

As a result of recent financing, provision has been made for the retirement of securities aggregating more than $6,700,000 as follows:

SECURITIES RETIRED:

Metropolitan Edison Co. 2½ year 6% Bond Secured Gold Notes, Due December 15, 1920	$725,000

WHY GAMBLE?
The great law of Action and Reaction governs both speculative and investment markets. While it is impossible for any one to anticipate day to day "ripples"—the great major movements are regular as the tides themselves.
Babson's Reports, based on fundamental statistics, forecast these major movements for you with remarkable accuracy. They get you in on the real "buys" at low tide—out as your holdings reach the peak—then in at the bottom again. You make more than there is any probability of making in day to day trading and avoid the worry, loss of time and risk involved in ordinary speculation.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

There was a vigorous last-hour demand for stocks on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday, on which the major portion of early losses was obliterated by the resulting advances of from 1½ to 5 per cent. recorded in the active issues of all industrial groups. Republic Iron and Steel was bid up 4½, Crucible 5, Bethlehem Steel B 2, Lackawanna 3, and United States Steel common 1½. Baldwin Locomotive rallied 2½. Mexican Petroleum moved up 3½. Studebaker was advanced 2½ and Pierce-Arrow 5½. The rail issues were strong throughout the session.

A 9% Yield With Safety

At the present market Standard Gas & Electric Company cumulative 8% preferred stock yields over 9%.

Earnings are increasing steadily and are now equivalent to more than twice dividend requirements of preferred without taking into consideration earnings of Shaffer Oil & Refining Company, which has just brought in a 10,000-barrel oil well. Company is drilling other wells in same district.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

THE STUDEBAKER CORPORATION.
SPECIAL MEETING TO STOCKHOLDERS, NOVEMBER 24, 1919.

NOTICE.

In pursuance of a resolution passed by a majority of the Board of Directors of The Studebaker Corporation at a meeting held on the 28th day of October, 1919, a Special Meeting of the Stockholders (common and preferred) of The Studebaker Corporation is hereby called to be held at the principal office of the Company, No. 15 Exchange Place, Jersey City, New Jersey, on November 24, 1919, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of voting upon:

(a) A proposed amendment of Paragraph 4 of the Certificate of Incorporation (heretofore declared by resolution of the Directors to be advisable) providing for the increase of the authorized capital stock of the corporation from $45,000,000 to $90,000,000, of which $15,000,000 shall be "Seven Per Cent. (7%) Cumulative Preferred Stock," and $75,000,000 shall be common stock;

(b) A proposed amendment of Paragraph 4 of the Certificate of Incorporation (heretofore declared by resolution of the Directors to be advisable,) in substance authorizing the Board of Directors, from time to time, to set aside shares of the authorized, unissued common stock of the corporation to an amount not exceeding $2,500,000 par value, for issuance or sale to employes of the corporation, and providing that upon issuance or sale of stock so set aside to employes of the corporation, no stockholder of the corporation shall be entitled of right to subscribe for, purchase or receive any share of stock so to be issued or sold; and

(c) Any further matter that may be submitted to such meeting with reference to the affairs of the corporation.

The stock transfer books of the Company will be closed from the close of business on November 5, 1919, until the opening of business on November 25, 1919.

Dated, October 28, 1919.

BOARD TO STUDY INDUSTRIES IN WAR

Government Officials Compose New Department of Council of National Defense.

TO BE READY NEXT TIME

Meantime Will Check Unnecessary Duplication of Defense Activities and Show Real Needs.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—As an initial step in peace-time operation the United States Council of National Defense has created an interdepartmental board composed of Major Gen. George H. Burr, Rear Admiral William Strothers Smith, Van H. Manning of the Bureau of Mines, L. M. Estabrook of the Department of Agriculture, Dr. S. W. Stratton of the Department of Commerce, Royal Meeker, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, and Grosvenor B. Clarkson, a Director of the council, who will act as Chairman.

The board will endeavor to get logically stated the problems of national defense with regard to the application of industrial and economic forces to modern war, and will act as a clearing house of information and knowledge between executive departments dealing essentially with the national defense.

The departmental representatives in the board, says Mr. Clarkson in a statement, are either men having the most intimate contact with the war-time requirements of the military and naval departments, or men having the most intimate contact with the great developed or natural resources of the country—industry, labor, food, and fuel—forming the foundation of the national defense. Each representative will serve as the liaison member between his executive department and the council.

The work of the board, the statement continues, will tend to check unnecessary duplication of national defense activity on the part of the several departments, at the same time acquainting them with the needs and problems of one another. Every effort will be made to draw in the most intelligent way from the lessons of the world war, particularly on the industrial and economic side. The files and records of the War Industries Board are now in the possession of the council and are being indexed and classified with this purpose in mind. The data of such other war-time agencies as the Fuel and Food Administrations will be similarly drawn upon.

CANNED CORN KILLS 3.

Mother and Two Children Dead. Two Dying, After Eating It.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Elmer Towner and two children, Elizabeth, aged 12, and Lillian, 10 are dead and a son, aged 12, and another daughter, aged 6, are dying at Pine, St. Lawrence County, from poisoning.

The family ate canned corn Sunday noon and a malady, which doctors cannot understand, followed. The mother died soon after midnight Wednesday. Lillian died at noon yesterday, and Elizabeth on Tuesday. The father alone is expected to survive.

FOUND BELGIUM BUSY LAND.

Miss Elisabeth Marbury Tells of Restoration Work in Europe.

Miss Elisabeth Marbury, who recently returned from Europe where she went in June to urge the back to the land movement to the American soldiers, yesterday told some of her experiences before the League of Catholic Women, at the Hotel Plaza. Speaking of the work which is being done to restore to their normal condition the war devastated countries, Miss Marbury said:

"I was greatly impressed with what they were doing in Belgium. Everybody was hard at work, building their houses, doing their own repairing, and asking aid from no one. They may ask a loan of money, but that is an international affair. The people were going ahead by themselves and I am certain if they are given any aid it will be a fifty-fifty proposition.

"I don't like to say anything about France, but the attitude there was quite different. It was expressed by my chauffeur, when in visiting one of the devastated towns he turned to me and asked: 'What American city do you think is going to rebuild this place?' The French are discouraged by the depreciation of their currency and even one of the most intelligent seem to think it is the fault of America. I also visited the Rhine provinces and found everybody working hard and they were not having an eight, but an eleven-hour day.

"One thing I wish to tell you," continued Miss Marbury, "is about the American soldiers' cemeteries. They are beautifully kept. There are rows and rows of little crosses, the grass is kept cut, the United States flag is flying in the centre, and I am sure that if I had any one lying there I should much rather leave them under the shadow of our flag, where they fought and died rather than bring them back to a civilian cemetery here. It was a very affecting sight."

Criticism and Citizenship

It is the plain, public duty of every citizen to criticize proposed government measures believed to be harmful.

Swift & Company is in a better position perhaps, than others, to understand the meat packing business in all its relations to public and private interests, even though the others may have been giving the subject a great deal of sincere attention.

Swift & Company is convinced that interference with its legitimate business function by governmental agencies, however well intentioned, would be an injury to every man, woman and child who wants meat to eat, as well as to the men who raise the meat and to those who dress and distribute it.

Maximum service that cannot monopolize because of keen competition and lack of control over sources of supply is furnished at a minimum of profit—a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources.

Therefore Swift & Company is taking every legitimate step of citizenship to prevent such interference.

These advertisements are intended to help you, and to help Congress decide what is best to be done. Mistakes are costly and apt to be harmful in these trying times.

Let us send you a Swift "Dollar."

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The Holland House, occupying a plot 100 by 150 feet, at the southwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Thirtieth Street, was sold yesterday by Cannon, Voorhees & Floyd to a client of Frederick Fox & Co., Inc.

The Holland House is a ten-story building, built in 1889, at a cost of $1,000,000, and the property was assessed at $1,550,000. The buyer was largely influenced in his purchase by the "Save New York" movement, and plans extensive alterations converting the hotel into a high-class commercial building.

Times Square Hotel Sold.

The Times Square section furnished another important transaction of the seven-figure variety yesterday in the sale of the Hotel Gerard, at 123 to 129 West Forty-fourth Street, by William Rankin to Gilbert & Kramer and S. Morrill Bonner.

The structure, which is twelve stories high, stands on a plot 100 by 100 feet, between Broadway and Sixth Avenue. It was erected by the seller in 1894 and contains 363 rooms.

The Pennsy Building, Held at $850,000, Sold to Frederick Brown.

The seventeen-story Pennsy Building, at 6 and 8 West Thirty-second Street, valued at $850,000, was sold yesterday by Ely Bernays to Frederick Brown, operator. The structure occupies a plot 50 by 98.9, located 150 feet west of Fifth Avenue. Waddell & Martin negotiated the sale.

Site for West Thirty-seventh Street Building Enlarged.

Julius Tishman & Sons have increased their holdings on West Thirty-seventh Street by the purchase of No. 19 from Margaret I. Knapp. This property increases the buyer's plottage at this point to 98 feet, upon which they intend to erect a sixteen-story office and showroom building. The structure will contain five elevators, and it is to be of the latest type of construction.

It will be completed and ready for occupancy about October, 1920. The estimated cost of the complete structure is $1,200,000. Their recent purchase involved 13, 15, and 17. Harris & Vaughan, Inc., negotiated the transactions.

$60,000 a Year Rent for Old Fifth Avenue Dwelling.

The old Kip residence at 448 Fifth Avenue, now used for business, is reported to have been leased for twenty-one years, with renewal privileges, at about $60,000 per annum net. This is said to be equivalent to $75,000 gross per year, giving the parcel a value of $1,500,000 on a 5 per cent. basis. It is a five-story building, 33 by 100, adjoining the Wendel homestead at the northwest corner of Thirty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue.

Sale of New York Theatre Property Confirmed.

The sale of the New York Theatre property, on the east side of Broadway, between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Streets, reported in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Oct. 29, was confirmed yesterday by H. Sachs of H. J. Sachs & Co., who negotiated the transaction. The property, which was held at about $3,250,000, was sold by the New York Theatre Company, representing interests affiliated with Klaw & Erlanger, to the Seneca Realty Company, representing a large film company.

Insurance Company Sells West Twenty-fifth Street Holdings.

A. H. Mathews sold for the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, as trustees, the premises 510 to 514 West Twenty-fifth Street, to Emil Fickinger. Nos. 510 and 512 West Twenty-fifth Street are three-story buildings and 514 West Twenty-fifth Street a four-story building.

$325,000 Drive Apartment Transaction.

The Bordeaux, a six-and-one-half-story apartment, on a lot 116 by 95 feet, at the south corner of Riverside Drive and 137th Street, was bought by the Lusanay Holding Company from the 549 Riverside Drive Corporation, Dr. E. S. Granger, President. The property rents for $40,000, and was held at $325,000. It was sold for cash above a first mortgage of $150,000. Kemp & Co. were the brokers.

Apartment House Deals

From Benjamin B. Chace Joseph G. Abramson purchased 504 West 172d Street, near Audubon Avenue, a five-story apartment on a plot 41 by 100 feet, held at $50,000, and showing a rent of about $7,000. The sale was for cash above a first mortgage of $28,000. Pease & Elliman were the brokers.

LOOK TO THE FUTURE.

A wonderful future stretches before this great city of New York; more and more commerce will centre here, more and larger ships will enter our harbors; more and swifter trains will rush in and out of our stations; more business, involving bigger affairs than ever before, will be transacted in our buildings.

By its very nature, the telephone business must increase as the city develops; as industry grows and expands, its demands for telephone service grow larger and more exacting; it is the duty and privilege of the Telephone Company to anticipate and meet these demands.

There are wonderful opportunities right now in telephone operating; girls and young women are needed to handle the present enormous telephone traffic; these young women will rise to higher positions with greater responsibility and higher salary as the increasing demand for telephone service creates new opportunities in the telephone business; the junior operator of today is the supervisor, assistant Chief Operator and Chief Operator of tomorrow.

Girls 16 to 23 are wanted for Telephone Operating.

Young women, 21 to 35, for Night Telephone Operating.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT TO MEN WHO WANT TO MAKE MONEY.

Selling education in the form of The Book of Knowledge is to the right person a profitable and agreeable occupation; backed by the largest educational publishing house in the world, you are bound to make good if the seed of successful salesmanship is at all in you.

We are not looking for "agents" nor for "canvassers," but for a few men and women who are big enough for the proposition. The remuneration is on a commission basis. Book of Knowledge salesmen and saleswomen throughout the country find their work most congenial and most remunerative, simply because all parents are interested in the welfare of their children.

If you have sold goods, or if you believe you have the ability to sell, submit your application by mail or in person.

FIGURERS WHO CAN ANALIZE AND LEARN HOW TO HANDLE

audits, budgets, cost analyses, "balance of stores," income tax reports, &c.

If you have an aptitude for figures and a level head, you need not remain long at a high, small desk. We can put you in line for and help you to secure within a year's time a position paying

$2,500 TO $6,000 A YEAR.

If you have ability apply it. The world needs it. America is calling for trained men —PARTICULARLY for trained accountants.

The accountancy field is steadily enlarging as more attention is being given by city, State, and Federal boards, by banks and trust companies, and by business corporations and auditing procedure of varied and complicated kinds and to income tax regulations and reports for hundreds of thousands of individuals and firms.

YOUR TEACHERS AND LEADERS.

You can study during your spare time at home (about an hour a day) without interfering with your present position. Your training will be by the famous "La Salle Problem Method," which has made more expert accountants and C. P. A.'s than any other plan. You will be under the direction of William B. Castenholz, the best-known accountancy teacher in America, and a large staff of expert accountants, including several members of the American Institute of Accountants. And when you are qualified you will be connected with big business.

Come and look over the records and business connections of La Salle men, talk with our Accountancy Advisor, and see if you can qualify. Don't lose twenty-four more golden hours.

The Civil Service.

United States.

The commission announces for Dec. 9 an examination for resident dentist, for men. A vacancy in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C., at $2,000 to $2,500 a year, will be filled from this examination. If the appointee's services are satisfactory he may be allowed the temporary increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. There is possibility of future promotion. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 10; education, training, and experience, 90. Applicants must have graduated, within the past six years, from a regularly incorporated dental college, and have had at least two years' general dental practicing experience, and have been continually engaged in some branch of dental practice since graduation. They must have reached their twenty-fifth but not their thirty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination. Age limits do not apply to persons entitled to preference because of military or naval service.

Education Notes.

The Board of Examiners will receive until Nov. 10 applications from men and women for examination for license as teacher of swimming in the recreation centers of the city. The purpose is to provide eligible lists from which to supply teachers for service during the regular sessions of the day elementary schools. There will be no written examination. Oral and practical tests will include performance in swimming and aquatic sports; the management of swimming pools and shower baths; the teaching of swimming and personal hygiene; a knowledge of first aid; a rating of the candidate's personal fitness. The salary is $2 a session. Candidates are usually assigned for two lessons a day.

The regular meeting of the Professional Elementary Teachers' Association will be held Nov. 12, at 4:30 P. M. in P. S. 27, Manhattan. Among the important items on the calendar is the report of the salary committee. This committee has been working since last June to prepare a just schedule for the Kg to 6B group. The committee announces that it has provided for every member of the Kg to 6B group and that it believes that the schedule proposed is just. Full and free discussion is planned, as the committee presents the result of its work with an open mind and will be glad to receive any suggestions that will be helpful in providing justice for the Kg to 6B group. Reports of committees on other questions of vital interest to the teachers will be given. All Kg to 6B teachers on schedule B1, or such schedule as shall supersede the said schedule B1, are eligible to membership.

The savings bank of P. S. 14, 225 East Twenty-seventh Street, Manhattan, was organized Feb. 20, 1911. Since then, in the eight years of its existence, it has saved for the pupils, over and above all withdrawals, $62,137.07.

A number of schools are establishing vocational guidance bureaus, to assist children to select their careers. Counselors for this work are being trained at the City College, which for the past two years has been conducting a vocational guidance course and vocational guidance clinic. More than 100 teachers in the schools have been trained in this course to take up the serious problems of guiding, advising and supervising children who are about to leave school to go to work. A complete series of forms and records to be used in making vocational surveys and in vocational counselling is being issued to the schools through their representatives in the vocational guidance course.

The Teachers' Council will hold a meeting in the Board of Education Hall at 4:30 P. M. on Nov. 14.

Will for Probate.

HOTCHKISS, GEORGE, 13 West Eighty-seventh Street, (Aug. 19,) at Stamford, Conn. Value of the estate at over $5,000 in real and $10,000 in personal property. It is said that deceased was identified with the Armour Beef interests and that he left a large estate. He bequeathed $100 a month to an employe, George W. Rogers, while he lives. His granddaughters, Anita Day Hotchkiss, Gertrude H. Heyer and Alcine H. Rippere, get $10,000 each. The residue of the estate goes to his daughter, Esther S. Hotchkiss, the income to be paid to her during her life, and on her death it goes to the granddaughters. District Attorney Swann is executor.

U. S. COURT TAKES UP HYLAN BUS SERVICE

Orders Railways Receiver to Discover Probable Effect on Street Car Receipts.

STATE ALSO TAKES ACTION

Vehicles Must Have Licenses—4th and Madison Av. Line In Court—More Rows in Flatbush.

Counsel for Job E. Hedges, receiver of the New York Railways Company, were instructed yesterday by Federal Judge Mayer to inquire into the legal right of Mayor Hylan's bus service to operate in opposition to the Eighty-sixth Street Crosstown Railroad, a part of the Fourth and Madison Avenue line, and the probable effect the operation may have upon the earnings of the road.

Another indication that the growing bus service, inaugurated by the Mayor, was attracting attention came during the day in the form of a notice from the Secretary of State that each bus must obtain a State motor vehicle license or cease running. Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, replied that the bus drivers would be directed to apply for the licenses. The cost of each bus license ranges from $40 to $67.50, according to the size of the vehicle. In addition each chauffeur must pay $5 for a driver's license.

While no time limit was set in which the licenses must be procured, it was said that the State authorities would expect that all of the public buses would have them within ten days. The law permits automobiles from other States to operate here for two weeks without a license, and, as the buses come mainly from New Jersey and Connecticut, this law operates in their favor.

The injury of a citizen of Brooklyn on Wednesday by a bus brought the question of liability sharply home to Commissioner Whalen, who said that insurance companies carrying policies for vehicles from other States asked from $300 to $500 to transfer the insurance. These figures, he said, were based on the increased traffic here. According to Mr. Whalen there are 135 buses running in the city and they carry from 65,000 to 100,000 passengers a day at 5 cents each. The accident of Wednesday, he said, was the only serious one that had so far occurred.

The proceedings before Judge Mayer yesterday were on an application by Receiver Hedges for instructions as to what should be done in the matter of the Fourth and Madison Avenue Railroad, the property of the New York and Harlem Railroad Company, which is leased to the New York Railroad Company at a total cost of about $448,000 a year. The rent, at the rate of $400,000 a year, is much in arrears. Henry L. Stimson of counsel for Receiver Hedges said that $2,900,000 had been spent in electrifying the line, and that if it should be returned to its owner no charge could be made for modernizing of property.

He also said that after considering the increased income from the charge for transfers, the increased costs for operation due to increased wages, and the higher prices paid for necessaries, the line was earning about $170,000 a year less than its operating costs. During the last fiscal year the line did not earn within $239,000 of its rent. Henry B. Anderson, of counsel for the owner of the property, said that no demands had been made upon the receiver either for the rent due, for the return of the property, or for anything else. He said it was the policy of the Directors of the New York & Harlem Railroad Company to keep the New York Railways system together, and that to accomplish this the company would be willing to accept the earnings of the line without any responsibility for its losses.

It was finally decided to postpone the hearing until Dec. 1, with the understanding that the situation should remain as it was on Nov. 1, and that in the meantime counsel for the owner of the property was to have opportunity to inspect the books to discover just how much the road was earning.

The disturbances on the Flatbush Avenue line in Brooklyn, which followed the action of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company in moving the second fare point a mile nearer this borough, were continued yesterday. There were many fights, many passengers were ejected for refusing to pay the second fare or to transfer from one car to another, and thousands, because it was a fine, crisp day, walked to the one fare zone before boarding a car. Several of the passengers threatened to sue the company for assault.

H. Hobart Porter, General Manager of the company, at the close of a day unusually full of small riots, repeated his statement of Tuesday that the public really liked the new arrangement, and that the more they tried it the more they would like it. He stated that all the trouble arose from a misunderstanding on the part of the public, but that the public, far from feeling incensed over the situation, accepted it good naturedly and with a laughing spirit.

As a result of many complaints from residents of Flatbush that inspectors have been brutal in their attempts to force passengers to pay the second fare Public Service Commissioner Lewis Nixon yesterday ordered a hearing on the question of the right of the company to collect a second fare and the manner of compelling passengers to pay it last night, and of which Mr. Brady is the Chairman, will report its findings to the Producing Managers' Association next week, and at the same time will suggest several plans by which it believes that speculating can be held in check. The principal plan will be the elimination of the distribution of tickets, a plan which will possibly mean that the McBride and Tyson agencies, which handle most of the tickets in New York, will be merged, and that they will distribute the tickets to the lesser brokers.

MANAGERS SEEK TO CONTROL BROKERS

Plan Merger with McBride and Tyson and Distribution of Tickets to Lesser Agencies.

W. A. BRADY BLAMES SWANN

Declares "Intolerable" Situation Is Due to His Non-Enforcement of Anti-Speculation Ordinance.

William A. Brady, following a meeting of a committee of theatrical managers last night to consider ways and means of combating illegal ticket speculation, characterized the present situation as "intolerable," and laid the blame for non-enforcement of the anti-speculation ordinance to District Attorney Swann.

Speculation in tickets has recently been flourishing to even a greater extent than before the ordinance was passed, declare the managers, and it has been no unusual thing for tickets to be sold for seven or eight dollars apiece. For a recent premiere, one manager said yesterday, $22 was paid for a pair of seats.

"Unless the situation can be got under control," Mr. Brady said last night, "we feel that the theatres in New York will be seriously injured. The public, of course, believes that it is all the fault of the managers, but I would like to call attention to the fact that there is a national law which prohibits the theatres from sharing in premiums.

"I want to say also that several prominent managers have written letters to Mr. Swann, giving specific instances of overcharging, and the names of prominent citizens who had paid illegal prices. [illegible] I know, has reported several cases where tickets for the Empire Theatre were sold for illegal premiums, but to date he has not received a reply from Mr. Swann.

"And it was Mr. Swann who went before the Board of Aldermen and accused the managers of being in collusion with the speculators. Well the Board of Aldermen passed the fifty-cent ordinance, and so far Mr. Swann has not done anything to enforce it. The managers do not propose to be the goats any longer."

NAVY RECEIVES THE REID.

Naval, State, and City Officials Attend Ceremony at Boston.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—One of the most remarkable shipbuilding feats in the history of the United States was completed today when the United States destroyer Reid was turned over to the navy by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation at the Boston Navy Yard in the presence of naval, State and city officials and other guests. The Reid is the first destroyer constructed in 45½ working days from the time of the laying of the keel.

Admiral Dunn, Commandant of the navy yard, and Admiral Robeson, Chief of the Boston Naval District, gave an official greeting, and the former replied to General Manager Wakeman's official address of transfer. Telegrams of congratulation were read from Secretary Daniels, Governor John H. Bartlett of New Hampshire, United States Senator Henry W. Keyes of New Hampshire, Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington, Senator Hale of the Naval Affairs Committee, John Wanamaker, former Postmaster General, and Rear Admiral D. W. Taylor, chief constructor of the navy. Addresses were made by Lieut. Gov. Cox and Mayor Peters.

No Clothes Shortage Here

To visit our stores, and see our four great storesful of smart all-wool Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes, is to disbelieve the countrywide clothes shortage.

Yet such a shortage really does exist. Men who have been the rounds before coming here, regard our enormous stock of fine suits and overcoats with frank wonderment.

As one of them expressed it: "If all New York fully appreciated what vast assortments you carry, and what remarkable style and quality you give a man for his money, there would be a big line waiting to get in your stores each morning."

Heaping assortments and generous values have always been twin policies of ours. Come in and let us save you money on exactly the kind of coat you have been looking for.

LODGE FORCES WIN OPENING SKIRMISH OF TREATY BATTLE

Senate Adopts the Committee Preamble to the Ratification Resolution, 48 to 40.

HITCHCOCK SEES WILSON

President Gives Democratic Leaders Full Discretion to Accept Compromises.

FINDS PRESIDENT "ALERT"

"Almost Sitting Up," but Showing the Effects of His Illness, Mr. Hitchcock Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—On the first real test of strength in the Senate today, Senator Lodge's forces polled a majority of eight votes in favor of the proposed preamble to the resolution of ratification which would require the written assent of three allied powers to American reservations. This preamble was adopted by a vote of 48 to 40 after several attempts to modify it had been defeated by the same or a greater margin. It was adopted in exactly the form proposed by the Foreign Relations Committee.

Although this lineup may vary on different reservations proposed, Republican leaders assert that it was a complete demonstration that they have the necessary votes to frame the resolution of ratification in their own way. Two-thirds of the Senate must finally approve the resolution before the treaty can be ratified.

The text of the preamble as adopted is as follows:

"The reservations and understandings adopted by the Senate are to be made a part and condition of the resolution of ratification, which ratification is not to take effect or bind the United States until the said reservations and understandings adopted by the Senate have been accepted by an exchange of notes as a part and condition of said resolution of ratification by at least three of the four principal allied and associated powers, to wit, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan."

Mild reservationists, with the exception of Senator McCumber of North Dakota, voted with Senator Lodge, who was also supported by Senators Gore, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Reed from the Democratic side.

Before the first vote was taken Senator Hitchcock announced, after a conference at the President's bedside, that the President had said he would accept any compromise which friends of the treaty thought necessary, so long as the terms of the treaty itself were no endangered. Full discretion in accepting compromises was given to Senate leaders by the President, Senator Hitchcock added.

The Lodge reservations, including the preamble adopted by a majority vote today, were characterized as destructive by President Wilson, according to Senator Hitchcock. Whether the President would be willing for his supporters in the Senate to vote against ratification in case the Lodge reservations prevailed in the end was not indicated by Mr. Hitchcock.

The first roll call was on a motion by Senator McCumber to strike from the preamble the requirement that written acceptance of the American reservations be obtained from three allied powers before ratification by the Senate became effective. This was defeated, 48 to 40, eight Senators not voting. Had all voted, the final result would have been 52 to 44. This roll call was identical with a later one on the preamble proper, the result of which follows:

President Prepares a Message to the People for Armistice Day

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—President Wilson today wrote a message to the American people which will be made public on Armistice Day, Nov. 11.

SHONTS RICHES GO TO MRS. THOMAS

Wife Gets $5,000 Insurance and a Portrait of Herself by Prince Troubetzkoy.

$100,000 FOR DAUGHTERS

Provision Made That Any Legatee Who Enters a Contest Shall Lose Bequest.

The will of Theodore P. Shonts, offered for probate in the Surrogate's Court yesterday by De Lancey Nicoll, personal counsel to the late President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, cuts off Mrs. Milla D. Shonts of 570 Park Avenue, his widow, with a life insurance policy of $5,000 and a portrait of herself executed by Prince Troubetzkoy. The will names "My friend," Mrs. Amanda Thomas, as the residuary legatee of the estate, estimated at $475,000.

The filing of the will follows the appointment on Thursday of Mrs. Shonts as temporary administratrix. In her application setting forth that she had made an unsuccessful hunt for a will Mrs. Shonts added that she had been informed that her husband during his last illness had attempted to execute a will leaving the bulk of his estate "to a certain woman in no way related to him or his family either by blood or marriage."

A person familiar with the private affairs of Mr. Shonts told newspapermen yesterday that he knew of at least eight wills which Mr. Shonts had made since 1900. He said that Mr. Shonts often had his wills withdrawn for trivial reasons. He recalled that on one occasion he had had his attorneys prepare a new will because in a previous one a butler with whom he had quarreled was mentioned as a legatee.

The will offered for probate was [illegible] on July 30, while Mr. Shonts was ill in his home at 930 Park Avenue, and was witnessed by James L. Quackenbush, Counsel for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company; Chester A. Robinson, and Ralph Norton. The executors are Mr. Nicoll, E. J. Berwind, a Director of the Interborough, and the Guaranty Trust Company. Mr. Shonts died on Sept. 21.

A trust fund amounting to $100,000 is created for his two daughters, Mrs. Marguerite Bingham and the Duchess de Chaulnes of Paris. The will stipulates that the fund is to be enjoyed by the two daughters for life and eventually is to go to their issue. If either daughter should die without issue the sister remaining is to receive the income for life.

A similar fund is set aside by Mr. Shonts for the benefit of his sister, Miss Eva Marshall Shonts of Hinsdale, Ill., and his two nieces, Mary Merrifield and Jennie Wiffin of Chicago. After bequeathing to Mrs. Shonts the $5,000 life insurance policy and the portrait the testator says:

"Having by agreement, made in June, 1917, provided for my wife, Milla D. Shonts, I make no further provision for her in this will, except that I acknowledge an indebtedness to my wife in the sum of $100,000 payable within twelve months after my death."

To "My Friend," Mrs. Thomas.

The will then provides that the residuary estate shall go to "my friend," Mrs. Amanda C. Thomas, who lives at 930 Park Avenue, in the same apartment house where Mr. Shonts made his home.

In anticipation of a possible contest of his will Mr. Shonts inserted a clause providing that if any beneficiary attempted to break the will such action would automatically annul the bequest and that the share devised should go to Mrs. Thomas.

The next step in the fight over Mr. Shonts's estate, which promises to be bitter, will be taken this morning when Cornelius J. Sullivan, as attorney for the executors, will go before Surrogate Fowler and move to set aside the appointment of Mrs. Shonts. The motion will be opposed by Warren Dixon and George W. Files of 115 Broadway, counsel for Mrs. Shonts, both of whom expressed belief yesterday that the estate is much larger than the estimate made by Mr. Nicoll.

None of the principals in the legal fight could be found yesterday. Mrs. Shonts continued to maintain her silence, although her attorneys said she might discuss her side of the question in a few days. Mrs. Thomas was said to be "out of town" when efforts were made to see her at 930 Park Avenue.

Declaring that Mrs. Shonts had been supplied with a copy of the will offered for probate as well as copies of other wills her husband had made in his lifetime, Mr. Nicoll yesterday issued a statement accusing her of breaking an agreement made by her through S. Stanwood Menken, who preceded Mr. Files and Mr. Dixon as her counsel, not to take any court action until the arrival of the Duchess De Chaulnes, now in Europe.

"Mr. Shonts died Sept. 21, 1919," said Mr. Nicoll, "On July 30, 1919, he made a will which was substantially the same as two former wills, one dated April 16, 1918, and another dated June 8, 1919, with some minor changes. The last two wills were canceled upon the execution of the will of July 30, 1919. In January, 1917, Mr. Shonts made a prior will and

200 CAUGHT IN NEW YORK

Federal Agents Act on Second Anniversary of Soviet Revolution.

MANY WILL BE DEPORTED

Russian People's House Raided and Tons of Literature Carried Away.

RED FLAG WAVED IN BRONX

Speaker at Bolshevist Celebration There Threatens a Revolution in America.

Choosing the second anniversary of the Bolshevist revolution in Russia as the psychological moment to strike, the Federal Government, aided by municipal police in New York and several other large cities, last night dealt the most serious and sweeping blow it has yet aimed at criminal anarchists.

Armed with warrants for dangerous agitators whom Federal agents have trailed for months, the raiders swarmed into the Russian People's House in New York and into similar gathering places of alleged "Reds" in Philadelphia, Newark, Detroit, Jackson, Mich.; Ansonia, Conn., and other cities, broke up meetings, seized tons of literature and herded the gangs of foreign men and women into various offices for examination, whence many of those who proved to be the most sought after of the radicals found their way into cells.

"Reds" to Be Deported.

[illegible] Federal authorities were [illegible] as to their plans and purposes, the fact that the warrants upon which they held twenty-seven in New York, thirty in Philadelphia, fifty in Detroit, thirty-six in Newark, and six in Jackson, were signed by United States Commissioner of Immigration Caminetti, led to the inference that it is the Government's purpose to deport as many of those taken as can be proved to be criminal anarchists.

From one of those co-operating with Chief Flynn of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, who, with Sergeant Gegan of the police Bomb Squad, led the raid in this city, came the declaration that many at least of those held were persons of provable criminal records. Twenty-five men were locked in cells in Police Headquarters here without their identity or the charges against them being disclosed, while two women, Ethel Bernstein and Dora Lipkin, were locked in a police station where there is a matron.

The police last night prevented a meeting of the Communist Labor Party which was to have been held in Laurel Garden to celebrate the Bolshevist anniversary while the Communist mass meeting scheduled for today in Rutgers Square was abandoned by those who sponsored it, with the assertion that they had discovered a "Secret Service plot," to "plant" operatives and force disorder.

Several meetings held in New York were marked by inflammatory speeches, one speaker at a meeting in the Bronx predicting the overthrow of the United States Government.

200 in Custody Here.

The police who raided headquarters in New York, the Russian People's House at 133 East Fifteenth Street, took about 200 men and women found there to the Department of Justice Headquarters in the Park Row Building for examination. The raid was carried out, it was said, under orders from Washington, and in addition to the men and women the police carried away several tons of documents, all of it said to be anarchist literature.

Those taken in the raid were examined last night by agents of the Department of Justice, and those who were able to prove citizenship were released. The examination was still under way at a late hour, and it was said that the ones who couldn't give a good account of themselves would be held at the Old Slip Police Station for further interrogation today.

Sergeant Gegan in Charge.

The police, who included besides plain clothes men from headquarters a number of Department of Justice agents, were under direction of Sergeant J. J. Gegan of the Bomb Squad, who has been co-operating with Government officials here in the effort to root out the anarchists known to be in New York.

Neither Sergeant Gegan nor any of his men would discuss the raid, all of them asserting that they were silent under orders of Chief William Flynn, recently appointed head of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department, with orders to leave no stone unturned to end all symptoms of anarchy in the United States.

The raid was executed swiftly. Automobiles filled with detectives, uniformed police, and Federal agents drove up quietly one by one and parked on side streets. When the building at 133 was completely surrounded the men in charge of each section of the raiding party ordered their men to the ground, and they went forward.

Those within had not the slightest idea of what was coming and the po-

Lansing and Other Officials to Greet Wales at the Border

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Secretary of State Lansing and other Government officials will greet the Prince of Wales at the international border when he comes to visit the United States. The Prince is expected to reach Washington on Armistice Day, next Tuesday, and will be welcomed at the Union Station by Vice President Marshall, acting for President Wilson.

Accompanied by a military escort, the Prince will drive to the Belmont residence on New Hampshire Avenue, which has been fitted up for his occupancy. The official program for the visit will include visits to the White House, Mount Vernon, and the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Major Gen. Biddle, who commanded the American troops in England during the war, will serve as aide de camp to the Prince during his stay in this country.

FOSTER IS DRIVEN OUT OF JOHNSTOWN

Steel Strike Organizer Prevented from Speaking and Escorted to the Station.

TO RID CITY OF AGITATORS

Citizens' Committee Takes Vigorous Measures—Foster to Speak Here Tonight.

JOHNSTOWN, Penn., Nov. 7.—W. Z. Foster, Secretary of the National Committee for Organizing Iron And Steel Workers, did not address a strikers' meeting in the Labor Temple here today, as scheduled because plain clothes men from the City Hall, under instructions from Chief of Police Briney, requested him to leave the city. The police had information, they said, that there would be serious trouble if Foster carried out his program.

The largest hall at the Labor Temple was jammed with strikers, who were indignant when informed of the action of the police. Organizers calmed them and said that the men must be prepared for news of further restrictions on their leaders.

Foster was requested to leave town by city detectives and by a committee of business men who were active later in the day. He was accompanied as far as Conemaugh on a Pennsylvania Railroad train. No charges of any sort were made against him here, and there was no warrant for his arrest at City Hall.

At Altoona tonight Foster made a statement to The Associated Press which indicated he did not know part of his escort in Johnstown was composed of prominent business men.

Says He Was Run Out of Town.

"City police and others took it upon themselves to order me out of town," he said. "A couple of newspapermen met me on the street as I came from the station. They told me the business men had met and decided they would use Duquesne and McKeesport tactics. They warned me there would be a riot at Labor Temple if I went there to speak. While I was taking lunch at a restaurant the reporters told me the business men were ready to 'clean up,' and that they have elected the Mayor they want.

On the street two city detectives advised me not to go to the hall. When I asked them whether the authorities could not protect me they told me the best protection I could have was to get out of the town.

"I went to Conboy's hotel and sent for him. When he came I told him I took the situation seriously, as I did not wish to have any disorder.

"We agreed to go to see the Chief of Police and the Mayor, but on the sidewalk a score or more of men surrounded me and I was cut off from Conboy.

"They headed me toward the Pennsylvania Station, and I went.

"There was nothing else to do. A city detective accompanied me and we passed several policemen. My escort told me they were ready to clean up.

"I told them I had done more than any man in Johnstown for months to keep the mills going there and to prevent a strike, and they agreed with me. I told them Conboy was honest and asked them to give him a square deal."

Foster intends to speak in Madison Square Garden, New York, tomorrow night.

Citizens Plan to Run Out Agitators.

A business men's committee, including W. R. Lamb, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and M. I. Tredennick, President of the Chamber of Commerce, and aided by steel workers who wish to return to work, tonight began active operations in a campaign to "run the organizers out of town."

T. J. Conboy, chief organizer, a big crowd waiting for him on the street was told, has agreed to leave Johnstown by 5 o'clock tomorrow evening, or as soon thereafter as he can arrange his ac-

GOVERNMENT'S CASE READY

RUMORS OF DELAY HEARD

But Ames Reaffirms Strike Is Illegal and That He Is There to Have It Recalled.

MINERS MUCH CONCERNED

Counsel Will Urge That Clayton Amendment to Sherman Act Prohibits Injunction.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—Although rumors persist that a way will be found to settle the coal miners' strike, so far as is known here tonight the Federal Government will press its petition for a temporary injunction and request for an order requiring the officials of the United Mine Workers of America to recall their strike order at the hearing before Judge A. B. Anderson in the Federal Court tomorrow.

"That's what we are here for," said C. B. Ames, special assistant to Attorney General Palmer, who, with Henry S. Mitchell, reached Indianapolis from Washington at noon today, when he was asked whether the Government would insist on revocation of the strike order.

"The strike is a violation of the law, and we shall ask for an order requiring the strike to be called off," he said.

Shortly after Mr. Ames and Mr. Mitchell registered at their hotel, Dan W. Simms, who was appointed Special Assistant District Attorney to enforce the temporary restraining order, called, and the three conferred on the hearing tomorrow.

The hearing will determine whether the temporary restraining order issued a week ago shall be dissolved or whether it shall be continued in the form of temporary injunctions or perhaps a permanent injunction. Attorneys for the defendants have filed a motion to dissolve the restraining order and a brief in support of the motion, and it appears that the first question before the court will be on this motion. If the motion should be denied then the question will be on the issuance of an injunction, which will raise the further question of affirmative relief in the form of an order of the court directing the union officials to recall the strike order.

Among the officials of the mine workers there is marked concern over the purpose of the Government to ask that the Executive Board be compelled to withdraw the strike order.

Hear Settlement Is Under Way.

The Cabinet meeting at Washington today and conferences between Samuel Gompers and Attorney General Palmer occasioned reports that efforts were still under way for a settlement out of court. If a promising plan of settlement is devised it was reported here that the hearing in court set for tomorrow would be postponed. But John L. Lewis, Acting President of the mine workers, said he knew of no such plans.

Mr. Lewis and William Green, Secretary-Treasurer of the union, conferred several times today, but it was denied that they made any proposition to Attorney General Palmer through Samuel Gompers.

Daniel J. Tobin, President of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, with headquarters in Indianapolis, was in conference today with Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green. Mr. Tobin is a member of the Executive Committee of the American Federation of Labor, and it was thought that he might have been acting for Mr. Gompers.

Two main points will be pressed by the Government at the hearing, one that the Lever law for the control of fuel is in effect and that the strike was a conspiracy contrary to that law, and the other that the Government has a contract to pay the railroads a certain income, and that if coal is shut off the railroads, which are operated by the Government, will not have an income, and that the Government will have to pay the railroads, under the contract, out of the public treasury.

The latter point presents the question of property right, which is said to be necessary to authorize the issuance of a restraining order.

The Government is depending primarily on the Lever law, but should the Court sustain the contention of the attorneys for the mine workers, that the Lever law is no longer in force, then the Government will depend on its rights under the contract to pay the railroads a certain income.

Bank on Clayton Amendment.

The attorneys for the mine workers, in their motion to dissolve the temporary restraining order, cited the Clayton amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law as providing that no restraining order or injunction should be issued in the case of a dispute between employers and employes over conditions or terms of employment unless irreparable injury to property was threatened, but it is understood that the Government will maintain that the Clayton amendment

Coal Operators' Chief Declares Russian Reds Are Financing Radicalism Among Unions Here

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 7.—"Lenin and Trotzky are financing the present radical movements among labor in the United States," Thomas T. Brewster, Chairman of the Coal Operators' Scale Committee, declared in an address here today. Mr. Brewster said that the "demonstration made by the gang which controlled the miners' union is only one phase of the question."

"For fifteen years," Mr. Brewster said, "I have worked hard for the principle of collective bargaining and we had hopes that we were working out something and making progress.

"In the last four years the radicals have been boring from without and within until now our great labor unions are controlled by radical interests of from 5 to 10 per cent. This is bringing disorder and misrule on the country and will bring about the destruction of our institutions unless action is taken.

"We know that Lenin and Trotzky are financing this movement in the United States. The Government knows where these funds are coming from and where they are going. The time has come when if we would save our institutions we must take a stand and say, 'They shall not pass.'"

STRIKERS DYNAMITE CAR TO STEEL PLANT

Three Arrests Made in Outrage Near Pittsburgh—Workers Are Uninjured.

REIGN OF TERROR PREVAILS

Twelve More Women Arrested at Youngstown for Attempt to Keep Men from Mills.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 7.—A reign of terror prevails throughout the Demmah-Monessen-Charleroi-Belle Vernon steel mill district as a result of repeated bomb outrages, in which residences have been dynamited and attempts made to blow up street cars and trains. Steel strikers who have refused to return to work, although a majority of the mills are declared to be working at almost full capacity again, are charged by the police with being responsible for the outrages. Residents live in a state of terror, not knowing when or where the next attempt to destroy life and property may be made.

State troopers and the police are scouring the towns in an effort to round up those responsible for the outrages.

Three arrests have been made in connection with the attempt to dynamite a Monessen-Belle Vernon Street car last night which was bound for Belle Vernon, filled with steel workers from Monessen. The car was hurled from the track and partially wrecked, but none of the occupants was seriously hurt, although several were bruised and cut by flying glass. Every window in the car was shattered.

State troopers and workingmen in the car joined in the pursuit of three men seen running from the vicinity.

At the office of Strike Organizer Foster it was announced that the International Fur Workers' Union, with headquarters in New York, had assessed every member $5 for the support of the steel strikers, and that within a few days a check for $10,000 would be sent from the New York joint board. Strike headquarters also announced that at a meeting of the Executive Council of the Central Labor Union last night it was voted to ask every member of all the unions affiliated with the central body to donate one day's pay to the strikers.

At the end of the eighth week of the strike the Secretary of the National Committee said the workers were as firm as ever, and still had faith in their ultimate victory.

Disorder at Youngstown.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Minor disturbances broke out in widely separated parts of the city today in connection with the steel strike. Twelve women were arrested in East Youngstown after they had marched up and down the streets and attempted to prevent workmen from entering the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company plant.

Other disturbances included a workman beaten while on his way to a mill, a picket stabbed by a negro workman whom he accosted, another negro held for carrying a knife, a picket arrested after entering the Carnegie Steel Company plant and attempting to persuade work men to come out, a striker jailed for assault, and five men arrested for carrying concealed weapons. A street car carrying men to the Republic Iron & Steel Company and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company was bombarded with bricks, several passengers being cut by flying glass. A passenger fired three shots into the air, it is said, dispersing the mob before the police arrived.

The Republic Iron & Steel Company today reported resumption of operation in its plate mills, while the Ohio works of the Carnegie Steel Company announced the blowing in of another blast furnace, making four of its six stacks in operation.

MILAN, Nov. 7.—There is continued congestion of the Port of Genoa. The Sailors' Federation will forbid the sailing of the liners Pesaro and America, and probably the Duca d'Aosta, as well. The America was held up at the last moment by twenty firemen complaining of sudden illness.

Besides better wages, the federation demands better facilities for all sailors, if at sea, through the Marconi wireless telegraphist or the Captain, and, if on land, through a Consul.

FARMERS REFUSE TO SUPPORT UNIONS

New York Federation Opposed to Any Alliance with Organized Labor.

TO FIGHT PRICE REGULATION

Convention Demands Exclusion from Sherman Law and Right to Collective Bargaining.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Farmers of New York State will wage war against any plan which would tend toward affiliation with organized labor and against any attempt to regulate food prices either upward or downward.

This decision was reached at the convention of the State Federation of Farm Bureaus here today, called to instruct delegates to the Chicago conference this month, when the American Farm Bureau Federation will be formed and its policy outlined.

Leaders of the State agrarian movement announced that the State Federation would go on record as opposed to any affiliation with the labor element, on the ground that they have no aims in common.

The federation farmers are in favor of a party of their own. They stand for exemption from the Sherman anti-trust law, the right to collective bargaining and selling, and are opposed to a conference of capital and labor where the food-producing class is not included.

It was declared that farmers and food producers had been left out of the industrial conference at Washington, and resolutions were introduced calling for inclusion of the agricultural interests in any future conferences. [Representatives of farmers' organizations, as a matter of fact, were included in the public group in the conference.]

Regarding the regulation of food prices, President Silas Strivings of the State Federation said:

"The farmer has been producing more food during the war because he loves his country. During that time he did not receive a fair return for his products and now with peace at hand he demands that fair prices return.

"Today he feels that any attempt to lower prices by regulation would be folly, to say nothing of injustice. I am afraid, too, that if the agitation for lower food prices is continued the farmer may turn around and produce less food, for there will be no incentive for the increased production so badly needed today.

"I believe that if artificial prices are not established conditions will adjust themselves in this country and that increased production will eventually mean that prices will come back to a normal standard, but it cannot be done by forcing down the price of food, for such action would merely add to the already critical conditions."

FARRINGTON SEES NO END.

Asserts Granting of Permanent Injunction Would Have Little Effect.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 7.—Frank Farrington, local President of the United Mine Workers of America, said today the results of the hearing tomorrow on the restraining order would have little effect on the situation.

"The court's decision tomorrow will make no difference," Farrington declared emphatically, "whichever way it goes."

The miners seem to have little expectation that the courts will do other than grant the permanent injunction, but they contend that the permanent injunction will not have any more effect on the strike than has the temporary restraining order.

Asked if there was anything to indicate that a settlement might be reached soon, Farrington said:

"I look for a long-drawn-out strike, unless the Government stops trying to force those men back to work."

All reports from over this State continue favorable to the miners, according to advices at the Mine Workers' headquarters here. The mines of Illinois are still idle and there is no indication thus far that any attempt is to be made to reopen any of them at present.

GOMPERS OFFER TAKEN UP

Labor Leader Holds Conferences with Palmer—Hears from Lewis.

MAY INVOLVE COURT DELAY

Reported Plan for New Negotiations if the Government Will Grant Time.

WON'T VACATE INJUNCTION

Attorney General Again Refuses to Stop Suit, but Might Not Oppose Request for Delay.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, submitted to Attorney General Palmer late this afternoon a proposal which, in the opinion of Mr. Gompers, may make possible a settlement of the bituminous coal strike. Mr. Gompers was in conference with the Attorney General three times today and it was at the end of the last conference, at 6:15 P. M., that it was announced that he had submitted a proposal which the Government had taken under consideration and which it was not denied might lead to a settlement of the coal strike.

Whether the Gompers proposition involves a recall of the strike order was a question that Mr. Gompers refused to answer.

"I will say nothing. It is useless to ask me any questions," Gompers said, as he left the Attorney General's office.

Mr. Palmer was just as noncommunicative. He even refused to see the correspondents tonight. It was said that he would not oppose a postponement of tomorrow's injunction proceedings in Indianapolis, if such postponement was asked by the leaders of the United Mine Workers on the basis of a settlement such as was proposed by Mr. Gompers.

The opinion appears quite general in Washington tonight that when the injunction proceedings come up before Judge Anderson in Indianapolis tomorrow the attorneys for the miners' union will ask for a postponement of the hearing and that the Government will not oppose the request. The Gompers proposition will then be disclosed and an effort made to carry it into effect. This view is based on the theory that the Gompers proposition has the indorsement of President Lewis of the United Mine Workers. The attitude of the operators is also a controlling factor.

Hope of a Settlement.

"Is there reason to hope that a settlement of the strike is in sight?" one of Mr. Palmer's assistants was asked.

"Yes, I think there is hope," he replied.

"What are the chances?" he was asked.

"I should say about fifty-fifty," was the reply.

Whatever the Gompers proposal is it can be stated that the first thing that Mr. Palmer did after Gompers left was to call up the White House and ask for Secretary Tumulty. A little later on he called up St. Louis, presumably for the purpose of communicating the Gompers proposal to Thomas T. Brewster, Chairman of the Scale Committee of the coal operators.

Late tonight it was reported that the Gompers proposal called for a week's postponement of the injunction proceedings at Indianapolis, and that during that period the miners' officials and the Scale Committee of the coal operators would assemble in Washington and try to reach an agreement. This conference would first take up the question, it is said, of the men returning to work, and in the event of a satisfactory arrangement the strike order would be recalled.

In the meantime the injunction would not be withdrawn, and if the conference fails the Government would continue steps to make it permanent.

A dozen different rumors as to the nature of the Gompers proposal are going the rounds of Washington tonight. Not one of them, so far as can be ascertained, has any official basis.

Another report was that Mr. Gompers agreed to use his influence to have the strike order recalled provided an immediate conference was called and President Wilson took some action to see to it that the settlement arrived at would meet the just demands of the miners. The President has stated that if the strike order was rescinded and the men return to the mines he would appoint a commission to make a complete investigation of the whole bituminous mining situation and that the Government would exert its power to see that the recommendations of this commission were carried out. From the beginning of the controversy the operators have stated flatly that under no considerations would they negotiate on a six-hour day and a five-day week, which are two of the three main demands of the miners' union, the other being a demand for a 60 per cent. increase in wages. The operators are ready to discuss wages and it was said tonight that they would probably be willing to grant a liberal advance, but not the 60 per cent. asked by the miners.

At the first conference Mr. Gompers asked Mr. Palmer to agree to recall the injunction. The Attorney General refused to consider the proposition.

"The only way to get the Government to agree to a vacating of the injunction," said the Attorney General, "is to call off the strike and order the men back to the mines. Do that and the injunction will be immediately vacated."

Cabinet Discusses Strike.

From this conference Attorney General Palmer went to a special meeting of the Cabinet that had been called by Secretary Lansing. It is understood that the whole strike situation was canvassed, and the position taken by Mr. Palmer was indorsed. Dr. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, and Walker D. Hines, the Director General of Railroads, attended the meeting of the Cabinet. When the Cabinet adjourned Mr. Palmer stated that no change in the situation had occurred, and that the Government was proceeding along the lines previously laid down by the Attorney General.

When Secretary Wilson emerged from the Cabinet meeting he refused to be interviewed.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon Messrs. Gompers, Morrison, and Wohl appeared at the Department of Justice for their second conference. This time the conference lasted an hour and a half, and when it ended Gompers hurried back to his office in the Federation of Labor Building and called up John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, on the long-distance phone. He reached Lewis in Indianapolis, and the conference, it is understood, was a long one.

At 3:10 P. M. Gompers and his colleagues returned for their third conference with the Attorney General. This time the conference lasted about an hour.

Attorney General Palmer this morning had a personal conference with President Wilson. During his conference with the President Mr. Palmer went over the latest aspects of the situation with Mr. Wilson and also obtained the President's opinions and directions regarding the handling of the situation by the Government.

The Railroad Administration continued its plans tonight for meeting the emergency caused by the coal strike. In order that cars might move rapidly, unload and return to the mines which still are producing, a temporary policy was adopted directing that shipments to persons or concerns under the first four headings on the priority list be permitted to go to the original consignees without interference on the part of the Government officials in charge of distribution.

These orders affect shipments for railroads, the army and navy, other Federal Government departments, State, county, and municipal buildings, public utilities and retail dealers.

Because of the sugar shortage, it also was directed that Cuban sugar manufacturing concerns supplying the United States be furnished with the coal necessary to continue operation.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 7.—Thomas T. Brewster, Chairman of the Scale Committee of Coal Operators, talked with Attorney General Palmer on long-distance telephone late this afternoon, after the latter's conferences with Samuel Gompers in Washington. Brewster refused to discuss the conversation, saying that it had no direct effect on the operators' stand. He asserted there was no change in the situation so far as the operators were concerned. He received a telegram from Mr. Palmer this morning, but likewise refused to discuss this.

ASKS CONGRESSIONAL INQUIRY.

West Virginia Strike Leader Indignant at Governor's Refusal.

CHARLESTON, West Va., Nov. 7.—Governor John J. Cornwell's refusal today to ask for a Congressional investigation of conditions in the Logan County non-union coal fields, brought a statement tonight from C. F. Keeney, President of District 17, United Mine Workers, to the effect that he had "broken off diplomatic relations" with the Governor and would take the question of an inquiry up with the Federal authorities.

Mr. Keeney declared he "had been assured" that a Federal investigation of conditions in Logan, as well as other coal fields of West Virginia, would be made. He added that the State investigation had "done nothing for the miners."

"Nothing would be gained" by a Federal inquiry, said Governor Cornwell today in reply to Mr. Keeney's request that such an investigation, which he declared would protect miners who wished to testify to "the horrible brutality which is rampant in this unhappy section of the State," be made.

Mines in the non-union fields of West Virginia were reported to be working 100 per cent. today, and a number of union mines in the Fairmont district were declared by operators to be producing coal. The West Virginia Coal Association reported thirty-two mines in operation in the Northern West Virginia union fields. Union leaders denied this, and said that only a "few mines which had been operated on an open-shop basis were producing."

CHARGE BIG GRAFT IN GARMENT STRIKES

Manufacturers Are Declared to Have Paid $500,000 in "Fines" to Union.

LEADERS FACE INDICTMENT

Chicago Prosecuting Attorney Charges Attempts to Intimidate Witnesses in Inquiry.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Assistant State's Attorney Michels asserted today that persons believed to be representatives of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America had attempted to intimidate State witnesses in the investigation of charges that clothing manufacturers had been compelled to pay the organization and its officers $500,000 during the last year in "fines" for the settlement of strikes.

"While I was interviewing a clothing manufacturer at his home last night in regard to a charge that he had paid $6,000 to the union for the settlement of a strike a man called on the telephone and told the manufacturer that he would have forty-eight hours to leave the city," said Mr. Michels. "He added that they were after him and would get him if he did not leave the city. We are having great difficulty in getting the clothing manufacturers to tell their stories, but satisfactory progress is being made."

Mr. Michels said after examining the documentary evidence seized yesterday in a raid on the union headquarters in Chicago that ten or twelve officials of the organization would be implicated in the plot when the case was presented next week to the Grand Jury. He said three clothing manufacturers had stated they had paid money to the officials of the labor organization.

The organization is said to have more than 150,000 members, dominating the clothing industry at Chicago, New York, and Rochester, N. Y., the three clothing centres. Various small factories and shops were driven out of business and the entire industry was compelled to pay tribute, according to Mr. Michels. He added that a strike was planned soon in a nationally known clothing factory for a forty-four-hour week and 25 per cent. of the manufacturer's profits unless a settlement was made. He asserted the present high prices of men's ready-made clothing were due to the methods of the amalgamated organization.

Thursday's raid on the Chicago headquarters of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, and charges that Chicago officials of the union were involved in graft were denounced last night by the international office of the Amalgamated, at 31 Union Square, this city, as part of a gigantic conspiracy to involve its officials in a bribery plot, so as to discredit them with the rank and file. The Chicago District Attorney, it is charged, is being used as a tool by clothing manufacturers. The conspiracy, it is alleged, was reported to District Attorney Swann on Oct. 23, and an attempt to involve General President Hillman in a bribery plot defeated.

BIG COAL MINE AFIRE.

Desperate Efforts to Stop Indiana Blaze—Cause Not Known.

BICKNELL, Ind., Nov. 7.—American Mine No. 1 at Bicknell, said to be the largest coal mine in the bituminous fields of the United States, is on fire tonight. The fire is the worst ever known in the coal fields of this section. Its cause and the time of its origin had not been determined late tonight.

Owing to the strike, it is not believed that any one is in the mine, but as a precautionary measure, a rescue care with its crew, has been sent here from Vincennes. At a late hour frantic efforts were being made to seal the shafts.

The mine, when in operation, had an average output of 6,000 tons of coal a day.

FRENCH WAR AREAS FILMED.

Miss Morgan Brings Back Reel Showing Peasants as Actors.

Miss Anne Morgan, who recently returned from France, brought back with her a war film "The Heritage of France," which will be shown here and throughout the country under the auspices of the American Committee for Devastated France. The film represents a story of what happened in the devastated areas of France and the actors are the peasants themselves depicting their own tragedy. Miss Morgan announced the presentation of the moving pictures yesterday.

Myron T. Herrick, President of the American Committee, has issued invitations for a private showing of the film for Monday evening at 9 o'clock at the Hotel Plaza. The first presentation of the pictures was made in Paris just before Miss Morgan returned to America.

TWO GOVERNORS MOVE TO SETTLE COAL STRIKE

Executives of Kansas and Michigan Intervene—Michigan Miners' Leader Rejects the Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 7.—Governor Allen has asked F. W. Lukens, President of the Southwestern Coal Operators' Association, to come to Topeka tomorrow or Monday to discuss the coal strike situation and to see what steps may be taken toward the opening of negotiations between the miners and operators.

BAY CITY, Mich., Nov. 7.—The appeal of Governor Sleeper today that Michigan miners resume work immediately with the guarantee that the wage scale finally agreed upon in other fields becomes effective in this State as of the date operations are resumed was rejected tonight by District President Stevenson.

Such an agreement, Mr. Stevenson declared, would defeat the purpose of the strike by aiding production" and, in effect, make strikebreakers of the Michigan miners." He pointed out that all contracts were declared void after Nov. 1, and that the strike order prohibited calling off the strike by individual districts.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 7.—News that President Martin Cahill and Secretary James Morgan of District 22, comprising the Wyoming coal fields, have left for the East to demand recase of Wyoming miners from the coal strike order, was received here today by Dave Gershon, local chief of the Bureau of the Department of Justice, from his special agents in the Wyoming fields.

BISMARCK, N. D., Nov. 7.—The conference of operators, miners' officials, and representatives of the State Government adjourned early today without an agreement between the operators and miners over the latter's demand for a 60 per cent. increase in wages.

A strike call is expected to be sent to the 2,000 union lignite miners of the State during the day.

FOREIGN SHIPS TO COAL IN THEIR HOME PORTS

Washington Looks for Little Diminution in Trade by Ban on Bunkering Here.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Foreign commerce of the United States carried in foreign bottoms is not expected to be diminished to any great extent by the Railroad Administration order forbidding the bunkering of foreign ships, officials of the Shipping Board said today.

Except for such vessels as are held up in American harbors the ruling will have the greatest effect on foreign vessels plying between the United States and South American ports, it was asserted, as the majority of European ships either can coal for the round trip upon departure for America or obtain sufficient coal for bunker purposes at Halifax.

Practically no change in Shipping Board schedules because of the coal situation is looked for, as it is thought the board will receive a weekly allotment of coal sufficient for its needs.

Agents of the foreign steamship liners detained in New York by the longshoremen's strike said yesterday that they understood that the Federal authorities would permit them to bunker sufficient coal in New York to carry the steamships to their home ports.

It was estimated that altogether 200 steamships flying foreign flags are in port, of which 26 are passenger vessels. All of them were coaling yesterday as usual, but it had been received by the local office of the committee to refuse bunkering permits.

The British lines will bunker their steamships for the round trip, as the Baltic of the White Star Line has done, in Liverpool, and any deficit will be taken on board at Halifax.

The Dutch and the French steamships will coal at their home ports for the round voyage, and if they cannot get coal they will have to curtail their service.

The Scandinavian lines expect to be able to coal at Newcastle, England, on the westward voyage, and if sufficient fuel cannot be obtained their services will have to be reduced.

The Italian steamship companies have to contend with a strike at Genoa of the harbor workers, which is tying up all the lines, but they hope later to get coal at Gibraltar.

The steamship agents said yesterday that the recent developments in the coal industry have convinced them that the future fuel of the profit-earning ocean carrier will be oil. That this was recognized before the present crisis is shown by the fact that the Robins Dry Dock, Tietjen & Lang, and other docks in the harbor of New York are filled to the gates with steamships being converted into oil burners.

Officials of the White Fuel Oil Engineering Corporation in South Brooklyn and Hoboken said yesterday that they had installed up to date nearly 700 oil burning systems in American and foreign vessels which had previously been using coal as fuel.

COURT DENIES PLEA OF BOSTON POLICE

Judge Refuses the Petition of Strikers Asking for Reinstatement.

ATTACK ON POLICE RULE

Counsel for Dismissed Men Held It Invalid—State Opposes This Interpretation.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The Supreme Court today denied the petition of members of the Boston Policemen's Union, which sought restoration to the positions from which they were removed by Commissioner Edwin T. Curtis for striking. Judge Carroll held that they were not entitled to reinstatement because they had failed to avail themselves of remedies contained in the anti-coercion act.

After arguments by counsel, Judge Carroll took barely a minute to announce his decision dismissing the case.

James H. Vahey, counsel for the policemen, contended that the rule of the Police Commissioner forbidding affiliation with organizations outside the Police Department was invalid and unreasonable. Herbert Parker, former Attorney General, who represented the Commissioner, said that the sole purpose of the rule was to prevent policemen joining the American Federation of Labor.

The only witness called was Frank H. McCarthy, New England organizer for the American Federation of Labor, who told the purposes of the federation, which, he said, had no power to order a strike and did not favor sympathetic strikes. Replying to a question by Mr. Parker, the organizer said there was nothing in the constitution of the federation to prevent a local union from declaring a strike.

Commissioner Curtis, through counsel, contended that the petitioners had no standing in court because they were not members of the police force when they filed their petition. They failed, he said, to take advantage of their right to demand a review of the Commissioner's action under the anti-coercion act of 1918. Accordingly, he held, the action of the Commissioner became final and conclusive.

After the court announced the decision, Mr. Vahey requested that the case be reported for determination by the full court, but Judge Carroll suggested that Mr. Vahey appeal from the decision if he wished to obtain full bench consideration.

counts. Dominick Celotte, organizer for the United Mine Wrkers, and a resident of the county, refused to budge from his room at another hotel and police were called to prevent a riot.

At midnight Mr. Lunk called his crowd together and asked them to appear again tomorrow night at 7:30, with recruits, to finish the work then of getting rid of the organizers, if they have not left the city by that time.

Celotte says he will not leave unless forced to do so.

There was no decided change today in either the steel strike or the coal strike in the Johnstown district.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—John Fitzpatrick, National Chairman of the union committee in charge of the steel workers' strike, departed today for New York, where he is scheduled to speak tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden.

"We've a better chance now of winning than ever before," he asserted. "The Steel Corporation is going to topple."

Distribution of circulars urging steel strikers and others to attend a demonstration at East Chicago, Ind., celebrating the second anniversary of Soviet rule in Russia, resulted in the arrest of two men at Gary today by United States soldiers.

Colonel W. S. Mapes, in command of Federal troops in the district, announced that the demonstration would not be permitted.

200 REDS CAUGHT HERE

lice had penetrated the Russian People's House from top to bottom before any alarm was given. On one of the floors a class was in progress. Several of those in this class said afterward they were merely studying English when the police arrived.

"Out into the hall everybody," was the terse order. "Line up there and don't make any noise."

At first there was evidence that the presence of the policemen would be questioned, some of the women being especially vociferous in their demands to know the meaning of the raid. The harsh command to "Shut up, there, you, if you know what's good for you," brought silence, and those in the building were hustled into waiting automobiles and driven away.

Police Club Men in Building.

A number of those in the building were badly beaten by the police during the raid, their heads wrapped in bandages testifying to the rough manner in which they had been handled.

It was nearly an hour before the last machine had whirled off to the Park Row Building, but in the meantime the raiders had gone systematically through the building in search of incriminating literature of any kind. Doors were taken off, desks were ripped open, and even the few carpets were torn up to find possible hiding places for documents.

The papers seized filled several huge trucks, and the police worked like longshoremen unloading their booty at the Park Row Building.

The questioning followed general lines, of "are you a citizen? How long have you been in this country? What is your occupation?" and "What were you doing in that building?"

Chief Flynn is very anxious to get hold of documents vital to the cause of anarchy in this country as well as men believed to be high in the councils of the Soviet Government in Russia. It is also known that the Chief considers New York the headquarters for all kinds and degrees of Reds in America.

Since the bomb outrages last June, which led to the appointment of Flynn to take charge of the work of ferreting out anarchy, the police have been watching and cataloguing every act and every utterance of radicals in this city, even the so-called "harmless parlor Bolshevik." It is hoped that sooner or later one of these raids will yield clues to the perpetrators of the bomb outrages.

It is only three weeks now since this city was placarded all along Third Avenue with circulars calling on the Reds to "arm yourselves" against their "oppressors, the capitalists and the police," and to strike terror into the hearts of all foes of the workers. The circular called for a "bloody revolution" in this country as the sole means of righting matters.

The police have never been able to trace the authorship of the circular, nor have they found the faintest clue to the mind which planned the bomb plots. The raid last night, it was said, was one of the drives which Federal, State, and municipal authorities have been making to apprehend those who would attempt to overthrow the Government.

The names of those taken in the raid last night were not made public, nor could it be learned last night just how many were detained. The interrogation was impeded, it was stated, by the fact that an interpreter had to be employed in nearly every case. Practically all of those examined were of Russian birth.

Communist Meeting in Bronx.

Two thousand persons attended a meeting of the Comunist Labor Party, held in the Hunts Point Palace, 163d Street and Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, last night, to celebrate the second anniversary of the establishment of the Russian Soviet Government.

Despite the presence of Inspector Walsh and Captain Meade of the Simpson Street Station and many uniformed patrolmen and detectives, the speakers denounced Mayor Hylan and Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts as "traitors" to the laboring classes of the United States. The allied powers were assailed for their intervention in Russia. The presence of stenographers from the office of District Attorney Martin and the United States Department of Justice led some of the speakers to harangue in the Russian language.

Prior to the speeches several persons attired in red costumes unfurled a crimson banner across the stage, upon which was an inscription "Long Live the Third International."

Mrs. Rose Bloor was introduced as "an American and revolutionist." She attacked the capitalistic class and denounced public officials, terming them traitors to the proletariat. The mention of Mayor Hylan's and Governor Coolidge's names was the cause of hooting and hissing, which continued for three minutes.

L. C. A. K. Martens, who was caught in the raid last Summer conducted by the State Constabulary at the suggestion of the Lusk Committee, held a long conversation with Miss Bloor, and then addressed the audience in Russian.

At the conclusion of several speeches in Yiddish, Benjamin Gitlow spoke upon the sacrifices of his comrades in European countries.

"No matter what the police or courts may think," added the speaker, "we will work until we abolish this Government, the last to survive."

The Brownsville section of the Communist Labor Party of America celebrated the second anniversary of the founding of Soviet Government in Russia in Independence Hall, Osborn Street and Pitkin Avenue, last night. There were about 600 present, and the audience included many policemen as well as agents of the Department of Justice. L. C. A. K. Martens, the so-called Soviet Ambassador, did not appear as was expected.

The principal speaker was Dr. Morris Zucker, a dentist, who is out pending appeal for a sentence for seditious utterances. Among other things Zucker said that the day was soon coming when the proletariat would be able to meet the capitalists bayonet for bayonet, machine gun for machine gun.

James Larkin and Ella Reeve Bloor also spoke. The speakers criticised Mayor Hylan, whose name was hissed, because he had issued a letter urging the people not to attend a so-called Communist meeting in Rutgers Square tonight. Larkin said that the Mayor was Irish in name only. He said that while he was receiving de Valera the police were smashing the heads of Russian revolutionists.

RED RAIDS IN OTHER CITIES.

Radicals Taken in Newark, Philadelphia, and St. Louis.

One hundred and fifty men and women were taken in Newark last night in a series of raids in radical circles made by agents of the Department of Justice. So quietly were the raids conducted that the local police did not learn of them until the Federal authorities began to bring in their prisoners to the Government headquarters in the Lawyers' Building, 194 Market Street.

Four automobiles and a large motor truck were used by the agents in carrying the prisoners and quantities of literature and other evidence which were found in the places visited during the evening. Many of those who were rounded up had weapons on their persons, according to the officials. Forty agents took part in the raids.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Nov. 7.—Thirty men and women were arrested in two raids here tonight. All were locked up in the Federal Building, and Todd Daniels, special agent of the Department of Justice, said he could not give out any information on account of orders from Washington.

The principal raid took place at Eighth and Poplar Streets, where twenty persons were taken from a radical meeting hall. The other was on a hall at Second and Christian Streets, where ten additional arrests were made.

ANSONIA, Conn., Nov. 7.—Alleged radicals were arrested in raids conducted here tonight by agents of the Department of Justice, assisted by local police. Up to midnight twenty-seven prisoners had been locked up at police headquarters.

WATERBURY, Conn., Nov. 7.—Six alleged radicals were arrested by local police officials here tonight. The men were taken into custody on charges of attempting to circulate Bolshevist propaganda and stir up unrest.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 7.—Three men were arrested by Department of Justice agents here tonight in the round-up of alleged radicals.

NEW LONDON, CONN., Nov. 7.—Department of Justice men swooped down upon New London tonight and searched for evidence of radicals. No arrests were made, but a quantity of radical literature was seized in the rooms of a local club. Local police assisted. In ten saloons raided liquor was seized.

HARTFORD, CONN., Nov. 7.—Federal agents took two alleged radicals into custody in this city tonight. They were locked up at police headquarters.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 7.—Department of Justice agents here tonight, reinforced by officers from several other cities, took into custody fifty alleged radical agitators. Twenty men were arrested at a hall used for anarchistic meetings and the others were rounded up at their homes. All are being held for further investigation.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—A wagon load of prisoners was taken to the Federal building shortly before midnight. It was said the arrests were made in connection with the national raids on radicals.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 7.—Two men suspected of radical tendencies were arrested here tonight by Department of Justice operatives. They gave their names as Joe Norvelle, a Russian, and Antonie Jurkovich, a Croatian.

COMMUNISTS GIVE UP RALLY.

Police Activity Stops Bolshevist Anniversary Celebration.

The Communist mass meeting which was to have been held in Rutgers Square this afternoon to celebrate the anniversary of the Russian revolution has been called off. Mayor Hylan had directed Police Commissioner Enright to take "stern and prompt" measures to suppress any disorder at this gathering, and police preparations set in motion by this order had been redoubled following the finding yesterday of further evidence of radical activities in this city and elsewhere. This evidence was in the nature of a circular showing that the I. W. W. were endeavoring to form a country-wide organization of radical German workmen, and that they already were circulating a publication in German.

The reason assigned last night by Harry W. Witnitsky, Executive Secretary of the Communist Party, for abandoning plans for the Rutgers Square celebration was the alleged discovery by its sponsors of a "Secret Service plot" to "plant" the meeting and to cause disorder which, he said, would result in the death and injury of some of those who attended. Witnitsky added that Mayor Hylan's letter to the Police Commissioner was to show that the Mayor was aware of this "plot," and that publicity given to plans for the meeting already had accomplished the purpose for which it was arranged.

The I. W. W. circular, of which the police obtained a number of copies yesterday, is dated at Chicago, headed in German "Der Klassenkampf," ("The Class War.")

"Fellow-workers," the circular says, "the German I. W. W. members have arranged with headquarters to have Der Klassenkampf, the new German I. W. W. paper, now appearing twice a month, published weekly as soon as possible. It is believed that all preparations necessary to enable us to begin with the weekly publication will be completed by Nov. 20.

"The sentiments of the wage slaves at the present time are such that we may not delay a minute longer. But commence working the field at once and we are quite confident that it will result in our gaining many thousand Klassenkampf subscribers as well as a large number of I. W. W."

UNIONS MOVE AGAINST REDS.

Steps Taken to Eliminate I. W. W. Propagandists from Membership.

Local union labor men affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are taking steps to purge their organizations of "red" radicals and other disturbers who were described to the Senate Committee at Washington as propagandists against both loyal labor and the Government. During the recent trial here of Gust Alonen, convicted of criminal anarchy, it was found that he had joined the Carpenters' Union as a "Sam Fields." He also admitted membership and activity in the I. W. W.

An official of the Carpenters' Union called yesterday on Assistant District Attorney A. I. Rorke, who had prosecuted the anarchists, and asked information concerning methods used by the I. W. W. and others to get into his and other unions. Mr. Rorke showed him the card carried by Alonen and offered to permit examination of the minutes of the trial. The labor man announced that he would look over these minutes next week.

Mollie Steimer, 20 years old, the "Red" leader, who was sentenced on Oct. 30 by Magistrate Simpson in the Tombs Court, to six months in the Workhouse, applied for an appeal yesterday. She is out under bail on an appeal from conviction in the Federal court for violation of the Espionage act. Judge Rosalsky granted the appeal, but declined to order the woman's release pending the hearing on it.

was tense, and the galleries were packed.

Interruption from the Gallery.

In the course of debate early in the day, a commotion was caused when a gallery spectator, giving his name as Joseph M. Horan of New York, jumped to his feet, waving an American flag.

"Gentlemen of the Senate," he began, "I want to make a speech—" and at that point guards seized him. "I got a message from God last night," Horan explained to the guards later, "to come here and make a speech on the League of Nations."

Several roll calls were taken on attempts to amend the preamble before the Senate finally adopted it unchanged. After the defeat of Mr. McCumber's first motion, he moved another amendment proposing that reservations "might be" effected by the exchange of diplomatic notes. This was rejected by the same vote of 49 to 40.

Mr. Borah then moved to strike out the word "three" in the preamble, so that the amended preamble would require the written approval of four leading Allies. This move, apparently intended to test the strength of the "irreconcilables," was defeated by the decisive vote of 63 to 25, mild reservationists swinging to the Democratic side, Mr. Reed being the only Democrat to vote with Mr. Borah.

The result of the roll call was:

Senator King, Democrat, of Utah, then moved an amendment to the preamble which would permit the Allies to consent to American reservations by recognising the United States as a party to the treaty. This amendment, Senator Lenroot argued, was identical in effect with that proposed by Senator McCumber and defeated a few moments before. This motion was rejected, 46 to 42. Gore and Walsh of Massachusetts swinging to the Hitchcock forces.

After the preamble was accepted the withdrawal reservation, which would make the United States the sole judge of whether it had fulfilled all of its obligations under the League and permit notice of withdrawal to be given by a concurrent resolution of Congress, was taken up. Senator Thomas of Colorado moved an amendment to strike out the provision giving Congress authority to give notice of withdrawal, the effect of this proposal apparently being to leave the decision as to quitting the League in the hands of the executive, instead of Congress. Debate on the Thomas motion was still in progress when the Senate took a recess until tomorrow.

Senator Hitchcock, discussing with newspaper men his conference at the White House, said he found the President intellectually alert, although showing the effect of his illness.

"I was called to the White House this morning and spent half an hour there with the President," Senator Hitchcock said. "I was in bed, an overturned chair and pillows behind him supporting his back. He was almost sitting up.

"I told the President the history of what we had done here: that we had defeated all the proposed amendments to the treaty, I outlined in a general way the situation and what we proposed doing with regard to reservations.

"I told the President that Senator Lodge had a combination of forty-nine or more Senators pledged to adopt his destructive reservations in committee of the whole, where they can be done by a majority vote. I said these reservations would be reported in the Senate and be imbedded in the resolution of ratification when it comes to a vote.

"I said that in my opinion the resolution of ratification in that form would not receive the necessary two-thirds vote of the Senate. After that had been defeated, I explained, it was our plan to offer another resolution, probably one of unqualified ratification, I said that I did not believe that would receive a two-thirds vote, and that we might then offer a resolution of ratification with interpretative clauses. While that would receive a larger vote, it would not command two-thirds.

"The Senate then would be in the position of having defeated the Lodge resolution and our resolutions. In other words, the Senate would be thrown in a deadlock, and I hoped under such conditions that a compromise between the forty-odd Senators who favored ratification of the treaty without any reservations or amendments and the thirty who favored ratification with reservations could be effected. I told the President I did not think a compromise could be reached until a deadlock had been created.

"The President gave his very ardent approval of what had been done. He said he was glad the amendments had been defeated, and that our plans for the future were good."

Says Wilson Would Force a Deadlock.

"Did he approve your course even to the point of bringing about a deadlock?" Senator Hitchcock was asked.

"Yes," was the reply. "The President said he was willing to leave the matter of compromise to the friends of the treaty here, but told me that any time a serious doubt arose in our minds about any procedure he would be glad to have the suggestions submitted to him."

Senator Hitchcock was asked whether the President would be willing to accept the McCumber reservations as a compromise.

"We did not go into specific reservations," said Senator Hitchcock, "but I left a copy of the reservations with him. In a general way he knew what they were, but he had not examined them carefully. He said he thought we had pursued the right policy in the past and were on the right track for the future."

Inquiry was made of Senator Hitchcock as to whether he was sure that on a motion to reconsider the treaty after the Lodge resolution of ratification had been defeated, he could get a majority vote.

"We have not believed that it would be necessary to move to reconsider," said Senator Hitchcock, "and the Vice President's ruling of yesterday shows that he proposes to hold that the Senate shall be given the broadest possible latitude in consideration of the treaty in all its forms. He intends to base his ruling on the Constitution rather than on technicalities."

Senator Hitchcock was asked whether he had told the President of Senator Lodge's statement that the treaty would be dead if the Senate voted to reject the Lodge resolution of ratification.

"I did not tell him exactly that, but I did explain that we would be in a somewhat uncertain parliamentary situation," Senator Hitchcock replied.

"Did the President say he would rather have the treaty killed than ratified with the Lodge reservations?" Senator Hitchcock was asked.

"He did not say outright whether he would favor rejection rather than acquiescence of the majority reservations," said Senator Hitchcock. "He said he would accept any compromise the friends of the treaty thought necessary to save the treaty, so long as it did not destroy the terms of the pact itself. He made it plain that the Lodge reservations would kill the treaty."

"Did he regard the reservations of the majority as destructive?"

"Yes," Senator Hitchcock replied.

"Do you think there is any chance of the treaty fight reaching a showdown by the last of next week?"

"Yes," replied the Senator, "I do not think the fight will run over into the next session of Congress."

DIRECTED TO LIST GERMAN CULPRITS

Commission Named by Supreme Council Also to Draft Procedure for Trial.

WILL SEND ORDER TO BERLIN

Surrender of Those Accused of War Crimes Will Be Demanded When Peace Is Declared.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The Supreme Council today appointed a commission to make a final draft of the list of Germans charged with war crimes which the Berlin Government will be called on to hand over for prosecution. This commission will also determine the composition and procedure of the tribunal which will conduct the trials of these men.

Two weeks ago the French list of accused Germans, numbering 600, was submitted to the Peace Conference. This list has been somewhat changed, Premier Clemenceau himself having made some alterations. The lists from England and Belgium are now ready, and all these will be incorporated in one big list, carrying after each name a brief summary of the accusations.

A demand for these persons will be served upon Germany immediately after the Peace Treaty goes into effect. It is stated that the lists will not be made public for a month, the delay having been decided upon as being of assistance to Berlin in apprehending those Germans who are accused. A request for the lists brought a reply from the French Foreign Office that to publish them at this time might result in some of the accused making themselves so scarce that they could not be found.

No one in Paris knows when the Versailles treaty will be put into effect. The Supreme Council has asked Germany to send a delegation to Paris for a meeting on Nov. 10 to sign the protocol relative to unfulfilled armistice terms and arrange for the plebiscites, and the Council is ready for the meeting. But no intimation has come from Berlin that the delegation has started or is about to start, and the Council doesn't know whether or not the meeting will take place on Monday.

Germans Will Oppose Scapa Flow Fine.

Furthermore, dispatches from Berlin indicate that the German Government intends to demur against paying for the sinking of the warships in Scapa Flow by their German crews last Summer. Berlin takes the view that the Government did not sink them nor was it responsible for the sinking. Therefore, it argues, it should not have to pay for them. Of course the members of the Supreme Council say they will not allow the Germans to argue too much, but they do not say they will not allow them to argue at all.

Now, the terms of the protocol say that Germany shall hand over 400,000 tons of marine equipment within ten days after its signing. It is the intention of the Supreme Council to wait until that is done before depositing the ratifications of the Peace Treaty. That means that if the Germans should sign the protocol five minutes after it was handed to them on Monday—if it is handed to them Monday—official peace would not come until Nov. 20. But it is safe to predict that the Germans will not sign the protocol Monday, and of course every day's delay puts peace further off.

I am dealing merely with one factor in the situation. There are other terms which the Germans are expected to fulfill before the treaty goes into effect, and there still remain preparations to be made by the Allies. Overtopping all considerations is the desire of England, France, and Italy to wait until the United States ratifies the treaty before depositing their ratifications and bringing about a state of peace. But diplomats here are becoming discouraged by the latest news from Washington, and the hopes that the Senate will take final action by the last week of November are not nearly so strong as they were a week ago, when confidential advices from official sources in Washington predicted that the Senate would approve the treaty before Dec. 1.

Preparations for the enforcement of the treaty are being made with eyes in either direction. The American members have been tentatively elected for the various treaty committees, Frank L. Polk, Chairman of the American delegation, and Washington having arranged this matter. While the appointments are kept secret, it may be stated that the American places on all the committees can be filled practically immediately after ratification by the Senate.

While this has been done on the one hand, on the other hand the Allies are considering how the enforcement of the treaty may be begun in satisfying the demand for peace in Europe and at the same time bringing this about very slowly in order to wait for the United States. For instance, the allied members of the League of Nations Council have all been chosen and are ready to go to work. They have drafted two plans of action. One is for use if America is a member of the Council when it begins its work, and the other is for the use of the Council without an American member, but with the understanding that one will be appointed.

The later program calls for a short meeting of the Council in Paris to deal with the delimitation of the Sarre Basin territory and a few relatively unimportant acts which the Peace Treaty says must be performed as soon as the treaty goes into effect. Then the Council will adjourn with the intention of holding no other meeting until America has ratified the treaty. Should America not be represented at the first meeting, no official organization of the League machinery will be undertaken. But should the Senate have ratified the treaty by the time the first meeting of the League occurs, and the United States be represented on the Council, the Council will go ahead with a comprehensive program, according to the plan determined upon when the League covenant was drafted. Thus by the time of the first meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations the Council would be able to place before it an outline of the work to be done.

The first meeting of the League Council will take place in Paris on the day when the ratifications are deposited, or the day following that. President Wilson will issue the call. He is all ready to do so as soon as the Supreme Council supplies him with the date for th convocation of the initial session of the convocation of the initial session of meeting of the Assembly will take place depends on the action of the American Senate.

Belgium's request for a seat in the League of Nations will be placed before the first meeting of the Assembly of the League. This was learned today, the decision having been taken in reply to Belgium's request that the Council take it up. The Council will place it before the Assembly. It is impossible to make an intelligent prediction at this time whether or not the Council will recommend a change in the decision to have the seat of the League at Geneva.

Overtures from Hungary Reported.

The Supreme Council has heard nothing official regarding the report that the Friedrich Government in Hungary, which the Peace Conference has not recognized, is sending a delegation to Paris to sign the Hungarian treaty. An unofficial report to that effect reached Paris yesterday. The Supreme Council spent yesterday's session in trying to find a way out of the Hungarian tangle and seeking means to aid the establishment of a stable Government in Hungary. Getting the Rumanians out of the country is considered part of the problem.

The Supreme Council has never recognized the Friedrich Government in Budapest, although Friedrich has been Premier for several months. All this time the Council has taken the view that his Government was not representative and therefore could not be recognized; and since it could not be recognized, a delegation sent by it to sign the treaty could not be received by the Peace Conference.

What the conference now has to decide, if the report be true, is what to do with the Friedrich delegation. It can, of course, keep it sitting on the steps, as it did the Irish Republic's delegation, but that program will not get the Hungarian treaty signed.

It appears unlikely that the Fiume question will be settled by the Peace Conference. Tomaso Tittoni, the Italian Foreign Minister, is ill, and nothing is being done by the Supreme Council about the Adriatic city. The Council is willing to wait, and Italy is pleased to let the situation drag along. This problem, which the Peace Conference will not settle, is apparently to be bequeathed to the conference which will frame the Turkish treaty.

There is small chance of the Baltic situation being cleared up before the Pace Conference adjourns. Its settlement will probably be turned over to the Committee for the Enforcement of the Treaty or to a commission of Ambassadors.

The Bulgarians are expected to sign their treaty the last of next week. This will leave the Hungarian treaty as the big problem of the conference.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The Austrian delegation has handed to the Peace Conference the ratification document of the Treaty of St. Germain.

OUR BALTIC POLICY MADE CLEAR TO PARIS

American Commissioner Directed to Confine Action to Forcing Germans Out.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The Allied Baltic Commission left Paris tonight for Berlin. There is a certain amount of mystery about its errand. Ostensibly it is going to get the Germans out of the Baltic provinces. The American Peace Delegation has delivered to General S. H. Chenay, the American member of the commission, very explicit orders that he is to concern himself with that and nothing else. The making of this announcement so promptly suggests that there must have been a very good reason for emphasizing the fact that the American Commissioner was not going to play any Russian politics.

The Supreme Council gave instructions to the commission to effect the evacuation of Courland by the Germans. Those instructions were given after a long debate, in which it developed that France and England were not averse to having the commission "stabilize" conditions in the Baltic provinces in addition to getting the Germans out. In fact, they definitely favored such a policy. The Americans insisted that the commission have one clear-cut duty, and they won their point, so far as the official instructions to the commission were concerned, but they thought it wise to give explicit instructions to the American member of the commission.

The commission goes under the chairmanship of General Niessel of the French Army. It will in all probability not finish its work before the Peace Conference adjourns. That will leave General Niessel, perhaps, with greater freedom of action than he will start out with. It is understood British and French political aims in the Baltic provinces are not identical. The English so far seem to have something of a lead. What the commission may do under the direction of a Frechman may show interesting results.

It is an open secret that there is a wide divergence of opinion about Russia in the conference. Some of its members wished to have the problems presented by that country dealt with in the open. The Americans have taken the view that these problems are not a part of the conference's task, and that it should not attempt their solution, but should leave that to the allied and associated Foreign Offices.

The final decision on this point was reached this morning. Because the Americans do not wish the conference to try to solve the Russian problem and because they are very much opposed to any dismemberment of the former Russian Empire, they are as much opposed to the formation of independent Baltic States on the one hand as they are to the taking of Bessarabia by Rumania on the other. Anyhow, they are perfectly agreed that the Interallied Baltic Commission should not undertake to deal with any part of the Russian national or international situation.

For some time certain propaganda bureaus have been accusing the Americans in the Peace Conference of acting as agents for the Standard Oil Company in the Rumanian negotiations. An American diplomat, so the story goes, in giving an explanation of America's desire to hold the Baltic Commission to the one job of getting the Germans home, said:

"You see, we wanted to make sure of not acting as agents of the American Ice Trust."

ALLIES' REBUFF TO BULGARS.

Reply to Protest Against Treaty Makes Slight Concessions.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—In the covering letter of the allied reply to the Bulgarian delegation's representations regarding the peace terms presented to Bulgaria it is pointed out that the Bulgarian people cannot be freed from responsibility for the war and that, therefore, the decisions of the Peace Conference, which have been made after mature reflection, cannot be materially changed.

The conditions of peace as they were handed to the Bulgarian delegation, the letter sets forth, were not inspired by any ideas of vengeance, and the Allies do not intend to make Bulgaria pay for all her past mistakes. They seek only, it is declared, to establish a peace which will be just, lasting and fertile, and they remind Bulgaria in this connection that they guarantee her an outlet to the Aegean Sea.

The letter informs the Bulgarians that if some of their questions are not replied to, this fact must not be taken as assent on the points raised. It is added that the modifications made by the reply are binding in the treaty, the text of the original document remaining unchanged in other respects, and that the text as it now stands must either be accepted or rejected by Bulgaria within ten days.

As has been indicated, the allied reply refuses to grant any changes in the territorial clauses of the treaty as originally presented.

Bulgaria asked that the clause for the protection of racial minorities, which she accepted, be modified so that Ottoman subjects who left Dobrudja, Thrace, or Macedonia to seek refuge in Bulgaria might have facilities to choose with regard to their nationality. The reply says this point has been noted by the allied powers and that measures will be taken to better the status of this refugee population.

As to the military terms, Bulgaria's proposal for the creation of a corps of frontier guards is accepted, but the men are to be recruited by voluntary enlistment only, and their number must not exceed 3,000.

A slight change is made in the naval terms, Bulgaria being allowed to retain a certain number of small vessels for the patrol of fisheries, &c., all manned on a purely non-military basis.

The Allies assure Bulgaria that the Reparations Commission will have the power to facilitate, if necessary, conditions for the payment of the sums due on reparation, and the payment may be made by means of property, real estate, concessions, &c., instead of by currency, if the Reparations Commission so decides.

In the financial clauses a slight change is made to the effect that the powers to whom former Bulgarian territory is allotted shall assume their proportion of the debt of Bulgaria as it stood on Oct. 1, 1915, the date of Bulgaria's entrance into the war, instead of Aug. 1, 1914, as originally stipulated. It is provided, however, that the amounts spent by Bulgaria for preparations for war shall be charged exclusively to Bulgaria.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—In a statement issued today, expressing its members' views of the treaty of peace with Bulgaria, the League of Friends of Greece in America says:

"The treaty is unjust to Greece, Serbia and Rumania. The Bulgarian troops, under orders from Sofia, have annihilated half of the Serbian populations, have desolated Eastern Macedonia and Western Thrace. Despite all these crimes, Bulgaria has lost no Bulgarian territory. Western Thrace is Greek, not Bulgarian, yet Bulgaria is given by the Bulgarian treaty 350,000 inhabitants of Thrace, of whom only 85,000 are Bulgarians, the others Turks and Greeks."

BRITISH COAL OUTPUT 4,750,000 TONS IN WEEK

Increased Production Taken as a Sign That Labor Is Steadying Down.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—More than 4,750,000 tons of coal were put out by British miners during the week ended Oct. 25. This is the highest output in any week since the seven-hour day was introduced and an improvement on the records of several weeks preceding that event.

The figures are being quoted by the miners' leaders as justification of the claim that reduction in hours of labor would not mean a reduction in output, but, on the other hand, it is pointed out that transport facilities have been improved and the number of miners employed increased.

Apart from these contentious questions these coal output statistics are regarded in many quarters as a welcome sign that British labor is steadying down. This hopeful view is strengthened by recent happenings in various industrial movements.

The chief strike in England at the present time is that of the iron molders. It was begun several weeks ago over the question of wages, which by virtue of previous arrangements between masters and men was to have come up for regulation by arbitration this month.

The strike has not expedited a settlement of the disputed points and has resulted, so far as the men are concerned, merely in the loss of wages. It is considered probable that the arbitration board's decision, which would have been arrived at without a strike, will be an object lesson on the inadvisability of a precipitate strike. Labor generally, while not openly condemning the action of the iron molders' leaders, has shown little or no disposition to give active sympathy.

Some of the best judges of the labor situation here believe that while the Winter may produce several problems, the worst troubles are over. The Government's new Regulation of Wages bill now before Parliament, while criticised in various details, is on the whole receiving the sympathetic consideration of the Labor M. P.'s, who were called into consultation by Sir Robert Horne, Minister of Labor, prior to its being laid before the House.

LEE WANTS A RECOUNT.

Defeated Socialist Alderman Says He Was Elected.

It is probable that in the Eighth Aldermanic District, where Algernon Lee, leader of the Socialists, was defeated for re-election to the Board of Aldermen, a recount of the vote will be asked. There was a meeting of all the Socialist watchers in the district last night at Stuyvesant Casino, 142 Second Avenue, and each one of them related his or her experience in the polling places on Election Day. Most of them said that fair treatment was lacking, and some instanced that they were given small opportunity to watch the vote counted, especially when it came to counting the vote for Aldermen. Courteous treatment was the exception, they said, and some reported that attempts had been made to intimidate them.

After the meeting Mr. Lee said that there was no doubt in his mind that he had been elected by at least 400 plurality. He said that he knew of one case where 100 Lee votes had been counted for Graubard, his opponent. He had heard of seventy-five votes that had been voided without reason, and he was sure that in some instances from ten to thirty Lee ballots had been stolen. He will ask for a recount, he said.

SUES MAURICE FOR DIVORCE.

Florence Walton Begins Action, but Still Dances with Partner.

Florence Walton, the dancer, is suing her dancing partner and husband, Maurice Mouvet, for divorce, it was learned yesterday when Supreme Court Justice Platt, sitting in White Plains, appointed Oscar Le Roy Warren as referee in the case. Miss Walton and Mr. Mouvet have been dancing in the supper room of the Biltmore Hotel, and were on the floor there last night, but neither would discuss the divorce case. The plaintiff is represented by Armin H. Mittleman of 347 Madison Avenue, and the defendant by Hendrick & Hendrick of 3 Rector Street. It was reported, but none of the lawyers could be found last night.

Miss Walton and Mr. Mouvet have been well-known as dancers for several years. They have been seen most at the Biltmore Hotel, but have also appeared on Broadway. During the war both went abroad to entertain soldiers at the front. They also danced at the Casino de Paris. In 1917 Mr. Mouvet drove an ambulance in Belgium.

JURY ASKS WHY VICE RAIDERS QUIT

Mayor's Letter to Swann, Criticising Work of His Assistant, Smith, Said to be Wanted.

MAY GO INTO SHOPLIFTING

Stores' Protective Association Sends a Witness — Rumored That Jurors Were Shadowed.

As a part of the further inquiry into certain police matters yesterday by the Extraordinary Grand Jury, it was said that the members of that body sought to learn why the gambling and vice raids conducted by Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith were suddenly stopped last Fall. Smith had been before the jury several days and had presented his version of the raiding activities, it is supposed, and he is now acting as legal assistant to the jury in following up evidence and testimony relating thereto, but the jury wanted certain letters or documents purporting to have some bearing on the raids.

In this connection it was rumored in the Criminal Courts Building that the jury would ask for the letter of Mayor Hylan to District Attorney Swann, written on Oct. 26, 1918, in which there appeared a criticism of the methods of conducting the raids. The Mayor wrote that he had been informed by the Police Commissioner that Mr. Smith, accompanied by Secretary Frederick Waltin of the Committee of Fourteen, had called at the West Forty-seventh Street Station and had asked for the assistance of the entire force of the Fourth Inspection District on Saturday and Sunday nights, Sept. 28-29. The Mayor further wrote:

"After visiting many places in various parts of the district they were unable to find a single case warranting official action or police interference. Not a single person of known bad character was found in any of the resorts visited or on the public highways.

"I have instructed the Police Commissioner to discontinue such activities unless the request comes direct from you personally or in writing, and I am sure when such an order does come from you the action will be warranted, and will not be for exploitation by newspaper reporters or Waltin of the Committee of Fourteen, who, when the saloons close, will have to seek a new job. Such cheap, despicable notoriety should not be countenanced."

At that time the District Attorney declared there existed no controversy between himself and the Mayor on the question of the raids, but that it was merely a difference of opinion as to methods of ridding the city of evil characters. Previously the Mayor, he said, had requested the police and the prosecutor to cooperate and continue the work of cleaning the city of all classes of offenders.

It could not be learned whether or not the District Attorney had turned this letter over to the jury. There is nothing in the letter to show that the Mayor stopped the raids, and the jury would be obliged to seek further for that information.

Raymond F. Almirall, foreman of the jury, had a conference of an hour with Mr. Smith, and then the Grand Jury went into session to question three witnesses, it was said. There was an intimation that some members of the jury had suspected for several days that they were being followed or "shadowed" in their movements. One of the witnesses, whose identity was not disclosed, was said to have been questioned concerning this suspicion of the jurymen. Other persons called into the Grand Jury room included Alfred Wetmore, a private detective, and a representative of the Stores Mutual Protective Association.

This association is an organization recently formed by all of the big department stores to curb the shoplifting evil. The work of this association was mentioned when Justice Kernochan of Special Sessions started his investigation to find the forgers of court documents which had illegally freed five shoplifters without trial on "suspended sentences." The appearance of the Stores representative was believed to have reference to an inquiry into business robberies and the work of the police, or their failure to apprehend the offenders.

Assistant District Attorney Smith was asked if Captain Costigan, the former Inspector who had assisted him in his raids, would be called as a witness. He replied that so far as he knew Costigan would not testify. Ex-Deputy Police Commissioner John W. Goff, Jr., who resigned some time ago from the department because of some disagreement over police procedure, was expected to be a witness next week, but it was said the jury had not asked for his attendance.

The jury adjourned to Monday. Before the session ended the foreman sealed the papers placed in evidence before them, and the seals were initialed by Mr. Almirall.

Death of Mrs. Carranza Reported.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Carranza, wife of President Carranza of Mexico, died in Mexico City on Wednesday, according to information received from its special correspondent in Mexico City by La Prensa, a Mexican newspaper here.

executed a codicil thereto in July, 1917. This will and codicil have not been canceled, but were revoked by the will of July 30, 1919. In all of these wills the Guaranty Trust Company, Edward J. Berwind, Esq., and I were the executors. After Mr. Shonts's death S. Stanwood Menken was retained by Mrs. Shonts and her daughters, and ex-Judge Clarence J. Shearn by Mrs. Thomas, the residuary legatee. In the month of September, a few days after Mr. Shonts's death, a copy of the will was sent by Mr. Sullivan, the attorney for the executors, to Mrs. Shonts, to the Duchess de Chaulnes in care of Mrs. Shonts, and to Mrs. Bingham and to other parties interested in the estate. A copy was also sent to Mr. Menken. At his request copies of the former wills above mentioned were sent to him with a full statement of the real and personal property in the estate. All the parties interested were in the United States except the Duchess de Chaulnes, who was traveling in Italy and could not be reached. On that account an understanding was entered into between Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Menken that the will should not be offered for probate until her return, and that in the meantime the estate should be cared for by the executors, acting with the approval of all parties interested. That understanding was in full force when Mrs. Shonts, leaving Mr. Menken for other attorneys, brought the proceeding in which she was appointed temporary administratrix. Mr. Menken was as much surprised by her action as any one else and has written a letter to that effect to Mr. Sullivan."

Both Mr. Menken and ex-Justice Shearn declined to make any comment on the statement. The only comment Mr. Dixon had to make was that his client may have seen a copy of the purported will which was offered for probate. He said he did not know what agreements Mrs. Shonts might have made before he came into the case.

In reference to the $100,000 indebtedness which Mr. Shonts admitted in his will Mr. Dixon declared that it was an obligation which could not be canceled by any contest. He said he was prepared to show in court today that it was necessary for Mrs. Shonts to continue as temporary administratrix to safeguard the interests of the estate.

Recipient of Large Sums.

Persons close to the Shonts family called attention to the fact that Mr. Shonts had received a fee approximating $7,000,000 several years ago from a Western railroad. His earnings as head of the Interborough, together with other sums he received, totaled much more than would be indicated by the amount he was said to have left, they pointed out.

For eight years following 1902, it was learned, Mr. Shonts gave his wife and two daughters $93,000 a year for their support. This amount was later reduced to $45,000 annually, it was said, which sum was continued until the time of his death. Two years before his death he is reported to have paid a bill of $135,000 for jewelry which his family had purchased in Paris.

Mrs. Amanda Thomas was introduced to Mr. Shonts by one of his daughters several years ago at a social gathering, according to friends of the family. She is said to be twenty years younger than he. During his last illness she was kind to him and he frequently expressed his appreciation of her acts, it was learned.

The residuary legatee of the estate is the wife of Herbert Thomas, a son of O. F. Thomas, a financier who died many years ago. It is understood that she is separated from her husband. She is President of the Davis & Sanford Company, photographers of 507 Fifth Avenue. The copartnership directory states that Benjamin Pepperman (one of the legatees in the will) is a Director of the company, which is capitalized at $50,000. Employes of the company said that Mrs. Thomas had not been there yesterday. Herbert Thomas, who is mentioned in the will, is her only child.

At 930 Park Avenue it was said that Mrs. Thomas occupied an apartment on the sixth floor, while Mr. Shonts lived on the tenth floor.

Mrs. Shonts qualified as a temporary administratrix yesterday by filing a bond for $475,000, which she stated in her petition was the amount of her husband's estate.

PROVISIONS OF THE WILL.

Residuary Estate to Mrs. Thomas—Any Contest Annuls Bequest.

The will of Theodore P. Shonts, which was filed yesterday, directs his executors to purchase a burial plot in Woodlawn and erect a monument there, and that the bodies of his parents be moved there from Centreville, Ia. He desires that his sister, Eva Marshall Shonts, shall also be buried in the same plot. He makes no mention concerning the burial of his wife and daughters.

Mr. Shonts then makes the following provision for his wife:

"I give and bequeath to my wife, Millia D. Shonts, the $5,000 policy in Press Council No. 71, National Union, which I am keeping alive for her benefit; also the portrait of herself painted by Prince Trobetskoy. Having in mind the agreement made in June, 1917, providing for my wife, Millia D. Shonts, I make no further provisions for her in this will, except that I hereby acknowledge that I am indebted to my wife in the sum of $150,000, payable twelve months after my death."

The will then mentions for the first time Mrs. Amanda C. Thomas:

"I give and bequeath all the jewelry given to me by my friend, Amanda C. Thomas, to her son, Herbert Thomas, to be his absolutely and forever."

To the will then gives to Mr. Shonts's grandson, Emanuel De Chaulnes, his star sapphire pin. His pearl studs go "to the first-born son of my daughter, Marguerite Amelia Bingham." Mr. Shonts leaves to Benjamin J. Pepperman, chief clerk of the Interborough, and to Earl E. Starbard, $5,000 each. His chauffeur, Vivian Bell, receives $2,500, and $2,000 is left to Louise Yeoman, 23 East Eighty-ninth Street. The will then makes the following bequest to his children, the Duchess De Chaulnes and Mrs. Bingham:

"Having heretofore provided a trust fund of $50,000 for each of my children, Marguerite and Theodora, I hereby make this further provision for them and their descendants, or any them surviving, subject to the conditions, terms, and provisions hereinafter stated in Paragraph XI. I give and bequeath to my executors the sum of $100,000, in trust, however, to invest and reinvest and keep the same invested and to collect the net income therefrom and to pay one-half of the net income in equal semi-annual installments on the first day of January and the first day of July each year to each of my daughters, Theodora (Duchess de Chaulnes) and Marguerite, (Amelia Bingham, wife of Rutherford Bingham.)"

The will provides that, in case of the death of either, one-half of the principal is to be divided among the children of such daughter, and if she dies without issue her share goes to the survivor in trust, and on her death the principal to her children.

Mr. Shonts makes another trust fund of $100,000, half of the income to go to his sister, Eva Marshall Shonts of Hinsdale, Ill., a quarter to his niece, Mary Merrifield of 1,218 North State Street, Chicago, and the other quarter to another niece, Jennie Wiffin of 6,649 Stewart Avenue, Chicago. He directs that upon the death of the latter her share is to go to her children and upon the death of his sister and his other niece their share of the principal goes to Mrs. Thomas.

The residuary bequest in favor of Mrs. Thomas follows:

"All the rest, residue, and remainder of my estate, real, personal, or mixed, of whatsoever kind, nature, or description, including any and all lapsed legacies and including each and every one of the sums hereinabove given and bequeathed in trust to by executors, which shall not vest or the trust in which shall fail or shall not take or be given effect because of noncompliance of the beneficiary with the conditions, terms, and provisions set forth, or for any other reason or cause whatsoever, I give, devise, and bequeath to my friend, Amanda C. Thomas.

"In the case of my wife the provisions, bequests, and devises hereinabove made for her benefit shall be in full satisfaction and in lieu of dower and of any other or different right, title or interest which my said wife may have or claim to have in my estate and of any and all demands and claims of whatsoever nature which my said wife may have or make against me or against my estate, and the said provisions, bequests, and devises made for her benefit are made subject to the condition precedent that they shall be accepted in full satisfaction in lieu of dower and of any other or of different right, title or interest which my said wife may have or claim to have in my estate or of any and all demands and claims of whatsoever nature which my said wife may have or make against me or my estate, except the provisions for her contained in the agreement of June, 1917, and in default of such acceptance I annul and revoke each and every of the provisions, bequests, and devises so made."

Referring to the other legatees, the will states that "the said provisions hereinabove made for the benefit of such persons are made subject to the condition precedent that they shall be accepted in full satisfaction and in lieu of any and all rights, title or interest which the said person may have or claim to have in my estate and of any and all demands and claims of whatsoever nature which said persons may have or make against me or my estate, and in default of such acceptance I annul and revoke each and every of the provisions, bequests, and devises so made.

"Should any of the beneficiaries, legatees or devisees under this will object to the probate thereof or in any wise directly or indirectly contest or aid in contesting the same or any of the provisions thereof or of the distribution of my estate thereunder, then and in that event I annul each and every provision, bequest, and devise herein made to such beneficiary, legatee or devisee, and it is my will that such beneficiary, legatee or devisee shall be absolutely barred and cut off from any share in my estate, and the share in my estate herein given, bequeathed or devised to such beneficiary, legatee, and devisee shall thereupon be and become a part of my residuary estate and be disposed of in the manner hereinbefore provided."

The executors named are Edward J. Berwin, Delancey Nicoll, and the Guaranty Trust Company, who are to serve without bond. The will was made July 30 last. Mr. Nicoll filed the petition for the probate of the will, in which he stated that he had been informed that letters of temporary administration had been granted to Mrs. Shonts and asked that citations be issued requiring the beneficiaries to show cause why the will should not be probated. He stated that the testator made no codicil, that he had no real estate in this State, and that his personal property was valued at more than $10,000.

RITCHIE'S LEAD CUT; PLURALITY NOW 129

Democrats Claim Election of Governor in Maryland by Small Margin.

COUNTY RETURNS ALL IN

Anti-Prohibition League Hopes for Referendum on Eighteenth Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 7.—With a gain of twenty-seven votes by the official canvass in Baltimore City, Harry Nice, Republican candidate for Governor, and the Republican State manager continue hopeful that the narrow margin by which Albert Ritchie, Democrat, appears to have been elected Governor may be wiped out. Ritchie's majority has been reduced to 129. The official count of about one-half the city has been completed, but the entire canvass will not be finished until Monday.

Unless Nice shows greater gains than he has made up to this time in the rest of the city, he will be unable to overcome Ritchie's lead. The Democrats feel confident Ritchie will eventually pull through.

Word was received from Wicomico County that the Republican Supervisor consented to the returns for the disputed district, after explanations had been made which he deemed satisfactory. This leaves the returns from all the counties intact.

The Republicans appear to have elected an additional member of the Legislature in Cecil County, which leaves the Democrats a majority of ten in the House. They also will control the Senate.

The Maryland Anti-Prohibition League claims there will be enough "wet" votes in the Legislature to call for a referendum of the people on the ratification of the Constitutional Amendment adopted at the last session.

JENKINS CHARGES FAIL.

Hearing at Puebla Dispels Rumors of Complicity in Kidnapping.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—William O. Jenkins, American Consular Agent at Puebla, Mexico, was cleared of all suspicion of complicity in his recent kidnapping involving his payment of $150,000 in ransom to the kidnappers, at a hearing held in Puebla, advices from Mexico City today said.

Carranza officials expected, according to the advices, that a warrant for the arrest of Jenkins would be issued. Instead of this the Judge took occasion to praise Jenkins as a friend of the Mexican people and a respected member of the community in which he had lived for a number of years.

The State Department announced today that the complete story of Jenkins's kidnapping had not yet been received here and "that a full and exhaustive report is expected both from Jenkins and from the Embassy.

Deciding

which hat shows off your good points to best advantage and harmonizes with the color scheme of your clothes?

The question is not difficult if you look for your answer here. When you have decided on the hat you have the advantage of knowing that it will be correct!

You may hesitate between a soft hat and a derby but you won't hesitate about the shop in which to buy the hat if you investigate! Just look at what other shops 'round town have to offer for the sum you want to pay, and then compare! We do not stop at furnishing hats for the man and the occasion — we also furnish the hat for the purse.

"Lansdowne"

is better than ever—and that's saying a good deal! The style, workmanship and materials put into this hat are of a quality not commonly associated with hats of the same price. "Lansdowne" appears in roll or straight brim effects, in brown, gray, olive or pearl—but is never anything but correct! $5.89, tax .09.

Then there are cloth hats swagger hats for men who know the swagger qualities of tweed and homespuns. There are also cloth hats in brighter shades that are popular 'round Golf Clubs. $3.89

To cap the man

if not the climax—there are caps for the motorist, the golfer and the man of outdoor clubs. You can choose from a group of smart one-piece caps of tweed, shaggy woolly caps for cold days. Caps that you'd tell in a minute were made for service, appearance and wear. $1.44 to $4.08

SECEDING PRESSMEN SEEK RESTORATION

Local 51 Votes for Reinstatement in International Union After a Stormy Meeting.

TWO FIRMS ARE EXPELLED

Printers' League Charges Companies Broke Pledges in Settling with Workers.

Action was taken last night by Pressmen's Union 51 which, if accepted by the International Printing Pressmen's Union, would mean the beginning of the break-up of the strike, which has held up the printing industry in New York City for the last six weeks.

After a stormy meeting at Beethoven Hall, 210 East Fifth Street, at which Barney Nolan, the President, received much unfavorable criticism, the men voted almost unanimously to return to the international union as a body. In the afternoon George L. Berry, the President of the international union, said that the men would not be taken back as a body, but rumors were current that if they voted for such reaffiliation he would possibly change his mind.

The attitude of the pressmen at the meeting showed the first real sign of weakening on the part of the secessionist unions since the beginning of the strike. In the afternoon, Paper Handlers' and Sheet Straighteners' Union, No. 1, voted unanimously to stand by their demands for the 44-hour week and the $14 increase in pay, while it was indicated by James J. Bagley, President of Franklin Union, No. 23, comprising the feeders, that they would also refuse to give ground.

The arguments of pressmen favoring reaffiliation with the international union rested upon the fact that under present conditions they were cut off from negotiation with the employers, while as members of the international they would be able to carry on their fight for better hours and wages from the inside, thus giving assistance to Leon H. Rouse, President of Typographical Union No. 6, whose members are affiliated with their international body, but have chosen to go out on "vacations." In fact, it was suggested that the pressmen might also take "vacations."

In the course of the debate Bagley made the sensational charge that earlier in the week he had been called into conference by the "second most important man in Tammany Hall" and had received an offer of $50,000 to line up his men to vote as the pressmen were voting and bring them back into the international union. He said, however, that he was going to tell his men to fight.

The chief practical effect of the return of the pressmen to the International body would be the tendency to break the morale of the feeders and assistants and to remove one of the obstacles to the willingness of Big Six to submit its differences to arbitration. Whether this consideration will induce Berry and the employers to accept the proposition in the face of their persistent refusal to do so heretofore, is problematical, for if the seceders returned in a body, it would still be possible to elect radical leaders, and the elimination of such leaders has been the objective of Berry and the employing printers he has been backing.

The Martin B. Brown Company, which came to an agreement with the pressmen and compositors some time ago on the basis of the forty-four-hour week, was expelled from the Printers' League at a meeting held by that organization at the Hotel Astor yesterday morning. The Brown Company was at work on the election ballots and other city printing at the time the labor trouble broke, and they made their settlement so that the city work would not be held up. According to a statement by the Printers' League, both the Brown Company and the Dispatch Printing and Bindery Company, which was also expelled yesterday, had been warned by the association to present their defense more than three weeks ago, and not having done so, they were expelled on the charge of having broken their pledge to the Printers' League by employing secessionist pressmen.

The Nation Press, which publishes The Nation, a weekly, and does a general printing business, announced yesterday that it had come to an agreement with its employes on the basis of a forty-hour week, and that in the future its plant would be operated along the lines of "industrial democracy." In its statement to the Printers' League, The Nation says:

We hold that the time has come for a forward step in the internal organization of the industry. We accordingly propose at once to proceed with the development of our own shop along the lines of Industrial Democracy, which we believe to be the only type of organization possible for the future. We intend to propose for consideration, by our men at least, the following: (1.) Shop organization on the basis of voluntary production, with the object of maximum high-grade output with a minimum of human cost. (2.) The institution of a system of profit-sharing, consisting ultimately the conduct of the enterprise upon a fully co-operative basis, looking ultimately to include the buyer. (3.) The establishment of a shop council similar to those already successfully in operation elsewhere, designed to be the final governing body in our organization. We plan to invite labor leaders to co-operate with us in every way.

John Adams Thayer, Secretary of the Periodical Publishers' Association, said yesterday that the McGraw-Hill Company, which publishes many business papers, had announced that The Mining and Engineering Journal had been printed in San Francisco, The Electric Railway Journal in Baltimore, while the presses in the McGraw-Hill's own building, at Tenth Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street, manned by former employes and college and army men, all members of the international union, had been used to print the current number of The Engineering News Record. The ever-increasing number of periodicals and business papers which are being published in this and other cities, according to Mr. Thayer, is fast bringing the situation back to normal.

The tendency toward compromise was again disclosed yesterday, when it was made known that David Simons, President of Web Pressmen's Union No. 25, had made a proposal to George L. Berry, President of the International Pressmen's and Assistants' Union, with a view to solving the problem presented by the secession. The proposal to establish a forty-six-hour week immediately, to be followed by the forty-four-hour week in September, 1920, with a $7 increase in wages, constitute the principal features of the proposed compromise plan. The answer of Mr. Berry says in part:

1. That we approach the employers and secure a seven-dollar-a-week increase in wages with a forty-six-hour week now, and a forty-four-hour week in September, 1920.

2. That we agree to the plan of amalgamation of the two local unions affiliated with the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union with the seceding New York unions, unaffiliated.

3. That the unaffiliated, seceded unions, be accepted without the payment of their financial obligations to the International union.

In answering the proposals I beg to advise you that the plan cannot be accepted for the reasons:

Regarding your proposition No. 1 I will say that the employers have already offered a $6 increase and a forty-four-hour week on May 1, 1921, but are willing to arbitrate the question as to whether the forty-four-hour week shall be made at an earlier date. I consider, therefore, the employers' position fair and believe that it should be accepted by the pressroom workers of New York City.

The proposal to amalgamate the old and new unions is rejected on the ground that it would enable the present leaders of the seceding unions to be again placed in power, and Berry terms these men "Bolshevist and irresponsible."

In connection with the proposed compromise plan, William Green, Chairman of the Labor Committee of the Printers' League, said yesterday:

"The compromise offer of the Presidents of the local pressmen's unions does not concern the Printers' League until the members of the seceding unions join the new international here. From the start we have refused to deal with any individuals or any unions not affiliated with the International, and we have not changed our tactics."

SADOUL TRIAL OPENED.

French Captain Is Accused as a Deserter and Traitor.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Cort martial proceedings against Captain Jacques Sadoul of the French Army opened here this afternoon. He is charged with desertion abroad, with giving intelligence the enemy, and with seducing soldiers to aid the enemy.

Maitre Flach, on behalf of Mme. Sadoul, asked that he be authorized to represent her even when the proceedings were held in camera. The President of the court refused.

Captain Sadoul, who is at present in Russia, has written to his friends of his intention to return to Paris to present himself as a Socialist candidate for the Chamber of Deputies.

Article X

Article X in full

"The members of the League undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the League. In case of any such aggression, or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the Council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

The Logic of Lodge vs The Wisdom of Wilson

I'VE read Article X, but I don't know what it means. I wish the statesmen would talk like business men and say something the common man can understand.

Lodge thinks Wilson will get us in Dutch. Wilson accuses Lodge of disturbing the Peace. Lodge says Wilson is reading between the lines. Wilson claims Lodge is misinterpreting this clause.

Just as a plain, ordinary citizen, born in U. S. A., I should like to know if a Committee in Geneva can send my boy to Shantung to fight the Japs—if they don't get out of China, or give him a job as a policeman in Turkey—if they begin "cutting up."

If They Can, I'm for Lodge
If They Can't, I'm for Wilson

While this discussion is going on, the H. C. L. is going up. Let's stop them both. If you'll straighten out Article X, I'll flatten out the H. C. L. In the meantime, a hat is more comfortable than a helmet, and it doesn't make any difference whether you are a Democrat or Republican,—you don't have to wear last year's hat, or pay a luxury tax on top of this year's price, because I have every shape and shade in a soft hat or derby, and

HIGH TIDE FLOODS STREETS AT FERRIES

Unusual Rise Causes Delays on the Jersey Side for More Than Three Hours.

UPPER PLATFORMS USED

Pilots Make Slips with Difficulty —Water Enters Cellars on New York Side.

An extraordinarily high tide on the North River yesterday morning, said by the water front experts to have been caused by the northeast wind and the full moon, flooded the streets and cellars of the houses, interfered with the power plants of the Grand and Desbrosses Streets surface car lines, and partially tied up the Hudson River ferry services, which caused a good deal of inconvenience to the early morning commuters.

The passengers managed to board the ferryboats from the upper platforms on the Jersey shore, but the water was so deep in the streets below that trucks had to wait two hours before it subsided.

The Erie Railroad ferry service at Chambers Street was tied up from 6 to 9:20 A. M. because the high tide prevented the taking on or landing of passengers on the Jersey shore, and the commuters had to use the Hudson River tubes to get to New York. On Murray Street, Manhattan, the water burst through the sewer holes and spread about twenty-five feet east on that street and along West Street toward Park Place the water covered the Bell Line trolley tracks for a distance of twenty feet. On Barclay Street, east from the river front, the water surged over the wooden pavement for a distance of fifty feet and forced the blocks from their foundation. It was a foot and a half deep on the sidewalk, and many cellars in the buildings had two to three feet of water in them.

At the Old Slip police station the Lieutenant on duty said that twelve houses had been flooded along the East River front and the owners had applied for the fire engines to pump their cellars out.

The Brooklyn shore suffered, too, from the exceptionally high tide, and two men were marooned all Friday night on a jetty running from the Municipal Baths, at the foot of West Fifth Street, Coney Island, until they were rescued yesterday morning by the Coney Island police in their surf boat. The men told the police they had been fishing and did not notice the high tide until they tried to get back to shore.

The pilots on the Brooklyn ferryboats had considerable difficulty in making their slips on account of the tide, and many of the piers along the front were flooded. In Newtown Creek the water rose three feet in the early forenoon and flooded both shores. Pilots said these exceptionally high tides come about once every five years, and the exact cause has never been determined.

There was another high tide last night at 6 P. M., but it did not rise so high as the morning tide.

The tide last night, although not nearly so high as it was in the morning, flowed over the top of the piers on the Jersey shore and swept along the offices to the ticket booths and caused the Erie Railroad Ferry to shut down for two hours. The Jersey Central, Pennsylvania, and Lackawanna Railroad Ferries landed their passengers from the upper decks and continued their services.

WANTS POLICEMAN BACK.

Downtown League Asks Enright to Return McKay to Traffic Post.

President David Robertson of the Downtown League requested Police Commissioner Enright yesterday to order the return of Policeman Thomas A. McKay to the traffic post at Broadway and Chambers Street. On Wednesday McKay was transferred to patrol duty at the Liberty Avenue Station, Brooklyn. McKay, who is Vice President of the Traffic Squad Association and the delegate from Precinct A to the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, had been directing traffic at the busy Broadway corner since 1911.

It was rumored that McKay's transfer had followed a public statement he had made to some of his fellow members of one of the organizations, in which he is alleged to have advised them to vote for F. H. La Guardia, Republican candidate, who was elected President of the Aldermen.

MAY RENAME BEDFORD AV.

Parents of Dead Soldiers Favor a War-Born Appellation.

If the present plans of many of the parents of the dead soldiers of Brooklyn are carried out, Bedford Avenue, the beautiful thoroughfare in that borough, may soon have a new name. There have been several tentative moves to change its name and give it a war-born appellation, the most favored thus far being "Victory" and "Memorial." The latter would appear to be the more appropriate, as on this street there are 2,200 young trees growing, each a living memorial to a Brooklyn soldier who sacrificed his life in the great war. On each tree there is a bronze plate bearing the name of the soldier to whose memory it is dedicated, his rank, regiment, and the date, place, and manner of his death.

Parents of the dead soldiers visit the trees regularly and care for them tenderly, and by special arrangement own the trees that represent their boys. The memorial idea was started and brought to realization by Park Commissioner John N. Harmon of Brooklyn, and a large proportion of the money needed was donated by F. B. Pratt of Pratt Institute.

Many of the parents intended to have the bodies of their boys brought back from France, but changed their plans after General Pershing announced that he thought it would be best to leave their remains in France, where the graves would be taken care of by the French Government.

CRANK AT ASTOR HOME.

Stranger Says "I Am Lord Aster" and Strikes Butler in Face.

"How dare you stop me? I am Lord Astor, and I have come to see Lady Astor," declared an imposing-looking man, with bristling upturned mustache, to John Brooks, a butler in the Vincent Astor home at 840 Fifth Avenue, yesterday morning, when Brooks went to open the door at the ringing of the bell. The stranger carried in his right hand a bundle of books and in his left a box that appeared dangerous. The intruder suddenly lifted the box and struck Brooks a blow across the face.

In the Yorkville Court, before Magistrate Robert C. Tax Eyck, he declared that besides being known as Lord Astor he was sometimes called Anthony Bodnar. He said he was 45 years old and was born in Austria.

The box he carried proved to contain the works of a clock, and the books were entitled "Book of Common Worship," "Elements of Physic," and "Enclosures of England."

He was committed to the psycopathic ward in Bellevue Hospital for observation.

RAIDED BY POLICEWOMEN.

Physician and Twelve Women Taken from Greenwich Village House.

Dr. Frederick Van Vliet, Eugene T. Boyle, a chauffeur, of 65 West Twelfth Street, and eleven women, ranging in age from 22 to 30 years, were taken last night in a raid on a three-story house in West Twelfth Street. The raid was conducted by Detectives Mary Cooney and Helen Burns of Fifth Deputy Police Commissioner Ellen O'Grady's staff and Patrolmen Green and Kunz of the Mercer Street Station.

The physician was arrested on a charge of attempting to perform an illegal operation, and a charge of acting in concert with the physician was lodged against the chauffeur.

The complainant against the physician was Miss Anna Colwell of 47 Perry Street. The raid followed evidence obtained by the policewomen, and was witnessed by hundreds in Greenwich Village. Women were found on every floor of the house which was raided. Some were fashionably clad. Some of the women were taken to Bellevue Hospital immediately [illegible]

HITCH COOLIDGE TO LOWDEN BOOM

Indorsed by Illinois Editors as Presidential Running Mate.

CAMPAIGN SET IN MOTION

National Chairman Hays Urges Republicans to Turn to Domestic Issues.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 7.—For President, Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.

For Vice President, Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts.

This Republican national ticket was indorsed tonight by Illinois Republicans of all stripes, colors, and factions when the Lowden boom was officially launched, with Governor Lowden as the guest of the Republican editors of the State. Sitting next to Governor Lowden at the speakers' table, Chairman Will H. Hays of the Republican National Committee predicted certain victory in 1920, basing his prophecy on last Tuesday's results.

Governor Lowden had discussed with the editors the need of harmonious action. State leaders, including former Governor Deneen, Attorney General Brundage, Congressman McKinley, Lieutenant Governor Oglesby, and Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns, representing the organized Illinois Republican women, had spoken. Telegrams had been read from Senators Sherman and McCormick, detained at Washington; "Uncle Joe" Cannon, and State Chairman Frank L. Smith.

Then Congressman William A. Rodenberg brought the Illinois Republicans to their feet with a message straight from the centre of political affairs at Washington, the suggestion for the Lowden-Coolidge ticket. A seven-minute demonstration followed, and Governor Lowden's candidacy for the Presidency was formally launched.

The expressed sentiment for Governor Coolidge in recognition of the victory he won in Massachusetts was unquestionably favorable.

The statement should be emphasized that National Chairman Hays was no party to the climax of the gathering. He had come to Springfield as the guest of the Republican Editorial Association to speak on Republican Party affairs. Governor Lowden in his brief speech said nothing that could be construed as an announcement of candidacy from a personal standpoint. The intention was to do nothing that would place the National Chairman in an embarrassing position at this stage of the Presidential campaign.

Senator Sherman ended a long telegram to the editors by saying:

"Mr. Lowden's prospects for the nomination for President are improving daily. If his friends hold to their course steadily, he will be nominated."

"Uncle Joe" Cannon wired:

"I hope your meeting will sound a note of courage in facing the situation that will not be misunderstood by any one. The United States, having brought to a glorious end the great world's war by the valor of her soldiers, cannot face civil war at home with less courage and common sense than our soldiers faced the German armies in France."

Senator Medill McCormick telegraphed:

"In this hour let us draw to us those Americans, whatever their previous affiliations may have been who are ready to combat the wild Socialism and the wilder internationalism which today threatens the security, the peace, and the honor and the ordered liberty of America. * * *

"I know that you will mightily press forward the movement in Illinois under the guidance of our able Governor, Frank Lowden."

Governor Lowden's Presidential campaign will open Monday when his headquarters will be established at the Congress Hotel, Chicago.

In his speech to the editors, Chairman Hays called for the "patriotism which moves men to make their country's welfare their own business." He said in part:

"I repeat and shall continually declare that what we need in this country is not 'less politics' but more attention to politics. Politics is the science of government, and what we need is more attention to the science of government.

"Our difficulties are largely economic. The industrial problems in this country, which at the moment seem to be overwhelming, can be, and I have implicit faith will be, solved in one way—by finding exact justice and enforcing it.

"It is simply a matter of Roosevelt's 'square deal'—exact justice for labor, exact justice for capital, and exact justice for the public, the third side of the triangle, which must not be lost sight of. To that end we must develop a reasonable method for honest and efficient labor to acquire an interest in the business to which labor is expected to give its best efforts. Pending this development the equilibrium between production and wages must be established, and there must be justice for all—exact justice, the justice of right and of reason, but not of force—justice for all—and do not forget that the American people will know what exact justice is.

"The Republican Party, from its inception, has stood against undue federalization of industries and activities. There must be strong Federal regulation, but not Federal ownership. We have always endeavored and still shall endeavor to find the middle ground so well defined as between the anarchy of unregulated individualism and the deadening formalism of inefficient and widespread State ownership. We are against paternalism in Government, and we are against that form of pedagogic paternalism that has developed recently in this country. We are against autocracy as vigorously as we are against anarchy. Bolshevism and Kaiserism are equally dangerous in industry as in Government. We are against both.

"There shall be legislation passed as rapidly as possible, and when the complete Republican control necessary for full functioning shall have been brought about, there shall be legislation and execution on all of these things I have mentioned, all moving in the direction of efficiency and economy for the establishment of business in the country on a sound, safe and sane basis."

$50,000,000 FOR BRAZIL.

Large Loan Said to Have Been Negotiated in This Country.

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 7. (Associated Press.)—Insistent rumors are in circulation in financial circles that Brazil has contracted a large loan in the United States. The amount is given as approximately $50,000,000.

President Pessoa, in a recent message to Congress, called attention to the increasing expenses and growing deficits of the Government, causing a grave financial situation, and called for the greatest economy in the Government services in order to bring receipts and expenditures more into harmony.

He said that the deficit of the last five years amounted to $250,000,000, and that it had been necessary to issue loans, secured by customs revenues, to meet these deficits. These bonds, held by foreigners, were awaiting redemption.

Express Messenger Sentenced.

George J. Notice, 19 years old, of 282 Tenth Avenue, was sentenced to four years in the Federal Prison at Atlanta, Ga., by United States Judge Thomas I. Chatfield yesterday afternoon in Brooklyn. Notice was arrested a month ago for stealing $17,000 from the American Express Company in transit on the Long Island Railroad. He pleaded guilty.

PAPER ECONOMY PROPOSED

Shortage of Newsprint Discussed by The Chicago Tribune.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Under the caption "The Newsprint Shortage," The Chicago Tribune will print tomorrow morning this editorial:

"The newsprint paper supply is rapidly approaching a stage which will be fatal to many newspapers. The present normal demand is perhaps 25 per cent. greater than the supply, and prices are on a famine basis and going higher. At present rates of advertising it is impossible for most newspapers to make money.

"If this situation was the result of manipulation or for monopoly, it might be dealt with by the usual legal measures, though prosecution and legislation are disappointing in results. In fact, the present situation is the result of shortsighted attempts in the past to restrict the price of paper, which has kept capital out of manufacture, so that the industry is now not able to meet the publishers' needs.

"The crisis can be met only by voluntary self-denial unless it be allowed to develop until the weaker publishers go under. The Tribune is in a fortunate situation because it manufactures its own paper. But it believes it would be a national misfortune if the newspapers of other publications of merit were victimized by this abnormal condition. Perhaps even up the extent of being forced out of existence.

"The Tribune believes, therefore, that the stronger publications should forego their advantage to a reasonable extent and enter into an agreement to curtail the consumption of newsprint paper. The agreement must be general and advertisers should give public-spirited help by assenting to restrictions of space.

"The Tribune would be glad to lead the movement for restriction, but has gone as far as it feels it is reasonable that it should go until a general agreement is put in force. It stands ready, however, to join in a general movement to bring consumption down to the level of supply, and thus save a situation which must soon prove disastrous to many publications and a public misfortune."

A Sale of Higher-Priced Men's Winter Suits Special at

Intended to Sell for $50

Right now our selections are a bit thin in certain styles and sizes. Consequently we group them together and reduce them (with a full winter of wear ahead) instead of holding them until next January. What is the result? We keep the rest of our assortments in excellent condition, we make room for the new garments that are constantly coming in from our tailors and we give you a chance to get next to something really worth while. In the present case there are 235 suits. Not one of them was intended to sell for less than $50. Not one of them can ever be bought again to sell for less than $60. We can only add that if you're interested in beautiful clothing you had better be here early. At the rate of speed we sell, 235 suits won't last long!

Men's Overcoats

A showing that shows just where we stand

$65, $75, $85, $95, $110, $125

We'll refrain from rapt rhetoric in describing these overcoats. We'll state simply that nothing in town can equal them, and you can hold us responsible for that statement. And you can hold us responsible for another: that if you were to see these coats at other stores they would be priced 20% higher. This is really our first complete showing of the winter and it'll be well worth your while to come in before committing yourself. Every style from the Dress Coat to the Great Coat; every color from the conservative Oxford to the most radical mixtures; every reason in the world for buying one instead of paying more money elsewhere.

To procure a Coat that has an air of distinction—that stands out as "different" from one's neighbor's—is a difficult matter these days, as Coat fashions are less varied and interesting than Suit and Gown fashions.

Occasionally, however, it can be done. The Coats in this assortment are unusual, yet moderately priced. They were designed by experts, because it was intended they would sell for a much higher figure. We secured them, through tactful buying, at great price concessions, and hereby offer you the same advantage.

They're made of Silvertone, Wool Velour and Normandy Cloth. Then, too, there are some nobby short Coats of Camel's Hair Polo Cloth. Most of them have collars of fine Fur. All are beautifully lined throughout. All Winter shades.

BAKER SAYS NEGRO DID NOT LACK VALOR

Minimizes Reports That They Fled from the Firing Line in the Argonne.

DEFENDS WHITE OFFICERS

368th Regiment Faced Intense Fire Over Difficult Ground—Poorly Euipped He Declares.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, today took formal cognizance of widespread reports reflecting on the courage of negro troops in the battle of the Argonne. He issued a statement that reviewed charges affecting the 368th Regiment, a unit of the 92d Division, the company officers and all enlisted men of which were colored. The field and staff officers were white. There have been repeated reports that troops of the 92d Division broke and ran while on the firing line. A number of the officers of the 368th Regiment recently have been tried by courts-martial on charges growing out of their participation in the Argoane operations. The verdicts of these courts, not yet made public, are before the President for action.

Secretary Baker minimizes the reports reflecting on the behavior of the negro troops of the 368th Infantry, and accusations of bad judgment against white officers of the regiment. His statement is authorized, he says in it: "In order that justice may be done to the officers, white and colored, and to the men of this regiment, and in the hope that a recital of the facts may make prejudiced and distorted discussion impossible in the future." He calls attention to the fact that "many colored officers, and particularly three in the battalion here-under discussion," were decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism under fire.

Following is the Secretary's statement in part:

French Officer in Command.

The 368th Infantry went to France as a part of the 92d Division. Its company officers and enlisted personnel were negroes. The field and staff officers were white. About Sept. 23, 1918, this regiment was detached from its division and became part of a mixed brigade commanded by a French officer and forming part of the French division, and thereafter throughout September it participated in the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

On the 28th day of September the 3d Battalion, consisting of Companies M, I, K, and L, continued the advance of previous days, and parts of it reached a position known as the Dromadaire trench. About 12 o'clock noon its line broke and a retirement in some confusion was made. The line was re-established, but again broke at about 6 o'clock in the evening, and, with the exception of certain elements of the battalion, retired again to the position of the supporting company.

These two withdrawals gave rise to a series of courts-martial trials the result of which have not as yet received the final action of the President, and therefore cannot be commented upon in this statement. A number of reports found their way into the newspapers of the country based upon these withdrawals, which have been assumed to show general unreliability in battle on the part of the negro troops.

On the other hand, in some newspapers in this country, particularly those printed for circulation among negroes, highly colored accusations have been made in regard to the treatment of this regiment from the time it left the United States, alleging, generally, (1) that its spirit and morale were broken by race discrimination; (2) that its white field officers fell short of their duty in the field; (3) that the regiment was inadequately equipped with maps, wire cutters, and signalling devices, and (4) that the withdrawals in question were effected under orders.

I directed the Inspector General of the Army to make a searching investigation into the whole situation covering all the allegations which have from time to time appeared in the press on the subject. I have before me the report of the Inspector General. The report is exhaustive and shows the following facts:

Declares Segregation Unnecessary.

The allegations of race discrimination are based upon the assignment of state rooms, dining rooms, and deck space on board the George Washington on the trip to France. In fact, the state rooms assigned to colored officers were equal in character and location to those assigned to white officers of corresponding grades and were no more crowded than the latter. While by this arrangement white and colored officers were given like accommodations, this separation was unnecessary.

The ground over which the 368th Infantry advanced was extremely difficult. Originally it was largely a dense forest. This forest had been blasted away by four years of fighting, and the undergrowth which had grown up made it in many places a dense jungle. Throughout this jungle were masses of wire entanglements of all kinds and numerous trenches. The action in which the regiment was engaged developed at times intense shell, machine-gun, and rifle fire.

The regiment was not fully supplied with wire cutters, maps, and signalling devices.

The general nature of the task of the 368th Infantry was such that exact and definite orders as to objectives were practically impossible, and it had to be left to the judgment and initiative of unit commanders.

Holds Unit Commanders Blameless.

There is little ground for criticising the action of battalion commanders. Possible errors made by them were no greater than normal.

The charge that there was a lack of proper artillery support apparently grew out of the fact that there was no general artillery preparation for the advance of the 368th Regiment, it having been the expectation of those in command that the advance of the forces in the east and west would cause the withdrawal of the enemy in front of the 368th. This apparently did not happen, and the regiment therefore found more serious opposition than had been anticipated.

From the foregoing it is clear that the incident arose in the midst of the battle in which the 3d Battalion was advancing under most unusual conditions, and where the judgment of officers untried in battle, however well trained, might easily err; and as to the withdrawals, there is strongly supported evidence that orders from some quarter were carried forward by runners directing the withdrawals, although the investigation showed that no such written order had been issued.

The circumstances disclosed by a detailed study of the situation do not justify many of the highly colored accounts which have been given of the behavior of the troops in this action, and they afford no basis at all for any of the general assumption with regard to the action of colored troops in this battle or elsewhere in France.

A Call to All Who Love the Manly Art of Self-Defense

By Major Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, U. S. M. C.

When war was declared and the Government proclaimed Boxing an indispensable feature of military training, more than 3,000,000 men engaged from day to day in miniature battles, one with the other. A new era with great possibilities for the advancement of this splendid sport was then presented.

Under the auspices of the Army, Navy and Civilian Board of Boxing Control plans are now being prepared by the Architect, Mr. William H. Gompert, for the building of a Clubhouse which should compare favorably with the famous National Sporting Clubs that have existed in London and Paris for a quarter of a century.

The Earl of Lonsdale is the President of the London Club, and its membership includes King George, the Prince of Wales, Peers, Cabinet Ministers, Ambassadors, men standing high in the ranks of Literature, Art and Finance, and there is always a long waiting list.

Boxing as the sport of the people in America and the Club will not be for the enjoyment of any privileged class. Although its first members are being drawn from the leading Clubs, an equal number will be elected from the general public, whose applications are now invited on the coupon below. A stadium for International boxing and other sports will be constructed when the Law permits payment at the doors, the present law permitting professional Boxing only in bona fide Clubs such as the New York Athletic Club and other similar Clubs in Albany, Syracuse and Buffalo to which admissions are not charged at their doors.

The late Colonel Roosevelt in his autobiography says: "The only objection I have to the prizering is the crookedness that has attended its commercial development. Outside of this I regard boxing, whether professional or amateur, as a first-class sport, and I do not regard it as brutalising."

There will be no crookedness, no brutality, no clinching, no stalling, no decisionless bouts, no Champion who has outgrown his class, no half-trained men, no objectionable features of any kind whatsoever in the ring of the International Sporting Club. This has been proved possible in London and Paris for a quarter of a century, and it should be no unattainable ideal in this, the wonder city of the world.

Members will have their own chairs and see, with the same comfort as in the theatre, clean, high-class Boxing by its foremost exponents. Should the Clubhouse not be ready by February 3, temporary premises will be taken, when only members of the Club will be admitted.

There are members of the London Sporting Club who are today enjoying undisturbed possession of seats which were allotted to them twenty-five years ago, and other members who, because of neglect in the first instance, have been occupying seats in remote parts of the building for almost as long a period.

Although the lists of the International Sporting Club are only now being officially opened, the number of applications already indicates a waiting list longer than that of the London Club, which, on the opening of its doors, was of unparalleled proportions.

THE Directors of the International Sporting Club having extended to the leading New York Clubs the privilege of being seated together, as shown in the above plan, meetings were held at which the representatives of all the Clubs here named were present. At the final meeting, October 16, the following resolution, proposed by Mr. C. E. Finlay of the Lotos Club and seconded by Mr. Douglas Campbell of the Meadow Brook Club, was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, The Directors of the International Sporting Club having offered to the leading Clubs of New York certain sections of the arena to be subscribed to by the members of such Clubs, be it

"Resolved, That this offer be accepted and the International Sporting Club be requested to allot to each of the said Clubs fifty seats for Founder memberships, such option to be in effect for thirty days."

It was found possible to supply Clubs having small memberships with literature for their members, but the continued strike in the printers' trade has rendered it impossible to supply the heavy demands which are now being made by other Clubs having memberships running into several thousand. This announcement is therefore made.

Members of the above Clubs who wish to join and secure seats in the sections set apart for their Clubs should communicate IMMEDIATELY with their respective Secretaries, as no further notice will be issued.

All interested are earnestly requested to regard this announcement, not as an advertisement, but as a direct communication of urgent importance from the Secretaries of their Clubs, otherwise they will be unable to sit with their Clubs and will be on a waiting list as candidates for election, probably for several years. The letters here published are typical of many others received, and indicate that the demand for memberships by the various Clubs will be greatly in excess of the accommodation.

October 21, 1919.

Dear Mr. Empie:

You have my full permission to make public the resolution I proposed at the meeting of the representatives of the Clubs held at your offices on Thursday last, and this letter, if you wish to do so, and you may also put upon record that the opportunity you have given the members of the different Clubs to become Founders is highly appreciated.

I send you herewith a list of twenty-one names, all of whom are applicants for Founders' memberships. I will submit additional names as soon as I can get time to see other members of the Club.

Wishing you the success which your efforts so richly merit, I am

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) C. E. FINLAY.

(N. B.—Mr. C. E. Finlay is the Treasurer of the Lotos Club.)

New York, October 16, 1919.

Army, Navy & Civilian Board of Boxing Control.
340 Madison Avenue,
New York City.

My Dear Major Biddle:

I am extremely sorry not to be able to attend the meeting that you are holding this afternoon in connection with the International Sporting Club, but you know the keen interest which members of the Union League Club individually feel in regard to it, for I have expressed that to you already in my letter, as well as orally to Major Simson. I have told him that in spite of my unavoidable absence, I hope you will be kind enough to allot at least fifty seats to the members of the Union League Club. As soon as I learn that you have done this, I shall, I think, be able to return that number of applications duly signed, to you, in a very short time.

I await with interest your further communication.

Yours truly,

(Signed) HENRY C. QUINBY.

(N. B. Mr. Henry C. Quinby is the Secretary of the Union League Club.)

THE Directors are in no way responsible for the regrettable omission of three representative New York Clubs from the above list, and no invidious discrimination has been made or intended in having reserved no section for these Clubs on the main floor. The Directors desire, however, that the members of such Clubs who wish to join shall have an opportunity of so doing by signing the coupon at the side hereof, mentioning the names of their respective Clubs and mailing immediately.

The first five of these photographs are of the International Sporting Club of New York.

LADY ASTOR ANGERS ASQUITH LIBERALS

They Resent Her Reference to Ex-Premier's "Indifference" Early in the War.

NOMINATION OFFICIAL NOW

Filed at Plymouth Yesterday—Lady Astor Proclaims Pride in Her American Birth.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Lady Astor is threatened with libel action by the Labor candidate for the Suffolk division of Plymouth, and has set the nerves of the Asquithian Liberals on edge by remarks which are regarded as offensively personal in character.

The Westminster Gazette in an editorial note says:

"Lady Astor appears to be losing her head at Plymouth. That, at all events, is the most charitable explanation of a remark which she is reported to have made yesterday, that during the first year of the war she used to go to ask about things of vital importance, and was horrified at the indifference displayed in Downing Street. Ladies who go to Downing Street in wartime to ask about doings of vital importance sometimes get rougher answers than a display of polite indifference. If Lady Astor means there was indifference in No. 10 when it was occupied by Mr. Asquith, it would be sufficient to reply in her own language that she displays crass ignorance, but before saying it she might have reflected that from that household alone three sons had gone to the war, one of whom was killed, and another maimed for life. Whatever may be said about politicians, it is sometimes right to remember that they are human beings, with human feelings."

The Star correspondent writes:

"Mr. and Mrs. Asquith's family did not display much indifference during the war. One of their sons was killed; another was terribly wounded. Even Lord and Lady Astor could not have done more. I should advise Lady Astor to remember that this sort of calumny is apt to recoil on its circulators."

Plymouth dispatches to Liberal papers speak of the "airy nothings" of the Conservative program and generally deride Lady Astor's campaign as a "stunt."

PLYMOUTH, Nov. 7, (Associated Press.)—The official nominations of the candidates for the House of Commons in the bye-election for a successor to Lord Astor, who lost his seat when elevated to the peerage on the death of his father, were filed today. The nominees, as previously known unofficially, are Lady Astor, the American wife of the Viscount, whose lively campaign for her husband's place in the Commons has been under way for several days, nominated by the Unionists; Isaac Foot, named by the Liberals, and W. T. Hay, by the Labor Party.

"Do not think for one minute I am ashamed of my Virginian blood," snapped Lady Astor yesterday afternoon at a woman's meeting when she was asked why she was not spending her energies in America, where there were as many social evils as here.

"What do you want me to do—sit at home and hold my hands?" Lady Astor went on. "I married in England; my interests for the years have been in Plymouth; every drop of blood in me veins is Anglo-Saxon, and I am proud of my American birth."

Lady Astor's eyes flashed and she gestured for a moment. Resuming her speech, she declared that women would be the ones to bring about the working of the League of Nations.

"Men tell you they had good times at the front," Lady Astor said, "but I do not believe a mother with a son there ever had a good time."

"Men have physical courage," she added, "but they often lack moral courage, and that's the kind of courage most needed today."

Answering another bombardment of questions, Lady Astor said:

"There are two sections of the Labor Party—one embraces tried and true trade unions; the other young intellectuals. I know the latter as red-hot Bolshevik cranks. Half of them never fought in the war, and most of them have never been workingmen. They are heart and soul of the Independent Labor Party."

Marrion Wilcox Not Dead.

Through an error arising from erroneous information it was stated in an announcement yesterday of the marriage of Mrs. Nina Wilcox Putnam to Robert I. Sanderson, that she was the daughter of the late Marrion and Eleanor Sanchez Wilcox. Mr. Wilcox is not dead and is the editor in chief of the Encyclopedia Americana, now in its second edition.

VETERAN BURGLAR ROBBED

Thieves Get $65, Two Dogs, and "Big Bill" Mason's Clothes.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Nov. 7.—Word reached Sing Sing officials today that "Big Bill" Mason, for over fifty years a burglar, who was discharged from Sing Sing two weeks ago bent on reforming, has come to grief in his effort.

"It's a 10 to 1 shot," said "Big Bill" when he said good-bye to Warden Edward Y. Brophy, "that I don't get into trouble again." He was paroled in the custody of Brig. Gen. Cowan of the Salvation Army after serving time in the prison on and off for thirty years.

Now word reaches the prison that some crook robbed "Big Bill" in Manhattan of $65 in cash he took away from Sing Sing with him, the new suit of clothes the State gave him, and two pet dogs. "Big Bill" was thrown upon the charity of neighbors to try to recoup his loss and get a new start. His prison friends are afraid the seventy-three-year-old master burglar, whom former Chief Inspector George McCloskey of the New York police once shot in a pistol battle, may be tempted to ply his old trade if the crooks do not stop annoying him.

9,695 Register in N. Y. U.

A marked increase in the registration of students for this year was reported yesterday by Milton E. Loomis, Registrar of New York University. So far, according to Mr. Loomis, 9,695 people have registered for the various courses of study. These figures do not include duplicate registrations and are exclusive of extramural or extension classes. The heaviest registration is credited to the School of Commerce, Accounts and Finance.

The Nation's Greatest Asset

The children of today are the citizens of tomorrow. They are the nation's greatest asset. No labor so important, no duty so imperative, as that of making the children into 100% American citizens. We do not want bookworms, we want intelligent, well-informed, forceful men and women, who can do their own thinking. Only a small part of this education can be obtained in the schoolroom. Three-fourths of it must be acquired in the daily reading, entertainments and occupations in the home.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is a new method of education in the home. Over 10,000 delightful educational pictures and brief intensely interesting articles tell the children everything they need to know in plain and simple language. It is the first work of reference which a child ever really enjoyed reading. It expands every faculty of the child's growing mind and takes care of the outdoor as well as the indoor life of the home.

Curiosity—the Great Teacher

CURIOSITY is the beginning of all knowledge. Do you know any subject about which your child has not asked you a dozen questions? Let him ask as many as he likes, and be sure to answer them correctly. That is the parent's most important and most easily neglected duty. If you discourage your child's curiosity you will injure his mind, and the bright boy or girl becomes stupid or indifferent. Through curiosity Columbus discovered America. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the simplest and most natural method of helping the child to educate himself. IT ANSWERS EVERY QUESTION A CHILD CAN ASK IN PLAIN AND SIMPLE LANGUAGE. So captivating is this great original work to the mind of a child that he absorbs with little effort the profound truths and great facts of the world of knowledge; while reading its delightful pages and looking at the thousands of striking educational pictures.

Answers Every Question a Child Can Ask

Why do we grow old?
Who made the first electric light?
How did the days get their names?
Why is a river always running?
Why does lightning strike some things and not others?
Where does the wind begin?
Why does the kettle sing?
Where do thoughts come from?
What makes coal burn?
Why has a star five points?
What is it like at the bottom of the sea?
Why are tears salt?
Why do we have names?
What is a thunder-bolt?
How high can men fly?
Is the earth hollow inside?

Your Child Is Unique

Your child is like no other child in the world. He has his own peculiar taste and need for both physical and mental food. Some kinds of food agree with him and some do not. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the right kind of nourishing food for the child's mind during the growing years. Give your child this remarkable, original work, and watch carefully which of the 16 Great Departments interests him most. Nature, Science, History, Biography, Astronomy, Physiology, Art, Literature, Poetry, or Manual Training. It will prove THE KEY to his natural bent, and the kind of work or profession in which he will most easily succeed.

Your Child's Chance

In round numbers, what is your child's chance to become successful? If uneducated, he has one chance out of 150,000; with a common school education, 4 chances; with a high school education, 87 chances; with a college education, 800 chances; WITH THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in the home, every chance. It is not a luxury, it is an absolute necessity. It is an INVESTMENT in your child's future which will pay dividends as long as he lives. In over 650,000 homes today the children are being educated with THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE. Give your child his chance to compete with them.

Announcing the Re-creation of

ANHEUSER-BUSCH'S FAMOUS

Budweiser

IT is the fixed policy of Anheuser-Busch to comply with every provision of public laws and regulations. That policy will be adhered to in the future as in the past. In view of the Act of Congress, effective October 29, 1919, we feel that our many friends and customers have the right to know how the Anheuser-Busch industrial plants will be utilized.

Our greater development plans include, among other new products, an additional cereal beverage to which we shall apply our well-known trade-name Budweiser. This beverage will be manufactured, in every detail, according to our original Budweiser process, and de-alcoholized to conform to Federal law. It will possess the genuine Budweiser flavor and quality.

Budweiser, re-created, will be manufactured from the choicest, most wholesome and nutritious cereals—and hops, noted for their tonic effects. It will be fully and maturely lagered, put up in sterilized, hermetically sealed, 12-ounce brown bottles, and pasteurized to insure its permanent purity and quality.

We guarantee that this Budweiser is bacteria free, will keep in any climate, and is healthful and nutritious.

We shall be ready to begin shipments by January 1, 1920.

Budweiser is manufactured and bottled exclusively at the plant of

ANHEUSER-BUSCH, ST. LOUIS, U.S.A.

Is America Face to Face With Industrial Revolution?

Just before the Civil War William H. Seward told the nation that an "irrepressible conflict" was at hand over slavery, and Abraham Lincoln warned the people that their nation could not endure "half slave and half free." So, to-day, we find editors in both the conservative and radical camps who see unmistakable signs that the conflict between labor and capital can neither be compromised nor arbitrated, but must be fought out, perhaps to a finish. They point to the complete collapse of the President's industrial conference at Washington; to the persistence of the soft coal miners in going ahead with the strike policy which the President of the United States has declared "immoral" and "illegal"; to the existence of the irregular and unauthorized strikes in New York which labor's own leaders have been unable to stop; to the steel strike in which the United States Steel Corporation welcomed the fight to the finish and seems to be winning it. They also note that President Gompers has called together all the labor union heads of the country to take counsel with regard to "grave dangers" which confront labor and are "affecting the very foundation of its structure." In citing reasons for welcoming the contest between the coal miners on one side, and the operators and United States Government on the other, the editor of The American Coal Miner says "the hopeful thing is that perhaps industry will be better for its cleansing. While no wounds have closed without a scar, maybe the scar will stand as a future warning."

The leading article in The Literary Digest for this week—November 8th—is a summary of public opinion upon labor unrest in America as expressed by journals representing all angles of thought. It will be read with deep interest everywhere.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS IN THIS WEEK'S "DIGEST"

Since our first experiment a month ago in printing the "Digest" from typewritten copy and eliminating our typesetters, an innovation made necessary by their uncalled for "vacation," marked improvements have been made in the appearance of the publication each week. This week's number, November 8, is particularly satisfactory. The type is larger and less crowded, the lines are more evenly spaced, the broken appearance of the column-margins has been rectified, the print is clearer, and withal most satisfactory results achieved. THE CASE OF MR. JENKINS.

Some rather surprising statements, with what is called official sanction, come from Washington in the matter of the kidnapping and ransom of WILLIAM O. JENKINS, the American Consular Agent at Puebla. It might be well before considering them to quote OPPENHEIM, an accepted authority upon international law, as regards the status of Consular Agents and the protection they should receive from the Government of the foreign State. "Agents consular," he says, "are agents with consular character "appointed, subject to the approbation "of the home Government, by a consul general or consul for the exercise of certain parts of the consular "functions in certain towns or other "places of the consular district." Concerning "non-professional consuls," that is to say consular agents, such as JENKINS was at Puebla when he was seized and carried away by bandits, OPPENHEIM declares that the admitting State "recognizes their official position toward itself, which "demands at least a special protection "of their persons and residences." Furthermore, this eminent authority says that "consuls of all kinds have "the right to put up the arms of the "appointing State over the door of "the consular building and to hoist "the national flag." In the light of these principles the following statement of the attitude of the United States Government by "an official of the State Department" should be read:

> The fact that JENKINS was an official of the United States Government has no bearing on the matter. Americans in Mexico can expect no more and no different protection than is afforded to Mexicans under the Mexican law.

The State Department advised the Mexican Government on Oct. 25 that the United States expected that measures would be taken to obtain the release of JENKINS, even if it should become necessary to pay the ransom demanded. That was sound doctrine. It does not appear that the Mexican Government accomplished anything, although it professed concern for the safety of the American Consular Agent. Friends of JENKINS extricated him from the clutch of the bandits by providing part of the ransom money in cash and giving written promises to pay the remainder. During his confinement by the kidnappers JENKINS suffered so much from exposure that upon his release it was necessary to give him medical treatment in a hospital. For a time he seems to have been a very sick man. A newspaper of the City of Mexico, The Excelsior, has investigated the affair and confirms the original story that five bandits or "rebels" overpowered the American in his factory at Puebla, compelled him to open his safe, which they rifled, and carried him off into the mountains to hold him until the ransom was paid. JENKINS, says this Mexican newspaper, holds the receipt of one CORDOBA, the leader of the band, for the amount of the ransom, 300,000 pesos.

No evidence has been produced that the Consular Agent was an accomplice in his own abduction, nor does there seem to be any ground for such a suspicion. Outrages upon Americans in Mexico are so frequent, and in most cases so well authenticated, that it is difficult to believe that the State Department, after making a vigorous demand upon the Mexican Government to obtain the release of Consular Agent JENKINS, really means to take the stand that he was entitled to no more protection than a Mexican citizen, and that there is no evidence that the Mexican authorities were negligent in the performance of their duty. If JENKINS was kidnapped by five bandits or "rebels" in the populous City of Puebla, there is a prima facie case of neglect against the Mexican Government, because it has failed, or shown itself impotent, to protect American citizens in many localities. The case for an indemnity is clear enough for any one. The United States Government should always be ready to insist upon the protection of its Consular Agents, and the position that they are entitled to no more protection than Mexican citizens in a part of the country where banditry is common cannot be countenanced. It is untenable and intolerable.

INJUNCTIONS AS A STRIKE REMEDY.

The coal strike injunction argument today cannot of itself end the strike, whatever the merits of the arguments. Nevertheless the injunction is useful, for other reasons than that the issues are worth deciding. It affords an interval within which both miners and operators will have leisure to reconsider their position. There is no injunction yet against negotiating to end a strike, and friendly interveners may bring the parties together, even though on the record they are prevented from speaking as they pass by. They are not nearly so angry with each other as the unions are with the Government, and some measure of agreement is not impossible. Injunctions alone will not end strikes, although strikes have ended after injunctions, when supported by force on a military scale. Force is not justifiable against strikers unless they break the peace or the law, and it is better that court process should be used in protection of workers than against unions. Peaceful strikes, if there are any, are lawful. Ordinarily the Government is not a party in interest in peaceful strikes, as this has been so far, but it chances that the Government is a party in interest in railway coal contracts now. The unions went too far when they pleaded that the Government did not come into court with clean hands, and was seeking to relieve itself from a dilemma. The country and the union are in a dilemma, and it is the duty of the Government to rescue the country at the expense of the wrongdoer, and that is the union.

The Government may, probably will, prevail in the argument eventually, but that will not alter the fact that experience teaches that arbitration and mediation are better methods of ending strikes than injunctions. As for the operators, they should know as business men that agreements out of court are better than the hazards in court, and that a contract made with them, if it can be had, is better than a contract made for them.

THE FEDERAL WATER POWER BILL.

The House of Representatives passed, on July 1, the bill creating the Federal Power Commission, consisting of the Secretaries of War, of the Interior, and of Agriculture, and intrusting to that commission the powers hitherto exercised by the Secretaries in their several jurisdictions in connection with water-power development. On Sept. 12 Mr. JONES of Washington, in behalf of the Senate Committee on Commerce, presented a report on this bill, reported favorably with a recommendation of certain amendments. While the committee objected to certain fundamental provisions of the House bill, it wisely preferred to accept them rather than frame a new measure. For twenty years, beginning with the River and Harbor act of 1890, Congress has been elaborately doing nothing for the development of water power, or has put obstructions in the way of that development, a policy which prevailed during the virtuous and barren years of conservation for conservation's sake.

Capital was continually frightened away. In the thirteen Western States where some four-fifths of the undeveloped water power is found, the United States owns much of the land. To develop the water power the use of some of that land for dam sites, flowage, right of way, is usually necessary, and has been obtainable solely by revocable permit. Who is going to invest on these terms? Fifty-five million hydraulic horse power has been wasted because conservationists of the straitest sect were afraid that somebody, and particularly the accursed "interests," might make some money out of it; but we must not dwell on these old, unhappy, not yet far-off things.

In 1917 and 1918, under the stress of war, the country and Congress saw at last that this tremendous energy of water power must no longer be thrown away. Still nothing has been done. A little more than a year ago Mr. WILSON spoke of the Federal Commission bill as of "capital and "immediate importance as a war "measure." It didn't thrive as a war measure, but it is still of "capital and immediate importance" as a peace measure. This coal strike is in itself an invincible reason for passing the bill. Water-power development "means a saving of coal, and a lower price for that used," says the Senate report of the Committee on Commerce on this bill; "a saving of oil and a "lower price for that consumed; "more efficient transportation and "lower cost of service; the development of new industries; the building "up of new communities; the creation of new property values subject "to taxation for the support and "maintenance of local and State Governments, and added employment "for labor and increased markets for "agricultural products." It means more production, more wealth, the end of an incredible and shameful waste.

The Senate Committee on Commerce did right in accepting the House bill, to which it proposes certain amendments. Only one or two of these are of first importance. The Senate ought to take up this bill, pass it as soon as possible. In conference neither house should insist too much on having its own way. Here is an enormous public benefit, an enormous economic transformation, almost within the grasp of the American people. How much longer must they wait for it?

THE LAND OF TRUE FREEDOM.

All around us men are striking for the right to work less and get more for it, and when the representatives of the mass of the people, threatened with freezing or starvation by the action of particular groups, attempt to protect the interests of the majority, there are wild outcries of tyranny and oppression. What better could be expected, our revolutionaries ask, in America, a land subjected to an intolerable capitalist tyranny? Now in Russia, where men are really free—

Well, how about Russia? In a periodical published in this city which may be accepted as an accurate and authoritative vehicle of news from the Soviet Russia one may read of the resolutions addressed some time ago to the factory organizations in Petrograd by the Eighth Congress of the Russian Communist Party. Petrograd factories had been lax; production was falling off, and industries working up to their full capacity were feeling the effect of the derelictions elsewhere. Consequently the Communist Congress informs the workers:

> The whole community of workers will now be subjected to a precise calculation of their performance; and expert estimates of the production of the workers, both as individuals and also in groups, will be made.
> We herewith announce that in the future every worker and employe who falls below his established norm, or is guilty of any infraction of workers' discipline, will be placed in a lower category, or excluded from the factory altogether.

"Placed in a lower category" is a Bolshevist euphemism for getting less to eat. Nothing here to encourage the devotees of doing less and getting more; they must work if they want to eat, and work not as much as they like, not as much as they think they ought, but as much as "expert estimates" and "precise calculation" made by somebody on the outside may determine. American workmen who are outraged by "efficiency" systems can be glad they do not have to encounter the Russian analogue; it would not be a case of speeding up or losing money, but of speeding up or starving.

Perhaps this may be only a temporary measure necessary to increased production in the Soviet State, but the fundamental difficulty is one which would trouble any communist commonwealth. Where there is no economic incentive to work, we are likely to see a society in which the conscientious 25 per cent. support the unsocial 75 per cent., or else a society in which men are forced to work up to a standard set by some one else. Liberty is a great thing, but the lands where food and clothing grow on trees are few and of small area. Generally the necessaries of life have to be acquired by work; and it seems that labor on the whole gets more of them for less work here than in Russia.

GERMANY MUST PAY.

The German Government refuses to give up Danzig and the surrounding territory which is to be included in the "free city" until the Senate ratifies the Treaty, on the ground that the surrender was to be made to "the principal Allied and Associated Powers," one of which is at present not associated with the others. If the Senate defeats the Treaty or makes material alterations, the Germans will unquestionably use this as a pretext to hold Danzig until they are forced to get out.

Here is a frank threat of one more violation of the Treaty, which, with the armistice terms and subsequent conventions, has already been violated by the Germans in eleven different ways. These German breaches of faith are enumerated in the note sent by the Conference, warning the Germans that the Treaty will not go into effect until the Germans agree to make reparations. If they fail, the Conference has the right to employ "any coercive measures" that seem advisable.

Most important of the German violations of the promises on which the armistice was obtained is the retention of the troops in the Baltic provinces. Here the German Government may have some technical excuse in the refusal of the troops to obey, but the German people are guilty because they have failed to give the Government such support as would enable it to use compulsion. Most Germans appear to look on the Baltic adventure as a worthy and promising attempt to revive Germany's power; and the longer the application of coercive measures is delayed the harder it will be to enforce compliance with the decisions of the Conference.

Then there is the matter of the fleet sunk at Scapa Flow, as well as certain submarines which the German Government promised to deliver, but which were sunk by their commanders; and aerial material sold to neutrals instead of being surrendered as provided by agreements made last March. Here the Conference demands reparations in kind. In exchange for the fleet the Germans must deliver five of the light cruisers left to them in the armistice terms, together with floating docks, floating cranes, tugs, and dredges in sufficient quantity to compensate measurably for the sunken battleships. That this material will probably be used to raise the sunken ships at Scapa Flow is a fine point which should not be lost on the Germans.

Engines and machinery of other submarines, on which construction was presumably suspended by the armistice, are to be surrendered to make good the submarines that were sunk. And until these deliveries are made the officers and men of the High Seas Fleet who sank the ships at Scapa Flow are to be held as prisoners—an attribution of immediate responsibility which ought to make the relatives of the men alert to placing any blame that may fall on German authorities higher up. The aerial material sold is to be paid for by the German Government. In other words, the Conference makes it clear to the Germans that acts of sabotage are virtually committed against German property, which will be confiscated by way of reparation.

Other German breaches of faith, such as failure to return objects of art and industrial machinery stolen from France and Belgium, the Conference thinks can be punished under clauses of the Treaty itself. But the most important consideration is exemplary and speedy retribution. There is in Germany a large and growing mass of people which can be dealt with reasonably, but those Germans have not yet had much influence on the Government. These deliberate breaches of solemn promises must be punished so hard that the Germans will see the advantage of good faith.

HUGO HAASE.

Another of the too few clear and honest voices in Germany has been silenced. HUGO HAASE, shot a month ago by an Austrian whom he was prosecuting in a private suit, is dead. The motive of the murderer is made known, the fact is undoubted; but among those who remember how EISNER was murdered because he was too honest, because he threatened to tell too much, there survives suspicion that HAASE, who had already told some things and threatened to tell more, was a victim of the discovery that assassination was a practicable political weapon in present-day Germany.

HAASE opposed the war, but accepted his party's decision and served for a time at the front. As early as 1915 he decided that conformity could serve no useful end, and from that time on he was, next to LIEBKNECHT, the principal thorn in the imperial flesh. After a revolution which he had done a great deal to bring about he found himself unable to work with the men who had supported the Kaiser so long as the Kaiser's armies were victorious, and who were still determined to keep up the old false front of injured virtue, as well as to hamstring the revolution. When he was shot he was on his way to deliver a speech in which he would flatly have charged the Government with connivance in the Baltic adventure.

An extreme Socialist, often suspected of too great friendship for Spartacus, bitterly hostile to NOSKE, he was still no Bolshevik, and by his influence did much to moderate those whose distrust of the "Scheidemanner" might have thrown them into Bolshevism. His death removes one of the few German political leaders whom the rest of the world could trust, and a man perhaps better fitted than any other to prevent class antagonism in Germany from becoming insoluble except by bloodshed.

WAR BRIDES.

The statement in a dispatch from Brest that "the last of the war brides "of the American soldiers left here "yesterday for the United States" is obviously premature, for there are still American soldiers, a considerable number of them, on the Continent, and it will be some time before France sees the last American soldier leave her shores. The eternal feminine interests the soldier wherever his lot is cast, and the interest of woman in the soldier is constant and at the expense of the civilian, who often has cause to deplore her fickleness.

In France the Young Women's Christian Association mothered the girls who married American soldiers. "I am proud," says one of the ladies active in the marital training of bride and groom, "of our American boys. "So far as is known, only one war "bride is coming back of nearly 3,600 "we sent to the United States." And France may well be proud of the brides, whose attractiveness and temperamental appeal account largely for this amazing record.

But the Y. W. C. A. seems to have been a factor in promoting domestic felicity, for it appears that at the camps "the husbands were detailed "to do cooking and other housework "and the brides were taught English "and instructed in American customs "through demonstrations, moving "pictures, and lectures." As a rule, the American husband cannot cook, and to call him "a handy man about the house" is to be facetious. Nor does the girl he marries receive any training "through demonstrations, moving pictures, and lectures." Apparently the marriage of the American soldier and the French girl coached by the Y. W. C. A. is not so much of a lottery as the conventional union in America. Perhaps the divorce court would have less to do if a similar system of protection and preparation were adopted on this side of the water.

The success of the benevolent intervention has been most remarkable, for the war brides were from 15 years young to 55 years old. Only one of 3,600 to return! Cynicism is completely disarmed. If it be asked why so many American soldiers succumbed to the fascination of the girls of France—three-fifths of all the war brides were French—the only answer is that they were "different," being as novel as they were piquant and magnetic. Thus the tie that binds us to France has become stronger than any propaganda could make it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Oil Takes the Place of Coal. One effect of the miners' strike probably not foreseen by them or their sympathizers and helpers is that it has much hastened the substitution of oil for coal as fuel for steamships. Even before the strike that change was going on as fast as convenience permitted the laying up of coal-burning vessels, but it was not until the strike of longshoremen brought enforced idleness on many ships that their owners felt they could afford in this day of high freight rates to take the time required for putting tanks in place of bunkers and making the other alterations which the use of the newer fuel requires.

In recent weeks, however, all the yards at and near this port where such work can be done have been full of vessels receiving the equipment that will make them independent of strikes at the coal mines, here and in other countries. The list of these craft includes many names of large and well-known vessels, as well as of many others only familiar in commercial circles.

The tendency toward the use of oil as fuel for the purposes of navigation has long been marked, and its present acceleration will lead to a decrease in the demand for bituminous coal that will be felt by both the mine operators and the miners, and it cannot fail to lower both prices and wages, or at least to prevent them from continuing to advance. The exhaustion of the stock of unmined coal will also be delayed by this change, and so certain well-grounded apprehensions for the future will be in some degree allayed.

Changing Conditions on Shipboard. There is significance afloat as well as ashore in the change from coal to oil as fuel on shipboard, for it results in the abolition of the stokehold, about the most terrible of all places where men have been accustomed to work. The fires of an oil-burning steamer are kept up, not by large forces of stokers, whose life is usually a cruel struggle with almost intolerable conditions, but by three or four or half a dozen neatly uniformed engineers, using brains instead of muscle, and no more incommoded by their task than are the skilled guardians of machinery on land. They will be men of an entirely different grade from those whose ill fortune it has been to feed the furnaces of ships, and, thanks to the nature of the new fuel, steam will be kept up as much more steadily and efficiently as comfortably.

There are dangers connected with oil as fuel, but devices already available and methods already in use make an oil-burning ship even safer than one that burns coal. As for the adequacy of the oil supply for the needs of the world's commerce, anxiety as to that can be left to generations far more remote than the one that will see the last of the coal deposits used up. No oil field is inexhaustible, and no new oil seems to be in process of manufacture by "nature," but there are many lands the oil stocks of which, though known to be enormous, have been little more than prospected as yet.

Citizenship Granted Too Easily. There will be general and hearty approval, at least as to principle and purpose, of the new bill to regulate naturalization, which has just been reported favorably by the House Committee on Immigration. Its details, of course, will require careful consideration, for only a few extremists want to deprive all foreigners of the hope of becoming American citizens, and hardly more are desirous of imposing at our ports of entry restrictions that would stop rather than regulate the arrival from abroad of needed workers.

As summarized, the proposed law seems neither too lenient nor too harsh. It is entirely reasonable to make ability to speak, read, and write English a condition of naturalization, and equally reasonable is it to stop what might be called the automatic bestowal of citizenship—giving it, that is, to one person because of relationship to another. This bill demands an oath of allegiance from the wives and children of naturalized immigrants. As regards wives, it is hard to see why they should be recognized as citizens—and still harder to see why they should be allowed to vote—until they have done exactly what other aliens must do to get the franchise.

It is high time, moreover, to abandon all discrimination between the sexes by which marriage naturalizes a woman and does not naturalize a man. It should not naturalize either. There is not even an excuse for it, now that the old ideas as to masculine supremacy and control over women are no longer the basis of law or custom. Citizenship should be neither gained nor lost by marriage for anybody.

Solved by Jersey Jurymen. In the curious case to which reference already has been made in this column, a Jersey jury has decided, apparently, that when a man buys a farm in the belief that Captain KIDD's treasure is buried in it, if a reasonable amount of digging discloses no wealth of plate and doubloons, he need not pay for the land. The justice of this decision would seem to depend, first, on whether the original owner of the land accelerated its sale by telling the treasure story in a way to make it convincing to the buyer, and, second, whether the rule of caveat emptor does not apply even if the seller did indulge the impulse toward romance to this extent. According to the report at hand, the owner denied that he said anything about Captain KIDD, but the jury must have believed or feared that he did. Seemingly, it did not consider at all the fact that full information as to the only treasure Captain KIDD ever buried, and its speedy discovery and removal, can be found in a dozen books easy to get, and that nobody has more than a very bad excuse for expecting to find it now.

But this case was complicated by the appearance in it of a spirit, said to be of African descent, and that makes reasoning about it practically useless.

Both the defeated plaintiff and the victorious defendant might get a clearer view of the situation in which they now find themselves if they were to read the old play in which the wise Nathan set his sons to digging, not in vain, for a non-existent treasure.

THINGS SEEN IN IRELAND.

Experiences of Two American Naval Officers with Sinn Fein.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May we be permitted to say a word or two in reference to a statement issued by Daniel T. O'Connell of the Irish National Bureau at Washington? This statement addressed to the Secretary of the Navy was, we believe, intended to demand an apology from Admiral William Snowden Sims for his temerity in even intimating that the Irish Sinn Feiner was "openly pro-German" during the war.

One point over which Mr. O'Connell appears greatly annoyed is an incident which took place in the Spring of 1918, when several American sailors were stoned in the streets of Cork. Admiral Sims asserts that the attack was staged or at least instigated by the Sinn Feiners. Mr. O'Connell and the Sinn Fein leader, Mr. de Valera, insist that the attack was made in defense of Irish womanhood. If Mr. O'Connell is correct in this assertion will he explain why the American sailors at Queenstown planned a counterattack upon the Sinn Fein element in Cork? Does the glib author of this literary travesty from the Irish National Bureau infer that the contemplated attack on his fellow-radicals in Cork was proof that the American bluejacket, as a body, approved of what Mr. O'Connell is pleased to insinuate as an attack on the virtue of Irish women?

There is no question that there was open hostility between the Irish Sinn Feiners and members of the American forces and other allied forces of England on duty in Ireland. The average male Sinn Feiner was blessed with health and physical force and yet he did not wear the uniform of the British military forces. The American looked upon him, therefore, as a slacker. Our men had come thousands of miles to aid in the war against Germany and they were very naturally incensed at finding an element in Ireland which never lost an opportunity to give aid and assistance to the enemy. In those dark days of April and March, 1918, it was difficult to understand why, when England was fighting with her back to the wall, her subjects who called themselves Sinn Feiners were in open revolt. We were amazed, indeed, to find a large percentage of the male population, all of military age, going about their daily existence of loafing during the day and sneaking around in military formations in preparation for their threatened revolt by night.

We have no idea what Mr. O'Connell's conception of pro-Germanism is, but we will say that if the Irish Sinn Feiner did not harbor German sympathies he certainly was no friend of England.

If they were friends of the Americans, to whom they now appeal for funds, they expressed and demonstrated their affection in a most inconsistent manner. It has been our experience, and that of a great many more American naval officers and men on duty in the South of Ireland, to be pointed out as a "dirty Yank." Whether this epithet was applied with the idea of suggesting our undergoing a cleansing process or whether it was intended as some mysterious expression of Celtic affection, we shall ask Mr. O'Connell to explain. On numerous other occasions, while motoring from one station to another, we would pass through villages and receive a rousing reception from the male population, who would cry, "Up Germany! Up Sinn Fein!" while the more youthful and playful males would punctuate their shouts by directing a barrage of stones at us.

We shall be quite disappointed if our report of our experiences in Cork County, Ireland, is not branded as "willfully false and misleading." We shall even be accused of being in the pay of the English Government and otherwise consigned to perfidy. But every member of the American forces in Ireland knows our statement to be the truth.

A Free Distribution of Whisky.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The lifting of the wartime prohibition ban seems so remote that the holders of the sixty millions of gallons of fine bourbon and rye whiskies remaining in bond are now considering the introduction of a bill in Congress under which these whiskies could be freed from tax, the distillers' bonds canceled and the holders be permitted to remove them into five-gallon jugs and give them to the people to be used for medicinal purposes.

The idea is to give one jug to each family in the country not already supplied with liquors for the future, and the Government would be asked to make the distribution through the Post Office Department.

Distillers believe that whisky is influenza's greatest foe, and if Congressmen decide that their constituents want the whisky there is little doubt that the bill will be passed.

THE TOTEM-POLES.

Far in the frozen north where glow
Auroral lights upon the snow,
Carven with picture-tales of beast
And bird and feast and vanquished foe,
Before the council-houses old.
Beneath the bleak and stormy skies,
Crude, faithful records of the race,
The warriors' totem-poles arise.

Where cornflowers imitate the blue
Of cloudless noons, and poppies burn,
And larks like singing spirits soar,
And crickets pipe in beds of fern,
The crosses of the Allied dead,
Like phantom soldiers gaunt and pale,
Stand at attention on the hill
And sentinel the lonely vale.

Bearing initials rudely cut,
Topped with a helmet or a tag,
They mark the dust of those who died
For God and country and the flag.
Rough, humble monuments of wood,
But bare the head and bend the knee,
Lo! They are epics of the war,
The totem-poles of Liberty.

EPISCOPAL BUDGET FIXED.

Joint Commission Plans Expansion Requiring $42,000,000.

The joint commission on the nation-wide campaign of the Episcopal Church voted yesterday to go to the Church Dec. 7 with a program of mobilization and expansion requiring a fund of $42,000,000.

The amount was fixed as the lowest to be given by the Church for its reasonable needs, other than parochial, in the next three years. Twenty-eight million dollars of the total was set apart for the general work of the Church and $14,000,000 for the work of the several dioceses.

Ten million dollars was specified for home missionary work and $13,000,000 for foreign missionary work, for social service, religious education, Americanization and other work in the United States, and for the work of the Woman's Auxiliary, the Girls' Friendly Society, the Church Temperance Society, and the Church Periodical Club.

The official goal of the campaign is based upon the survey of the Church's needs made several months ago, and revised and corrected in the last week by a sub-committee consisting of Bishop J. G. Murray of Baltimore, Bishop F. F. Reese of Savannah, Ga., and Oliver J. Sands, President of the American National Bank, Richmond, Va.

The original total of the survey was in excess of $62,000,000. It was revised by the elimination of several projects in order to make the program of the campaign as efficient and reasonably economical as the needs shown would permit.

Those attending yesterday's session were Bishop Murray, Bishop Reese, Bishop Charles Sumner Burch of New York, Bishop Arthur S. Lloyd, President of the Episcopal Board of Missions; Dr. Stires, the Rev. F. H. Nelson of Cincinnati, H. P. Davison of New York, the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann of Boston, George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, Burton Mansfield of New Haven, Conn., Oliver J. Sands of Richmond, Va., James R. Strong of Short Hills, N. J., George C. EGAN ON OUR DIPLOMATS.

Former Minister to Denmark Says New Attitude is Necessary.

Speaking last night on "The Embarrassments of a Diplomat" before the Institute of Arts and Sciences of Columbia University at the Horace Mann Auditorium, Dr. Maurice Francis Egan, former United States Minister to Denmark, said that the changed relationship between the United States and the other nations of the world as a result of the war would render necessary a new attitude on the part of Americans regarding their diplomatic representatives.

Referring to our misunderstanding of other peoples, Dr. Egan said:

"Hitherto we have spoken a different language—I mean taking an entirely different attitude in nearly all matters—from the people of Europe and Asia, of China and Japan, of Turkey, of the Balkans. We have made the mistake of reading into their lives the motives and ideals which control ours.

"These mistakes we can afford no longer to make, and in order that they may not be repeated we ought to see that our diplomatic service is not a mere ornament, not a refuge for men who go abroad because they cannot manage their affairs at home, or because they are rich, and we ought not to permit capable men who have reached a certain amount of efficiency to be forced to retire for political reasons just as they have become valuable."

Describing his diplomatic experiences in Denmark, Dr. Egan said that the two moments of greatest embarrassment to him during his sojourn there were the arrival of Dr. Cook from his Arctic expedition on which he claimed to have discovered the North Pole, and the arrival of the Ford Peace Mission.

BEGIN BRONX RENT INQUIRY.

Members of Strike Committees Are Questioned by Grand Jury.

The investigation into the responsibility for the recent rent strikes in the Bronx, which was ordered last Monday by Supreme Court Justice John M. Tierney in a charge to the November Grand Jury of Bronx County, was begun yesterday with the examination of more than thirty members of the various Strike Committees in apartment houses where strikes were conducted.

Nothing was made public as to what facts had been brought out at the hearing, but it was rumored that the testimony seemed to indicate that two men and a woman were responsible for the various strikes, the woman acting as a go-between for the two men in organizing and inducing the tenants to pay initiation fees for admittance to organizations supposedly formed to protect their interests.

$1,900 FOR "ALLIES' DAY."

Hassam Print, Auctioned for War Relief, Presented to Gov. Smith.

An interesting sale of an autographed color print of Childe Hassam's "Allies' Day," which was auctioned for $1,900 for the benefit of the Art War Relief at the Fifth Avenue Association dinner at the Waldorf Thursday evening, became known yesterday. The purchaser of the print was Michael Friedsam, who immediately presented it to Governor Smith, who is to have it properly inscribed and will give it a permanent home in the Capitol at Albany.

The $1,900 will be used for "L'Heure Joyeuse," the Happy Hour Fund of the Art War Relief, whose work is to start children's rooms throughout France and Belgium, where the little people may go to find children's books and amusements. At the same dinner Alfred Noyes's book, the "Avenue of the Allies," a signed copy, was bought by J. M. Giddings for $330 and presented to the wife of the Governor. It also was auctioned for the benefit of the Art War Relief. The proceeds of the book will go to the Artist Fund of the Art War Relief.

The Art War Relief has these prints and Mr. Noyes's books on permanent sale, the autographed prints selling for $30 and the autographed books for $25.

HOUSE ADOPTS EDGE BILL.

Makes Slight Changes in Measure for Foreign Credits Corporations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—By a vote of 197 to 31 the House today passed finally the bill to permit the incorporation of organizations to extend foreign credits. This measure, known as the Edge bill, was slightly amended in the House, but in no way to impair its effectiveness.

It is predicted that the difference can be quickly adjusted in conference, so that the bill can go to the President within the next week. Business men say it is necessary that the corporations, which will be under Federal supervision, should be formed without delay, so that foreign countries wishing to buy American goods can do so through the long-term credits that the bill authorizes the corporations to extend.

One amendment prohibits the corporations from establishing branch banks in the United States.

VOTES FOR WOMEN IN SPAIN

Cabinet Approves Bill to Give Ballot to Those Over 23.

MADRID, Nov. 6.—The Cabinet has finally approved the Electoral bill for introduction to the Cortes. The bill would give the vote to women over 23 years of age and increase the number of Deputies from 400 to 470.

The measure also provides for holding the elections on two days, women to vote the first day and men the second.

AID THE RED CROSS, ASK ARMY AND NAVY

General Pershing, Vice Admiral Sims, and Secretary Baker Help Third Roll Call.

WAR CRIPPLE PAYS DEBT

Railroad Employes and Industrial Workers Add to 100 Per Cent. Lists.

General John J. Pershing, Vice Admiral William S. Sims, and Secretary of War Newton D. Baker joined yesterday in an indorsement of the Red Cross war work and an appeal for the peace program for which it is now raising funds through the Third Red Cross Roll Call.

"The American Red Cross is now engaged in a drive to increase its membership," wrote General Pershing. "The end of the war has caused many to feel that further activity in support of this society is not necessary. I cannot too strongly urge upon all citizens the desirability and necessity for lending their heartiest support to the continuation of the work of the Red Cross, particularly during the present period of social unrest throughout the world."

Vice Admiral Sims's message also was brief but to the point.

"The only red tape about the Red Cross," he wrote, "is the two small bits that make its symbol. The use of navy funds is limited by law and its auditor. The Red Cross placed no limit upon its help to the navy, but there is no limit to the navy's gratitude for assistance abroad and care of the families at home."

Secretary Baker, in a letter to Henry P. Davison, said:

"America literally mothers the weak and helpless of the world through the Red Cross, and every citizen of America can have a generous emotion of world citizenship in the best sense when he realizes that you represented us all in doing these splendid things."

The downtown industrial committee of the campaign, under the leadership of W. Forbes Morgan, reported many memberships yesterday. H. A. Guinzburg of the I. B. Kleinert Rubber Co. sponsored a plan to supplement the employers' subscriptions by a bonus to their employes in the form of memberships. Mr. Guinzburg sent his check for $250, of which $145 was for memberships of employes and the balance for general expenses of the campaign.

The railroad committee, with A. H. Smith and Pitt B. Hand in charge, has already taken 25,000 buttons. The Erie Railroad was 99¼ per cent. yesterday, and expects to "go over the top" before tonight. The life insurance committee also has taken 25,000 buttons, and the insurance brokers and gas and electric committee 20,000 to 25,000 buttons.

The Interborough brotherhoods are taking charge of the campaign on the rapid transit lines. The Third Avenue Railroad is allowing Red Cross workers to accompany its pay cars. Twenty national banks, twelve trust companies, two State banks, and one savings bank announced 100 per cent. memberships yesterday.

The push cart peddlers down on the east side are 100 per cent. Red Cross.

Two hundred crippled soldiers, who are members of the rehabilitation classes of the Educational Alliance on the east side, subscribed $100 yesterday. Joseph Habit, who fought with the 350th Infantry of the 88th Division, squared up a debt which he thought he owed to the Red Cross yesterday when he turned over $21.50 for a life membership. Habit was wounded near Neuilly and was picked up unconscious by a Red Cross worker and cared for until he could be turned over to a base hospital.

Blanche Bates, Ruth Chatterton, Julia Arthur, Fay Bainter, Zelda Sears, Florence Nash, Janet Beecher, Mary Nash, and Ina Claire are among the actresses who will sell Red Cross memberships for the Actor's Fidelity Association on Monday at the Library. Willie Collier, George M. Cohan, Lowell Sherman, Lester Lonergan, Willard Mack, William Gilmore, José Ruben and Jess Dandy will appear in the performance. Louis Mann and Zelda Sears are in charge of the meeting.

SOLDIER DEAD DUE SUNDAY.

Baker May Attend Hoboken Ceremonies for 111 Victims in Russia.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The bodies of 111 American soldiers who were killed on the Archangel front in Russia are en route to the United States from Brest, France, on the transport Lake Daraga, due at Hoboken on Sunday, Nov. 9. Something more than 200 American soldiers lost their lives on the Archangel front, but the rest of the bodies were not brought home because they are buried outside of the lines held by friendly forces.

On the arrival at Hoboken the bodies will be received with appropriate official ceremonies and placed in state in the concourse of the pier there. The pier will be draped with the national colors and a stage erected from which addresses will be made by representatives of the Senate and House and of the War Department. Secretary Baker said if he could possibly do so he would attend the ceremonies.

"These 111 bodies," said Secretary Baker, "were originally ordered to Brest and were to have been buried in the American cemetery there, but when the policy was established of bringing home the bodies of all those killed abroad, except those who were buried in France, for the present, this shipload was started to America. With the exception of two irregularly returned to this country, these are the first bodies of American soldiers killed in the war to be brought to the United States."

The names of the dead soldiers will be sent by wireless from the ship and the family in each case will be asked whether they desire to have the body shipped for burial at home or desire that burial be made at Arlington or some other national cemetery.

IN MEMORY OF SOLDIERS

Services Will Be Held in Three Armories Tomorrow.

Major General O'Ryan, it was announced yesterday, has issued a call to all units of the New York Guard in New York City for attendance tomorrow at three services in honor of the memory of New York soldiers who died in the world war.

The services in Manhattan will be held at the armories of the 7th Regiment, Park Avenue and Sixty-seventh Street, and of the 71st Regiment, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street. The Brooklyn service will be held at the armory of the 23d Regiment in Bedford Avenue.

The service at the 7th Regiment Armory will be particularly for former members of the 77th Division and other National Army units. Major General Robert Alexander, U. S. A., former commander of the Metropolitan Division, will deliver an address. Other speakers will be the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, Rabbi Joseph Silverman, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Mgr. Joseph Stillemans, and the Rev. James P. Howard, former Chaplain of the 306th Field Artillery.

Major General O'Ryan, with some of his staff, will attend the service at the 71st Regiment Armory, where the speakers will be Father Duffy, the former Chaplain of the old 69th Regiment, and the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, former Chaplain of the 23d Infantry.

Speakers at the Brooklyn service will be Father Belford, the new Chaplain of the 47th Infantry, and the Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, former Chaplain of the 59th Coast Artillery.

Other Chaplains formerly in the United States service and Chaplains of the New York Guard will assist at all the services.

GOVERNORS BLAMED FOR SUFFRAGE HALT

May Prevent Women from Voting for President in 1920.

DELAY EXTRA SESSIONS

Woman's Party Chairman Asserts They Fear Local Issues if Legislatures Are Assembled.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Abby Scott Baker, Political Chairman of the National Woman's Party, returned to Washington today from a three months' campaign on the Western coast with the statement that unless the Governors of certain Western States can be "forced" to call extra sessions of their State Legislatures the women of the country will not be able to vote for President in the national election of 1920.

"There is only one explanation of the refusals of Governors of suffrage States to call ratification sessions," Mrs. Baker asserted. "They are not interested in the enfranchisement of women who cannot vote for them personally. The petty local issues of their States are more important to them than is this great issue of national justice. It is said in Oregon that Governor Olcott, who, as Secretary of State, was appointed to take the place of the Executive who died, fears his own removal should the Legislature meet. In Wisconsin and various other States of the Northwest the Governors fear the question of soldiers' allotments and land distribution. The Japanese peril is here and there used as a camouflage for the real issue.

"With nineteen States already having ratified the amendment there is no question that we can secure its ratification by the necessary thirty-six States if women will realize the obstacles and the opposition in their way, and make their demand so insistent and vigorous that Governors must listen."

Mrs. Baker said a special session of the Legislature is scheduled to be held on Nov. 25 in North Dakota and that special sessions had been promised in Colorado, Idaho, and South Dakota. Four regular sessions were counted on to ratify the amendment in Maryland, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Kentucky.

"Granted that all promises of special sessions are fulfilled," Mrs. Baker said, "eight additional States will still be needed for ratification. More than enough of the necessary Legislatures are pledged. There are still enough States—six—in which the women have full or part suffrage, in which the Legislatures have as yet taken no action."

ENGAGEMENTS.

Mrs. Ijams of Princeton, N. J., has announced the engagement of her niece, Miss Elizabeth Inglis, to George Alexander Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sinclair Armstrong of 32 East Sixty-first Street. Mr. Armstrong was graduated from Princeton, class of '09, and served during 1918 in France as a Lieutenant with the 337th Field Artillery.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred De Buys of 15 West Eighty-seventh Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jeanne Cecile Marguerite De Buys, to Captain Henry Ward Banks, 3d, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ward Banks, Jr., of Noroton, Conn. Captain Banks is a graduate of Williams College, class of 1913, and served with the Field Artillery in France. He is a member of the University Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Kellogg Watts of Glen Ridge, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frances Elizabeth Watts, to George Ingram of Glen Ridge. Miss Watts is a granddaughter of the late Dr. Robert Watts and the late Judge Mott of this city. She received the degree of Bachelor of Science from Columbia last June. Mr. Ingram was graduated from the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale, class of '13.

Dr. Richard J. Kevin and Mrs. Kevin of 252 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marie Louise Kevin, to James J. Newman, a son of Dr. Charles F. Newman of Java Street, Brooklyn. Mr. Newman recently returned from service overseas as a Major in the Aviation Service of the United States Army.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ilona Marion Loewenthal, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Loewenthal, to Albert F. Tallmer. Miss Loewenthal is a granddaughter of the late Dr. Alexander Kohut, and is a senior at Vassar. Mr. Tallmer is assistant treasurer of the Madison Tire and Rubber Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rolland Peacock of Pittsburgh gave a tea yesterday at their New York apartment, at 471 Park Avenue, at which they announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Irene Margaret Peacock, to Joseph Larocque Anderson, son of Henry B. Anderson of this city.

Fraser-Martin Engagement.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Myra T. Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Fraser of this city and Morristown, N. J., to Grinnell Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newell Martin of New York and Millbrook, Conn. Miss Fraser is a member of the Junior League, being one of last season's débutantes, and was graduated from the Farmington School. Mr. Martin was graduated from Harvard, class of '10, and served as a Captain in the 304th Field Artillery, 77th Division, A. E. F., during the war.

FREER ART TO SMITHSONIAN.

Will Provides for $1,250,000 Building—Miss Rhoades as Adviser.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 7.—The will of the late Charles L. Freer, millionaire art collector, admitted to probate here today, leaves the major part of the Freer art collection to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington and provides for a $1,250,000 building to house it.

The testament fixes the value of the estate at $3,000,000, the bulk of which is represented in the art collection. To the Detroit Museum of Art is bequeathed the Charles van Stern Gravesende collection of etchings. Stipulation is made that Miss Katherine Rhoades of New York, who was associated with Mr. Freer in the collection of his paintings and other art objects, shall be retained in an advisory capacity by the trustees in the care of the Freer collection.

WOMEN DENY REPRIMAND.

Mrs. Livermore Says Story of Using Letterheads Without Authority is False.

Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, Chairman of the Women's Executive Committee of the Republican State Committee, denied yesterday a story that prominent Republican women had used Republican State Committee letterheads to indorse the League of Nations and that they were to be reprimanded for their action. According to the report, the Executive Committee was to meet yesterday to censure offenders. A meeting of the committee was held behind closed doors, but the leaders asserted that the only reference to the matter was a mention of the articles which appeared in two morning newspapers yesterday.

The meeting yesterday was to make preparations for a dinner to be held on Dec. 3, which Chairman Will Hays will attend. There will be a conference the following day of women from every county in the State to talk over the campaign for 1920.

The Women's State Executive Committee includes Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Mrs. William Boyce Thompson, Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, Mrs. Walter Damrosch, and Mrs. Albert H. Gleason. Miss Hay also attended yesterday's meeting, which was held in the Republican Club, in West Fortieth Street.

Miss Purcell Weds Lieut. Hayward.

The marriage is announced of Miss Florence A. Purcell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Purcell of Whippany, N. J., and Lieutenant William A. Hayward, Air Service, U. S. A., of Fredonia, N. Y., which took place on Thursday in the Cathedral at Garden City, L. I. Miss Louise Hayes of Nutley, N. J., attended the bride, and Major R. E. Beverley, Medical Corps, U. S. A., of Warrenton, Va., acted as best man.

Bernard Hufnagle, Civil Engineer.

Bernard Hufnagle, retired civil engineer, died Thursday night at the age of 91 in the house he had built in Mount Vernon more than fifty years ago. He was a graduate of Heidelberg and when 23 years old he helped his brother lay out the old boundary line between France and Germany. Before the civil war he was a Captain in the old 27th Regiment of the New York National Guard. When he moved to Mount Vernon he helped form the 5th Company there. He was a founder of the Arion Society and one of two honorary members of the German Students Society. He helped lay out Central Park and designed many of its bridges.

HAASE, SOCIALIST, DIES FROM WOUNDS

President of Independent Party Was Shot by an Austrian in Berlin Oct. 8.

WARNED GERMANY OF RUIN

Long a Member of the Reichstag, He Was Suggested as a Possible Chancellor.

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Hugo Haase, President of the Independent Socialist Party, died this morning from wounds received when he was shot by an Austrian, Johann Voss, while entering the Reichstag building on Oct. 8. He was hit three times, in the thigh, forearm and abdomen. Repeated operations were performed, culminating in the amputation of the right leg, the bone of which had been smashed by one of the bullets.

Haase was prosecuting Voss on a charge of extortion and it was alleged the assault was committed from personal motives, although a political cause was sought. Haase was about to attack the Government severely, charging them with fostering attacks on radicals through "murder bureaus."

Herr Haase, who was a lawyer by profession and 56 years old, succeeded to the mantle of August Bebel as President of the German Social Democratic Party, but broke with the party in 1915 on the question of voting war credits, believing that to secure peace it was necessary to refuse financial support to the Government, even at the risk of German defeat. In addition to this open policy, the new Independent Socialist Party promoted an underground campaign to encourage revolt in the army and navy and paralyze the war industries by a general strike, the first sensational results of which were seen in the naval mutiny of August, 1918.

When the Imperial Government fell, in November, 1918, Herr Haase entered the first Coalition Cabinet, but retired after little more than a month's service, which was marked by constant conflicts with Dr. Solf and Haase's regular Socialist colleagues. Elected to the National Assembly, he waged vigorous war on the Socialist-Democratic-Clerical bloc Government, and did not disdain co-operation with the Spartacides, although ostensibly opposing any radical alliance.

On June 20 last year he warned Germany of her ruin, and asserted "We see now with amazing clearness that a military autocracy, for which Count Hertling and Herr von Kuhlmann are but fig leaves, rules the Imperial Government solely and alone." Later he was strongly opposed to Minister of Defense Noske and his methods of suppressing strikes and revolts.

When Germany was seeking a Government willing to sign the Peace Treaty Herr Haase was suggested as a possible Chancellor, but refused to consider the office. He was first elected to the Reichstag in 1897 and was reelected regularly thereafter except in the 1907 election, when he went down in the general Socialist rout.

PROF. C. H. HITCHCOCK DIES.

Instructor in Geology at Dartmouth for Forty Years.

HONOLULU, H. I., Nov. 7.—Charles Henry Hitchcock, Professor of Geology and Mineralogy at Dartmouth for forty years, from 1868 to 1908, died here today at the age of 83.

Professor Hitchcock was the son of Edward Hitchcock, President of Amherst College, where he was graduated in 1856. While preparing himself for the ministry he became so interested in geology that he altered his career. When still a young man he directed the geological survey of Maine and lectured on zoology at Amherst. On his return from a year's study at the Royal School of Mines in London he joined the Dartmouth faculty.

In 1870 he led an expedition that occupied Mount Washington, N. H., in the Winter, establishing the first high mountain observatory in the country. Several geological maps of the United States were compiled by him. He was a founder and former Vice President of the Geological Society of America.

"THE Car of the Future will be a LIGHT-WEIGHT car!"

FIVE MILLION TONS—the load of one hundred thousand freight cars stretching from New York to Chicago—the cargo capacity of two hundred and twelve Leviathans—a weight greater than the effective tonnage of the combined navies of the United States, Great Britain and France—

All this is being carried daily as unnecessary dead weight by six and a half million American motor cars and trucks!

And YOU, whether you own a car or not, YOU are helping to pay the bill! YOU are helping to shoulder the burden of excess weight as it is passed down to you through the channels of trade in the form of increased prices for the things you buy.

YOU are affected by excess weight because gasoline, oil, tires, motor transportation in general, are so closely interwoven with the commercial fabric of the country, that anything affecting the price of these products affects the price of ALL products.

Excess weight exacts an annual toll of at least one hundred and sixty millions of dollars in unnecessary automobile repairs, four hundred millions of dollars in unnecessary gasoline expense and one and one-half billions of dollars in unnecessary tire expense.

And YOU are helping to pay the bill!

Excess weight in motor cars and motor trucks places a burden on the American people that is nineteen times greater than the yearly interest on the First Liberty Loan.

And YOU are helping to pay the bill!

Excess weight is insidious. Unobserved by the average man, it is eating into the fuel supply. It is cutting into American pocket-books. It is helping to keep the cost of living HIGH.

But the car of less than a thousand pounds, of thirty to forty miles to the gallon of gasoline, of at least twenty thousand miles to the set of tires, the car that will carry NO excess weight—THAT CAR WILL COME!

It will come to conserve the gasoline supply, the impending shortage of which threatens to retard the future growth of the motor car industry.

It will come to bring motor car convenience to the man who today can afford to BUY a car, but who cannot afford to RUN one.

It will come because public economy and private purse—YOUR purse—demand the elimination of excess weight—demand more mileage for every dollar spent for gasoline and oil and tires—demand the car that directly and indirectly will best serve the greatest needs of the greatest number. "THE Car of the Future will be a LIGHT-WEIGHT Car!!"

COPELAND ORDERS CUT IN MILK PRICES

Warns Distributers That Public Will No Longer Tolerate Present High Cost.

PUTS SOLUTION UP TO THEM

Tells Hearing Thousands of Children Here Get Little Milk, and Others None at All.

COMPANIES PROMISE AID

Agree to Work Out Proposal for Submission to the Fair Price Committee.

Health Commissioner Copeland, Chairman of the Governor's Fair Milk Price Committee, which is investigating the causes for the increase of 1½ and 2 cents a quart in the retail price of milk for this month, declared at a hearing before that body at the City Hall yesterday afternoon that some way must be found to reduce the price of milk to the consumer, and gave it as his opinion that the burden for working out this method lay with the distributors, if they desire to continue in business. He requested the representatives of the large distributing companies present to get together, work out some practical plan looking to this end, and submit it to the committee at a subsequent meeting. They agreed to do this.

The public is not in a frame of mind, Dr. Copeland continued, to tolerate any longer the imposition of such high prices for milk, and unless something is done to bring them down the people will take the matter into their own hands. They will do nothing violent, he said further, but they will pursue some course that will insure for them cheaper milk. He pointed out that milk is laid down in New York City for about 9½ cents a quart and is sold to the consumer for 18 cents a quart. Dr. Copeland told the distributors that he was merely pointing out to them the feeling of public sentiment as he was able to interpret it.

"Thousands of children in New York City, I know of my own knowledge," said Dr. Copeland, "are getting only one and a half cups of milk a day, and there are many who are not getting any at all, because of the high prices that are being charged."

When D. P. Fox, Vice President of Borden's Products Company, said he would not have time to serve on a committee of distributers which Dr. Copeland had in mind, to work out some plan for lower priced milk, Dr. Copeland remarked that failure to do something to bring down the price of milk might result in his having more time on his hands than he knew what to do with. Later, when Dr. Copeland decided not to appoint a committee, but rely upon the distributers to voluntarily work out a plan and submit it to the Fair Price Committee, Mr. Fox said he would be glad to act with the other distributers.

Suggestions By Witnesses.

Suggestions for a solution of the high price milk to the consumer, embraced in the testimony of the witnesses, included a "regulated monopoly," as given by R. D. Cooper, President of the Dairymen's League, which represents the producers, who considered that the present price to the consumer was too high, although contending that the producer was not getting as much as he should; a "properly legalized monopoly," which would embrace daylight delivery, as brought forward by Mr. Fox, and the proposal of Loton Horton, President of the Sheffield Farms Company, who thought a material reduction could be made in bottled milk if no loose or "dip" milk were sold, but this would, he said, mean an increase to those who have been buying the "dip" milk. He estimated that 36 per cent. of the milk sold in New York is bottled milk, 40 per cent. loose milk, and 30 per cent. sold to the hotels, restaurants, &c.

Another suggestion for the decrease in the price of milk to the consumer was contained in the testimony of Bradley Fuller, President of the Co-operative Plan Corporation and counsel of the Dairymen's League. This plan provides that milk produced near New York City be sold here, and the manufacturing plants, which would be owned by the organization made up of farmers, be located in the outlying territory. At present, he said, the plants owned by the distributers were located as close to the city as possible. The milk for consumption in the city is brought from a greater distance and at a greater cost for handling.

The method of fixing the price of milk to the producer, based on the butter and cheese market for the preceding month, took up a large part of the time of the three and a half hour session of the committee. Mr. Cooper was the first witness, and he told in detail how this price was arrived at by representatives of the Dairymen's League and the New York Milk Conference Board. Other witnesses were I. Elkin Nathans, Secretary of the New York Milk Conference Board, and Luther L. Campbell, President of the Clover Farms Company. Mr. Horton and Mr. Campbell told the committee that the increased cost absorbed all of the increased income of their companies from the November milk. Mr. Fox admitted that his company hoped to make a little profit.

Horton Answers Copeland.

Mr. Horton replied in detail and in writing to the six questions publicly asked of him by Dr. Copeland, the first four questions and answers being as follows:

"With the November price to the farmer $3.33 per hundred, as against $3.11 in October, an advance of 22 cents per hundred, or approximately four-tenths of a cent per quart, what additional cost on this account are the dealers justified in adding to the price of milk for this month?

"I beg to state that the advance is not four-tenths of a cent per quart, but practically half a cent. To be exact it is $.00473 per quart. This increased cost we have of course added.

"May I make the following further correction? The price of $3.33 per hundred to the farmers, as you doubtless know, is the so-called base price for 3 per cent. milk, not the actual price that we pay, as we pay an additional premium for butter fat. Assuming that the butter fat in our November milk of this year is, as is likely, the same as that in previous years, the milk will cost us not $3.33, but $3.77 per hundred."

"Does the price 17¼ cents for Grade B mean that the purchaser of a single quart will pay 18 cents? If so, how much do you estimate will be the amount of income derived from this one item of a half cent?"

"Customers who come to our stores and buy on a cash basis a single quart of milk will pay 18 cents a quart for it.

"We are preparing, however, and distributing to our stores a refund check redeemable at half a cent at that store.

"So far as the rest of our business is concerned, of course 17½ cents will be the price charged and paid.

"So far as we are concerned, there is no increase whatever over the 17½-cent price which your question suggests."

"How many employes, by classification, are affected by the new salary schedule, and how much is the actual increase in salaries?"

"Attached hereto is a schedule which analyses and classifies our wage increase, showing a total increase in weekly salaries effective Nov. 1 of $23,714.90 a week."

"With the new schedule of pay for your employes, what additional cost on this account are the dealers justified in adding to the price of milk for this month?"

"We are selling weekly over 2,287,859 quarts of milk, and applying the salary increases, $23,714.90, to this amount of trade, it means an increase on each quart of milk handled of $.01049 per quart."

In answer to the fifth question, as to the amount of profit that will be derived from the November milk in excess of the profits last November, Mr. Horton says that it is problematical and points out that last November the company had a loss of $55,018.04. He points out also that in the company's 182 stores, which sell 250,000 quarts of milk a week, the price has been advanced only 1 cent a quart.

The sixth question was "What will be the increased income of the milk distributers over October by reason of this rise in price?" Mr. Horton says in his reply that the increase to producers is $.00473 a quart, increase to employes of $.01040, a total increased cost to the distributer of $.01513, $.01500 of which is being passed to the consumer and the remainder of $.00013 is borne by the distributer.

There will be another meeting Monday of the Fair Milk Price Committee.

SUGAR PROFIT OVER 100%.

Sale of 55 Tons at 19 Cents a Pound Goes to Prosecutor.

Arthur Williams, the Federal Food Administrator, sent to United States District Attorney Francis G. Caffey yesterday details of a transaction wherein sugar was bought by the Page & Shaw Candy Company for 19 cents a pound. The price allowed by the Sugar Equalization Board is 9½ cents. Mr. Williams asked that such action be taken as the District Attorney "saw fit."

The facts, which were obtained by the United States Secret Service, are these, according to Mr. Williams:

Some weeks ago Page & Shaw went into the market to get some sugar. They succeeded in buying fifty-five tons from a broker, W. R. Marshall of Boston. It was learned that Mr. Marshall bought the sugar for 18¼ cents from Wood & Watson of 149 Broadway, New York. Wood & Watson said they purchased it at that price, less a broker's commission of a fraction of a cent a pound, from C. G. Merrill of 110 Nassau Street. Merrill, according to Mr. Williams, bought it from the Lash Corporation in East Houston Street at $17.80 a hundred pounds. Several brokers come into the transaction here, said Mr. Williams, whose names have not been learned; but the company that sold the sugar first, so far as is known, he said, was the Argos Mercantile Company. The Lash Corporation, the Food Administrator said, paid 12 cents a pound. The original price of this fifty-five tons of sugar, according to Mr. Williams, was, including duty, $8.82 a hundred pounds.

"That is a fair sample of transactions we are investigating," said Mr. Williams. "The margin between $8.82 a hundred pounds and $19, which the Page & Shaw people paid, is so great that I think it should be thoroughly investigated."

Mr. Williams said yesterday he was confident that much good would be accomplished by the conference to be held next week by the Federal authorities and the Fair Price Committee's Sub-Committee on Clothing and Shoes. What the Attorney General wants is a standard of prices, so that prosecutions for profiteering in clothing and shoes under the Lever act may be carried on. At present there is no basis for judgment as to what a merchant should charge for wearing apparel.

Mr. Williams said yesterday that he had asked Mrs. William Randolph Hearst to head a committee to carry on a campaign of education in the public schools, designed to teach children the value of shopping around for purchases. Newspaper advertising, he said, would be the texts that the children would be asked to study.

PROFITEER CASE ARGUED.

Louis Leavitt's Counsel Says War Is Over and No Crime Committed.

Argument on the demurrer to the indictment against Louis Leavitt, manufacturer of white lead of Williamsburg, who is charged with hoarding more than 2,000,000 pounds of bacon, was heard before Federal Judge Garvin in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon.

Max Steuer appeared for Leavitt. He declared that the action of Leavitt in purchasing the bacon from the Government was legitimate. He contended that the act under which the arrest was made was now inoperative because the President had declared demobilization was complete.

He argued that the crisis under the act conserving food and preventing profiteering had passed.

Harvey H. Harwood, Assistant United States District Attorney, said that the indictment was valid and insisted it was warranted because of a man not in business purchasing such an amount. He said no date had been fixed for demobilization and the country was still at war.

Judge Garvin ordered counsel to submit briefs by Nov. 24.

SAYS GERMANS SAVED PETROGRAD

Lenin Thanks von der Goltz and Bermondt for Aid Against Anti-Red Forces.

YUDENITCH RESCUES ARMY

His Defeat Ascribed to Cutting Off of Large Forces Near Gatchina and Luga.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 6.—A Lithuanian official communication issued at Kovno and received here today says:

"The Lithuanians have captured Birshi, in the Pasvalys district. Colonel Avaloff-Bermondt's troops are withdrawing toward Schoenberg. His troops also have been driven back on the Kurkai-Rosieny-Linkartial line.

"An intercepted wireless message from Nikolai Lenin, (the Bolshevist Premier,) to Colonel Avalof-Bermondt, says: 'Hearty thanks to you and General von der Goltz for the great assistance you have given my Red Army against the counter revolutionaries. The entire labor world can testify that you both belong to the heroes who saved Petrograd.'"

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—The Esthonian Bureau learns that General Yudenitch has succeeded in extricating a greater number of his troops after suffering heavy losses, but that his forces in the region of Gatchina and Luga were completely cut off by Bolshevist cavalry.

Bolshevist reports attribute the defeat of General Yudenitch in this region to the cutting off of these troops.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A member of the Northwest Russian Government has received a telephone message from Reval announcing that the city of Gdov has surrendered to the Bolsheviki, according to The Daily Mail's correspondent at Helsingfors.

If true, this defeat cuts another of General Yudenitch's lines of communication.

A Bolshevist wireless dispatch dated today claims the capture of Tchernigoff, on the River Besna, 80 miles north of Kiev, from General Denikin's forces.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 6.—Citizens' meetings in various parts of Finland, according to advices received by the Aften Tidningen from Helsingfors, have voted in favor of intervention in the campaign against Petrograd as recommended in the recent letter of General Mannerheim, (former Finnish Premier,) to President Stahlberg of Finland.

THREAT WITH PEACE OFFER.

Soviet to Turn to Central Powers if Allies Refuse Parley.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The Daily Herald, the labor organ, today prints the full draft of the conditions upon which the leaders of the Soviet Government in Russia are willing to discuss peace terms with the allied and associated powers, which were brought to London by Lieut. Col. Lestrange Malone, Liberal member of Parliament, who recently returned from a visit to Russia.

The draft concludes by saying that the Soviet Government "hopes it will not be necessary to transfer this offer with necessary modifications to the Central Powers."

The Soviet Government proposes a peace conference in a neutral country after an agreement on an armistice for all the fronts, including the border States, all the de facto Governments meantime to remain in control.

The blockade would be removed, and the Soviet Government and the Nationals of the associated and allied Governments would have free rights of transit over all the railways and at ports of the former Russian Empire, including the border States and Finland, and free trade communication in and out of the country.

The conditions provide that the Soviet Government would be entitled to send representatives to all allied countries; for amnesty for all Russian military and political prisoners; for the withdrawal of all allied troops from Russian territory and the cessation of allied military help to the Russian forces. The Soviet Government also promises to recognize all foreign debt obligations of the former Russian Empire.

COATS THREAD PROFITS £38,994,000 LAST YEAR

British Concern Declared 40 Per Cent. Dividend After Paying Excess Profits Tax.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—"We mean to find out why a reel of cotton costs 7 pence halfpenny," said Mr. McCurdy, Chairman of the Central Profiteering Committee, yesterday.

Today it is disclosed that J. & P. Coats, thread manufacturers, of Paisley, made a profit last year of £38,994,000, permitting a dividend of 40 per cent. This profit was made after paying the excess profits duty, which probably amounted to hundreds of thousands of pounds. In addition to providing for dividends, the Directors propose to place £750,000 to the credit of a war contingencies fund, £150,000 to that of a marine and underwriting account, £250,000 to that of a pensions scheme for workers, and to carry forward £2,300,400.

Apart from this carry-forward and pension fund, the Coats firm now has various reserves amounting to over £11,000,000. A part of this sum is to be capitalized, and it is generally expected that the holders of ordinary shares will get a 100 per cent. bonus.

HELD FOR BIG SILK THEFT.

Young Man Who Disappeared with $25,000 Truckload Is Arrested.

After touring the country for two months, while the police of every city in Canada and the United States were searching for him, Solomon Popper, 18 years old, a driver of 389 Grand Street, was arrested last night by Detectives Woods and Cassassa, and locked up in the West Thirtieth Street Station, charged with grand larceny.

Popper, while employed as a driver by Philip Freeman, dealer in general merchandise at 610 East Thirty-second Street, on Aug. 2, vanished while delivering $35,000 worth of silk to a department store, the police charge. The silk has not been recovered. The police say that subsequently Popper was indicted for the theft of the silk.

American Ship West Modus Also Saves British Steamer's Crew.

The New York agents of the American steamship West Modus received a cable dispatch yesterday from the master stating that he had rescued the 611 passengers, of whom 140 were women and children, and the crew, nearly all natives, of the British steamship Fazilka on Thursday in the Bay of Bengal.

She was bound from Penang in the Straits Settlements to Madras and was driven by a storm on Nicobar Island. The Fazilka was a vessel of 4,152 tons gross.

Congress Expected to Increase Pay of Petty Officers in the Navy at Once

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—That the House Naval Affairs Committee intends to report a bill to increase the pay of officers and men of the navy was indicated today when Rear Admiral Cowie favored increasing the pay of officers 30 per cent. and of the men 50 per cent. It was decided informally to notify chief petty officers that increases would be granted making the increased pay range from $90 to $125 a month.

Rear Admiral Cowie said the navy would suffer great loss if the resignation of petty officers continued, and he suggested that action should be taken at once to influence them to remain in the service.

Representative Thomas Butler, Chairman of the committee, said, following the meeting, that a bill recommending virtually the increase sought by the officers of the navy would be reported to the House soon. He expressed the hope that the bill would be passed by Congress this session.

KOLCHAK DECIDES TO DEFEND OMSK

Decisive Battle with Reds to be Fought Between Ishim and Irtish Rivers.

CIVILIANS LEAVING OMSK

Town to be Fortified and Intrenched and Serve as the Centre of Defense.

OMSK, Oct. 31, (Russian Telegraphic Agency.)—The Council of Ministers of the Omsk Government has decided to evacuate all the civil establishments from Omsk. Admiral Kolchak, head of the Government, and all the members of his Cabinet will remain in Omsk.

Dealing with the situation, the Russkoye Dielo says:

"The region between the Rivers Ishim and Irtish will be the place where a decisive battle against the Bolsheviki who try to enter Siberia will take place. Omsk will be fortified and surrounded by trenches and serve as the centre of our defense."

The newspaper Russ, organ of the Siberia Agricultural Co-operative Societies, has this to say:

"The situation on the front becomes more and more alarming, and it is necessary that we should postpone at this moment every criticism in all problems not connected directly with the national defense. We must all unite around the Government and the army, understanding that our choice is Admiral Kolchak or Lenin.

"A defeat on our front would mean the deliverance of Siberia to international adventurers, who would bring with them starvation for all the population. We must stand firmly and fight for Russia's freedom and dignity."

According to Bolshevist newspapers received here, nineteen representatives of co-operative organizations have been executed in Moscow and more than 100 others imprisoned.

The newspapers assert that members of the co-operative organizations also are being persecuted in other cities of Bolshevist Russia. Many of them have been shot.

Under the provisions of a recent Bolshevist decree all the co-operative organizations are nationalized, and it is announced that all members of the organizations who during the next month do not enter the Bolshevist Party will be dismissed from their positions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The All-Russian Government at Omsk has made a deposit of $1,000,000 in gold bullion as a guarantee that it will meet its obligations for the purchase of war material from the American Government. This gold has been safely received at San Francisco, according to announcement made today by the War Department, and has been deposited in the United States Treasury.

CAPTAIN ORBISON GASSED.

U. S. Relief Official Suffers a Second Time in Attacking Riga.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Captain J. Orbison, head of the American Relief Administration in Riga, was badly gassed during a bombardment of Riga with gas shells Thursday by the forces of Colonel Avaloff-Bermondt, says a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Helsingfors.

This is the second mishap to Captain Orbison as a result of the fighting between the Letts and the combined German and Russian forces. Late in October the offices at Riga of the American Relief Administration were struck by a high-explosive enemy shell, and Captain Orbison was wounded, particles of the shell cutting his scalp in several places. None of the other Americans in the building was injured.

Reds Let 630 Captives Die of Hunger

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—A Bolshevist report, received through German sources, says that 630 of the 1,060 inmates of Kresty Prison, in Petrograd, have died of starvation. Eight thousand fugitives, according to Helsingfors newspapers, have arrived at the Finnish frontier from the Petrograd district.

CUTS RATE TO AMERICAN.

City Leases Pier for $250,000 That Was Held at $328,500.

Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert announced yesterday that he had leased Pier 133, at the foot of Thirty-third Street, Brooklyn, to the Luckenbach Steamship Company at $260,000 a year. For a time the city held out for $328,500, and, failing to get it, Commissioner Hulbert said he would lease it to the highest bidder. Yesterday, however, the Commissioner received a telegram from John Barton Payne, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, suggesting the importance to the American Merchant Marine of giving adequate docking facilities to "strong and reputable American shipping companies as against foreign flag competitors," and the Commissioner accepted the offer of the Luckenbach company.

According to the Commissioner, the amount offered by the company represents the maximum wharfage that could be earned on the pier at the rate of 31 cents a ton, the prevailing wharfage rate.

PREDICTS VIENNA UPRISING.

National Guard Commander Expects Attempt to Overthrow Government.

VIENNA, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—The commander of the National Guard in a speech before the Socialist conference said he was convinced that the guard would be called on to deal with an attempt of armed reactionary revolutionists to overthrow the existing Socialist Government some time during the Winter.

About two thousand men, organized on a military basis, had been involved in the reactionary coup d'état, which was planned for Oct. 25, but which was frustrated. About six thousand more men were under orders of the reactionary leaders.

WOMEN WEARING MONOCLES

British Optician Says Many Have Impaired Vision in One Eye Only.

LONDON, Oct. 29, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Englishwomen are beginning to wear monocles. Not only are they adopting them for home wear, but are appearing on the streets so adorned.

A member of a firm of opticians defends the innovation by saying that in the case of every inquiry he has had from women recently there has been a "genuine trouble with one eye only."

JAPAN WON'T TAKE STEVENS'S ORDERS

Unwilling to Submit Troops in Siberia to Authority of the Allied Railway Board.

READY TO PROTECT ROAD

Reply to American Note Charging Lack of Co-operation Suggests It Is Based on Misunderstanding.

TOKIO, Nov. 2, (Associated Press.)—The Japanese Government in its reply just forwarded to Washington to the American note of last September, complaining of a lack of co-operation by Japanese troops in the operation of the Trans-Siberian Railroad, draws a sharp distinction between the military protection of the railroad, which it is willing to undertake, and obedience to the orders and instructions of the Inter-Allied Railway Commission under John W. Stevens or the subsidiary railway board, which is in nowise contemplated.

The correspondent of The Associated Press finds that the note, which is moderate in tone and which as a diplomatic document bears evidence of the exceeding care expended upon its composition, declares that no information in the possession of Japan bears out the contention in the note of the American Government that Japanese troops have flatly refused to protect lives or property of allied railroad inspectors in the territory controlled by the Cossack General, Semenoff. The note expresses the opinion that the American contention is based upon some misunderstanding and suggests that the American Government bring forward any concrete facts upon which it bases its case. In this event the Japanese Government would be glad to furnish material which might explain the Japanese side of the case.

"It is a matter of no small regret that information in the possession of the United States in regard to misunderstandings and differences of this kind arising between nationals of the United States and Japan in Siberia seems at variance with information reaching the Japanese Government," says the note.

The American Government, it goes on to say, appears to believe that the Japanese Government understands that the protection of the Trans-Siberian railway system is limited to safeguarding the railway and keeping the line open, entailing no obligation whatsoever for co-operation by Japanese troops in furthering the general railway plan. If the expressions, "general operation" and "railway plan" mean, besides the defense of the railway itself, such matters as succoring railway inspectors in case of emergency, it goes without saying that the Japanese railway forces are and have been devoting their efforts to the furtherance of the operation of the railroad plan.

The Government wishes especially to emphasize the fact that the primary duty of the military is the defense of the railway itself, believing that this is vital if the railway is to be operated at all. It is thought, too, that the Government of the United States will recognize the great efforts and sacrifices made by the Japanese troops in defense of the railway.

If, however, it is declared in the note, the American Government thinks that the allied military forces should be made subordinate to the Interallied Commission or to the subsidiary technical board, the Japanese Government regrets to say that it is unable to fall in line with that attitude. Apparently desirous that the foregoing statement should not cause fresh misunderstandings, the note continues:

"However, the Japanese Government would in no case insist that their military forces are under no obligation to co-operate in forwarding the general operation of the railroad. The Japanese troops will put forward all possible efforts to remove anything that stands in the way of the operation of the railroad and will by no means shut their eyes to the perpetration of offenses calculated to endanger the lives and property of inspectors and engineers."

Taking up the American references to the instructions to the Japanese military concerning non-interference in case of disputes, the note submits that there seems to be nothing improper in this stand. On the contrary, it thinks that any uncalled-for intervention by Japanese troops in disputes between officials or military forces of the allied powers would be likely to create a grave situation, pregnant with the most undesirable consequences. The object of the Japanese instructions being to avoid the creation of any cause of misunderstanding or ill-feeling, it seems evident what great importance is attached in the instructions to the furtherance of mutual understanding and co-operation.

"It would, therefore, be wide of the mark," it is stated, "to allege that in regard to the general operation of the railway the Japanese troops accept no obligation for co-operation."

The reply then refers to the modus vivendi reached by Ambassador Morris at Vladivostok on Sept. 22, and to the instructions later given to the Japanese commanders, and registers the pleasure of the Government that this caused satisfaction to the American Government.

The communication closes by a discussion of the mission of the new diplomatic representative of Japan, Count Tsunetada Kato, at the headquarters of the All-Russian Government in Siberia. It gives assurances that Count Kato will join in any action considered necessary to secure the proper working of the railway, and will strive to further the economic and political recuperation of Siberia. The note, in conclusion, voices the hope that Count Kato's efforts will contribute to the promotion of mutual understanding and co-operation among the Allied nationals in Siberia.

Copies of the reply have been sent to England, France, Italy, China, and Russia.

GERMANY FEARED CODE WAS KNOWN

Zimmermann Says It Was Suspected That America Had Given It to the Allies.

SIMS'S STORY INTRODUCED

Directors of U-Boat War Find Satisfaction in Havoc Wrought, as Revealed by American.

BERLIN, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, Secretary for Foreign Affairs during the war, caused a mild sensation during today's session of the National Assembly committee investigating the war when he admitted that the German authorities had been suspicious that their code, which had been made known to the American authorities, was betrayed to the Entente by the United States Government. (The reference is to the special code which the American Government permitted to be used in wireless communication with the Washington embassy, a copy of which was furnished to the State Department.)

Count Bernstorff, when asked regarding these suspicions, said at first that he could not swear that these wireless messages had not been communicated by the United States Government to the Entente, but later declared under oath that he had never known of "such treachery." He declared Germany had a difficult and dangerous cable route through neutral countries, but that messages had been concealed as commercial dispatches.

The submarine warfare came into the investigation again today.

Vice Admiral Eduard von Capelle, one of the advocates of the submarine campaign, said the U-boats had not been able to get at American transports because each submarine covered a limited circle around England, and the whole ocean could not be patrolled. Various British and American inventions, like the "listening boat," Admiral von Capelle declared, were other things which prevented attacks on transports.

Admiral von Capelle did not mention mines or depth charges during his recital. He would not admit that the Admiralty underestimated the United States as a factor in the war, but declared it was known, from England's experience with a volunteer army, that the United States could not raise many troops in six months, and it was thought by the time they were trained the war would be over.

Vice Admiral Capelle was forced to admit that the U-boats were powerless to prevent transportation by the British of ammunition across the English Channel. He related in detail the British system which made use of nets, searchlights, destroyers, and false cruisers to foil the submarine. "They only succeeded at night," he added triumphantly.

In response to questions as to what caused the decision to start the submarine warfare, what justified it, and what prospects it had for success Admiral von Koch made a long, chiefly technical, reply. He quoted at length from reports of the late Admiral von Holtzendorff, former head of the German Naval Staff, who, he said, felt that American peace intervention could not be counted on and that Germany would have to take chances on America's participation in the war.

Admiral von Koch asserted he did not know about President Wilson's peace plans, whereupon Bethmann Hollweg entered the debate, asserting that he had reported the matter in detail to the Chief of the Admiralty Staff. As a result of his remarks Bethmann Hollweg was subjected to another heckling which caused him to lose his temper. He regained his equanimity quickly, however, asserting that he was being treated as an accused rather than as a witness.

The Investigating Committee sat breathless as von Koch read from Admiral Sims's account of his interview with Admiral Jellicoe, Great Britain's naval head, just after the declaration of the intensified U-boat warfare by Germany. The account seemed to give many of the listeners a forlorn sense of satisfaction. According to the account, Admiral Jellicoe had admitted Great Britain's peril. Admiral Koch pointed to this as justification of beginning the underwater campaign, calling special attention to Jellicoe's alleged statement that the British losses had been three or four times as heavy as officially announced.

Dr. Eduard David, Minister of the Interior, gave as his opinion that Admiral Jellicoe had tried to mislead the United States through Admiral Sims. Von Koch replied that this was hardly possible, as Admiral Sims was an outspoken enemy of Germany.

Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, Chancellor during the greater part of the war, declared he was of the impression in June and July (1917) that the submarines were so destructive that England was weakening. He said Lloyd George's speech when he asked for "ships, ships," was probably not recognized as a peace opportunity, and, he asserted, the same could be said of the speech of Mr. Lloyd George at Glasgow, demanding "silver and bullets."

What had been the impression regarding the entry of the United States into the war was then discussed by the committee. Bethmann Hollweg declared that any man who read the Lusitania and Sussex notes of the United States would have known this was inevitable.

Dr. Zimmermann was asked whether he said in a general party meeting, regarding the submarine warfare and the entry of the United States into the war, that American aid militarily would amount to "Zero, zero, zero." The former Foreign Minister evaded the answer.

General Ludendorff has been summoned to appear before the committee tomorrow.

DENY OTTO WILL BE KING.

Hungarian Monarchists Say They Want No Hapsburg to Rule.

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—A wireless message received here from Vienna reports that Archduke Otto is about to be proclaimed King of Hungary.

BUDAPEST, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—The monarchist party has issued a statement saying that while it is desirous of re-establishing a kingdom, it does not favor the restoration of the throne to any member of the Hapsburg family. This statement was provoked by reports that 7-year-old Archduke Otto would be placed on the throne under a regency.

VIENNA, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—The Hungarian Government has renewed its demand for the extradition of Bela Kun, former dictator of Hungary. Distinct charges are lodged against him—that he caused to be murdered certain Hungarian officers in Russia, Rumanian officers who came to Budapest as emissaries, and certain citizens in Trans-Danubia who criticised his government. He is also accused of levying illegal tribute.

CALL JUGOSLAVS TO COLORS

Vienna Hears That an Ultimatum to Italy Is Expected.

VIENNA, Nov. 4, (Associated Press.)—Special dispatches received by Vienna papers state that five additional yearly classes of soldiers in Jugoslavia have been called to the colors on the pretext of military training.

A military dictatorship has practically been established in the country and many arrests have been made.

An ultimatum to Italy is expected.

Advices received here from Agram, Jugoslavia, however, report that meetings are being held there in protest against a possible war with Italy. The general tenor of the speeches and the resolutions adopted is that if Serbia has any differences with Italy she should fight them out without involving either Croatia or Slavonia.

Relief of Hungarian Children Begun by American Board

BUDAPEST, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—The American Commission in charge of the children's relief in Europe began work here this week, opening fifteen hospitals and twenty-seven other institutions as a beginning.

Physical examinations of the school children have begun, and the distribution of food to children in the public schools will start next week.

NOSKE'S FIRM STAND SUPPRESSED STRIKE

German Metal Workers Still Out, Though Greater Danger Is Avoided.

ABANDON GENERAL STRIKE

Revolutionary Danger Recognized at Last Moment—Military Now Ready to Act.

BERLIN, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—A committee of radical leaders has issued a manifesto, announcing that the general strike which had been called to support the metal workers in their protracted walkout, has been abandoned owing to the attitude of the Majority Socialists and of the trades unions. The metal workers' strike continues.

Minister of War Noske had adopted very severe measures to prevent the outbreak of the general strike. The headquarters of the Independent Socialists were occupied, a meeting of street railway employes was dissolved, and the Executive Council of the Council of Workmen's Delegates was dispersed.

[An earlier report, announcing the collapse of the proposed general strike, stated that documents found at the headquarters of the Independent Socialists proved that they had been acting with the Sparticides.]

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 6.—Through a special telephone message from Berlin I learn that the general strike Germany greatly feared for today is considered successfully avoided by the Government authorities in Berlin, although the metal workers continue their strike.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—The Independent Socialist and Communist Parties no longer keep it secret that they are determined that the metal workers must continue the strike "for demonstrative purposes until Nov. 9," and that for the same reason a general sympathetic strike of all Germany will be declared tonight or tomorrow, [since abandoned.]

The promises of the Independents and Communists of immediate and handsome compensation for the loss of six weeks' wages in case "the second revolution" is successful cannot but strongly influence the younger elements, and even the older ones, whose families are starving and have pawned nearly all their household belongings.

Noske and the other Cabinet members have now recognized how gravely they underestimated the revolutionary danger, and have, I am informed, made extensive preparations to meet violence with force and relentlessly to suppress all rebellious actions, no matter what the cost of blood and life. The streets were paraded by strong military patrols and certain districts again present quite a warlike aspect.

EGG STAMPING OPPOSED.

Does Not Stop Fraud and Hurts Sale, Battle Is Told.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Commissioner George Gordon Battle, named by Governor Smith to investigate the Council of Farms and Markets, held a session here this afternoon and heard testimony of Professor Earl W. Benjamin against the stamping of cold storage eggs. Professor Benjamin declared if this was insisted upon eggs would not be placed in cold storage. He also said that only 5 per cent. of the eggs consumed in Winter are fresh ones.

He said the stamping of eggs made them unsightly and interfered with their sale; that fraud could still be carried on, and that the expense of marking such eggs would have to be borne by the consumer.

It was brought out at the hearing that about 100,000 pounds of fish had been placed in the storage house of the Brooklyn Bridge Freezing and Cold Storage Company of New York on Nov. 1, 1918, and had been marked as "bait" by its owner when the cold storage limit expired. The fish was of the kind used for food and comprised some 25,000 pounds of whiting.

Harold E. Phillips, Deputy Director of the Bureau of Markets and Storage, admitted he had no check to see that this fish was used as bait and not sold as food.

5TH INFANTRY REACH RHINE

Join Occupation Army Pending Transfer to Upper Silesia.

COBLENZ, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—Troops of the Fifth Infantry, which arrived at Brest recently from the United States, reached the Rhine today from Brest.

These are the first units of a provisional infantry brigade to form a part of the army of occupation until it may be detached for its proposed service in Upper Silesia in connection with the plebiscite there.

Brigadier Gen. William H. Sage, commanding the troops, will arrive on Friday. The brigade is receiving equipment and horses from the army of occupation and from the French.

LINER HITS DERELICT.

France Meets Accident on Voyage from New York.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The French Line steamship France, arriving at Havre from New York, struck a derelict in entering Havre Roads, according to The Herald's correspondent. Most of the passengers were awakened by the impact, and there was considerable excitement aboard the steamer, but no one was injured.

One of the propellers of the France was damaged, and the repairs to it will entail the delay of a day in sailing on the return voyage to New York.

Earthquake Shock in Martinique.

FORT DE FRANCE, Martinique, Nov. 7, (Associated Press.)—Quite a strong earthquake shock was felt here at 3:15 this morning. No serious damage resulted.

CALL NATION STILL STRONG

Travelers Returning to England Predict a Big Renewal of Industry and Prosperity.

By GEORGE RENWICK.
Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Last night at 11 o'clock the entire passenger service throughout Germany ceased. Not a single passenger train will run for eleven days and after Nov. 15 there will be only absolutely necessary trains. In the industrial regions workers' trains will not be taken off and in and around cities a restricted local service will be kept up, but that is all. For eleven days Germany will be trainless.

One almost welcomes this official ban on traveling, for railroad journeys have become purgatorial. The few trains which have been running during the last month or two have been dangerously packed. Yesterday I traveled from Dresden to Berlin. An hour before the train started every compartment was packed full and when the train set off the corridors were so crowded that it was quite impossible to move. At the Berlin station the crowd of passengers arriving and departing was as vast as a Crystal Palace cup day crowd, and at all the other great Berlin terminals the conditions were the same.

There is something like a general flight from Berlin, but that is balanced by the flight into the city. All those who are under the necessity of traveling within the next fortnight have been rushing to their destinations during the past few days and they are content to trust to luck to get back again.

To make matters worse, the hotels in all the great cities are overcrowded. In Berlin and elsewhere people are sleeping in hotel bathrooms and in all the odd corners where it is possible to put up a bedstead. Every hotel in the capital is turning away hundreds of people daily, even though they have wired days beforehand to reserve rooms. The telegraph service is something like chaotic and the traveler will generally overtake his urgent wire, sent days before, even on short distances, such as Dresden to Berlin.

Telephoning is an almost impossible achievement. Added to that, greatest confusion reigns in the Post Office. Letters from all over the country and from abroad are weeks late in arriving. The Parcel Post Offices are endeavoring in vain to cope with the impossible mountains of packets. In some parts of the country the parcel post has been suspended. Stations throughout the country are congested with goods traffic, and to make matters worse, canal services are almost at a standstill. The mails will have to be forwarded by goods trains.

In fact, the only travel service of which the country will be able to boast for eleven days will be the Zeppelin service running between the capital and Friedrichshafen.

What the result of this traffic stoppage will be to the business world can be imagined when it is combined with the chaos and confusion in other means of communication. A sudden and early Winter has swept all over Germany from the south. This, it is officially stated, will have a bad effect on the poor service to be run during the rest of the month. Vast quantities of perishable goods will rot where they stand.

Officially this stoppage of passenger traffic is explained as necessary in order to secure an adequate distribution of coal and potatoes. The more extreme Socialist elements, of course, see in it a plan to prevent holding an Independent Socialist Congress at Leipsic in the second week of November—a rather fantastic accusation.

Food conditions are perhaps slightly worse than they were six weeks ago in Berlin, and prices show a decided tendency to rise again. Germany, indeed, is in a sorry condition and is in one of her severest fits of depression. The future looks blacker than ever in whatever direction one cares to look. The prospects of obtaining loans have, I am informed by authoritative persons, become much less hopeful, and American financiers appear to have abandoned their negotiations.

GERMANY STRONGER THAN SHE APPEARS

Ludendorff Questioned on the Report That Real Conditions Were Being Concealed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Recent visitors to Germany who had an exceptionally good opportunity of observing the underlying conditions in the country predict that the industrial and commercial revival is likely to be speedy and prodigious. Despite various superficial symptoms of unrest, they say the political situation is satisfactory and the temper of the people generally is described as an eagerness to forget the war and get back to work.

In this connection attention may be called to the following extract from an interview with General Ludendorff by Percy Brown, published in the current week's Graphic:

"I called attention," writes Brown, "to the industrial activity apparent everywhere in Germany and stated that a man connected with one of the largest electrical concerns when asked why the foreign press was supplied with obviously inaccurate reports as to Germany's supposed terrible state of distress said to me: 'You cannot blame us for not showing the Allies that we are going to live up to our reputation of being the most industrious nation in the world. We want to know exactly what we will have to pay before we really get to work. What would be the use of working hard when the more we produced the more the Allies would want?'

"Ludendorff shrugged his shoulders and said: 'This is very interesting, but this sort of man does not represent the German nation.' I said he might not, but with this kind of propaganda going on Germany's late enemies could not be blamed for treating with suspicion every statement that came from Germany."

In another part of the interview Ludendorff said: "You want to know my ideas on the monarchy question in Germany. Let me remind you at once what President Wilson said about this subject, which was that the monarchical form of State suits best the history and national life of the German people. I also am of that opinion and I trust that the idea will soon come home to the German masses. Mind you, the re-establishment of the monarchy is desirable only if it is the will of the people. When the will of the people to this effect is likely to be expressed no one can accurately judge. At present order and work are essential and we must formulate such plans that when they are put into execution they will insure that the work of the country can be carried out."

HARVARD-PRINCETON AND DARTMOUTH-PENN GRIDIRON BATTLES RIVAL IN INTEREST TODAY

HARVARD GRAPPLES WITH TIGERS TODAY

Season's Records Favor Crimson for Triumph Over Princeton at Palmer Stadium.

DARTMOUTH MEETS PENN

Evenly Fought Gridiron Battle Is Assured at Polo Grounds—Columbia Clashes with Stevens.

There was a time when college football reached its height only in the triangular encounters of Harvard, Yale, and Princeton. That day is past since the opening up of the game, and the consequent rise of the smaller colleges as real contenders. Today's big clash at Princeton, in which Harvard faces the Tigers in the first of the classic series, while it has more characteristic football color than any previous battle of the season, is actually of less importance than many a so-called "preliminary game."

Of course, if Bill Roper's Jersey warriors should rise up in their wrath and smite John Harvard hip and thigh, or even hold the undefeated aristocrat of of the gridiron to a tie score, there would be significance in plenty for today's argument down in Jungletown. But such an amazing occurrence is not likely. Princeton has been practically played to a standstill by Lafayette, beaten by Colgate, and overwhelmed by West Virginia. Its record indicates nothing more than an average team, far below the standards of the great elevens of the year.

Harvard, on the other hand, while progressing through a comparatively easy schedule, not only stands as one of the few undefeated combinations of 1919, but has on occasion demonstrated an impressive strength, with almost unlimited possibilities of development. Brown University and Boston College, the conqueror of Yale, are numbered among the Harvard victims thus far, but, aside from these two, the Cambridge eleven has had little opposition to face. It may be that the lack of steady development against strong rivals will have a bad effect on Harvard's play, especially if unexpected resistance is encountered. Princeton, of course, can be depended upon to fight to the last ditch with such resources as are at her command. But her foundation seems too insecure to offer any logical hope of victory. On paper it looks like a sure triumph for the Crimson.

The Polo Grounds Rumpus.

Right up at the Polo Grounds today football fans may see a game which promises as fine a lot of thrills as any gridiron battle of the season. Dartmouth comes to New York for the second time this Fall, with the proud record of no defeats in a schedule which has included Penn State, Cornell, and Colgate. Her drawn battle with the last-named eleven at Hanover last Saturday established her equality with the best that the East can offer, perhaps the best in the whole country.

Up to last week Pennsylvania also had an untarnished record, with the added distinction of having scored more points than any other Eastern team of the year. But a rainy day and the surprising strength of her old rivals from Pennsylvania State College spoiled the whole beautiful dream. Quakertown's university was beaten on its own field, and by a team that had previously lost to Dartmouth.

If comparative scores meant anything nowadays, this strange upset would indicate the absolute superiority of the Hanoverians to the Red and Blue today. But no one is rash enough to accept a single reversal as the coup de grace for any of the really significant football teams of this extraordinary season. In fact, the recent defeat at the hands of Penn State is all the more likely to make Pennsylvania a dangerous opponent today, and another upset of sensational proportions is by no means impossible.

Folwell's men have been coached in an open game, with plenty of forward passing, a style of play ineffective on a wet field, but containing unlimited possibilities when favored by the proper conditions. No team that defeated Lafayette 23 to 0 this year can be considered weak in any sense, for the Eastonians sufficiently proved their class against Princeton and Cornell. Other things being equal, Pennsylvania is psychologically in a better position than Dartmouth to win this afternoon. A big crowd of loyal rooters will be on hand from Philadelphia, and there should be no lack of noise within the echoing inclosure of Brush Stadium.

Even Battle Probable.

When Dartmouth defeated Cornell here two weeks ago, there was a general feeling that Coach Bob Spears had uncovered as little as possible of his offensive system. Certainly his team was more than nine points better than the Ithacans, who crumbled completely the following Saturday against Lafayette. With Robertson as a kicker, forward passer and ground-gainer, and Youngstrom to block punts at psychological moments, Dartmouth may well strike terror into the heart of any opponent. On the other hand, Pennsylvania has in Heinie Miller and Hopper a remarkable pair of ends, and an unusually strong array of backfield stars, including Light, Pearce, Derr, Bell, Bruner, Strauss, and Rex Wray. It looks like an even battle from every point of view.

Several hundred students from both universities will attend the game, and each team will draw down the vocal efforts of a large cheering section. The Dartmouth contingent will occupy the north stand and the Penn section will be in the south stand. The entrance to the Dartmouth cheering section will be through the lower level on the Eighth Avenue main gate to the Polo Grounds. Entrance through the upper level, or through the Speedway side, will not reach the Dartmouth cheering section.

The only other local football game today brings together Columbia University and Stevens on South Field. The light but efficient eleven from Hoboken should give a good account of itself, for it has yet to lose a game, and showed real strength last Saturday in defeating Rensselaer Poly on the latter's own ground. Fred Dawson's players have not performed to the complete satisfaction of their adherents this season, especially in being held to a scoreless tie by Union, and this afternoon's encounter with the men from across the river gives them a splendid opportunity for redeeming themselves at least to the extent of emerging as a dependable scoring machine against average opposition. If, however, Stevens should by any chance break loose with a victory, Columbia's season would receive beyond question the final imprint of failure.

In tackling Brown University at New Haven today, Yale meets the first worthy opponent on her schedule, even though defeat has already come to her from the unexpected quarter of Boston College. With Princeton and Harvard looming up in the coming two weeks, the Blue has yet to test her strength with a ranking team. Brown should provide a basis of comparison, but as this eleven has already lost to Harvard, Colgate and Syracuse, even a comparatively one-sided victory for Yale would mean little.

W. & J. vs. Pittsburgh.

Of far greater importance for the season's summing up of football strength is today's clash between Washington and Jefferson and Pittsburgh, in the home of the latter. The Presidents are not only an undefeated team but, with the single exception of Wesleyan, the only Eastern aggregation to have kept its opponents scoreless thus far. Pittsburgh's only reverse has been at the hands of Syracuse, whom W. & J. shut out two weeks ago by a 13-0 score. But again, past performances cannot be taken too seriously. "Every game for itself" is the rule this year, and the Panthers should be ripe for a vengeance today, which would tie another knot in the hopelessly tangled situation.

An intersectional flavor is in the meeting of West Point and Notre Dame up on the Hudson, and if the soldiers can win from the strong Western representatives, their stock will go still further upward. Boston College, humbled by the Army after its spectacular victory over Yale, meets Rutgers in Boston. New York University, meanwhile, will try to continue its winning ways against Union at Schenectady, while the remarkable eleven of Wesleyan, its goal unthreatened even by Williams, invades Amherst with the firm determination of adding another big scalp to its string. Penn State vs. Lehigh promises a far from peaceful afternoon down in Pennsylvania, and out West the classic encounter of Chicago and Michigan should make football history worthy of the great traditions of these natural rivals.

CORNELL TEAM IMPROVES.

Eleven That Will Face Carnegie Has Shown Strength in Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Cornell team that plays the Carnegie Tech. here tomorrow is expected to be a greatly improved team compared to that which went down before Lafayette last Saturday, and coaches and undergraduates will be grievously disappointed if the eleven fails to show something like real football for the first time this year. Thanks largely to the capable assistance of Charley Barrett, Cornell's famous quarterback and leader in 1914 and 1915, the Ithacans this week have made big strides in the development of an offense with a punch.

Even though Coach Rush may withhold some of the regulars from the backfield line-up tomorrow, if the team has the speed and driving power that has characterized its work during this week, anxious Cornell partisans who have been hoping against hope for weeks that Cornell would produce a team bearing some semblance to the strong elevens turned out here before the war, are likely to be rewarded.

Carnegie, though lighter than the Ithacans, has a fast backfield and will put up a hard game. The Ithacans ran through a short drill on the field late today and also worked in secret in the baseball cage. Several new men will play part of the game tomorrow, including Finn and Hoff, heavy ends, and it is likely that Strauss and Knauss may be given a chance at tackles. Colvin, Wilson, Pendleton, Miller, Taylor, Sutton and Horrell are booked to start in the line, and Shiverick, Davis, Mackenzie and Livingston in the backfield. This group of backfield men has shown fine form in recent scrimmages and it is on them that all Cornell eyes will be focussed tomorrow.

MICHIGAN MEETS CHICAGO.

Old Rivals in Western Conference Football Are Well Matched.

Four games will be played in Western Conference football today, the leading contest being that between the University of Michigan and Chicago, which will be played at Chicago and is expected to draw a crowd of 25,000 persons. This game, which is comparable in the West with Yale-Princeton and Yale-Harvard games in the East, should be as hard fought as those of previous years. Michigan's team is not as strong as its predecessors, but has revealed a good fighting spirit. The result seems to hinge on the question of which eleven has the stronger line. Coach Stagg's Chicagoans are not in the best of physical condition, Jackson and McGuire, tackles, and Hinkle, end, having been handicapped by injuries. Although Michigan beat Northwestern last week, and Chicago lost to Illinois, few of the Western experts express any confident opinion as to the outcome of today's contest.

The unbeaten Ohio State eleven, which seems to be on its way to the championship, will meet Purdue, and, with its list of injured much curtailed, expects a comparatively easy victory. Should the Buckeyes be defeated by what would amount to a tremendous upset, the result would be a highly complicated tie for the honors among the "Big Ten."

In the other two conference games today Illinois will meet Minnesota at Minneapolis, with the weight of opinion inclining slightly toward a Minnesota victory, while Iowa and Northwestern will clash at Evanston. Iowa, with one of the strongest teams it has ever sent out, is expected to win by a decisive margin.

Should Illinois defeat Minnesota, and many of its adherents believe it has an even chance to accomplish that feat, there will be much support for the team against Ohio in the concluding game of the season at Columbus on Nov. 22.

TIGERS WILL MISS KECK IN GAME TODAY

Bigler Will Be at Left Tackle and Davis on the End—Harvard Money 2 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 7.—Princeton's football prospects received a staggering blow this afternoon when the announcement was made that Stanley Keck would not be in his accustomed place at left tackle when the Orange and Black eleven trots out on the turf of the Palmer Memorial Stadium tomorrow afternoon to oppose Harvard's unbeaten team.

Keck was mixed up in a horseback accident last Summer, and during the early part of the football season was held back by Coach Roper so that he would be in readiness for the important games of the schedule. He had recovered from the effects of his injury and was displaying a slashing game at his regular position until old man Jinx, who has been a close follower of the Tiger eleven this year, stepped in at the last moment and ruled him out. It was thought at first that the bruise would heal in time to permit him to get into tomorrow's game from the start, but it is extremely doubtful if he will play at all. The optimists entertain the hope that he will go in later in the game, but Roper wants to make sure of having him in shape for the contest with Yale at New Haven a week hence, and no unnecessary risks will be run tomorrow.

In addition to playing a powerful game in the line, Keck is a placement kicker of note. He was the hero of the 1921 freshman outfit, for it was his toe that in the last minute of play booted a field goal against the Eli cubs and turned the victory to Princeton by a 9 to 7 score.

Jungletown Is Crowded.

Jungletown is seething with enthusiasm and excitement tonight. All afternoon incoming trains have been packed and jammed beyond their capacity and for the motorist all roads must have led to Princeton.

The Tiger has trodden a hard path this Fall. He is battered and bruised and he has not always been victorious. Tomorrow he is going to give battle in his own lair to a foe whose clean slate has yet to be violated. Gray-haired grads and light-hearted students are chock full of optimism and enthusiasm if not of absolute confidence.

Harvard rules as the favorite. Great quantities of Crimson money have made their way to Princeton and the Jersey students are snapping it up eagerly at odds of 2 to 1. Harvard has not been scored on, the sons of Old Nassau admit, but they likewise argue that the Tiger team has played an extremely difficult schedule and that it is a far more dangerous team than most people believe.

Booth Tarkington, who was graduated at Princeton in 1893, said once that "when the great day arrived, all of the very prettiest girls in the world (so it seemed) came to Princeton to dance with us." Tonight is the night of the concert of the combined musical clubs of Harvard and Princeton and of the annual senior prom, and streets crowded with bevies of fair visitors, campus paths filled with strolling couples, and whirling autos of gay parties bear ample testimony to the statement of the popular American author.

Hundreds of the week-end visitors strolled down to Lake Carnegie to see the class crews compete in the annual Fall regatta. The multicolored costumes of the fair from guests added the finishing touch to nature's gorgeous display on the banks of the lake, and the slanting rays of the setting sun completed the picture as the crew representing the junior class flashed its orange and black tipped blades across the line to victory in the interclass championship race.

Roper indicated today in the final signal drill how he is going to rearrange the line. Keck's absence leaves a tremendous gap in the middle of the left side of the forward wall, because his 220 pounds of beef and muscle made him the heaviest man on the Tiger team. Puffy Bigler, who has been at left end in the last three games, was formerly a tackle, and he was back at his old post this afternoon.

This put Shad Davis on the left wing of the line, and Frosty Williams, who made the most unusual play of the West Virginia game last Saturday, when, following a touchdown for the visitors, he dashed out from behind his goal line in order to block the punt-out, was on the right wing.

Roper's Regulars in Trim.

McGraw, the Tiger leader whose given name is Curtis, but whom the whole college knows as "Hack," was at right guard. McGraw, who was a Major of infantry in France, will enter tomorrow's fray with only nine fingers, a boche bullet having removed the middle digit of his left hand. He wears a harness to protect the injured member, however, and his playing is not in the least impaired by the mishap. Mal Dickinson, at left guard, and Mike Callahan, at centre, completed the middle trio.

Oswald Parisette, who entered college with the class of 1918, but whose duties as Lieutenant of infantry took him first to the Mexican border and then to France and kept him there until this Fall, completed the line at right tackle.

Jack Strubing, the stocky little quarter back, who has run the team from the very first moment of practice, called the signals this afternoon in the final rehearsal before the crucial test tomorrow. Maury Trimble, who displayed his abilities in the Colgate game and around whom a large part of the Tigers' attack is based, was at one half back and Hank Garrity, whose massive neck and shoulders made him the most dangerous and powerful line-plunger on the Orange and Black squad, was at the other. Al Wittmer, who has earned his place by his steady, cool-headed play in the Colgate and West Virginia games, was at full back.

With both Trimble and Wittmer playing, the Princeton punting will be well taken care of. Joe Scheerer and his mystic toe will be called into action, however, if the kicking game goes against the Tigers.

Don Lourie has recovered sufficiently from the injury, which has kept him in for the last two weeks, to get into the game, and at this afternoon's light workout he showed that he was ready. Frank Murray, whose brilliant open field running and accurate drop kicking have placed him in the forefront of Tiger backs, is certain to get in the game, but it is doubtful whether he will start. Lynch at tackle, Morgan and Rothchild at guard, Whitey Thomas at centre, and Hal Harvey and Tom McNamara at the wings, all got a chance to show their wares this afternoon and will be ready to jump into the game tomorrow.

With the wonderful football weather of the last week continuing today, it was estimated tonight that 40,000 enthusiasts would take advantage of it tomorrow to attend he game.

The lineups as announced by Coaches Roper of Princeton and Fisher of Harvard follow:

PRINCETON.		HARVARD.
Davis	L. E.	Desmond
Bigler	L. T.	Sedgwick
Dickinson	L. G.	Woods
Callahan	C.	Havemeyer
McGraw	R. G.	Clark
Parisette	R. T.	Lane
Williams	R. E.	Steele
Strubing	Q. B.	Murray
Trimble	L. H. B.	Burnham
Garrity	R. H. B.	Casey
Wittmer	F. B.	Humphrey

Georgia Plays Virginia to a Tie.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 7.—The football teams of the University of Georgia and the University of Virginia fought it out to a 7 to 7 tie today in their annual game here. After the Georgians had scored a touchdown and kicked goal in the second period, Virginia picked up in offensive play, and in the final quarter tied the score when Holley made a brilliant 50-yard run for a touchdown and Russell kicked goal.

Princeton in the Lead with 12 Victories in 21 Games

From 1877 to 1882, inclusive, seven games were played. Princeton won four, Harvard two, and one was tied. From 1883 to date, under the present system of scoring, the results have been as follows:

1883	Harvard 7	Princeton 26
1884	Harvard 6	Princeton 34
1886	Harvard 0	Princeton 12
1887	Harvard 12	Princeton 0
1888	Harvard 0	Princeton 18
1889	Harvard 15	Princeton 41
1895	Harvard 4	Princeton 12
1896	Harvard 0	Princeton 12
1911	Harvard 6	Princeton 8
1912	Harvard 16	Princeton 6
1913	Harvard 3	Princeton 0
1914	Harvard 20	Princeton 0
1915	Harvard 10	Princeton 6
1916	Harvard 3	Princeton 0

The standing to date shows twelve victories for Princeton and eight for Harvard, with one game tied.

BIG CROWD TO SEE PITT.

All Seats Sold for W. and J. Game at Forbes Field Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Nov. 7.—The stage is set for the most important game of the local football season, Pittsburgh and W. and J., and Coach Glenn Warner has put the Panthers through the last practice, which amounted more than anything else to a rehearsal of several new plays that are to be tried on the conquerors of the Syracuse team. The game will be witnessed by the biggest crowd on record, as far as Forbes Field is concerned. When the general admission tickets were placed on sale downtown today there was a line half a mile long, stretching out on two streets. All the reserved seats had been taken by students and alumni.

The Blue and Gold looked pretty good today, although both Davies and Dehart were limping slightly and took matters easy. Warner drilled his line on following the ball, while a triple pass was practiced in such a thorough manner that indicates its use tomorrow.

Lou Mervis will hardly get in tomorrow, and Herb McCracken or Lew Brown will be started at left end, while Ewing will replace Ginn at right end. Warner expects to use all the rest of his regulars.

The teams will line up as follows:

PITTSBURGH.		W. AND J.
McCracken	L. E.	Carroll
Harman	L. T.	R. Stein
Meanor	L. G.	Bovill
H. Stein	C.	Shields
McLean	R. G.	Straw
Mond	R. T.	Garbisch
Ewing	R. E.	Louicks
Dehart	Q. B.	Bixler
Davies	L. H. B.	Neilson
Hastings	R. H. B.	Erickson
Morrow	F. B.	Smith

The officials will be: Referee, Nathan A. Tufts, Brown; umpire, Wilmer Crowell, Swarthmore; linesman, J. C. Holderness, Lehigh.

RUTGERS' ATTACK STRONGER

New Brunswick Boys Hopeful of Victory Over Boston College Today.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Nov. 7.—Rutgers will face Boston College Saturday with practically the same team that met defeat at the hands of Syracuse on Tuesday, but it will be a team that has been working on a different theory of the game.

Owing to injuries, consequent constant changes in his lineup, and the fact that he had all green men to work with, Sanford was compelled earlier in the season to centre his activities on the defense. He produced a team that was able to hold its own in any company, but he did not have time to develop his attack as in previous years. With French and Gardner out most of the time, the team has not had the punch on the offense that it should have had.

All this week, however, Sanford has been working on offensive tactics. There will be no further changes in the lineup unless further injuries occur, and he will have a chance to perfect a real machine.

The forward pass has been a bugbear to Rutgers all season, and it was a pass that spelled victory for Syracuse in New York. The team has been thoroughly drilled in breaking up the play, however.

Rutgers is making no prediction of victory over the conquerors of Yale, but the team is hopeful of victory. The defense is as good as ever, and it appears that Sanford has finally imparted a real punch to the attack.

ARMY IS IN GOOD TRIM.

Eleven Will Enter Its Strongest Lineup in Notre Dame Game.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The Army is all primed for the Notre Dame contest tomorrow. The Hoosiers, according to Coach Rockne, who headed the South Bend aggregation of twenty-five players arriving here at noon today, are also "all set." Both teams had a light workout on the plain gridiron, which is comparatively dry and fast tonight. Neither side is predicting the outcome of the game.

Rockne says he has a light team. All the Army men are in good shape. Coach Daly, in giving out the Army's lineup today, said that Herrick would be in at guard for the soldiers. It will be his first game since Syracuse was here a month ago, when he broke a small bone in his arm.

Notre Dame's lineup contains four players who are well remembered by Army folks when the Westerners were here in 1917, at which time they beat the cadets. They are Brandy, Gipp, Coughlan, and Degree.

The lineup follows:

ARMY.		NOTRE DAME.
Blaik	L. E.	Kirk
Travis	L. T.	Coughlan
Herrick	L. G.	H. Anderson
Greene	C.	Madigan

NAVY EXPECTS A VICTORY.

Academy Eleven Works Smoothly in Preparation for Georgetown.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 7.—The Naval Academy team finished its preparation for Georgetown this afternoon with a snappy signal drill. The team has remained unchanged during the week, something unusual this season at the Academy. Tomorrow it will be somewhat stronger than when it started against West Virginia Wesleyan last Saturday. The players are in better physical condition and have the benefit of a week's work with practically no injuries.

Coach Dobie announces his lineup as follows:

Captain Ewen is able to take his place at right end, but it is thought better to save him until his leg is stronger. Lowe was chosen for the place over Parr on account of his greater aggressiveness.

With Watters, Koehler, Cruise, and Clark, Dobie appears to have assembled a combination of considerable strength. These four have been working together for two weeks and are moving smoothly.

It is admitted that Georgetown will probably have better individual backs, but the feeling here is that the Navy has a stronger line and a better system of attack, and there is confidence in a Navy victory by a small score.

Heneage, Dartmouth, will referee, and Kerberg, Harvard, will be linesman, but Georgetown objected to the selection for umpire made by the Board of Control, and the place has not yet been filled.

ELI REGULARS ARE READY FOR BROWN

All Yale's First-String Men Available for Game with Providence Team Today.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 7.—Yale's closing practice for tomorrow's Brown game was merely nominal, the 'Varsity squad visiting the Bowl for an hour's signal rehearsal. During the last fortnight more complicated formations have been mastered and these were carefully gone over this afternoon, the coaches halting the play occasionally to explain individual rôles and their significance.

Because of the strenuous and protracted scrimmaging on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, the coaches have ordered no actual football practice the last two days. The 'Varsity players, without exception, escaped injury during the grueling drill of the first half of the week.

Tonight the eleven was in the best spirits it has shown in weeks, and the opinion which was expressed in the Alumni Weekly that the team is twenty points stronger than when it went down before Boston College in its only defeat of the season is shared by most of the coaches.

Several lineup changes were discussed at the daily meeting of the coaches tonight, but only one in the tentative lineup, which was decided upon last Monday, has been made. To insure the eleven the maximum of its attacking strength, Jim Braden has been withdrawn from the emergency drop-kicking and line-hammering rôle to a first-string position at right halfback, despite the fact that his absence from the game in the second half, through injury or exhaustion, will leave the team without its best punter and drop-kicker.

Has Varied Attack.

More than twenty coaches have united the past week in an effort to accelerate the driving power of the eleven, and its attack tomorrow against Brown is expected to show more of a whirlwind quality than it has approached all Fall. The criticism of the style of game which the Yale team has shown in every contest on its schedule this season, that it was simple and easy to diagnose, will be met tomorrow with a display of a variety of attack designed to prove confusing and deceptive to even as seasoned a team as Brown. The fact that Yale has been able to keep its attack entirely under cover should make it all the more effective against the Brunonians.

The confidence which is exhibited in Brown's ability to win, indicated by the readiness of Brown supporters, is not understood here. A large amount of Brown money has been placed here at even terms, and practically an unlimited amount is awaiting Yale takers at the short end of five to three bets. An unusually large amount of cash has been wagered because of the confidence of the followers of both elevens in the scoring ability of their teams.

When the rivals met last in 1916 Brown won, 21 to 6, largely through the dodging and broken field running of Pollock, the dusky Brown halfback. This decisive victory over Yale is regarded as one of the reasons for the present confidence felt by the Providence collegians.

Yale's lineup planned for tomorrow is as follows:

BROWN IN FINAL WORKOUT.

Eleven Holds Spirited Practice on Eve of Game with Yale.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 7.—Brown received her final workout today before going to New Haven for the battle with Yale tomorrow. Coach Robinson put his charges through a long signal drill, in which a few of the ragged edges were smoothed out.

The men were also given practice in catching punts, a weak point which has developed in the Brunonians' play. Practice in receiving kickoffs and making a clean getaway behind proper interference was also a feature of Brown's work. Weakness in this department was shown to an alarming extent in the Syracuse game.

The eleven worked with a punch and drive that were satisfactory to the coaches. The squad, thirty-five strong, will not leave for New Haven until tomorrow morning. The team which will face Yale will line up as follows:

NEWTOWN H. S. FIVE WINS.

Opens Season by Defeating Great Neck H. S., 21 to 8.

Newtown High School's basketball team opened its season yesterday with a victory over the Great Neck High School quintet on the Newtown court by a score of 21 to 8. The victorious team outclassed Great Neck throughout and led in the scoring from start to finish. The whistle at the end of the first half found Newtown in front by 18 to 4. Wilson, Stewart and Rabinowitz scored all of Newtown's points, while Gillier and Baker shot goals for Great Neck.

The lineup:

NEWTOWN. (21.)		GREAT NECK. (8.)
Wilson	R. F.	Federstein
Rabinowitz	L. F.	Uhle
Stewart	C.	Gillier
Lehman	R. G.	Redheffer
Smith	L. G.	Baker

Field goals—Wilson, (3,) Rabinowitz, (3,) Stewart, (4,) Gillier, (2.) Goals from foul—Rabinowitz, Baker, (4.)

Substitutions—Newtown: Toomey for Rabinowitz, Bastien for Stewart, Treu for Lehman. Great Neck: Murray for Redheffer.

Referee—Mr. Cohn, St. Lawrence University. Time of halves—Fifteen minutes.

POLICE PREVENT BOUTS.

Boxing Show Planned for Benefit of Red Cross Is Called Off.

The boxing tournament planned for last night at the First Field Hospital, 56 West Sixty-sixth Street, was not held, owing to the intervention of the police. The boxing show was to have been in the nature of a benefit for the Red Cross, the contestants being former members of the A. E. F., and it was planned to give decisions. Billy Roche, well-known referee and prominent in the boxing game for many years, was in charge of the show.

Several hundred persons went to the hospital in the hope of seeing some action but they were disappointed. Captain L. V. Meehan of the Armory Board announced that the calling off of the bouts was due to orders from Inspector Dominick Henry. This action was a big surprise in view of the nature of the proposed tournament. It was said at the hospital that the contests had been arranged under authorization of military officials and it is possible that the tournament will be held next week. An effort is to be made today to obtain an injunction which will prevent the police from further interference with the show.

Boxing at Crescent A. C.

Entry blanks have been issued for the Crescent A. C.'s next monthly amateur boxing tournament, which will be conducted in the New Moon Gymnasium in Brooklyn, Nov. — and 20. Bouts will be held in four classes, as follows: One hundred and ten, 120, 130, and 140 pounds. Entries for the tournament will close Wednesday at Metropolitan A. A. U. headquarters.

N. Y. U. CUBS BEAT CLINTON

Freshman Eleven Conquers Schoolboy Team by Score of 27 to 14.

De Witt Clinton high school's football eleven, leaders in the chase for the P. S. A. L. Manhattan-Bronx championship, ran smack up against a snag yesterday in the New York University freshmen eleven on Ohio Field. When the clash was over, the Red and Black eleven was trailing the university yearlings on a 27 to 14 score. The contest was witnessed by one of the largest crowds that ever attended a game on Ohio Field.

The university freshmen presented an assortment of plays which the Clintonians could not successfully fathom. Immediately after the starting kickoff, the Violet cubs started crushing the Clinton line for a series of first downs which, with a side kick for about twenty-five yards, ended with Bates making a short gain near the Red and Black goal line, and Lynch taking the ball over for a touchdown on the next play. This score came about five minutes after the game started. Bates led the attack for the N. Y. U. yearlings and, with the exception of the second period, carried his team past De Witt Clinton with consistency.

In the second period the Red and Black eleven took a brace, and, led by Roy Eisenberg, swept aside the opposition. Gradually the college Freshmen were forced back toward their own line until Eisenberg crashed his way over for a touchdown. The score imbued the Red and Black with new spirit and in an attack, in which he was again the principal figure, Eisenberg once more smashed his way through the Freshmen line for another touchdown. On both occasions Eisenberg kicked for the extra point.

The lineup:

N. Y. U. (27.)		DEWITT CLIN. (14.)
Throop	L. E.	Blumberg
Hill	L. T.	McAneny
Edgar	L. G.	Stanley
Reddigal	C.	Payn
Robinson	R. G.	Turkell

Stannard	R. E.	Hannigan
Lynch	Q. B.	Waterbury
Keiser	L. H. B.	Brennan
Mitchell	R. H. B.	Eisenberg
Bates	F. B.	Galbraith

Touchdowns—Bates, (2,) Lynch, Mitchell, Eisenberg, (2.) Goals from touchdown—Bates, (2,) Eisenberg, (2.)

Referee—Mr. Sullivan, Webb Academy. Umpire—Tedford Cann, New York University. Time of periods—Twelve minutes.

ANOTHER FOR POLY PREP.

Brooklyn Schoolboys Run Up 26 to 0 Victory Over Horace Mann.

Poly Prep School's football eleven outclassed the Horace Mann School team yesterday in their game on the Poly Prep gridiron, in Brooklyn, and registered its fifth successive victory of the season. The score was 26 to 0, and only the determined defensive of the Horace Mann players early in the game prevented a more one-sided result. Horace Mann's line held in the face of repeated onslaughts in the opening periods, but thereafter it was battered aside.

The lineup:

POLY PREP. (26.)		HORACE MANN. (0.)
Sadler	L. E.	Upjohn
Bronder	L. T.	Gibb
Moore	L. G.	Tilney
Woodbridge	C.	Crocker
Miller	R. G.	Loeb
Genthner	R. T.	Ellers
McRae	R. E.	Peel
Ohnell	Q. B.	Cohan
Dopple	L. H. B.	Bell
Bell	R. H. B.	Riley
Dodd	F. B.	Levy

Touchdowns—Sadler, McRae, Dodd, Ruggles. Goals from touchdown—McRae, 2.

Substitutions—Poly Prep: Ludeman for Sadler, A. M. Johnston for Bronder, McDougall for Moore, Lawson for Miller, Yale for McRae, Parkes for Ohnell, Ruggles for Dodd, G. Johnston for Dopple. Horace Mann: Seller for Ellers.

Referee—R. J. Shearer, Dickinson College. Umpire—Mr. Darby, Syracuse. Time of periods—Ten minutes.

HAMILTON INSTITUTE WINS.

Completely Outclasses Bayonne H. S. Eleven in 41 to 0 Game.

Hamilton Institute's football eleven registered a rather easy victory over the Bayonne High School team yesterday on the Catholic Protectory gridiron. The score favored the local team by a margin of 41 to 0. The New Jersey schoolboys were completely outclassed from start to finish of the contest, and were easy victims for the strong Hamilton eleven.

The lineup:

HAMILTON I. (41.)		BAYONNE H. S. (0.)
Schultz	L. E.	Pierce
T. Brennan	L. T.	Lincoln
E. Brennan	L. G.	Huber
Cherry	C.	Thomas
V. Brennan	R. G.	Steinberg
Schmults	R. T.	Evans
Grody	R. E.	Stearns
Stewart	Q. B.	Homel
Beck	L. H. B.	Cadmus
Walber	R. H. B.	Joseph
Gargan	F. B.	Robinson

Touchdowns—Cherry, Stewart, T. Brennan, Beck, V. Brennan, Schultz. Goals from touchdown—E. Brennan, 5. Referee—Mr. Telfer, Dartmouth. Umpire—Mr. Brown, Dartmouth. Linesman—Mr. Smith, Georgia Tech. Time of periods—Two of ten minutes and two of twelve minutes each.

45 IN SQUASH TOURNEY.

Invitation Event Will Open at Yale Club on Monday.

The first squash tennis tournament of the season will be held at the Yale Club, beginning Monday, Nov. 10, and continuing on alternate days until Nov. 21. A. G. Blaisdell, Chairman of the club's Squash Committee, announced yesterday that of the forty-five entries the following had been drawn to play in the preliminary round on Monday afternoon:

William Adams, Jr., vs. I. H. Cornell, E. J. Clapp vs. E. W. Putnam, A. D. Mittendorf vs. A. H. Ells, L. I. Grinnell vs. I. N. Worcester, Otis Guernsey vs. M. F. Torrance, Stuyvesant Wainwright vs. M. M. Sterling, D. McClave vs. R. C. Coburn, H. Tobey vs. F. B. Shaw, H. R. Stern vs. Kenneth Bulkley, C. J. Macguire vs. G. L. Catlin, F. W. Chambers vs. H. R. Mixsell, J. Richard vs. J. M. Rushmore, Clyde Martin vs. C. M. Bull, Jr.

On Wednesday, Nov. 12, the first round will be played by the following, who drew byes:

R. E. Fink vs. F. H. Johnson, H. W. Harvey vs. R. E. T. Riggs, G. Piel vs. Anderson Dana, F. S. Kesler vs. D. S. Baker, Rudolph Goepel vs. winner of Adams-Cornell match, R. H. Wigham vs. Livingston Platt, T. S. Strong vs. J. A. Victor, D. Bomeisler vs. J. W. Pulleyn, Alan L. Corey vs. Frank Kidde, A. J. Cordier vs. H. D. Bulkley.

The tournament is an invitation event, and all four courts of the Yale Club will be in constant use from 4 until 6 o'clock on each afternoon of play. It is planned to hold the final on the evening before the Yale-Princeton football game.

Poinsette in Final Round.

A. F. Poinsette has advanced into the final round for the Cooper Cup as a result of this week's matches over the Van Cortlandt Park course. In the semi-final round tilt Poinsette defeated H. L. Perez by 3 and 2 in as close and interesting a match as has been witnessed during the tourney. He will now vie with Hiram Serine, the other semi-final winner, for the trophy, and arrangements are being made to stage the final tussle next Tuesday.

Clason Point Defeats Hopkins.

Clason Point Military Academy's football team scored its second victory in three days yesterday when it defeated the Hopkins Prep School of New Haven on the Clason Point gridiron by a score of 24 to 6. The varied Clason Point attack, led by Captain Vegara, G. Ward, and Harahan, proved too great an obstacle to be overcome by the New Haven schoolboys. Captain Vegara and Ward each accounted for two touchdowns, while Harahan crossed the Hopkins Prep line once and kicked four goals from touchdowns.

Cornell Ties Harvard in Soccer.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Cornell and Harvard played a tie soccer game here this afternoon, the score being 2 to 2. An extra period was played in an effort to break the tie, but without result. Almost all of the plays were in Harvard territory. The visitors scored one goal on a penalty and the other through the mistake of Rosseau, Cornell's left half back, who kicked the ball into his own goal.

COLUMBIA TO PLAY WITHOUT CAPTAIN

Injury to Shoulder Will Keep Canapary on Side Lines During Game with Stevens.

The first clash of the season between two college football teams of the New York district will come this afternoon when Columbia and Stevens play their annual game on South Field, beginning at 2 o'clock. The invasion of the Hoboken engineers will be marked with the usual keen rivalry that characterizes these contests and will be accompanied by the usual flurry of betting. The odds last night were 5 to 3 on Stevens because of the spotless record of the visitors in the last two years.

Besides having swept the boards clean in all four of its games this year, Stevens enjoys the distinction of not having its goal line crossed by an opponent. The only score on the wrong side of the ledger is the two points tallied by Rhode Island in a game two weeks ago. The engineers, on the other hand, have amassed a total of eighty-six points and are credited with having an offense that is both powerful and varied.

There was no lack of optimism, however, on Morningside Heights last night, even when it became known that Captain Canapary probably will be compelled to stay on the side lines. His shoulder was injured again in Wednesday's scrimmage. Thornton will take his place at left halfback and will do all of Columbia's punting. The disabled Quigley will also be missing from the Blue and White lineup, and will be understudied by Eccles, who directed the team in last Saturday's game with Union. The only other change will be in the line, where Modarelli, the veteran guard from last year's eleven, will play left tackle in place of Tower, who is on the casualty list.

The probable lineups follow:

COLUMBIA.		STEVENS.
Kenney	L. E.	Eggers
Modarelli	L. T.	Brune
Forsythe	L. G.	Howard
Klenninger	C.	Johnson
Hinch	R. G.	Busch
Scovil	R. T.	Flockhart
Weinstein	R. E.	Carlson
Eccles	Q. B.	Bloss
Thornton	L. H. B.	Bajusz
Shaw	R. H. B.	Goodale
Applebaum	F. B.	Ford

GOLFER IN AIRPLANE RIDE.

J. D. Minor Wins Novel Prize in Suburban Golf Club Tourney.

John D. Minor of Elizabeth, N. J., will enjoy tomorrow the distinction of being the first American golfer who won an airplane ride as first prize in a tournament. As a result of the blind handicap played last week over the Suburban Golf Club course at Elizabeth as a benefit tourney for the Roosevelt Memorial Association Minor led the field of competitors. Yesterday J. Campbell Haywood, Chairman of the Greens Committee at Suburban, completed arrangements with F. V. Price, representative of a New Jersey airplane company, which donated the use of the ship for the flight. The pilot will be H. Everett Fisher, a British aviator in the war, and the trip will be made from Suburban to the Baltusrol Golf Club, near Springfield, where Minor will present to the Baltusrol Society a club certificate of membership in the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

A. H. Marchwald was the Baltusrol winner in a similar blind handicap last week and has been booked to make the return trip in the airplane. There was a rumor yesterday, however, that Marchwald had decided to decline the trip and that the ride would be auctioned off to the highest bidder, the proceeds of the sale to go to the memorial fund.

TO BOX FOR STATE TITLES.

Amateur Championship Tournament Is Scheduled for Jan. 9 and 10.

The New York State amateur boxing championship tournament will be conducted at the 71st Regiment Armory Jan. 9 and 10. This was announced yesterday following a meeting of the Boxing Championship Committee, of which John J. Walsh, Pastime A. C., is Chairman. The tournament will be conducted under the combined auspices of the Metropolitan A. A. U. and the 71st Regiment Athletic Association.

Title competition will be held in eight classes and it is expected that the leading boxers of the district will enter. The weights at which bouts will be held include 108, 115, 125, 135, 145, 158, 175 pounds and heavyweight class. The regulation gold, silver, and bronze medals, emblematic of the State amateur boxing championship, will be distributed in each class.

YALE DEFEATS DARTMOUTH.

Bulldogs Win Invitation Trapshooting Tourney at Travers Island.

Yale defeated Dartmouth in an invitation intercollegiate trapshooting competition at Travers Island yesterday afternoon. Princeton, Williams, Harvard, and Cornell had been invited to compete, but were unable to send their shooting teams. The score was: Yale, 408; Dartmouth, 372. Ralph K. Spotts, who has been shooting ever since he was knee high to the proverbial grasshopper, was sponsor of the meet. He was a member of the Dartmouth team and made the best individual score of the day, breaking 87 out of a possible 100.

On the Yale side C. F. Fall was the high scorer. He broke 84 out of his 100 and had the best single string of the event when he missed only one on his first trip to the traps.

It was said that a big open intercollegiate shoot will be held at Travers Island next Spring. Dartmouth will meet Harvard next week, and Yale will tackle Harvard the following week.

SIR BARTON CAPTURES SECOND PIMLICO SERIAL

SIR BARTON AGAIN IN WINNING FORM

Leads The Porter, Billy Kelly, and Lucullite in the Feature Event at Pimlico.

EASY VICTORY FOR GERMA

Left Entry Defeats St. Allan by Two Lengths in Six-Furlong Dash for Two-Year-Olds.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 7.—The tide of fortune in the competition between Commander J. K. L. Ross and Sam C. Hildreth, swung back to the Canadian sportsman here today in the running of the Pimlico Serial No. 2 for all ages, at one mile. Sir Barton, the fine son of Star Shoot, showed vast improvement over his last race, when he was defeated twelve lengths by Mad Hatter, and won the event handily from John F. Schorr's The Porter, with Billy Kelly third and Lucullite, Hildreth's great racer, fourth.

Sir Barton's victory was a brilliant one and he ran to his very best form, but the interest after the race centred in the dismal showing of Lucullite, which had gone to the post a favorite despite his two successive defeats in Maryland. Inability to run in the mud had been offered as an excuse for him in his other defeats but he had no excuse today, for the track was about as fast as it ever is here, and Lucullite ran less than six furlongs when he caved up and refused to extend himself further.

It did not appear that he quit from a lack of heart and courage so much as that he sulked, and it was quite evident from the manner in which he ran that he had gone stale and was no longer the great racer which was seen at Belmont Park and Aqueduct. Lucullite has been racing since early in the Spring and though not sent to the post as often has had a long campaign of training and he has evidently soured from the work. He acted today very much as did Naturalist the day he balked and refused to run with Hannibal. However, Lucullite did not quite to a walk. He kept in motion but threw his head high in the air and defied the best efforts of Jockey Fator to make him do his best.

All Well Supported.

The Serial No. 2 was very well arranged as regards weights, and it appeared to be a good three-horse race from the outset, but the distance was a little too great for Billy Kelly and it turned out to be a two-horse race, in which The Porter ran with fine courage and made a game effort, but could not keep up with the fleet Sir Barton with the weight he carried. The Porter had set a track record at Laurel the last time he ran and he was well supported today, as were all the others, for that matter, and at post time Lucullite had but a shade in the price over Schorr's sturdy racer. Sir Barton had performed so miserably the last time out that he was made the outsider. Kummer had the mount on Sir Barton today and rode an intelligent race.

The four horses were sent away nicely and Sir Barton gained the lead and the rail at the first turn, to be quickly joined by Billy Kelly and The Porter. Around the first turn all four were closely bunched, with Lucullite on the outside but running with a show of his best speed. Once straightened out in the back stretch Fator sent Lucullite along and he came up to within a half length of Sir Barton's nose and for a short distance seemed about to pass the Ross colt and take command of the race. But half way through to the far turn he suddenly began to drop back, though running clear, and Fator could not do a thing with him. Lucullite was very soon last, by several lengths and was hopelessly out of the race.

The Porter made his challenge while going around the turn into the stretch and for a few strides got his nose in front. But Sir Barton had the rail and Kummer sent the Star Shoot colt ahead again, and, once in the stretch, drew away to win by two lengths. The Porter could not make another effort. Billy Kelly had tired meantime and was five lengths back of The Porter. Entering into the stretch, Lucullite showed one flash of speed and began to draw up on Billy Kelly so that he was only nosed out of third place. With anything like his usual speed he could have saved third at least, but a sixteenth of a mile from the wire he wavered again and allowed the tired Billy Kelly to beat him.

Hildreth might have strengthened his hand in the race today by running Mad Hatter, which had been entered, but he withdrew this three-year-old to run him tomorrow in the Bowie Handicap, at a mile and a half, in which he will test strides with Cudgel and Exterminator. Mad Hatter is the distance runner of the Hildreth string, and the mile test today was exactly to the liking of Lucullite, had he been in a running mood.

Germa Wins Another.

G. W. Loft's Germa ran another very good race today, and was an easy winner in the Driving Park Purse for two-year-olds at six furlongs. She defeated St. Allan by two lengths, while the latter took the place from Wedding Cake by a length. These three stood out in the field of six, and received practically all of the support in the race, with Wedding Cake being the favorite at post time.

Germa was off none too well as she broke slowly, but from a good position, and Sande went to the outside, avoided interference, and brought the filly to the front at the head of the stretch. Wedding Cake set a very fast pace for five furlongs, and seemed to be the winner, when Germa began to move up. Wedding Cake wavered just slightly when the test came, and Germa had no trouble in drawing away in the stretch. St. Allan also caught Wedding Cake in the final sixteenth, and made second place sure in the last few yards.

R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Thistledon undertook a mile and a quarter test for the first time in the last race of the day, and won very easily from E. D. Weir's Tetley and John Farrell's Wisest Fool. Of the seven starters in the race none had ever gone the distance before, but Thistledon ran as though he outclassed his field. Pierce kept him off the early pace, while Searchlight III. was out in front, and did not move up until he was nearing the far turn in the back stretch. Then he went around his field, raced Searchlight III. into submission in a few strides, and entered the home stretch in front. From there it was an easy victory, as the others were tiring badly and Thistledon was still running strongly. Wisest Fool took the place in the last few strides, when Tetley weakened.

The first race went to Samuel Rose's Gnome, which proved to be the best of a field of cheap selling platers at a mile. He scored a close victory, winning from Duke John by a nose, with Le Balafre third.

Martha Luckett a Winner.

Richard Harding's Martha Luckett was another to win a very close decision. She defeated Faisan Dore and Runyyen, among others, in the second event, a six-furlong dash for juveniles. Martha Luckett led all the way, but was tiring and just lasted.

Eight maiden jumpers went to the post in the Baltimore Steeplechase and the victory went to W. T. Wilkinson's War Paint in a driving finish, with J. E. Widener's Houdini. Le Cyprin was third. The finish might have been reversed but for a bad ride on the part of Jockey Howard, who kept Houdini off the pace and back nearly last until the last half mile, when he came with a rush, but was too late. Houdini made up fifty lengths in the last half mile and was almost running over the winner at the end. War Paint was kept in front all the way and had disposed of all the others but Houdini when the final drive came.

F. Mutante's Nebraska got up just in time to win the sixth from Moon Jane by a neck, with Romeo third. This was a test at a mile for selling platers. Nebraska was well up throughout the race and made a strong finish. Wawbeek set the pace, but tired badly, while Lazy Lou, the favorite, was never a contender.

The summaries:

DISCUSS BOXING WEIGHTS.

International Sporting Club Defers Action Until Next Week.

Rules and weights, which are expected to become uniform in every country where boxing matches are conducted, were tentatively discussed yesterday at the initial meeting of the Rules and Weights Committee of the International Sporting Club. The meeting was called for the primary purpose of holding a preliminary discussion on the rules and weights, which it is planned to make standard. The officials, therefore, deferred a definite adoption of rules and weights until next Friday, when another meeting will be held and a permanent code arranged.

The meeting yesterday was attended by Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, Chairman of the committee; Charles J. Harvey, Captain Jack Gleason, Charles Thorley, Jack Skelly, Tex O'Rourke, and Charles F. Mathison. After a lengthy discussion it was decided to appoint a sub-committee to formulate a tentative program which will be submitted at next Friday's meeting. This sub-committee, composed of Messrs. Harvey, O'Rourke, Skelly and Mathison, will hold a private meeting Monday afternoon to submit tentative rules and weights.

College Harriers Race Today.

Cross country runners representing Penn, Dartmouth, and Columbia will compete this morning in a six-mile race over the championship course at Van Cortlandt Park. AMATEUR GUNNERS TO SHARE CONTROL

Will Co-operate with Pros in Trapshooting Affairs—Zone Plan Is Favored.

After sitting on the outside looking in for twenty-seven years, the amateur trapshooters of the United States and Canada came into their own at the second day's session of the annual meeting of the American Trapshooting Association at the Hotel Astor yesterday. Hereafter the amateurs will have a say in the management of the sport. The Interstate Association was the controlling body for twenty-five years. For the last two years the American Trapshooting Association, a reorganization of the Interstate, has held the reins, and while this association continues in power, the amateurs now have equal power in the government of the sport.

The American Trapshooting Association invited the various State associations of the United States and Canada to send delegates to the annual meeting, and the outcome of the meeting yesterday was that five delegates were selected as a committee representing the amateurs to work in conjunction with the Executive Committee of the American Trapshooting Association. The ten members of the combined committees will be in absolute control of trapshooting in 1920.

It was decided that this joint committee would convene in this city on Dec. 2, at which time the members will be prepared to announce officially their plans and other data for the coming year. The committee representing the amateurs is comprised of Jay Clark, Worcester, Mass., Chairman; E. P. Mathewson, Anaconda, Mon.; Samuel S. S. Foster, Mason City, Iowa; Ralph S. Spotts, New York City, and M. D. Hart, Richmond, Va.

The Executive Committee of the American Trapshooting Association is made up of T. H. Keller, New York; J. L. Clark, New York; C. W. Hymer, Wilmington, Del.; L. J. Squier, Cincinnati; F. G. Drew, New Haven.

There was a long discussion as to the manner in which trapshooting should be conducted in 1920; whether the game should be continued as at present; whether it should be divided into zones, with a manager in each of five, ten, or fifty zones; whether it would be best to charge shooters $1 or some other nominal amount for dues to be connected with the association and aid in the conduct of the sport in a manner befitting it. All these suggestions and many others were referred to the joint committee to take action upon. It will be upon these matters that the committee will announce its official action when it meets here on Dec. 2.

The delegates went on record as being opposed to the disbarment from competition in future of any shooter without his first having been given a trial. This was brought up because in one of the biggest shoots of the past season the entry of a well-known shooter of years ago was rejected and no reason assigned for the rejection.

The delegates to the meeting, besides the ones named on th committe of amateurs, were Martin McVoy, Daniel McMahon, and G. H. Martin of New York; Fred Ham, Connecticut; Nicholas K. Reimer, Rhode Island; E. E. Reed, former Congressman, of New Hampshire; Douglas Barclay, Vermont; C. A. Galbraith, Michigan; Harry Higgs, New Jersey; J. G. Clemson, Oregon; E. R. Galvin, Delaware.

THREE-CUSHION BILLIARDS.

Maupome, Cannefax, Heal, and Reiselt Win in Title Tourney.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Pierre Maupome of Milwaukee defeated Tiff Denton of Kansas City in the three-cushion billiard championship tournament of America here tonight by a score of 50 to 47 in sixty-eight innings. Denton led almost the entire distance, and made the high run of the tournament with a nine.

Charles Otis of Brooklyn lost his second consecutive game, being defeated tonight by R. L. Cannefax of New York, 50 to 38, in fifty-two innings. The latter had a high run of seven.

Hugh Heal of Toledo defeated Jean Lean of Cincinnati, 50 to 39, in 67 innings in the American three-cushion billiard tournament here this afternoon. Both had high runs of four.

In the second game this afternoon Otto Reiselt of Chicago won from Clarence Jackson of Detroit, 50 to 25, in 48 innings. Jackson's best run was five and Reiselt's four.

GREENLEAF BEATS SEEBACK.

Averages Better Than Three Balls a Minute at Pocket Billiards.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 7.—Making more than three balls a minute Ralph Greenleaf defeated Charles Seeback in the third and final block of their exhibition pocket billiard match here tonight by a score of 125 to 56. The total score for the three nights' play was: Greenleaf, 375; Seeback, 169. Greenleaf made the 125 balls in thirty-five minutes. He made high runs of 46 and 33. The match was refereed by George Worden. Immediately after the game Greenleaf announced that he had completed arrangements to play a week long exhibition match against George Clark at Maurice Daly's Academy in New York next week. It will be a 1,200-ball match, 100 points to be played each afternoon and evening.

Lewis Gains Tourney Lead.

Nat Lewis defeated M. Hirai by a score of 150 to 122 in a Class D straight-rail metropolitan billiard championship match at Crannfield's Academy last night. Lewis was in good stroke, and, while Hirai played gamely and made many good shots, he was not as consistent as the winner. Lewis made high runs of 34, 27, and 16, while Hirai's best efforts resulted in counts of 13, 11, and 11. Lewis will play in the game that will decide the championship on Monday night. Nadherny and Hirai will play tomorrow afternoon, and Lewis will meet the winner in the deciding game. Lewis, Nadherny, and Hirai were tied for the lead.

McManiman Wins at Billiards.

Playing in the Brooklyn 18.2 Balkline Billiard Tournament at the Brooklyn Billiard Academy last night, M. F. McManiman, playing for 150, defeated H. D. Jennings, playing for 200, by a score of 150 to 139. Jennings was in poor stroke and his best runs were 18 and 14. He averaged 3 26-53. McManiman made high runs of 25 and 20, and averaged 3 24-53. The match was featured by the safety playing of both men.

Camel CIGARETTES

CAMELS are unlike any cigarette you ever smoked—in quality, in flavor, in mellow-mildness and in real satisfaction! Any way you consider Camels they are a cigarette revelation! Camels meet your favor so completely you will want to smoke them liberally—and you can, without tiring your taste!

Camels are an expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos. This blend is so unusual, so delightful, you will prefer it to either kind of tobacco smoked straight! It will absolutely answer every wish you ever expressed for a cigarette made to meet your taste!

Camels have a smoothness that is as unique as it is refreshing. Yet, Camels have that all there body that gives satisfaction so generously. And, you'll enjoy Camels freedom from any unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste or any unpleasant cigaretty odor.

You'll quickly realize that you very much prefer Camels quality to premiums, coupons or gifts.

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes; or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

BROKERS IN THEATRE TICKETS ARRESTED

Policewoman Mary Sullivan Tours Times Square District and Arrests 3 Speculators.

HEAVY ADVANCES CHARGED

Federal Government Agents on the Trail of Persons Who Fail to Pay War Tax.

Government agents are after ticket speculators in this city, it was learned last night, with a view to stopping alleged violations of the Federal law for failure to pay the war tax imposed on tickets sold at higher than box office prices. The New York police are said to be aiding the Secret Sergive agents in a search for tax dodgers.

Seats marked $2.75, including the war tax, are often sold by speculators at prices reaching as high as $10. The Government collects the regular 10 per cent. tax through the theatres, and in the case of ticket agencies, through both agencies and theatres. Evidence is said to have reached the Government that many of the tickets sold on the streets by speculators have produced no additional revenue to the Government. Practically no records of sales have been made by speculators in this city.

The city also is after the speculators on its own account for violation of a city ordinance. Three arrests charging offenses against the corporation laws were made last night by Miss Mary Sullivan, a policewoman attached to the office of Fifth Deputy Police Commissioner Ellen O'Grady. Commissioner O'Grady said last night that no case of the sort had been brought to her attention, and she thought that Miss Sullivan had been assigned by some one outside of her office, as is frequently done when women police are needed.

Miss Sullivan's arrests were made in the Times Square district last night. She was accompanied by two detectives, who will be witnesses when the prisoners are arraigned today in the Fifty-fourth Street Magistrate's Court.

A man giving the name of Sidney J. Hill of 33 West Thirty-second Street, who said he was a clerk, was arrested on Forty-second Street. Miss Sullivan charges that he sold her two tickets for "Clarence" at the Hudson Theatre for $9.00 each. Marked on both of the tickets was the price of $2.75, including 25 cents for war tax.

Barney Warfield, who said he lived in a hotel at 125th Street and Seventh Avenue, and sold theatre tickets at 206 West Forty-sixth Street, was also arrested by Miss Sullivan. She charged that he sold her two tickets for the "Ziegfeld Follies" at the New Amsterdam for $4.40, an advance of 53 cents over the price marked on the tickets.

A man who gave the name of Lew Newman of 612 West 115th Street, was the third prisoner. He was arrested at 1,482 Broadway, near Forty-second Street. Miss Sullivan charged that Newman sold her two tickets for the Lyceum Theatre, where "The Gold Diggers" is playing, for $5 each, an advance of $2.25 for each ticket. Newman runs a cigar store and ticket agency in the Fitzgerald Building.

The charge against the ticket speculators appearing on the blotter of the West Forty-seventh Street Station was "violation of the corporation laws." Bail in each of the cases was fixed at $500, and the three men were released on bail until this morning, when they will be brought before a Magistrate.

TWO PLAYS IN ONE THEATRE

"The Dancer" at Morning and Afternoon Matinees at the Lyric.

The experiment of presenting a show at morning and afternoon matinées only will be tried next week by the Shuberts with their production of "The Dancer." "The Dancer" is now at the Harris Theatre, but must move after tonight to make room for an incoming attraction, and at first arrangements were made for it to go to the Comedy Theatre, thus forcing out "Fifty-fifty, Ltd.," which has been playing there. "Fifty-fifty, Ltd." did not want to go, however, and it was arranged that it should remain and that "The Dancer" should go to the Lyric Theatre for afternoon matinées on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, and a morning performance every Saturday. The attraction now at the Lyric is "Nothing But Love."

An announcement of the same nature is that, following the forced departure of "Boys Will Be Boys" from the Belmont Theatre next week, Harry Beresford will appear in a series of afternoon and morning performances.

This placing of two shows in the same house illustrates the shortage of theatres, for this season at least.

Galli-Curci Sings at the Biltmore.

The first of this season's Friday Morning Musicales at the Biltmore yesterday drew a large and enthusiastic audience to hear Mme. Galli-Curci and her fellow-artists. Mme. Galli-Curci sang "Caro nome" from Rigoletto, a group of songs, "Paysage," by Hahn; "The Little Bells of Sevilla," by Samuels; "Oh, Let Me Dream," by Liszt; "Carceleras," by Chapi, adding two little English ballads as encores, and her closing number, "Carnevale di Venezia," by Bishop, with flute obligato by Manuel Berenguer, was followed by "The Suwanee River."

James Stanley, basso, and Winston Wilkinson, violinist, also sang and played. Mr. Stanley gave the "Vision Fugitive" from Herodiade, and Widor's "Plongeur," with "Madelon" as an encore; Damrosch's "Danny Deever" and Speaks's "On the Road to Mandalay." Mr. Wilkinson played Volpe's "Chant d'Amour," Gardner's "From the Canebrake," Arensky-Volpe's "The Little Fish's Song," and "Gypsy Dances," by Sarasate.

Michael Fokine, Dancer, Arrives.

The famous Russian dancer, Michael Fokine, the originator of the Russian ballet, arrived yesterday on the Scandinavian-American liner United States to direct the dances in "Aphrodite" at the Century Theatre. He was accompanied by his wife, Vera, and their 13-year-old son, Citali. He declared that the latest dances of the tango and jazz type have no place in art.

Mr. Fokine said he considered dancing one of the greatest of the arts of expression, and his aim was to have every movement and plastic pose represent a picture, or have a distinct meaning. His wife originated Mme. Pavlowa's "Dying Swan" dance.

MUSIC NOTES.

Professor Carlos Valderrama, who has been making a study of the music of the Incas in Peru and other South American countries, gave a concert yesterday in the Artists' Room of Aeolian Hall. Ex-President Jose Pardo of Peru and several officials of the Peruvian Government were among those present.

The Metropolitan Opera Orchestra is announced to play at Cesare Sodero's concert tomorrow evening at the Brooklyn Academy.

The Borough Park Y. M. H. A., at Fourteenth Avenue and Fiftieth Street, Brooklyn, will give a concert free to the public on Monday evening.

Maude Young, soprano, will appear at a festival concert of the American Legion on Tuesday night at the College of the City of New York.

MUSIC

By RICHARD ALDRICH.

The New Symphony Orchestra.

The New Symphony Orchestra repeated, yesterday afternoon, its program of Thursday evening in Carnegie Hall, Schubert's C Major Symphony, Ernest Bloch's two "Poems," and David Stanley Smith's overture, "Prince Hal," Op. 31. This overture was first performed in New York at a public meeting of the National Institute of Arts and Letters in 1914, when the program was made up entirely of works by the members of the institute.

Professor Smith does not wish apparently to have his overture viewed as a portrait of Shakespeare's prince, or as conveying Shakespearean incidents, or even a Shakespearean atmosphere. He wishes it rather to suggest vigorous, healthy young manhood. It is first of all a well-written, engrossing piece of music, with one theme, at least, of striking individuality sufficient to carry it through a process of free and ingenious development and to hold water all the way. There is fresh and vigorous treatment in the orchestration, and the music is sustained in interest throughout. It is a work, on the whole, that reflects credit on American musicianship.

Harold Henry's Piano Recital.

Harold Henry, a young American pianist, who first played in New York a few years ago, gave a recital yesterday afternoon of which the program contained a number of unfamiliar and interesting items. It was a capital idea to begin with the spirited "Preambulum" of Bach's partita in G; to follow it with Brahms's fourth Ballade, from his Op. 10; and among other pieces little known were Liszt's "Fantasy Sonata after a reading of Dante." Grieg's ballad from the Lyric Pieces Op. 65; No. 5, a "Sioux Flute Serenade," by Charles S. Skilton, and a piece of his own called "The Dancing Marionette."

Mr. Henry's playing hardly bore out the promise he made on his first appearance here. His tone was singularly gray and unvaried in color, and the slips in his technique were uncomfortably many. He plays with sincerity and an evident absorption in the music, but he did not seem able yesterday to get much below its surface.

Maurice Dambois's Recital.

The talented young Belgian violoncellist, Maurice Dambois, gave a recital in the evening in Aeolian Hall, in which he showed an accomplished mastery of his instrument, a finished style, an engaging, if rather small, tone, dexterous and elastic bowing, and a brilliant technique of the left hand. His most significant numbers were the "Variations Symphoniques" of Bodiman and Haydn's concerto in D.

Thereafter he played a group of smaller pieces including Bruch's arrangement of the Hebrew air Kol Nidrei, Kreisler's arrangement of a scherzo by Dittersdorf, an arrangement of Debussy's piano piece called "En Bateau," and a "Caprice Russe," by himself.

MME. FARRAR OPERATED ON.

Slight Ailment of Throat Remedied —First Week's Opera Bills.

The Metropolitan Opera forces are assembling for the opening of the season a week from Monday, Signor Caruso being due at 5 o'clock this afternoon from Mexico, by way of St. Louis, over the Pennsylvania lines. With the tenor will be the new Italian contralto, Mme. Besanzoni. Mme. Farrar hastened home yesterday morning from Waterbury, Conn., hiring a special locomotive to bring her in the private car she occupied during her concert tour. Her friends learned that Mme. Farrar underwent a slight operation on the throat during the Summer, and that she expected to be in better voice than for some years past.

General Manager Gatti-Casazza last night made public the season's opening nights as follows: Monday, Nov. 17, "Tosca," sung by Caruso, Farrar, and Scotti; Wednesday, "Aida." Music, Martinelli, and début of Besanzoni. Ganelli, and Martino; Thursday, "Barbiere," Garrison, Bérat (new), Hackett, Amato, Mardones; Friday, "Faust," Farrar, Martinelli, Rothier; Saturday matinee, "La Juive," Caruso, Ponselle, Scotti, and début of Evelyn Scotney and Harrold; Saturday evening, Nov. 22, "Il Travatore," Music, Kingston, Amato, and Jeanne Gordon, (debut).

Seven singers are new in the Metropolitan list, as is also Albert Wolff, composer of "The Blue Bird," who will make his first appearance as conductor of "Faust" on Tuesday, Nov. 18. Aida, Sundelius, Harrold, and Chalmers will sing in Brooklyn in "La Bohème."

MINSTRELS TO CELEBRATE.

McIntyre and Heath to Observe 45th Anniversary as Partners.

McIntyre and Heath will celebrate their forty-fifth anniversary as partners next Wednesday. Their association is said to be the longest in the history of the American stage.

The celebration will begin with a matinée of "Hello, Alexander," in which the minstrels are appearing at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre, and among the guests will be a score of veterans of minstrelsy, the oldest of whom is Fred Wilson, ninety-two. Fifteen of the old-timers will come from the Actors Fund Home. Some of them will be introduced into the minstrel part of "Hello, Alexander."

In the evening the partners will give a dinner at the N. V. A. Club in West Forty-sixth Street at which E. F. Albee, head of the chain of Keith Theatres, will be the guest of honor.

ASPIRIN—Its Uses

First Introduced by "Bayer" in the Year 1900

The name "Bayer" identifies the true, world-famous Aspirin prescribed by physicians for nineteen years. The name "Bayer" means genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions of people.

In each unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" you are told how to safely take this genuine Aspirin for Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis and Pain generally.

Always say "Bayer" when buying Aspirin. Then look for the safety "Bayer Cross" on the package and on the tablets.

Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages.

Aspirin is trade mark of Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

The Service of Sanatogen to the Man Who Works His Brain

"WITHOUT albumen, no life; without phosphorus, no thought"—so runs a famous saying. True, the healthy body gets enough albumen and phosphorus from the daily food, but an over-taxed brain and nervous system will run short of these vital substances because the demand outruns the normal supply. Then we have fatigue, depression—and worse, if nothing be done.

It is then that Sanatogen is of splendid aid. Combining purest albumen and organic phosphorus in chemical union, Sanatogen takes to the fundamental sources of nervous and mental efficiency just the elements needed. It supplies these elements quickly and without strain upon digestion, giving the depleted cells real nutriment, real sustenance and no false stimulation.

The result of this is well summed up by Sir Gilbert Parker when he writes, "Sanatogen to my mind is a true food-tonic, giving fresh vigor to the overworked body and mind." And by Arnold Bennett, who tersely reports, "The effect of Sanatogen upon the nervous system is simply wonderful."

It is well to remember that the medical profession has set the seal of approval upon the value of Sanatogen—no less than 21,000 doctors have written letters endorsing its value.

Should not the knowledge of these facts create the conviction that Sanatogen will also help you?

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere, in sizes from $1.00 up.

Grand Prize, International Congress of Medicine, London 1913

McBRIDE'S POLICY

THE extravagantly high premiums that are being charged for theatre tickets at various offices all over town discourages theatre going, hurts theatre management and therefore impels us to repeat our long established policy to our patrons.

Our fixed charge for service of fifty cents per ticket over box office prices is the cornerstone upon which our business was founded forty-six years ago, and we limit ourselves to that moderate amount.

A recent law fixes that amount as the standard. This was our practice long before the law.

With the high cost of living we appreciate the theatre-going public cannot afford unreasonable prices for amusement and we want our patrons to know that so far as McBride's is concerned there is now no higher cost of tickets over box office prices than heretofore.

We are the same people who started this business, father and sons, and we propose to continue to deserve the approval of the theatre-going public and the theatre management by standing for a square deal—a square deal to one and all alike—by making theatre going a real pleasure and not carrying with it a feeling of injustice in ticket buying.

Our policy is to stabilize the business for the benefit of all.

DRYS' LEAD IN OHIO ON UNOFFICIAL VOTE

One Estimate Gives Them a Majority of 267 for Upholding Ratification.

OFFICIAL COUNT NECESSARY

Wets Still Claim Victory by 2,400—No Republican Sweep, Says Durbin.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 7.—Calculations by the Ohio newspapers tonight give the drys a lead of 227 in one newspaper and 267 in the other on Federal ratifications. It was again emphasized that the official count will be necessary, with probable litigation on disputed returns. Both sides continue to claim victory.

A new State Enforcement act will be placed before the General Assembly by the Anti-Saloon League to take the place of the drastic law which the State rejected on Tuesday.

Secretary of State Harvey C. Smith has made every effort to hasten the twenty-five lagging counties, but it is to no avail.

The best that could be promised was that the returns will not be at hand officially until the middle of next week. So close are the returns that errors either way in the official figures may swing it.

The scale favor of the Wets varied from one solitary vote in nearly a million to 769 majority. Statistician S. M. Jackson thinks the State has gone for ratification but his unofficial figures contain obvious inaccuracies and are incomplete as to seven precincts which may hold the balance of power. This is discounted, too, by the fact that Johnson's statements have been toned down from hour to hour, and where this morning he thought the prohibitionists in the lead by 5,000, at night he found the official figures absolutely necessary.

So earnest are the rival leaders that both were leaning on his desk at the same time today clamoring for the final returns. Telephones and telegrams found the local officials absent from their posts and apparently indifferent to the intense interest displayed at the old State House.

Then, again, the big city counties with enormous numbers of votes have not completed their reviews of the returns, and mistakes are likely to occur. In Hamilton County two cases of error are at hand. A mistake of 60 votes in one precinct was checked today which does not show on Johnson's calculations. It was in favor of the liberals. In another precinct, known to be liberal, the tally sheets apparently have been marked heavily for the prohibitionists, and a contest of election in that instance may result in an order to recount the votes and make a correction.

Contest Is Imminent.

A Statewide contest by one or the other of the two factions appears imminent when the official votes have been counted, because of the national issue that may turn on Ohio. Factionalists on the issue from Maine to California have besieged the office for definite information.

Both factions make their claims "with confidence." The dry's say they have won by 2,000 or more and the Liberals claim victory by 2,400 or more. Both are relying on the official figures to verify their positions.

Interest has been lost in the other propositions, the previous standing of two Dry and one Liberal victory holding.

In a telegram to Democratic National Chairman Homer S. Cummings, Ohio Democratic Chairman W. W. Durbin asks Cummings to set the country right on the Ohio elections. There was no Republican sweep, save in Cleveland and Columbus. The remainder of the State showed heavy Democratic gains. Durbin says:

"I want the people of the country to know that Ohio, which saved the situation in 1916, went Democratic this year. Democratic Mayors were elected in Lima, Canton, Portsmouth, Toledo, Steubenville, Newark, Findlay, Circleville, Bucyrus, Urbana, Galion, Bellefontaine, Hamilton, St. Mary's, Pomeroy, Marietta, and in scores of other cities and numberless villages over the State. In these immense Democratic gains were registered.

"The big majority of the township officers throughout the State were elected by the Democrats, many of them being in townships strongly Republican. In many, many counties the Democratic gain was tremendous. This is true even in many places where the Republican candidates were elected."

WASHINGTON WATCHES OHIO.

Wet Victory Would Raise Doubt on Date of Liquor Ban.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The possible recall in Tuesday's elections of Ohio's ratification of the prohibition amendment to the Federal Constitution has raised a doubt as to whether the amendment will become effective on January 16, 1920, as provided in the proclamation of the Acting Secretary of State of the United States.

In the proclamation issued on January 19, 1919, setting forth that official documents in the possession of the Department of State showed that three-fourths of the States—the necessary number—had ratified the prohibition amendment on January 16, the amendment became a part of the Constitution from that date. There are forty-eight States, and the number named in Acting Secretary Polk's proclamation was 36, or exactly three-fourths.

One of the ratifying States named in Mr. Polk's proclamation was Ohio. After Ohio's notice of ratification had been received at the State Department notice was received that two additional States had ratified the amendment on Jan. 16. The question is now raised whether in the event of the recall of Ohio's ratification the number of proclaimed ratifying States would not be reduced to thirty-five, or one less than the number necessary to ratify, necessitating the Secretary of State's issuing another proclamation.

From the language of the joint resolution of Congress submitting the amendment to the States, it is provided that the amendment shall become operative one year from the date that the article has been ratified. There seems to be no doubt that the amendment had been ratified by thirty-eight States on Jan. 16.

If Ohio should recall her ratification of the amendment, and such recall be held to be legal by the United States Supreme Court, where the legality of the recall law is now under review, the question will arise whether the amendment will become effective on Jan. 16. The contention may be made that a new proclamation is necessary, and that a year's notice must be given of the coming into effect of the amendment. This, however, is held not to accord with the language of the amendment itself.

In previous cases where States have recalled their ratification of Constitutional amendments, the Supreme Court has held that no State possessed the right to recall an assent once given. In the Ohio case however, the point at issue is whether the Legislature of the State had the right to ratify without submitting the amendment to a direct vote of the people. While there may not be much evidence that there will be any delay beyond Jan. 16 in putting the amendment into effect, the fact remains that there will be an element of uncertainty until the Supreme Court hands down its opinion.

The view of the prohibitionists was set forth today by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, as follows:

"The Secretary of State issues a proclamation when thirty-six States have reported favorable action. The proclamation shows that thirty-six States had ratified by Jan. 16, 1919. It did not include all the States which had ratified by that date. Missouri and Wyoming also ratified the amendment on Jan. 16. Two other States can be lost from the number and there would be no change in the date when the nation goes dry under the Federal Constitution. The Secretary of State is custodian of the records relating to ratification. The court will look to those records to find when thirty-six States have ratified. The record proves that thirty-eight ratified on Jan. 16, 40 by Jan. 17, 41 by Jan. 21, 42 by Jan. 22, 44 by Jan. 29, and 45 by Feb. 25.

"Two State Supreme Courts have held that their State Constitutions do not permit a referendum. This settles the case in those States, as the Supreme Court follows the State Supreme courts on the construction of their own Constitution.

"Ohio is the only State in the Union which has a Constitutional provision which provides specifically for a referendum on the Federal amendment. Cases are pending in the Supreme Courts of Nebraska, New Mexico, Michigan, Colorado, and California. There is no probability that the State Supreme Court will permit enough elections to be held to change the result even if all the States voting voted wet.

"The liquor interests have absolutely no chance in any of the proposed referendum States unless it would be California, Missouri, and Wisconsin. That the referendum is unauthorized is demonstrated by the fact that an amendment to the Federal Constitution has been proposed in the United States Senate to amend Article V, and permit a referendum. Both wet and dry senators in the discussion were a unit that a referendum now would be illegal. We confidently believe the Supreme Court would so hold."

THINKS DRY LAW WILL FAIL.

Governor-Elect Edwards Says, However, It Is Now Part of Constitution.

Governor-elect Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey yesterday, in his office in Jersey City, said that the prohibition amendment is a part of the Constitution and is constitutional until it is declared unconstitutional by the courts.

"The prohibition amendment," Mr. Edwards said, "is in the Constitution. It is constitutional until it has been tested and declared unconstitutional by the courts. It is my opinion it will not stand the test, and will be found to be unconstitutional. There are so many things crowding on my attention I have no time to concentrate long on any one thing, so I cannot at this [illegible] further what I have said in my interview. I shall go away as soon as I can get ready. I don't know where I shall stay, but when I leave I shall be headed straight for Washington."

He did not explain the meaning of the assertion that he would be "headed straight for Washington."

DECLARES NEW YORK DRIEST CITY FOR SIZE

Lieut. Col. Porter, Comparing Population, Sees Minimum Record for Illicit Sales Here.

500 COMPLAINTS FOR DAY

Chief of Revenue Agents, However, Praises Citizens for Observance of the Dry Law.

New York is the driest city in the United States for its size and population, according to Lieutenant Colonel Daniel L. Porter, Chief of the Revenue Agents, Division of New York, who returned yesterday from Washington.

Colonel Porter's rosy (or drab) view of the situation seemed susceptible to considerable modification, after it was stated at the office of the revenue agents that during the day more than 500 complaints of illicit liquor sales had been received either by telephone or letter. It was freely admitted that liquor could be obtained by those who were on ready speaking terms with the saloon keepers, but it was emphatically asserted that even this condition would not long continue, and that as fast as the limited force of agents could follow up complaints the violations would be stopped.

Mr. Porter returned to this city to relieve Harry W. Mager, Chief of the Revenue Agents of the United States, who went back to Washington. While away from New York Mr. Porter had an opportunity to get a better perspective of the liquor situation in general, and in the light of what he had learned, upon resuming his local post yesterday, he unqualifiedly praised New Yorkers for their observance of the new regulations.

"There is less illicit liquor sold here in proportion to the population than in any other city in the country," he said. "This shows that as a whole New Yorkers are a body of law-abiding, good American citizens." During the last twenty-four hours, Colonel Porter said, there had not been a single arrest made through his office for any violations of the liquor regulations in this city. This statement was made at noon. Later in the afternoon one arrest was reported and others were expected.

Acting upon reports that some rectifiers had recently dismantled their plants and removed, Colonel Porter sent out field agents yesterday to check up on the 600 rectifiers licensed in the New York Division and in operation on July 1 last.

A long calendar of cases in Judge Learned Hand's part of the United States District Court yesterday prevented the resumption of the argument of the anti-prohibition cases which had been adjourned from Thursday.

Colonel Porter was called away from his office yesterday afternoon and will not return until Monday. In his absence Harry Benson, one of his assistants, will be in charge of the enforcement of the National Prohibition act.

DOVER, N. J., Nov. 7.—Exhumation of the body of John Kopinics, a Mount Hope miner who died last Tuesday from the effects of drinking a "home made" alcoholic concoction, was made today by Coroner Voelker. The stomach was sent to Morristown for examination. Kopinics and two companions, one of whom has disappeared, and the other, who is in the Dover General Hospital totally blind and may be permanently blind, are said to have purchased the concoction and to have mixed it with ginger ale.

DRYS GAIN IN KENTUCKY.

99 Out of 120 Counties Give 7,797 for the Amendment.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 7.—Increasing majorities for State-wide prohibition were recorded today in additional returns from Tuesday's election. Tabulators at the close of the day had figures which showed a majority of 7,707 for from 99 of the 120 counties in the State the amendment, which largely exceeded the estimate for the whole State by the Anti-Saloon League.

Officers of the league expect the 21 unreported counties still to further swell the "dry" lead.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ......5½@6 for the best names
Thursday ......5½@6 for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Staple Laces None Too Active.

Although novelties, particularly in metallic effects, are active enough in the local lace trade, it was asserted yesterday that the same could hardly be said of the general run of the more staple goods. A pretty good call was told of for crochet and cluny laces, with a fair demand for filet and imitation baby Irish. The last-named is wanted chiefly by the manufacturing trades. On the whole, it was said, there is not a great deal to complain of, considering the doldrums the trade was in for several seasons.

Madras as Scarce as Silk.

Although the cry for the moment is for silk shirts, it was stated yesterday in the trade that the shortage of madras shirts is even more acute than in those made of finer materials. Oxfords have also been cleaned out by the huge volume of sales. Shipments of silk shirts to even the largest manufacturers are being made only a few dozens at a time, which do not come near satisfying the present proportions of the demand.

Held Up for Yarns.

Not only is the condition of the silk yarn market disturbing to makers of woolens, but the shortage of worsted and woolen yarns is also affecting the production of mills which do not produce their own material. In one case cited yesterday no large purchase has been possible for three months past. The yarns obtained in that time have come through in quantities sufficient to make only twenty or thirty pieces when what the mill requires is enough material to produce fabrics in the thousands of pieces.

Boys' Clothing Business.

Following a successful Fall season, manufacturers who carry separate lines of boys' clothing or specialize on such goods report that Spring business has shown an excellent increase. A new departure for many houses will be the marking of boys' clothing in what are known as Summer fabrics. Practically everything will be provided for boys that is now made for men. While prices are much higher than those formerly asked, the manufacturers are emphasizing the quality of the new clothing and point out that the purchase of a well-made suit of a known brand really means a saving on account of the better service it gives.

Fair Prices and Cothing Demand.

Just what the effect of a fair price list for clothing will be local clothiers were not prepared to say yesterday. They agreed, however, that if the demand continues to be of the same character as during the last few months a fair price list will not cut much of a figure. At present, it was said, the bulk of Spring buying has been on the higher-priced lines, and there seems to be no call at all for the cheap merchandise. The same state of affairs is reported by the local offices of out-of-town manufacturers who understand conditions in the other markets.

May Curtail Fall Deliveries.

The inability of many of the shoe manufacturers to get their production on anything like a normal basis was said yesterday to forecast a shortage of general lines of footwear later in the current season or during the coming one. While some of the manufacturers have gone slowly in booking advance orders for Spring, reports from other quarters indicate that the new season's output will be taken care of, at the expense of the present one, through the refusal of important duplicate business on Fall shoes. In view of the prices that are quoted on some of the lines now being shown for Spring, as compared with those got for Fall goods, it is charged that the concerns which are turning down repeat business in the heavier footwear on the ground that they may be unable to complete deliveries in time are not altogether altruistic in their intentions, either toward the retailer or the consumer.

A Form of Economy.

Apropos of the present demand for high-priced goods, the following story was told by a salesman who was present when the incident described took place: "A man came into a store down South," he said, "and wanted to buy a suit of overalls. His usual brand was put before him. When he heard the price he called the retailer all kinds of a profiteer, robber, and other nice names. The storekeeper informed him that it was the lowest price within ten miles, to his certain knowledge. In no way appeased, the customer walked off in a temper to the door. Passing the shirt counter, however, he spied a pattern in silk that caught his eye. The upshot of it was he bought two silk shirts for which he paid $18."

Gray Goods Sales Slow Down.

There was a distinct slowing down in the business done in the local gray goods market yesterday, though most of it was noticeable in the transactions in sheetings and printcloths. Second hands have again come forward with goods an eighth to a quarter of a cent under the market, with the result that first hands are "sitting tight" and doing little or nothing. In cases where prompt deliveries are wanted, second hands are asking as much as the mills would if the latter had the goods to sell, but the concessions appear when contract deliveries are spoken of. Among the principal sales made yesterday by second hands were a few November 38½-inch 64-60s at 13¼ cents. The same sellers let out November lots of 39-inch 80 squares and 68-72s at 30 and 23 cents, respectively, and they also sold January-March deliveries of 38½-inch 60-48s at 15¼ cents. In the sheetings second hands sold January-March 5.50-yard goods at 15¼ cents.

Havana Might Help Out.

The possibility of Havana supplanting Palm Beach as the Winter style capital, as a result of the "wide-open" tendencies of the former and the effects of prohibition on the latter, might not be such a bad thing for the American garment trades after all. It was suggested here yesterday that not only would the makers of resort wear do as large a business if society chose Havana for its Winter quarters as they would if Palm Beach continued the vogue, but that the choosing of the Cuban city might stimulate purchases of American-made garments by South Americans who would doubtless be attracted there by the change. The latter, of course, would not get much difference in the way of temperature in Havana, due to the reversal of the seasons south of the equator, but it is that very thing which would doubtless increase sales of American goods. Instead of stocking up only for a few weeks, as the women do who go south from this part of the country, the South Americans would have an incentive to buy for a whole season. The chic appearance of the American women would, it is contended, also have its effect.

Strike End Pleases Trade.

Nothing that has happened since the signing of the armistice was more welcome to the local dry goods export trade than the ending of the longshoremen's strike. Not only had it resulted in tremendous quantities of merchandise being tied up at the piers and in various warehouses, but the inability to move the goods was beginning to have a deterring effect on demand. The break in cotton also is expected to improve demand somewhat, for with many kinds of merchandise held at very high levels because of the record price of the staple, foreign buyers, particularly those from Latin-American countries, were none too keen about going on committing themselves. Just how soon demand will get back where it was a few weeks ago is a question, but, with the strike out of the way, exporters once more feel that they can breathe freely.

London Wool Market Is Firm.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The offerings at the wool auction sales today amounted to 9,850 bales. Rates were firm for fine and medium grades, but the tone was quieter owing to the increased bank rate.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

Most of the Week's Revisions in Foodstuffs Were Upward.

Perhaps the most interesting thing about wholesale commodities price changes this week, as reflected by Dun's list, is that the advances outnumber the declines about three to one. There are, however, fewer advances than have been recorded for some time, the list in this respect being the reverse from that of last week. Then there were eighty-four changes, of which fifty-five were upward, while this week's total is only forty-five and the advances number only thirty-three. Most of the revisions in the foodstuffs, however, were upward, and the advances in the metals list clearly showed the effect of the strike on prices of iron and steel products.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and for the corresponding week a year ago:

	This Week.	Last Week.	Year Ago.

*Government maximums. †Nominal.

Important advances were lacking in the local provisions markets during the week. There was no change in the price of flour, and hams also were unchanged. For the first time since the War Department started selling its surplus foods, however, there was an increase in the price of bacon. It amounted to half a cent a pound. In the Chicago market there were advances in live beef and hogs, as well as in mess pork and short ribs. Live sheep did not change. Middle Western lard declined.

The local market for dairy products failed to show a rise in butter. The best cheese was higher, but there was some easing off in the prices of the under grades. Both fancy nearby and the best Western eggs went up a cent a dozen for the week, which put the latter at the same price which prevailed at this time last year. The fancy nearby eggs are 3 cents a dozen lower than the corresponding 1918 figure, in spite of the advance registered this week.

In the vegetables the changes were few, potatoes showing a rise of 50 cents a barrel and other revisions being unimportant. The fresh fruits in the list were bare of changes either way, while in the dried ones the fluctuations included declines in California peaches and prunes. Both of the basic grades of Brazilian coffee were higher. Teas were unchanged, and a drop in Zanzibar cloves was the only change in spices.

Advances in corn, oats and rye marked the week in the grains market, the only decline being supplied by malting barley. Hides and leathers both failed to show a revision either way. In the combined markets for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils the advances tripled the declines, but both the "ups" and "downs" were few and far between. One of the most notable changes was the rise in menthol to $10.50 a case. Advances in the naval stores were shown by resin and turpentine.

Declines in lake copper and tin were the only weak spots in the metals list. Antimony, electrolytic copper, spelter and lead were higher in the minor metals. In the major articles advances were recorded in gray forge No. 2 pig iron at Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, respectively, and in wire rods and refined iron bars at Pittsburgh. The miscellaneous changes included a rise in hemp and a drop in tallow.

The week's activities in the textile markets resulted in higher prices on both light and heavy weight burlaps, as well as in several constructions of printcloths, sheetings, &c., in the unfinished state. Some lines of bleached goods were placed "at value" as a result of the steady rise in the cost of the gray cloths. The feature of the linens was the further selling of British airplane cloth, which resulted in about one-quarter of the total yardage allotted to this country being disposed of.

Plea of New York Call Postponed.

Argument on the application of counsel for the Workingmen's Co-operative Publishing Association for a writ of mandamus compelling Postmaster Thomas G. Patten to grant second-class privileges to The New York Call was postponed yesterday by Federal Judge Learned Hand until Nov. 14, at the request of Assistant District Attorney Barnes.

ITALY OBTAINS OIL SUPPLY

Output of Concessions in Caucasus Is Enough for Her Needs.

An Italian commission sent to the Caucasus to study the resources of the country has reported that the oil wells of Batum can produce 5,000,000 tons a year, sufficient to cover Italy's entire petroleum requirements, according to a report from Alfred P. Dennis, Commercial Attaché at Rome, to the Department of Commerce. Fine stands of timber also are reported and valuable manganese deposits.

"The statement indicates," Mr. Dennis's report says, "that the Italian petroleum and mining concessions in the Caucasus are destined to play an important rôle in the future economic life of Italy."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Speculation in Higher-Priced Stocks Slows Down—Call Loan Rate Firm.

A feature of yesterday's business on the Stock Exchange was a marked contraction of activity among the higher priced industrial shares, as compared with earlier days of the week. The number of shares of General Motors, Studebaker, and Texas Company, among others, which were turned over was substantially smaller than on Thursday, and only about half as many shares of Steel common were dealt in. The product of this slackening of speculation among stocks which had been standing in the front rank was a shrinkage of considerable proportions in the total of shares dealt in, although the trading list was one of the broadest of the year. The breadth of the market was caused in part by an increase of the number of railroad issues to which traders directed attention. Price changes everywhere were irregular, an appearance of strength in the middle of the day being sandwiched in between periods of softening quotations. At the close there were scattered gains from 1 to 3 points, and numerous declines of equal extent, while fractional alterations were about evenly divided among the stocks of secondary trading importance.

In view of a 12 per cent. renewal rate for call money, it might be argued that a reason for quiet among issues requiring much credit to carry was the high cost implied by the demand loan quotation. It was the second consecutive day for a 12 per cent. rate, and the minimum for the week had been no lower than 10 per cent. Such rates over a considerable period mean fairly expensive operations for traders on margin, much more than when a fluctuating loan market enables brokers to borrow one day at high and another day at relatively low figures. It would hardly do, however, to lay too much stress on the showing of a single session, nor to deduce therefrom a theory that exceptionally high renewal rates were bringing about the effect on speculation that the Federal Reserve Bank officials are aiming at. Frequently, on Fridays speculative transactions ease off and profit-taking gains headway, also, in advance of the week-end recess. The way the industrial group generally sagged in late trading indicated that much realizing was being put through. The railroad department after the midday awakening lapsed again into indifference. Liberty bonds were under pressure, the Fourth 4¼s reaching a new low level at 93.

If nervousness over the credit situation had been lacking, a further advance of stocks might have been expected yesterday. There was more than a little constructive news, dealing chiefly with labor events, centred in signs of a breaking up of the coal strike, and with evidence contained in trade reviews that retail and wholesale undertakings in many lines were going forward with full confidence of active times ahead. The Street found, however, too much to think of in the matter of future stock market credit to turn to other factors, for the time at least. Not only did call money fail to get below 10 per cent., in the afternoon, but there were indications of further hardening of time money rates. Counting in the so-called commission or service charge, thirty-day to six months' accommodation in the form of collateral loans was quoted from 6¾ to 8 per cent., depending on the quality of the security. The $250,000,000 payment on the new United Kingdom loan was made during the day, and part of the funds were immediately available in the call loan market, an event which emphasized the cost of market credit as rates eased not at all.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Exchange Seats at $110,000.

It was learned in the financial district yesterday that two sales of New York Stock Exchange membership seats have been proposed for the approval of the Committee on Admissions, the consideration in each instance being $110,000, a new record high price. When asked for the names of the sellers and buyers of the two seats a Governor of the Exchange said yesterday that when the transfers had been approved the announcement would be made next week, and at the same time drew attention to the fact that in one instance a member agreed to sell his seat for $84,000, but the man who was ready to buy it was turned down by the Exchange authorities. This occurred within the last few years, and the original owner of the seat still retains it.

Rail Earnings Improving.

In railroad circles an improvement in earnings is reported, with the gain from operation by the Railroad Administration in September showing an excess above standard return of roughly $3,000,000 even after the deduction of some $16,000,000 additional expense on account of the wage advance to shopmen. While this gain is shown it is acknowledged that the operating deficit of the Railroad Administration at the close of this year will not be materially reduced because of the excess earnings now being reported. In conservative quarters the operating deficit for the year is estimated at $300,000,000, while in other quarters it is estimated at from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 more.

Three Newcomers Active.

Three new issues were traded in on the big board yesterday. They were Coca-Cola, Iron Products, and Martin-Parry, and were fairly active throughout the session. The stock ticker abbreviation for the stocks were CCO, INP, and MRT, respectively.

Liberty Fourth 4¼s at New Low.

The entire list of Liberty bonds and Victory notes was under pressure yesterday with most of the selling showing in the Fourth 4¼s, which eased off to a new low at 93. The previous low was 93.10.

Auto Specialties Attract Attention.

Two of the automobile accessory stocks which attracted particular attention yesterday were American Bosch Magneto and Stromberg Carburetor. The net gain for the former was more than 10 points, which was attributed in some quarters to rumors of an increase in the dividend rate, while the latter, on a much smaller turnover, proved sensitive and gained more than 3 points for the day.

Money Still Tight.

For the second time in as many days call money on the Stock Exchange renewed at 12 per cent. Later in the day it eased slightly to 10 per cent., which would be a more or less hopeful sign—for the bulls—were it not for the fact that probably a good part of the $250,000,000 which was paid in on account of the United Kingdom bonds found its way back into the call money market before the close of the day's business. If the injection of any such amount could do no more than cut 2 points off the call rate, it could hardly be said that money was easy.

Unconfirmed Rumors.

Apropos of the high money rates, there were many rumors afloat yesterday of dire goings on in high financial circles. One report had it that the Reserve Bank had asked—or instructed—banks to reduce their participations in syndicate operations. This was denied both at the Reserve Bank and at several of the member banks. And, then, it was said that one of the large institutions which is understood never to lend above 6 per cent., had broken its rule of years and had loaned at 12 per cent. This, too, was denied by an officer of the bank in question, who was rather emphatic about it, not to say heated. And so were most of the other rumors.

Speculation.

It is admitted; or at least generally believed, that the Reserve Board and the Reserve Bank and all other responsible and substantial interests are endeavoring to check speculation. But in New York, as a prominent banker recently pointed out, when you say speculation everybody immediately thinks of the stock market. Thus, when the idea gets around that the bankers are trying to curb speculation, New Yorkers conclude that they are trying to hurt stock quotations. It is very different elsewhere. Speculation to the man down South means the cotton market; in Chicago it means grain or hogs, and in California it means dried fruit. And everywhere, at the present time, it is apt to mean real estate. Incidentally, if it is true that the Reserve, Board and the others are really trying to curb speculation, everybody everywhere is right, for there is and has been for some time great speculation in all of these things.

Curbing Stocks.

The high renewal rate of the last two days apparently has had some curbing influence, if a comparison between the sales of high-priced stocks on Thursday with those of yesterday mean anything. For example, as against 23,700 shares of American Car and Foundry dealt in on Thursday, only 6,600 changed hands yesterday. The comparisons of some others were: Baldwin Locomotive, 81,400 on Thursday against 46,200 yesterday; 17,900 of Crucible Steel Thursday and 5,900 yesterday; 13,800 General Motors on Thursday against 2,000; 22,900 Mexican Petroleum Thursday and 9,600 yesterday; 74,500 United States Rubber Thursday and 30,300 yesterday; 201,700 United States Steel common on Thursday compared with 102,300 yesterday.

Heavy Demand for Steel.

The piling up of domestic orders for certain steel commodities, it is asserted, has led to a withdrawal of quotations for those products from the export field. It is impossible to determine to just what extent this has gone, but it is evident that domestic demand is sufficient to take up the steel and iron output in certain lines, and unless production increases there is a possibility that the country will face a steel shortage in the products most urgently needed. The steel mills have been little inconvenienced by the coal strike, but there were reports yesterday that fuel difficulties might present themselves ere long, in which case there would be another setback in output. How seriously the steel strike interfered with pig iron production is shown by the figures for October, as compiled by The Iron Age. The 1,863,558 tons reported represents a falling off of some 624,000 tons as compared with September.

A. T. Securities Dividend.

It is understood that the Directors of the A. T. Securities Corporation, which recently absorbed a big interest in the American Tobacco Company, will meet to take dividend action about the middle of this month. From unofficial sources it was reported yesterday that the dividend would not be less than 1¼ per cent., which would be on an annual basis of 5 per cent. This would correspond with the dividend of 20 per cent. that is paid on American Tobacco shares. A. T. Securities stock was given in exchange for American Tobacco on the basis of four shares for one.

A Broad Market.

There was a broad market on the Stock Exchange yesterday that just missed being a record. The number of stocks traded in was 323, or 2 less than the total of 325, established on July 17 of this year. The increase in issues yesterday was largely due to the renewal of activity in the railroad shares, which have recently been quiet.

Equipment Orders Low.

There is much speculation as to just what will happen when the railroads are returned to private ownership, and no question stands out more prominently than that of upkeep. If the opinion expressed by some railroad men, that the roads have been allowed to run down in matter of equipment, is true, then it will probably follow that there will be a substantial purchasing of needed equipment in 1920. This would mean a much-needed inflow of business to the equipment companies, which at present are working largely on foreign orders, and also a heavier demand on the already overtaxed steel industry. The backlog of orders held by certain equipment companies is lower now than at any time since the armistice.

FINANCIAL NOTICE.

Office of
THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, TRUSTEE,
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
Notice to Holders of
NEW YORK SHIPBUILDING CORPORATION

First Mortgage Thirty Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds Dated November 1, 1916, due November 1, 1946.

Pursuant to Section 1 of Article Four of the mortgage of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation to The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, dated November 1, 1916, securing its First Mortgage Thirty Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that the bonds of such issue will be purchased by the Trustee for the Sinking Fund provided in said mortgage to an amount sufficient to exhaust One Hundred Eighty-Seven Thousand Five Hundred ($187,500.00) Dollars, being the moneys now held by it in such Sinking Fund.

The Trustee hereby invites from the bondholders offers for the sale to it on November 25, 1919, of such bonds. As provided in said mortgage, such offers shall in each case be for all or any part of the bonds so offered. The lowest offers to the aggregate amount not exceeding an amount sufficient as nearly as may be to exhaust such moneys now held in the Sinking Fund will be accepted, provided that the price or prices accepted will in no event exceed, in addition to accrued interest, one hundred two and one-half (102½%) per centum.

As soon as may be, on or after November 18, 1919, the undersigned Trustee will notify bondholders whose offers are accepted, so that delivery of the bonds covered by such acceptances may be made to the Trustee at its office in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on November 25, 1919.

All offers must be in writing, be enclosed in sealed envelopes, state the number or numbers of the bonds offered, and name the price or prices at which the same are offered.

All offers must be received at the office of the Trustee on or before noon of November 18, 1919.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, TRUSTEE.
Pittsburgh, Pa., November 1, 1919.
